Believe Robbery Motive In Slaying Near Barrie

"IT'S CHEAPER TO MOVE than to rebuild," said house-owner Cliff Cunningham who had contractor Fred Robson skid a 50-ton brick house from 1069 Monaghan Rd. to his Lot 34, Plan 35Q, Frank St. Formerly owned by Bert Panter, the Monaghan Rd. lot is being cleared by land owners, the Canadian General Electric Company. Mr. Cunningham estimates the cost of moving the brick house saves him half the price of building a new one.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Sees Ontario Using AtomicPower

New A-Chief Says Next Stage Build Specigl Furnace

TORONTO (CP)—William J. Bennett, Canada's new atomic chief, said today that the next stage in Canada's atomic program must be the design of a furnace built expressly for producing electrical energy and predicted that eventually atomic electrical power will be used in Ontario.

Electricity produced through atoms involved higher costs but even at this early stage, "the estimated cost of nuclear power is within striking distance of the cost of power produced from other fuels," the new head of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Toronto Canadian Club.

Ontario's power needs are steadily increasing. And even if the St. Lawrence project is built, the province will be short of electricity by 1962 and it appeared likely that the additional power will have to come from "thermal sources," Mr. Bennett said.

"I do not think I am unduly optimistic, therefore, when I pretribute to the power sources of this province."

ASKS FOR DATA EXCHANGE

Answer To Gases

LONDON (AP)— Experiments on hundreds of servicemen-volunteers have given Britain what may be the answer to the deadly nerve gases developed by Germany during the last war. One serviceman died during the tests. Spokesman for the ministry of supply said doctors and scientists working for the government had found one antidote to the gases but refused to give any more details.

Youths Kidnap Constable On Hallowe'en

TORONTO (CP)—A special constable was "kidnapped" by five youths as a Hallowe'en prank and taken for a five-mile ride at Ayr, 12 miles south of Kitchener.

A trio of masqueraders danced on the top of a parked automobile in central Toronto and crushed the top of the car. In the same area, more than 300 persons caused a traffic jam as they gathered to watch 40 costumed celebrants parade.

In Oshawa, children in Hallowe'en constume distracted the attention of Frank Harper, 59, and he walked into the path of a car while crossing a street, police said.

Otherwise, a quiet Hallowe'en was reported in Ontario.

Many communities staged parties to divert the witches, hobgoblins, black cats, clowns and pirates to treats rather than tricks. One such party drew 1,000 children in St. Catharines.

Pranksters started two big bonfires on the main street of Orono, placed barricades across the street and smashed street lights. In the same district, 50 rural mail boxes were torn off their posts and hundreds of feet of snow fencing placed across country roads.

Youths riding in cars shot out street lights with air guns at Hampton, a few miles south of Orono.

Two dozen youths put a large old-time carriage on the verandah of a home at Blackstock. When police investigated, they also found the tricksters had switched Blackstock highway marker signs with those of Caesarea, five miles away.

Inquiry Goes Slowly, Few Clues

Police Say Victim Appeared Anxious To Hide His Past

TORONTO (CP)—Top police investigators today dug into the past of murder victim Fred Cameron, a 60-year-old messenger, for any clue on why he was shot five times and dumped in a ditch four days ago.

Officers said they were "making little headway" but were tracking down a couple of leads in the slaying.

Cameron, a native of Scotland, was found Friday on a lonely road near Stroud, about 50 miles north of here, with five bullets in his head and chest.

Police were working on the theory Cameron, who worked for a Toronto financial firm, was robbed. He is reported to have usually carried about $100. Other officers were were on the lokout for an auburn-haired girl. Her connection with the case was not disclosed.

That is about as far as the investigation goes. Police said Cameron's past is about as mysterious as the murder.

NO FRIENDS FOUND

ger who rented a $5 room in midtown Toronto, was first reported to have been a bachelor. However, police said today he was separated from his wife 10 years ago. The wife is believed to be living in Toronto but nobody knows where.

Ontario Provincial Police and Toronto police tried during the week-end to find anyone who knew Cameron intimately. They found no one.

Youth 19, Shot In Chest, Hunting In Smith

Mistaken in the bush for a moving groundhog, 19-year-old Daniel Goodfellow of 477 Aylmer St. was shot in the chest Saturday afternoon while out hunting in Smith township with two chums. He was taken to Civic Hospital where his condition is satisfactory. The blast from a 12-gauge shotgun struck him mainly in the chest but also sprayed the rest of his body. Immediately after the shot the injured youth ran a short distance and then collapsed.

Goodfellow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goodfellow of 477 Aylmer St., and a junior partner in the plumbing firm that bears the family name.

He was to have left Sunday to go deer hunting but he and two companions—Ed Deal, 17, of 641 Reid St., and Bill McIlmoyle, 18, of 315 McDonnel St.—went out Saturday afternoon to hunt small game.

CROUCHED LOW

They parked their car, just off the Selwyn road, two miles north of Bridgenorth, and started out on the hunt. Goodfellow crouched low, beside a fence and between two trees, as he looked out over an open field.

His slight movement from a crouched position attracted the attention of Deal who, thinking his chum was a groundhog fired at the moving object.

SERIOUSLY WOUNDED

Though seriously wounded, Goodfellow straightened up and ran about 15 feet before collapsing on the ground. Deal and McIlmoyle picked him up, put him in the car, and took him to Dr. H. E. Gastle of Lakefield. Later he was taken to hospital by ambulance.

OPP Constable Gordon Gray is investigating the shooting.

Man, 60, Killed On Highway Near Oshawa

Staggering into the path of a car for the second time within a quarter of a mile on Highway 2 on the east limits of Oshawa proved fatal for Hector Grant, 60, Oshawa, about 2:25 a.m. Sunday.

Driver of the car was Gordon A. Vinson, RR 3, Bowmanville. Driving west, he told police, Grant "came out of nowhere" from the south side of the highway into the path of his vehicle. The right front corner of the car hit him. It catapulted him over the hood to the north side of the highway were he landed with only his head on the pavement.

DEAD ON ARRIVAL

Grant was dead on arrival at hospital in Oshawa. He had a fractured skull and both legs were franctured.

A former railroad man on pension, Grant was blamed for causing an accident a short time before a quarter of a mile away. One car swerved to miss him as he wandered out onto the paved highway and collided with an oncoming car. Damage was slight to the cars.

A native of Kirkfield, he was survived by a sister, a Mrs. Schneider of Kirkfield. A niece, Mrs. Christina Crawford, lives in Oshawa. Grant was a bachelor.

It is doubtful that there will be a charge laid in connection with the fatality or that any inquest will be held. It is not known why he was wandering about the highway. Witnesses said there was a smell of alcohol about his person.

Winds Batter European Coastal Areas

LONDON (CP)—High, whistling winds battered much of western Europe's coastal areas today but the tricky November weather brought summer sunshine and balmy breezes to Scandinavia.

Gale warnings were hoisted along Britain's coasts after 24 hours of torrential rains and hurricane gusts caused havoc of shipping and flooded many parts of southern England.

Three vessels were reported in distress as winds swept the Danish coast.

Sweden basked in extremely mild and sunny weather. There was still no snow in the north.

ABNORMALLY MILD

Abnormally-mild weather was also reported in Norway. But wind and rain shipped the coastal waters.

In England, the Thames broke its banks in several low-lying places after night-long rains, but no severe damage was reported.

In Northern Ireland, torrential rain caused flooding in several districts. At Enniskillen, on an island in the narrowest part of Lough Erne, 70 miles west of Belfast, the floods were the most serious in many years.

After the finest October since 1861, winds and rain battered the Netherlands. But again no damage was reported.

A 14-year-old boy was drowned today in northern Italy while trying to cross a swollen mountain torrent. Another person perished in a landslide in Trento province, northern Italy.

Says Futile To Attempt Reallocation Of Taxation

MONTREAL (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott said today it would be "futile" for federal and provincial governments to attempt a reallocation of responsibilities and taxing powers. "There is no magic formula that will settle all our problems at a stroke," Mr. Abbott said in a speech prepared for delivery to the Canadian Club.

Present tax agreements between the federal government and nine provinces—all but Quebec—are "the best solution I have been able to find," he said.

The minister reviewed the development of the agreements, under which the provinces allow federal collection of corporation and personal income taxes and succession duties in return for annual payments.

NO EASY ANSWER

No one would suggest the existing situation was a "final and perfect solution." There was "no easy answer."

"One thing I think is clear in any approach to federal-provincial fiscal arrangements in Canada,"

FUTILE TO ATTEMPT

Dept. Planning Investigation

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. C. F. Cannon, deputy minister of the Ontario department of education, said today the department will start an investigation of reports of switching of a pupil's examination marks if it is told the names of persons involved.

John Stubbs of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., past president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation, said at London, Ont., Saturday the department switched marks on a fifth-form pupil's examination papers to allow him to enter a university course.

The student's home town was not disclosed.

"If Mr. Stubbs lets us know the names of the persons involved in the mark-switching we will start an immediate investigation," Dr. Cannon said.

Bishop Criticizes Royal Family Gossip

NORWICH, England (Reuters)—The Anglican bishop of Norwich, Dr. P. M. Herbert, today criticized some British newspapers for "ill-founded gossip" about the Royal Family.

He told a diocesan conference that Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh had made a special place for themselves in the hearts of the people. He praised them and their predecessors for thir service to the nation.

"But although all this is so widely understood and appreciated, it does not preserve the Royal Family from criticism and, sometimes, from ill-founded gossip by a section of the public press, which makes one's blood boil," he said.

The freedom of the press in a democratic age is not a right but a privilege gladly conceded, but dependent on restraint and decency and a respect for private life."

Spends Night Tied To Fence After Theft

CAMPBELL'S BAY, Que. (CP)—Fabian Joanisse, 33-year-old Wolf Lake logging contractor, spent Thursday night barefooted and tied to a fence after three masked men robbed him of $1,000 and his car, police reported today.

Joanisse freed himself early Friday and walked to his camp, a quarter-mile away, where he was fed and put to bed suffering from exposure.

The three men sprang from the bushes as the contractor, returning to his camp near here with the payroll money, stopped to open a gate. Joannisse fought them off and crawled under his car but the robbers dragged him out, removed his shoes and tied him to the fencepost with bailng wire.

Police said an arrest is imminent in the case.

Ex-Arctic Rescuer Paralyzed By Polio

TORONTO (CP)—Former paratrooper W. W. Judd, one of four men who rescued Canon John Turner in the Arctic in 1947, was in an iron lung in hospital today, paralyzed by polio.

Judd and three other army paratroopers dropped from a plane to aid the noted Arctic missionary who was accidentally shot at a lonely Baffin island outpost. Canon Turner later died. The four men were commended by the late King George VI for the rescue.

Judd suffered polio last year. A few months ago his wife and three sons moved to Galt. Judd was was transferred to Sunnybrook Veterans Hospital here.

Metropolitan Opera Settles Wage Dispute

NEW YORK (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera Association and its union musicians Saturday settled a wage dispute which had threatened to cancel the 1953-54 opera season.

Spokesmen for the association and for Local 802 of the AFL American Federation of Musicians announced jointly the signing of a two-year contract.

The musicians' basic season wage was increased from $153.35 to $159 a week and rehearsal pay from $120 to $124.40 a week.

The union said it dropped its original demands for a 15-per-cent increase.

Will Appoint Duke Regent

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen will open a new session of Parliament Tuesday with a request that members quickly make the Duke of Edinburgh regent in place of Princess Margaret.

The bill is expected to be rushed through all stages of parliamentary procedure and made law before the Queen and her husband leave for their Commonwealth tour Nov. 23.

The bill breaks the traditional principle that the regent is the person of full age next in line of succession to the crown until the heir to the throne, in this case Prince Charles, reaches the age of 18.

At present, if anything happened to the Queen, Margaret would be regent.

But the Royal Family and the government feel that, should it be necessary for a regent to sit on the throne, it is only logical and fair that the person concerned should be the father of Prince Charles, rather than his aunt.

Bench Allan Stanley For Home Games

NEW YORK (CP)—Allan Stanley, New York defenceman-captain, will be benched for the Rangers' National Hockey League home games in future because of the consistent booing of hometown fans, coach Frank Boucher announced Sunday night.

Boucher made the announcement after Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs had played a 2-2 tie in a game in which Stanley saw action for only half a minute of the first period.

"They've been booing him for almost a year now, but last night in the warm-up before the game they really let him have it," Boucher said. "It's tough to take when your own fans get on you, not only for Stanley but for any player. There's no sense torturing the fellow."

Some New York fans seem to think that the 27-year-old defenceman from Timmins, Ont., is not trying hard enough. But Boucher doesn't agree, as indicated by the fact that he is sticking with his captain on road games.

Making Mercy Flight

EDMONTON (CP)—An RCAF Norseman aircraft is making a mercy flight to Fort Chipewyan, 376 miles north of here, to evacuate 38-year-old Alphonse Bourke, reported to have suffered a serious back injury.

Youthful Expert

WOODEND, England (CP)—John Northall, 8, youngest entrant in a sea angling contest off the Warwickshire coast, hooked a conger eel weighing 11½ pounds but was disqualified when he accepted help in landing it. Judges however gave him a new reel as a special prize.

Off To Good Start

Few Formalities For Canadian In USSR

(Editor's Note: Gerald Clark, staff writer with Weekend Picture Magazine and the Examiner's Saturday magazine section, is the first Canadian newspaperman to receive a working visa to the Soviet Union since 1946. This series of six daily despatches from Moscow will be followed by other articles from Clark on Soviet Union in early issues of WEEKEND).

MOSCOW—If you like caviar you must try some on a Russian plane flying over the Soviet Union. It's very good, especially when you keep thinking: This whole business is crazy. Here I am heading for Moscow, nibbling at caviar just as nonchalantly as I might be eating chicken on a TCA hop from Montreal to Toronto. There are a couple of differences, of course. You need a visa to penterate into this part of the world, and TCA has a few frills that are non-existent here.

Still, I can't quite get over the ease and casualness that marked my introduction to the Soviet Union. I got to Helsinki, via Stockholm, on a regular commercial airline, and simply booked passage on Aeroflot, the Soviet line. Helsinki is the only direct European link outside the Soviet orbit, and twice a week Aeroflot flies into it.

Aeroflot, as I discovered, is the Soviet civilian line that also covers cities inside Russia. It uses a twin-engined plane that's known as the Ilyushin 12, somewhat on the order of the DC 3 with 18 frayed but comfortable seats and a cream-colored interior. Currently, Aeroflot is conducting a campaign to get more and more people to fly. Aboard the plane you can reach the luggage rack above you, and pick out a brightly-illustrated pamphlet, in Russian, that describes the air service now being provided Soviet citizens. The pamphlet suggests that passengers should not stand in front of revolving propellers.

That's about the only kind of warning you get. No sign flashes "Fasten Safety Belts" — maybe because there are no seat belts. You simply sink into your chair, grab hold of the arm rests and pray that the take-off is smooth. Soviet pilots are positively uncanny in their skill and accuracy. They don't believe in warming up motors for indeterminable minutes. They rev up for a few seconds, and, bingo, you're airborne. They don't circle around an airport. They put the plane straight down, and they're right on the button. I left Helsinki on schedule, flew over lake districts lightly covered with snow and reminiscent of northern Ontario, and an hour and 20 minutes later touched down at the first stop, Leningrad, exactly on time.

5 OTHER PASSENGERS

There were only five other passengers — an attractive blonde Norwegian girl who was acting as courier for her foreign office, a man and woman being posted to the British Embassy in Moscow, a member of a Finnish trade delegation, and a London businessman who expected to negotiate a deal with a Soviet ministry. Our Ilyushin barely rolled to a stop, and a dozen officials were aboard, all in various shades of uniform, except one man, who was dressed in sombre black coat and black fedora.

The man in black explained in halting English that he was from Intourist, the government agency that handles arrangements for all visitors to the Soviet Union. An immigration officer, in jack boots, gray uniform with a green-topped cap, saluted smartly as he came up to each passenger and requested "Passport." Then we stepped into a bus that ran us the hundred yards to the airport station —quite a massive and impressive structure with marble pillars and a small but well furnished reception room. Within five minutes we were ushered to an adjoining room for customs inspection.

A woman, in blue uniform, politely asked me in English to open my bag, and when I did so she didn't even bother to look inside. She said, "You have a photo camera?" I nodded, and she asked to see it. But she didn't remove it from its case, and it stayed with my luggage. The only other question concerned the quantity of travellers' cheques I carried. "I will give you certificate—is official," she said. I now had a certificate enabling me to change dollars into rubles. I'd come in without a ruble, since you can't buy them outside the Soviet Union. In 20 minutes the formalities were over. My passport was returned by the immigration officer, stamped and approved. It all seemed unbelievably effortless.

DON'T WASTE TIME

When we re-entered the plane we found two Russian companions —one a man of about 35 who removed his black leather cap and kept peering idly about him, obviously curious about the foreigners. The other newcomer was the stewardess (there's no stewardess on the first leg of the trip) who looked extremely business-like in a gray smock. Also aboard was some freight, covered by tarpaulin and occupying the last five rows of seats. We were scarcely aloft when the stewardess presented us with our meal—a box lunch containing a caviar sandwich, a sausage sandwich, a couple of green apples and a large package of tea biscuits. Then she brought around tea in the traditional Russian glass. The atmosphere was complete!

Five hours out of Helsinki I saw Moscow by night—a myriad of white twinkling lights that looked unlike any other city I've flown over. Then I realized what was absent—the vivid reflections of red and blue neons that mark a western metropolis. Advertising, as we know it, is missing from the Soviet Union.

It was old home week at Vnu-

Tito Prepared To Bargain

Sent Reports On Allies In Germany

BELGRADE (AP) — Persons close to the Yugoslav foreign office are circulating reports that President Tito is willing to bargain with the west on Trieste. They say he might offer close military co-operation, possibly joining the Atlantic Pact, in return for concessions on the disputed territory.

The reports during the week-end may have been trial balloons to test reaction. However they came from sources so closely connected with the foreign office that they cannot be discounted.

Yugoslav demands are uncertain. But as a minimum, it was said, Tito probably would expect outright annexation of Trieste's zone B and a sea outlet in zone A, which contains the important port city of Trieste.

Yugoslavia already has military control of zone B, the territory surrounding the port. Zone A is held by Britain and the United States, who have announced their intention of turning that area over to Italy. Strong Yugoslav opposition has caused the two western Allies to postpone this move.

Although Yugoslavia rejected previous Western bids to join the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, there is solid basis for the current reports she might reconsider in a trade on Trieste.

Yugoslavia claims Italy is using her membership in NATO to put pressure on the West, thus gaining the upper hand on the Trieste issue. This is looked upon here as an important factor in any official Yugoslav reasoning.

Another point carrying considerable weight in Belgrade is the fact that Yugoslavia has been placed below NATO countries on the priority list for U. S. arms deliveries.

Top Russian Spy Confesses

Might Join NATO If Given Trieste Concessions

LUZERN, Switzerland (AP) — Rudolf Roessler, one of Russia's top spies of the Second World War, confessed before a Swiss federal court today that he had been sending reports on military, political and economic measures of the Western Allies in Germany to the Czechoslovakian secret service since 1947.

Roessler, 56-year-old German exile, is accused of sending Czechoslovakia some 160 detailed reports on Western military secrets in Germany and Western Europe during the last six years.

Roessler is facing the Swiss courts for spying for the second time. At the end of the war he was convicted of sending German military secrets to the Soviet Union, but was freed without sentence because he has also made his information available to the Swiss army.

Among Roessler's achievements during the war was a report giving the Russians two weeks' notice of the German invasion. Schnieper, a Czech secret agent during the war, has been a close friend of Roessler since the latter fled from Nazi Germany in 1933.

Under questioning by court president Paul Corrodi, Roessler admitted today that he resumed his espionage activities for the Czechs in 1947 in return for a substantial payment. Among the reports Roessler said he sent to the Czechs were details of allied reparations obtained from Germany and the use made of German atomic scientists by the Western world.

MOTHER OF QUADS WEDS—Mrs. Juno Trollman, the mother of quadruplets, happily holds the hand of Glenn W. W. Van Alstine whom she married in her hospital room at Lansing, Mich. Said Van Alstine, "I wanted to marry June a long time ago, but we had a little misunderstanding and it never came off." Mrs. Trollman was divorced from her previous husband in 1943. Three of the quads are alive and reported doing well.

Socialists Lose Hold On Hamburg

Say German Voters Solidly Behind Chancellor's Policy

HAMBURG —(AP)— Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's "Hamburg bloc" uprooted the Socialists from their stronghold here in Sunday's Hamburg state elections which also steeled the West German federal government's hand for pushing through its pro-Western policies.

Complete official returns gave the bloc — Christian Democrats, Free Democrats, the Germany Party and the Refugee Party—62 of the state parliament's 120 seats. The voters also ousted the Socialist state governor, Minister-President Max Brauer, in favor of an Adenauer man who will have the power to appoint the state's three representatives to the upper house of the federal parliament.

Those appointments will give Adenauer's coalition the two-thirds majority it needs in the Bundesrat, the federal upper house, to get parliamentary approval of plans to rearm Western Germany and ally her closely with West Europe's defence set-up. The coalition already controls a two-thirds majority in the lower house, the Bundestag.

SOLID SUPPORT

While Adenauer's Hamburg triumph was not as impressive as his grandslam victory in the federal general elections last September, it showed clearly that West German voters are solidly behind the 77-year-old chancellor's foreign policy.

The hotly - contested election brought out 81 per cent of Hamburg's 1,250,000 eligible voters and gave the Hamburg bloc 503,997 votes, or 50 per cent of the total. The Socialists, who have been in power in Hamburg since 1945, were close behind with 455,372 votes, 45.2 per cent. The Communists failed to get the necessary five per cent of the votes and thus won no seat in the state parliament.

Compared to the Sept. 6 general election the chancellor's coalition forces dropped about 83,000 votes while the Socialists gained about 86.8 per cent of Hamburg's voters cast ballots.

In campaign speeches, Adenauer had underlined the "greatest significance" of the Hamburg election for his pro-American foreign policy. "Hamburg's decision is for all Germany," he declared.

BUILD AIR WEAPONS RANGE—The RCAF is building a new air weapons firing range at Grand Centre, northeast of Edmonton. It is expected to be ready by the summer of 1954. This is one of the 45 major buildings to be located at the base. It is the centre port of a huge cantilever hangar to house office personnel.

RCAF Pilot Dies In Crash On Owen Sound Farm

DROMORE (CP)—An RCAF Mustang fighter plane crashed in flames Sunday a mile from a farmhouse near this community 45 miles southeast of Owen Sound, killing the pilot. The pilot was identified as FO. Robert Bailey, 23, of London, Ont., and Windsor, who had been studying at the University of Western Ontario for his master's degree in business administration.

RCAF investigators said the plane, attached to 420 City of London Auxiliary Squadron, was one of four which took off in pairs on a low-level cross-country practice flight from London to the Owen Sound area. The others returned safely to base.

HIT BAD WEATHER

The Mustang pilot is believed to have run into bad weather over Mount Forest, about 80 miles northeast of London, and decided to return to London.

Fireman Jack McKenzie said he saw the plane over Mount Forest at 1:20 p. m. It crashed on the farm of James McGillivray, 65.

McGillivray ran to a point marked by a spiral of smoke and reached the wreckage at the same moment as Rev. David Perrie, who had been preparing for afternoon services in Amos Presbyterian Church nearby.

The men found still-smoking debris scattered over a wide area around a black crater four feet deep and 12 feet wide. In a tangle of metal 75 feet away was the badly burned body of the pilot.

Won't Allow Red Broadcast

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The erratic Communist program to woo back anti-Red Chinese and Korean war prisoners floundered in uncertainty tonight after a Red dispute with the Indian command, which guards the 24,600 PoWs.

The Communists called off today's scheduled interviews with 500 Koreans after the Indians refused to let them make loudspeaker broadcasts to the PoWs awaiting interviews.

The United Nations command late in the afternoon said it had been told officially that the Reds would interview more Koreans Tuesday. An Indian spokesman later said the Red explanations were "definitely" scheduled for Tuesday, but the question remained whether the prisoners would attend.

He said the Communists still were insisting on making the broadcasts. The Indians said previous Red broadcasts had been too exciting for the PoWs, and said they have not the manpower to control any threatening situations that might arise.

TENSION HIGH

Although there were no interviews today, tension ran high in the neutral-zone stockades after Indian guards shot down a charging Chinese prisoner, and 21 Chinese and Koreans asked to go home in one of the largest single day's switches to the Red fold.

One False Alarm On Hallowe'en

An alarm was turned in from Box 58 at Armour Rd. and Hunter St. 11 minutes after midnight, but there was no fire.

Earlier at 7:12 p.m. firemen used a booster pump and hose to clear gasoline off the intersection of Park and Aylmer Sts. where there had been a car accident.

At the home of T. Downers an oil heater flooded and firemen were called at 8:31 p.m. No equipment was used to put it right.

The only fire reported during the evening was at 9:11 p.m. when firemen put out a fire in leaves in front of 310 London St. that may have been started by pranksters.

A cigarette was blamed for starting a fire in the upholstery of a car owned by William Reynolds at the rear of 139 Stewart St. By the time it was reported at 5:21 a.m. Sunday the flames had made headway and a booster pump and hose was required to put it out. The car was badly damaged.

kuva airport in Moscow. Waiting to meet me were Jim Barker and his wife, from the Canadian embassy, away from Ottawa for only a few months but just as anxious for fresh news about Canada as I was for impressions of the Soviet Union. Since formalities had been completed in Leningrad, we walked directly from the field. Still, I was a little surprised and tourist man had greeted me.

NOT DISAPPOINTED

It was only in the embassy station wagon, heading for the centre of town, that Barker mentioned that a man had come up to him in the airport station. "You are waiting for a Mr. Clarke?" the man had asked him. "Yes," said Barker.

"He will be staying at the Metropole Hotel?" the man asked. Barker again answered in the affirmative.

Find 2nd Foot Of Slain Man

MONTREAL (CP) — A second foot belonging to an unidentified man whose mutilated body was discovered Wednesday in an east-end lane was found during the weekend by a farmer near a Laurentian mountain highway.

Police said the farmer, whose name was not disclosed, found the right foot of the victim Saturday, 40 miles north of Montreal.

The body was found Wednesday wrapped in an old blanket. Feet, hands and head hacked off, after the man had been shot dead.

Police said they are working on the theory that the killers dumped other missing parts of the body in the sparsely-populated Laurentian region to prevent identification.

"The partners in the post-war program still stand to gain most from the pooling of scientific information as well as the pooling of material resources. Any doubt that may have existed on either score should surely be dispelled by the knowledge that the USSR now has succeeded in producing atomic bombs."

Everything about Cameron's life indicated a desire to hide his past, police said. He kept nothing in his pockets that bore his name. He didn't carry a wallet.

The body was identified Saturday night by C. W. LeBlanc, another messenger for the brokerage company.

LeBlanc was quoted in Barrie as saying the slaying was a gangland murder and that he, too, expected to be attacked. However, police said there was nothing in Cameron's background to support theories of underworld vengeance.

LIVED QUIETLY

Cameron used to tell fellow workers he had once been a professional soccer player in England. His job called for him to walk around in uniform on errands between brokerage houses and to carry his firm's mail to the post office each night.

Apparently his wants were quite simple and were fully satisfied. He didn't own a car, associates said, and liked to sit around and chat with friends in the evening.

"He was just a good-natured Scottish fellow. We used to kid him every day about football and he had a good sense of humor and was always good for a laugh," said one of the firm's officials. "He was the last fellow in the world one would expect to be murdered. There's just no possible reason for it that we can see."

Cameron's associates said he was at work Thursday.

They, with the police, sought amplification of a statement allegedly made by LeBlanc.

"We simply cannot believe that story," said one of the firm's senior officials. "We have been trying to get in touch with LeBlanc all day."

GOP Confident Of Victory In N.J. Election

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Election time rolls around again in the United States Tuesday with Republicans fairly confident of retaining control in the more significant contests — the governorship and a House of Representatives seat in New Jersey.

Democrats are not giving up but neither are they counting too heavily on winning in New Jersey. They naturally would welcome another upset on top of their victory in the normally Republican Wisconsin Ninth District Oct. 13. If they should win, they say the Republicans had better be prepared for losing control of the House of Representatives in 1954.

The Democrats assert they will retain the only other governorship in Tuesday's voting—in Virginia—and they expect to capture a close one for the New York mayoralty.

The New Jersey contests, plus a three-cornered race for New York mayor, an unusually hot fight over the Virginia governorship, and scattered municipal elections highlight the off-year balloting.

LEGALIZE BINGO

Also, six states will vote on 35 constitutional amendments and referenda. These include a proposal on Tennessee's ballot to abolish the poll tax, and referenda in New Jersey to legalize bingo and raffles and to exempt veterans' widows from taxation.

In Pittsburgh Mayor David L. Lawrence, Democrat, is seeking a third four-year term against Leonard P. Kane, 55-year-old real estate appraiser. The city hasn't had a Republican mayor since 1933.

State Senator Anthony Celebreeze, backed by Governor Frank J. Lausche, is the Democratic candidate for mayor of Cleveland, the post left vacant by the appointment of Mayor Thomas A. Burke, Democrat, to the U. S. Senate seat of the late Republican senator Robert A. Taft. William J. McDermott, former juvenile judge, is the Republican candidate.

In Little Rock where the Republicans won two years ago for the first time in 50 years, the Democrats are making a strong effort to unseat Mayor Pratt Remmel. Alderman Aubrey Kerr is their nominee.

35 SENATORS

Politicians will be looking for all possible clues in Tuesday's voting that might help in sizing up the congressional and state elections next year with the Senate and House divided closer than they have been since 1930.

Thirty-five senators, 435 House members and 33 governors will be chosen next year. There now are 30 Republican and 18 Democratic governors.

New Jersey's sixth District is the only one holding a U. S. House election Tuesday. This, and a California special election Nov. 10, are to fill vacant seats formerly held by Republicans.

The upset election of a Democrat in Wisconsin's Ninth District Oct. 13 made the House line-up: Republicans 218; Democrats 214; independent 1; vacancies 2.

Wisconsin's Ninth is a farm district which always before had gone Republican. The Democratic victory there was taken generally as an expression of discontent with administration farm policy. New Jersey's Sixth District is industrial with many wealthy suburbanites. California's vacant House seat is in the Los Angeles District.

National issues have been largely lacking in the current campaigns.

2 Killed, 2 Injured In Truck-Car Crash

Granby, Que. (CP)—Two men were killed and two others injured early Saturday when their automobile ploughed into the rear of a truck three miles north of this Eastern Townships municipality.

Dead are Rosaire Lavigne, 25, and Fernand Mailloux, 22, both of Granby.

Lucknow Has Tight Curfew

NEW DELHI (AP)—A tight curfew was clamped on the city of Lucknow today after two days of wild student rioting, in which two policemen and an unknown number of civilians were killed.

About 200 persons were reported injured, half of them severely.

The government radio said the order for people to stay off the streets went out after fierce battles broke out between police and students who were trying to burn down government offices, cut telephone wires and wreck street lamps. Officials of Uttar Pradesh state said the police opened fire three times. They fought one hour-long battle for control of a bridge linking the city with the university.

The trouble flared Saturday as police forcibly removed two hunger-strikers to a hospital. It was the third outbreak since January.

Believes Eskimos Most Honest People

He is the Church of England's Lord Bishop of the Arctic and supervises a territory of 1,750,000 square miles of Canadian northland.

Preaching at St. Paul's cathedral Sunday night, Dr. Marsh said: "In the Christian part of the Arctic one could lay down a £5 note and it would still be there days later."

Would Choose Ministry In Opportunities Of Canada

Special services conducted by the Rev. Donald J. O. Scoates, BA, BD, of Toronto marked the 118th anniversary Sunday of George Street United Church. Both morning and evening services were largely attended.

George Street is one of the oldest former Methodist churches in Ontario. The original building was constructed in 1835 across the street from its present site. The site was enlarged in 1853 and in 1875, the present building was erected.

The Sunday school was added in 1924.

Mr. Scoates, long time Canadian missionary and now pastor of St. Columba United Church in Toronto, delivered addresses at both services.

He told the congregation of the United Church's place in home mission work and said there was unfolding "a thrilling story" of the church in this role.

WOULD CHOOSE MINISTRY

Addressing younger members, he said "if I stood where you are standing, even knowing the opportunities in Canadian industry and commerce, keeping in mind what I know today, I would choose the ministry of the church as my profession."

The mission work in Canada is largely concerned with Indians, he said, and pointed out that 22 out of 120 thousand Indians "look to the United Church of Canada for spiritual guidance and leadership."

He described how, on his mission 500 miles north of Winnipeg, he acted as teacher, pastor, doctor, dentist and playmate for his group at Oxford House.

He concluded his evening sermon by urging members of the congregation by contributing in prayer and offerings to the home mission work.

Kinsmen Sponsor Shell-Out Party

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—The annual Hallowe'en shell-out party sponsored by the Kinsmen club was held at Edgewater Park Saturday evening when children of all ages, dressed in costumes of almost every description, flocked to the pavilion to receive bags of candy and fruit, see a movie, and compete for cash and merchandise prizes.

Master of ceremonies was G. I. Glair, with Kinsmen Forrest Dennis and Glen Taylor acting as judges. Credit for organizing and arranging the party goes to Kinsman Bill Taylor. Nearly 500 bags of candy were distributed.

Prizes were given for the best fancy and best comic costumes in the various age groups. The club holds the party each year on Hallowe'en, in an effort to keep the children out of mischief.

Artificial Arms Help Children

CORONADO, Calif. (AP)—Four children born without arms now have artificial ones that they move with their chest muscles, two surgeons reported here today.

The artificial limbs are connected to the muscle through a tube skin graft, formed into a canal, and a peg.

Dr. Henry H. Kessler, an orthopedic surgeon, and Dr. Jerome Gelb, a plastic surgeon, both of the Kessler Institution for Rehabilitation in West Orange, N. J., said the children had to be trained to strengthen the muscles and use the artificial arms.

Their report to the annual meeting of the American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery covered a study of 47 cases on which the technique had been used since they perfected it five years ago.

45 Out Of 1,600 Of Church Open

CLEVEDON, England (AP)—A British clergyman just back from a trip to Russia said Sunday that only 45 of Moscow's 1,600 churches are still open.

Canon Mervyn Stockwood, vicar of the Morrfields Anglican parish in Bristol, told a congregation here that he visited one church which had 3,000 persons jammed inside.

Peterborough Driver To Face Charge

Memmo was making a left turn into a driveway near the police station, and failed to see a 1953 model car driven by Hector Macmillan of Campbellford, who was driving north.

The front bumper of the Macmillan vehicle rode up and over the bumper of the Memmo car, resulting in practically no damage to the Macmillan car but damage of about $100 to the Memmo vehicle.

PC Sam Baird, who investigated, said Memmo would be charged with carless driving.

Building Gutted By Fire At Cobourg

Believed to have been caused by faulty electric wiring, it broke out near a pile of boxes of facial tissue and cellulose. It was burning for some time before Joe Fardella in the store next to it smelled smoke and turned in an alarm. The owner of the drug store, Keith Caldwell had closed up for the night around 6:30 p.m.

The fire worked its way down into a cellar underneath the back part into piles of wooden and cardboard boxes. Some smoke seeped into the store but did little damage. Considerable smoke worked up to apartments overhead.

Had the fire occurred in the middle of the night a disastrous conflagration would have undoubtedly resulted.

Deer Hunting Season Slows Cobourg Trade

COBOURG (ENS) — The deer hunters packed up over the weekend and headed north to the hunting camps.

Out at Baltimore, Carl Curtis advertised that "due to hunting fever" he would be short-staffed from today until November 9. In Cobourg many stores will also be short-staffed as a result of employees taking their annual holiday in deer hunting season.

Owing to the mild weather prevailing up north, very little frostbite cure is being taken with them by the hunters.

Fire Guts Upstairs Of Campbellford Home

The fire smouldered in the attic of the house and ate its way into shavings used as insulating material. Flames broke through the roof and firemen had to chop a hole to get at the flames.

Neighbors assisted in carrying furniture outside to safety, but firemen soon had the flames under control. Most of the damage was caused from water, but the upstairs of the home was badly gutted.

You may never build a pyramid but...

It's a funny thing about building pyramids...getting the base on which to build is usually the toughest part of the job. But, the more blocks you lay safely in place—the easier it becomes. You run into the same situation in building savings. The way to save effectively, of course, is to save systematically—to build dollar by dollar—month by month—year by year.

It takes self-discipline to keep at it—and most people find that a bit difficult. But if you really want to save—and everyone does—Canada Savings Bonds are the one sure way to build that foundation. One firm decision—and saving becomes automatic. You can buy Canada Savings Bonds for cash, of course, but you can pay for them on convenient instalments over 12 months. That's the way to build savings—block by block. And every "block" is available to you as cash at a moment's notice without loss or discount—and in the meantime is earning you 3¾% interest each year.

License Farm Tractors

We may expect to see legislation enacted this winter by the Ontario Legislature requiring farm tractors to be licensed. We hope it will be done. The reform is long overdue, and farmers will agree with the proposal who stop to think farther than the few dollars the license plates will require.

* * *

It is not the farmer who cares for and drives his tractor sensibly and skilfully who requires the protection which the licensing will help to provide, but his neighbour, the other farmer. Not long ago a man was called to court for driving a tractor on the highway when he was drunk. The Magistrate could not convict him under the Highway Traffic Act because the act does not yet apply to tractors. There have been many accidents this summer in which tractors were involved; some of them caused the accident, because of bad brakes, defective other equipment (like lights) or unskilful, unlicensed drivers, some of them children. In these cases the liability was not hard to prove, but conviction could not be obtained, because the law does not apply to tractors.

* * *

Drivers of cars—they include farmers—and other people in this province concerned with fair laws and equitable regulations, have long urged that tractors be licensed. In theory the license has not been required because tractors are used on a man's own property and off the roads. In practice, tractors are run on township, county and Provincial roads as much as some people use their used almost solely for commercial hauling, and most farmers take their produce to market or mill by means of their tractors, driven along the highways. They also (for a fee) take their neighbour's produce. In addition to not having to pay a license fee for their tractors, farmers get rebates on the gas they use, even when using it in their tractors (and trucks and cars) in competition with licensed truckers paying full taxes. Last year the Province paid twenty-two million dollars to farmers, in rebate of the gasoline tax.

* * *

Even if farmers do not want the Highways Traffic Act changed so that licenses will be required for their tractors, public opinion generally will strongly support both the legislation and the Department of Highways which has long wanted the amendment. The law as it now stands—allowing tractors to come and go on busy roads how and as their owners please, without any sort of license—is as dangerously out of date and harmful in its catering to the farm bloc as the Quebec law, which stood up to a few years ago, exempting horses and wagons from carrying lights at night.

"New Bus Terminal As Soon As Possible"—Yes?

Peterborough builds itself a new City Hall at the cost of a million dollars. It builds a fine new hospital. It spends thousands paving, widening and otherwise improving the appearance and utility of its streets. Merchants dress up their stores, put more pleasing fronts on them. Private citizens try to keep the lawns, verandahs and houses in presentable condition. The Utilities Commission improves street lighting, and puts some unsightly wires underground. The Bell Telephone company also pays attention to the look of its buildings, wires and poles. Even the Federal Government co-operates in the post-war communal effore to make Peterborough pleasing and to give adequate service to the greatly expanded population. A fine new Federal Building is now rising on Charlotte Street.

Across the corner from it is a little wooden building, a combination of shed and old house. This is the central depot for all buses coming into and leaving the city. No bus depot in the whole province, apart from flag stops at village general stores, is worse in appearance, accommodation and atmosphere than the bus terminal owned and operated by the Colonial Coach Lines. Its company is aware of the deficiencies and tawdriness of the Peterborough depot, for it has been saying for the last five years that a new depot will be built "as soon as possible".

When is "as soon as possible"? When bus travel is a thing of the past, and people either move in jets or crawl in caves? An official of Provincial Transport Limited, the parent Montreal company of Colonial Coach Lines, said Thursday that there are no immediate plans for building a bus terminal in Peterborough. Well, if the old building gets much older, the city authorities will be able to condemn it as unseemly, unsafe, unsightly and unsound. This would hasten the day when as soon as possible became unavoidably the present.

A Peculiar Export

We learn that the government of Sweden has made application to the government of Great Britain to arrange for the emigration of a few families of gypsies from the latter to the former country. It appears that the gypsies in Sweden are dying out, and the government is concerned lest gypsies should disappear altogether.

How civilized and far-sighted this attitude is, compared with the savagery shown toward gypsies in Germany during the Hitler regime! Then hundreds of thousands of gypsies were mercilessly interned and allowed to die. But the Swedes obviously agree with Augustus John's great dictum that "a good look at a gypsy, front or back view, is always worth a shilling."

Gypsies are little known in Canada. Indeed, we cannot recall having seen a gypsy camp here since the war. But gypsies have their place in the world, if only to remind us that work is not everything, that worldly possessions are not everything, that wandering and taking life as it comes have much to be said on their behalf. There are lots of things to be said against gypsies, but there are things to be said for them, as well: they are never pompous, they are not organized into gangs and societies for the purpose of improving one another, and they are the one nation on earth which has never caused a war.

Britain has exported some curious commodities in her time, but we think that an export of gypsies beats anything in history.

"From The More Difficult Languages"

The current issue of the monthly bulletin called "External Affairs" contains a short article headed "Commonwealth Index of Scientific Translations". This article has the following introduction:

At a Commonwealth Scientific Official Conference held in London in 1946 consideration was given to means of improving the distribution of scientific information within the Commonwealth. Scientific literature in foreign languages is an important source of such information, but many scientists are not able to use articles in the original languages and consequently require translations.

Translators of such languages as Russian and Japanese are few, and those who can translate scientific literature with accuracy are even fewer. Consequently, many scientists have either to do without these sources of information or to use the brief outlines that appear in abstracting journals. On the other hand, it is known that many papers in foreign languages may be translated several times, sometimes in the same country and even in the same city. This, of course, is a waste of scarce translating talent. It was therefore decided that some means was required of providing information about translations already available. The obvious method was to set up a list of translations available within the Commonwealth.

So an index was begun, and its agency in Canada is something called the Scientific Liaison Office of the National Research Council, an office whose importance we would not dare question. We judge that the Index is growing apace, the Office having already recorded 13,000 translations.

We mention the subject because of a sentence in the article: "Many agencies outside the Commonwealth are translating articles from the more difficult languages into English, French and German". The idea of other languages being "more difficult" than English does not astonish us even though it is untrue. The article must have been written by a Canadian, and a scientist to boot. Canadians think all foreign languages difficult because they are too lazy to learn them. Scientists, those in training anyway, usually groan at having to learn anything as unsound, unusable and absurd as a foreign language. Thus it is that "many scientists are not able to use articles in the original languages and consequently require translations". In Ontario high schools before the war—perhaps the system still prevails—German, the one foreign language essential to scientists and engineers who advance beyond work requiring only a turn of a screw, was not available. If taught at all, it was an alternative subject to physics and chemistry. If you took physics and chemistry, you could not take German; if you studied German, you could not study physics and chemistry in matriculation classes.

It is characteristic of Canadians to think English an easy language, perhaps because most use it so badly that they have no suspicion that it consists of more than a few hundred words, whose order, shading, inflections and pronunciation matter at all. Scientists are not as ignorant of the language as ragamuffins on the street, but they are so accustomed to using hard facts and cold steel that many cannot conceive of English as a sensitive, pliable instrument, requiring art as well as precision, feeling as well as study.

We learn that snakes are unknown in Newfoundland, and this was probably the reason why the island was so extensively settled by the Irish.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

THIS YEAR marks the centenary and the bicentenary of the birth of two men whose life work was in many respects very similar. Both of them were Italians, and both did much to advance the technique of the violin by playing and composing.

Of the two the more important to the musical world as a whole is Arcangelo Corelli. He was born in 1653, 32 years before Bach, Handel and Domenico Scarlatti. Of his earlier life little is known, though it is said that he travelled in Germany. He is also said to have gone to Paris in 1772 but left soon after owing to Lully's jealousy. If this is true it was probably a wise move, for Lully was reputed to have had several of his rivals in the musical field "bumped off." As it happened Lully bumped himself off eventually: the big stick which he used for beating time by thumping it on the ground went astray during the performance of a Te Deum and came down on Lully's foot, causing blood-poisoning and death. Truly a case of the biter bit!

THE LATTER HALF of Corelli's life was fairly uneventful. He settled in Rome, where Cardinal Pietro Ottoboni, an enthusiastic lover of music and the arts in general, became his friend and patron. His fame as a composer and violinist grew, and his pupils came from far and wide.

His style is gracious and dignified, and Handel was much influenced by it. There is a story about Corelli and Handel which illustrates the character of both men: Handel blunt and impetuous, Corelli mild and courteous. Handel came to Rome and conducted performances of some of his own cantatas, which were written in a more difficult style than was common in Italy. Handel tried to explain to Corelli, who was "leading" the orchestra (as principal violin, while Handel would be seated at the keyboard) how a certain passage should go. At last, losing patience, he snatched the violin from Corelli's hands and played the passage himself, whereupon Corelli remarked, with singular mildness, "But, my dear Saxon, this music is in the French style, of which I have had no experience." Notwithstanding this there are many gigues of Handel which bear the unmistakeable signs of Corelli's influence.

Corelli appeared to be quite exempt from the petty jealousy and rancour that have soured the character of so many musicians. Anybody who has mixed with musicians knows how prevalent this fault is.

"The poison of the honey-bee

says William Blake.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT IS indeed a strange coincidence that Viotti, who carried on where Corelli had left off, should have been born exactly one hundred years later. His master, Pugnani, was a pupil of Somis, who had been tion was thoroughly in accord with the solid tradition of the Italian school of the eighteenth century. He showed signs of musical ability at an unusually early age, and owing to the kindly intervention of highly placed personages he received a first-class musical education.

✧ ✧ ✧

HE STARTED touring at the age of 17, playing in Switzerland and Germany and many of the chief centres of Northern Europe. Eventually he reached Paris, the goal of artists in those days. But France was in a sad state, and the first mutterings of the revolution which shook the world were heard, and those that could leave did so. But Viotti, who had entered the service of the unfortunate Queen Marie-Antoinette, resolved to stay, as "a man should die at his post; for good sense always taught me that if honest men quitted their posts, the wicked gained an immense triumph." At last, however, on the eve of the arrest of the King and Queen, Viotti fled to London, which remained his main headquarters for the rest of his life. There was an unfortunate interlude in 1798, when he was forced to leave England on a false accusation; there had been a large influx of refugees from France, and McCarthyism and xenophobia had raised their heads. He returned after three years in an obscure corner of Germany. Throughout his whole stay in London he was befriended by a Mr. and Mrs. Chinnery. He made frequent visits to Paris, where he tried to recoup his fortunes, which had been ruined by an ill-advised incursion into the wine business. Eventually his health gave way together with his finances, and he died at the house of his devoted admirer, Mrs. Chinnery, in London.

✧ ✧ ✧

VIOTTI'S FAME as a composer is nowadays in an eclipse which appears to be permanent. Violinists still use his pieces as study material, but his name figures only rarely in concert programmes. It looks as though he is fated to be what Tovey called an I.H.F.—an Interesting Historical Figure. There are always bound to be more I.H.F.'s than great men, but we must remember that if there had been no I.H.F.'s to clear the ground the voices of the great men might never have been heard. But for John Field Chopin would never have written his Nocturnes: Bach would have been unthinkable without Buxtehude, Pachelbel and Vivaldi, while Liszt built his technique very largely on the framework of such matinee idols as Kalkbrenner and Thalberg.

LAST WEDNESDAY evening I listened in to the CBC broadcast of Mendelssohn's Elijah from Massey Hall. Sir Ernest Macmillan conducted the Mendelssohn Choir. Strangely enough this is apparently the first time this work has been broadcast in full in Canada. It is a long work, and somewhat uneven in quality admittedly, but it is still one of the two oratorios that are known throughout the English-speaking world, and the choir which sang it is named after its composer. It was, I thought, a somewhat perfunctory performance, lacking in precision and force. The well-know aria, O rest in the Lord, was rushed through as though conductor, soloist and orchestra were sick and tired of it and wanted to get over it as quickly as possible.

I was rather put out by the programme commentaries. Mendelssohn suffered from too much adulation in his time: nowadays the tendency is to go to the other extreme and belittle his genius. Let us agree that Mendelssohn could scarcely write a slow movement without relapsing into a rather facile vein of sentimentality. Apart from this weighty handicap he was every inch a genius. Unfortunately he was out of step with the more progressive elements in music of his time, and Chopin's modulations shocked his tidy and orderly soul. But for sheer cleverness he could make rings round the smart young men of today who patronize him and try to reduce him to a mere I.H.F. Mendelssohn did not belong to the very highest order of genius, but he comes very near it. If he had lived to a decent age instead of burning himself out with overwork he might have developed into a really profound genius.

Letters To The Editor

DEFENDS ARENA

Sir: There seems to be a lot of complaint about the Civic Arena, but we can expect that. There is always someone complaining about the other fellow's job or how well he can do it. The one and only way is to make sure your own job is done right.

I think if the younger set can buy cigarettes and other things which are harmful to them, then why can't they pay a little more for a healthy sport? If there is an adult show at the theatre there is usually a line of kids trying to get under people to buy their tickets to get in at an adult price.

Do you think this is better entertainment?

The Arena certainly does belong to Peterborough but you can't run it on hot air like some people think. I am sure the Arena has nothing to hide.

We can all see the many repairs made and they must be expensive as labor and lumber are not cheap.

I have two children of my own. I would rather pay 50 cents and know where they are, than give them 35 cents to spend as they like. I think it is better to see our money go into skating than going up in smoke.

Sincerely,
NORMAN RENDELL.

IS OUR COURTESY EXHAUSTED?

Sir: I was amused to read today's editorial entitled "We Can Tout Too" and note your efforts to compare Peterborough to Kitchener in the lenient treatment of minor traffic violators from out of town.

I come from Kitchener, drive a car with a Kitchener license plate (F8795), and upon parking longer than my nickel allowed (30 minutes overtime) was today issued tag No. 1568. This was not one of your "courtesy tickets" but the regular garden variety dollar type. You tell us the police issued thirty "courtesy tickets" in September to out of town motorist. What is the matter now? Has Peterborough's courtesy been all used up for the year?

Yours,
CLARKE McNEIL.

OTTAWA PLANNING

Sir: The Peterborough Examiner appears to take it for granted that the proposed planning scheme to beautify Ottawa will achieve its purpose and that Mr. Editor, is by no means certain.

This doubt explains the opposition to the scheme by many citizens of Ottawa. Our station is one of the noblest buildings in the country and as one stands gazing north and westwards, with this to the left and the parliament buildings to the right, one wonders how anyone, possessing any appreciation of fine architecture, could dream of demolishing that building. Further, in really big cities, a station as near the centre as possible, has been found absolutely necessary.

There are many eyesores in our city; broken sidewalks and ramshackle frame buildings in and near the centre which call for priority in any scheme to beautify Ottawa.

There may be some truth in the accusation that those sponsoring the Greber plan have an eye on more free parking spaces.

Our Mayor, Mr. Editor, is much too broad-minded and level-headed to oppose any scheme out of personal spite and such a remark is totally uncalled for.

Respectfully,
MABEL BOAG,
Ottawa.

CAN ORANGEMEN BE CATHOLICS?

Sir: The letters in the Examiner concerning "Is the Anglican Church Protestant or Catholic" are very interesting.

I might add my opinion is the Anglican Church is not Catholic by any means.

Many members of the Anglican church are followers of the Loyal Orange Lodge and as far back as history goes Orangemen have never bee Catholics.

MRS. VANCE.

WHITE IN HADES

SIR: What do you know? You say—talking of cows content—a way of life—decorous and even dainty—have no stalls—loafing barn—milking—parlours—buffet and feeding trough and attendants in immaculate white:—and no doubt when their time of month—rather year—comes they have also those attendants in white with sterilized tubes; who think of cow's emotions and who is kind? —what about their mysterious hypothalamus superboss—Hades—just hades that is all—their attendants dress in white too or—is it sheep's wool?

PAULINE

SHARE BOUNTIFUL HARVEST

Sir: The Rev. Roy Gastell of St. George's [illegible] advocated sending 10% of this year's wheat crop to hungry populations, and said "Now is the time to demonstrate the Christian principle 'that we are our brother's keepers'."

I fully agree with him in his statement, and as God has blessed us with such a bumper crop, it ought to be a duty and a privilege to share it with those of His hungry ones.

Yours respectfully,
L. U.

'PROTESTANT' Does Not Mean 'OBJECTOR'

SIR: The letter of your correspondent in which he makes the assertion "The Anglican Church is not Protestant" calls for some comment by those members of the Holy Catholic Church who are proud of the name "Protestant" because they know what it means.

A protestant is one who make a solemn declaration of resolution, fact or opinion. Shakespeare uses the word many times in that sense "I have a wife whom I protest I love," "Do me right or I will protest your cowardice." The negative meaning of an expression of dissent is much later than the original application of the name to the Reformed churches which dates from the Declaration made by the Lutheran princes in 1529. Their 'Protestation' was simply an assertion of the liberty of reforming Diets. It is ignorance which seeks to restrict the word to that of an objector.

It is foolish to regard Protestantism as a movement which began in the sixteenth century as to confine the name 'Catholic' to those who acknowledge the supremacy of the Pope.

Christianity itself began as a Protestant movement within the Jewish church. The main function of Protestantism is to attempt to check the tendency of all institutionalised religion to be entangled with tortuous policies of a hierarchy greedy for power and drawn into secular politics. (Some high ecclesiastics in Europe for whom there was a great deal of sympathy because of their alleged persecution were, if the truth be known, only getting their deserts).

Protestantism is the revolt of the genuine religion against this secularism. Always you find it fighting for ethical purity against ceremonial rules, for individual freedom against ecclesiastical discipline, claiming the right of immediate access to God without the intervention of a professional priesthood, insisting on inward conviction in the place of unquestioning obedience; maintaining the right of private judgement. Protestantism asserts the worth of the individual and therefore rejects extreme forms of institutional loyalty.

The conflict of the prophet and the priest is perennial except when "the phophets prophesy falsely and the priests bear rule by their means" Jer. 5.31. In the Hebrew nation the priest nearly always won but always you had the voice of the prophet protesting against sacrifice and ritual, which things were practised to the neglect of the weightier matters of justice, mercy and truth. Note the splendid outburst of Micah beginning: "Wherewith shall I come before the Lord" and he goes on to repudiate the suggestion of ritual or sacrifice and then in the true spirit of Protestantism "He hath showed thee O men, what is good and what doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, to love mercy and walk humbly with thy God." Micah VI. 6, 7, 8. Jesus Christ deliberately placed himself in the prophetic succession. He was a Protestant. John the Baptist his forerunner had revived the earlier type of prophesy associated with Elijah that had lapsed. Jesus lived as a prophet. He taught as a prophet. He, fully conscious of what he was doing made a revolution. He abolished at one stroke the whole principle of religious hierarchies. His disciples were a band of brothers with no precedence except in service. He spoke with authority. With sovereign confidence he revises the Law of Moses. "Ye have heard that it was said to them of old time but I say unto you." He tore up by the roots all ceremonial washings when he declared that nothing that enters into a man can either defile or cleanse him. The old wineskins must give place to the new for the wine which he bought. He gave the Sabbath a new meaning when he said "the Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath."

Jesus Christ was a very radical Protestant and he suffered for it. Luther, Calvin, Knox and their goodly company were only following the steps of the Prophets and above all in the steps of the Master Himself when they gave themselves body and soul and spirit to Reformation. They were Protestants and any church that is ashamed of their work is not only not Protestant but it is not Christian. Take away the name Protestant if you like but be sure to put in its place 'Ichabod' for truly the glory has departed. Many of the greatest scholars of the Church of England, bishops and archbishops were proud to be called Protestants.

Yes, a great part of the Church of England is still Protestant. Thank God.

"PROTESTANT"

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Jesus returned in the power of the Spirit into Galilee: and there went out a fame of him through all the region round about. And he taught in their synagogues, being glorified of all. (Luke 4:14,15.)

And he withdrew himself into the wilderness, and prayed. And it came to pass on a certain day as he was teaching, that there were Pharisees and doctors of the law sitting by, which were come out of every town of Galilee, and Judaea, and Jerusalem: and the power of the Lord was present to heal them.

And, behold, men brought in a bed a man which was taken with a palsy: and they sought means to bring him in, and to lay him before him. And when they could not find by what way they might bring him in because of the multitude, they went upon the housetop, and let him down through the tiling with his couch in the midst before Jesus. And when he saw their faith, he said unto him, Man, thy sins are forgiven thee.

And the scribes and the Pharisees began to reason, saying, Who is this which speaketh blasphemies? Who can forgive sins, but God alone? But when Jesus perceived their thoughts, he answering said unto them, What reason ye in your hearts? Whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Rise up and walk? But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power upon earth to forgive sins, (he said unto the sick of the palsy,) I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy couch, and go into thine house. And immediately he rose up before them, and took up that whereon he lay, and departed to his own house, glorifying God. (Luke 5: 18-25.)

Best-Seller

(Joachim Joesten, NANA)

Pity the poor best-selling author. His real name is Kurt W. Marek, but he is more widely known by his anagrammatical penname, C. W. Ceram.

For four long, weary years, author Marek toiled from dawn till dusk—and often late into the night—writing his famous Gods, Graves and Scholars. His work became an international best-seller. It was translated from the original German into 18 languages. And a few weeks ago, its world-wide success was crowned with the ultimate award. This was the $25,000 sale to Metro Goldwyn-Mayer, reportedly the largest sum ever paid for a work of non-fiction.

But author Marek was not in a jubilant mood. He had just finished figuring out how much spending money he would have left after taxes, commissions and what have you. The result was somewhat dispiriting. The amount was a little over $2,000.

First, Marek learned, Uncle Sam was going to take a 30 per cent bite out of the Hollywood bonanza. Of the remainder, the author's American agent was entitled to 15 per cent, and the German publisher would claim 40 per cent of the money transferred under the foreign-rights clause on his contract. After due allowance for transfer dues and bank charges, the author figured he'd wind up with $7,500. But of this residue, however, the German tax collector was going to grab $5,250 because the best-selling author had already moved up into the highest tax brackets, where 70 per cent of all additional income is forfeited to the treasury.

Having the contract translated, signed and notarized cost another $100, leaving a total of $2,150 for the author to have all to himself—supposedly.

In the meantime, however, the writer of Gods, Graves and Scholars had run up a tax debt of 100,000 marks (about $23,000) on income derived from the best-selling book. Already the tax collector had filed a lien with the German publisher on all current earnings from the book, except for a small monthy allowance to be paid the author "because he has to live, after all.".

So Marek made two resolutions: one, to raise a mortgage on his small summer home in the Bavarian Alps in order to pay off some of his tax debts; and two, to transfer his residence to the United States. For Uncle Sam has a heart. Frequently he allows the successful author to suddenly strike it rich after years of penury to spread his income, for tax purposes, over the number of years spent in preparation of the work. The German tax law make no such provision.

Royal Family Will See Censored Play

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh and other members of the Royal Family will see a specially-censored version of the mission hall scene from the American musical, "Guys and Dolls," at the Royal variety performance here tonight.

The scene was watered down because the organizers of the annual variety show were afraid that the Queen might be offended by salty dialogue and a song which makes fun of a religious sect.

Yet the Queen and her husband have already seen the musical, and Princess Margaret has even seen it three times. So they all know the original version of the "censored" scene.

HIT TUNE REWRITTEN

They will know that the mission hall scene setting has been changed, the dialogue altered and the lyrics of one of the show's hit tunes—"Sit Down, You're rocking the Boat" — rewritten. Princess Margaret called for an encore of the song when she saw "Guys and Dolls" for the second time.

The scene in the original version is set in a "save the soul" mission staffed by revivalists in uniforms which resemble those worn by Salvation Army members. But there will be nothing to indicate that tonight.

Banned from the dialogue are the words "brother" and "sister." Instead of "sinners" the talk will be about "characters."

A Royal variety show press officer explained gravely to grinning reporters that the scene was altered "merely because of the necessity to be discreet on an official occasion."

Farm Not Safe Place Audience Learns

GUELPH (CP)—That the farm is not as safe a place as most persons think was demonstrated here Sunday when the Agriculture Engineering Club of the Ontario Agricultural College held its first Farm Safety Day.

The audience of 500 was told the dangers of fires, machinery accidents and mishandling of livestock and was instructed how to prevent them. Different fire extinguishers for various fires and devices that stop tractors when drivers fall off of them were demonstrated.

Visitors were also shown how to approach an unruly animal and the proper equipment to use while handling livestock.

Chum Keeps Vigil, Hunter, 12, Dies

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — A young squirrel hunter, wounded in the head, died Sunday night despite a cold 20-hour vigil by a companion who said he held a fingertip in the wound thinking he would keep the boy from bleeding to death.

The boy, Martin Larson, 12, Utica, Minn., was wounded when a .22 rifle discharged accidentally while he and John Kieselhorst, 16, St. Paul, were hunting in heavy woods near Utica about 2:30 p. m. Saturday.

John carefully inserted the end of an index finger into Martin's wound. The bleeding stopped, but John felt that if he removed his finger blood would gush forth.

FOUND NEXT MORNING

John kept an all-night vigil, although the temperature dropped to 25 degrees.

Meanwhile, relatives became concerned and called police.

The boys were found about 10 a. m. Sunday.

A doctor said that usually a person wounded as Martin was does not die of external bleeding, but instead of pressure built up by a brain haemorrhage.

Former Minister Preaches At Anniversary

HAVELOCK (ENS)—The Rev J. W. Wilkinson of Oakwood, a former minister of Havelock United church, was quest preacher at both services Sunday in celebration of the 69th anniversary of the church. Mr. Wilkinson chose as his subject for the morning service "The gift of Understanding."

The Christion, he said, often becomes depressed with the problems of life and depression takes away some of the joy of service. We are sick of wars and rumors of wars. There would be no holes in our economic system if we all had the understanding of Christ.

Let us go to the Bible, which we cannot afford to dissect but take as a whole, he counselled, and through prayer, make progress in our spiritual development, in order that we may understand the great attribute of God's love.

Mrs. D. Owens was soloist and the choir sang two anthems with Mrs. R. G. Newman and Mrs. H. Agnew taking the solo parts.

EVENING SERVICE

In the evening Mr. Wilkinson took as his subject "The Righteousness and Fairness of God," based on Abraham's intercession to God to spare the city of Gomorrah for the sake of the righteous persons within.

The choir was augmented by the Trinity male quartet from Hastings, comprising Fred Crate, Learle Humphries, Ross Burnham and Clifford Schiver. Two selections were sung by the quartet and two anthems by the choir, with Mrs. D. Owens taking a solo part. The choir was under the direction of the organist, Donald Pallock.

Fatal Umbrella

LONDON (AP)—Albert Edward Hall carried a lethal weapon, his umbrella. He slipped on a rain-swept pavement here Sunday, and an umbrella stay poked into his eye and killed him. He was 82.

Urge Moslem Veils For Women In Fog

MANCHESTER, Eng. (Reuters) A Manchester university student today suggested that London women don yashmaks (Moslem veils) this winter when and if another lethal yellow fog enshrouds the capital.

Last week Britain plunged into a "great debate" over what sort of mask people should wear to fight off the noxious fumes which last December were said to have caused the deaths of 4,000 persons in one week. Doctors suggested a nurse's surgical mask.

The student, Bernice Hamilton, suggested in a letter to the Manchester Guardian that British stores could sell yashmaks designed "in the most popular autumn colors."

Miss Hamilton argued that the "becoming" yashmak would be better for women than masks which would make them look "like something out of an operating theatre."

Report Settlement Of Discrimination Case

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Joint Labor Committee to Combat Racial Intolerance said Sunday satisfactory settlement of the first fair employment practices case to be handled under a federal law which came into effect in July demonstrated the worth and workability of the law.

It said in a statement a young Negro stenographer was refused employment because of her race. Company officials told a labor department investigator that apparently there had been some mistake. The company sent a job application form to the girl, who by that time had taken another position.

Show Peace Intent

DARWIN, Australia (Reuters)—Richard Casey, Australian external affairs minister, today said Communist China must establish itself as a peace-loving nation before Australia supports its admission to the United Nations. Casey, just back from a 30,000-mile world tour, said there is no doubt the Indo-China and Malya conflicts are being directed from Peiping.

Milk Workers Meet, Decide Policy

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives of 15,000 Ontario paper mill workers meet here today to discuss policy in the wake of a strike vote.

Tied in with the deadlocked negotiations at the 19 Ontario mills are a mill in Quebec and another in Manitoba. Basic rate in the 21 mills is $1.41 an hour.

A conciliation board recommended no change in the wage schedule but favored minor improvements in fringe benefits.

MANY CENTRES AFFECTED

Tied up in the event of a strike would be the Abitibi Power and Paper Mills at Fort William, Iroquois Falls, Port Arthur, Smooth Rock Falls, Sturgeon Falls and Sault Ste. Marie; the Thorold plant of the Beaverwood Fibre Company; the Great Lakes Paper Company mill at Fort William; Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment's Espanola operations; Kimberly Clark mills at Kapuskasing and Terrace Bay; Marathon Paper Company at Marathon; Ontario Minnesota Paper Company plants at Fort Frances and Kenora; the Thorold plant of the Provincial Paper Company; plants of the St. Lawrence Corporation at Nipigon and Red Rock; and the Spruce Falls Power and Paper Company at Kapuskasing.

Find Strange Mine On California Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A strange mine, the mechanism of which was unfamiliar even to veteran navy experts, washed ashore Sunday night on the California coast.

It first was thought to be an old Japanese harbor mine from the Second World War, but examination disproved this.

The mine will be moved away from buildings and detonated.

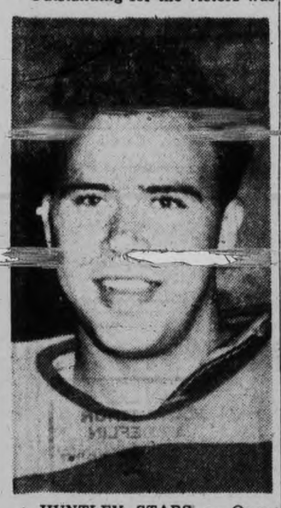
Orfuns Grab A 13-Point Edge Over Oakville Black Knights To Open ORFU Intermediate

By CEC. PERDUE



Featuring a powerful ground attack, plus one payoff stab through the air, the Peterborough Orfuns rolled to a 19-6 football victory over the Black Knights in Oakville on Saturday. It was the first game of their home-and-home ORFU intermediate "A" final playoffs and gives Tony Kotowski's crew a 13-point lead for the return match here this Saturday. A big crowd, including many Peterborough fans, saw a fine provincial grid fixture under ideal weather conditions. Winner of the Ontario title goes to Montreal within two weeks for the Eastern Canada final, survivor of that entertaining the western champions in the Canadian playoff.

A SCRAPPY SHOWING

Though a shade lighter than Orfuns, the Western Ontario winners turned in a scrappy showing Saturday against Orfuns. They had a long-throwing passer who pitched the pigskin frequently, and the team was speedy, particularly on Crowley runbacks behind excellent blocking. Oakville racked up a 6-0 lead in the first quarter, but Orfuns had a close 7-6 margin at half time. In the third quarter, the Peterborough pick tore through for two converted touchdowns and that wound up the scoring.

Black Knights complained of the officiating and felt that they were robbed of two touchdowns. They argued that the score should have been very close at the finish. However, Orfuns drew penalties, too, when on the march, and appeared a better team. They threw few passes all day but turned in an excellent ground attack and Don Bark's kicking was constantly better than that of Ed Sullivan. The losers' passer—and he was good—was Willie Rogers. These two, along with shifty Lloyd Crowley, were the three Oakville stars, though Pollock, MacDougall, Roberts, Bury and Fennell played neat football as well.

Outstanding for the victors was bashing Bill Huntley. He scored all their points but five and threw the pass to Spin Hope for that touchdown. The chunky plunger ripped through regularly and once [illegible] Knights for 25 yards to score a touchdown dragging three tacklers the last few yards. His kicking, passing and tackling were almost on a par with his terrific plunging.

HUNTLEY STARS — Once again Bill Huntley starred in an Orfuns' grid victory, this time as the local footballers beat Oakville 19-6 in the first of the provincial finals Saturday. The Orfuns' backfield ace scored all their points except five and he threw the touchdown pass to Spin Hope for those points. The win gives Orfuns a 13-point lead for the return playoff here this Saturday.

But there were others in the local lineup who stood out in this struggle. Hope made a fine catch and 10-yard run with a pass for a touchdown. Bus Jensen, Army Armstrong, Dave Langhorne and Bev Groves gained healthy hunks of yardage here and there. Bark kicked about his best game yet with the club. Joe Berthelot, McIntyre, Floyd Ouelette, Lou Nickle, Bill Trimm, Gord Beatty, Frank Fitzgerald and Bounce Howe were noted from time to time in highly helpful roles for the cause. The line clicked fine all through.

MOVED THE STICKS

Huntley got the first down of the game early—Orfuns had 19 first downs throughout to seven for Oakville—but later Pollock intercepted a Huntley pass. Passes by Rogers misfired and Sullivan kicked to Jerry McGillis on Petes' 40. Each side drew a penalty and Huntley got 18 on a buck but Fennell snared a local fumble shortly after. Crowley took a long Rogers' pass and raced 15 more to Orfuns' 20-yard chalk. Berthelot got in to smother the passer for a hefty loss and Sullivan then booted to deadline for a point. After a Bark kick, Forrester downed Pollock and then smother the passer. Langhorne went for seven a bit later but McKay grabbed a Petes' fumble deep in Orfuns' area. A long pass from Rogers to Ed Sullivan was good for a major, the convert missing. Ouelette snatched a partly blocked kick near quarter's end.

Jensen had a 10-yard runback in the second and he, Huntley and Armstrong rolled right up till Huntley barged over for a try, which he converted. Pollock ran a hoof back 25 to centre but they had to boot it when the line held. Later, when Oakville gained possession after a long kick by Bark, Crowley skirted end for 10 and then took a long pass but it was called back on a penalty. McIntyre stopped their passer next and a short kick to Jensen set up Huntley for a deadline kick when a placement attempt went wide.

TWO MAJOR

Ouellette downed Pollock in the third and Huntley bucked 15 but a penalty set them back. Beatty stopped Pollock later and they had to kick. Orfuns drove up once more, aided by an Oakville penalty, and Huntley knifed the line for 25 years for a try, tacklers draping his solid form as he just got the ball over the line. He converted it. Crowley had a 50-yard runback and Fennell took a pass but later they gambled and lost possession with Orfuns' front wall too strong for them. Groves got nine on a reverse and Huntley made it a first. Army moved the sticks again, and Jensen and Huntley once more got more than the 10 needed. Spin Hope roped in a lengthy Huntley pass neatly and galloped 10 for the last major, Huntley booting the convert. Crowley raced 80 on a runback then but the play was called back on a penalty to Oakville.

The fourth was a hard dog-fight with no score but Orfuns finished stronger. Army intercepted a pass and Brioux and Langhorne got four each before Bark kicked. Rogers went for 10 and Pollock took short Langhorne pass. They went for three first downs till Oakville got a Petes' fumble. Rogers went 15 but Fitzgerald stopped Fennell cold and Trimm threw the passer for a loss. Jensen intercepted a pass over his own line but smartly batted it out. Huntley rolled for 12 near the close and MacDougall intercepted a pass at the finish.

Orfuns: Hope, Jensen, Hodson, Beatty, Huntley, Armstrong, Bark, Fitzgerald, Holman, Kirkwood, Beavis, Ouellette, Brioux, Howe, McIntyre, Newark, Milligan, Nickle, Trimm, Forrester, Berthelot, J. McGillis, O'Reilly, Grove, Langhorne.

St. Peter's Gridders Take COSSA Junior "B" Title Over Albert College Club

BELLEVILLE (Special)—A gridiron steamroller from St. Peter's High School, Peterborough, easily tucked away the COSSA junior "B" football championship here Saturday when it swamped the hitherto undefeated Albert College team by a 30-0 score. The game was a sudden-death affair called when Niagara Falls and Georgian Bay districts failed to field representatives. Ray Allen, starry St. Peter's backfielder, was the hero of the piece and was carried shoulder high from the field after the game by jubilant team-mates. Allen practically ripped the Albert line to shreds as he picked up 160 yards on the ground and a pair of touchdowns for good measure. He kicked a field goal and was good for four touchdown converts.

KANE OUTSTANDING

Fleet-footed Jack Kane of St. Peter's gave Allen a close run for top honors. He tore off 170 yards on the ground with some terrific plunging and running and also registered with a pair of majors scored for the winners. Board, St. Peter's quarterback, intercepted an Albert forward pass on the college team's thirty and galloped into paydirt. Daly topped off the visitors' scoring when Albert on its own one yard line fumbled the ball and the alert St. Peter's player promptly fell on it for the touchdown.

The Albert juniors were no match for their heavier opponents in speed and deceptiveness. They left holes in their line big enough for a horse and they failed to send tackles downfield on their kicks. They seldom made more than average yards on three downs and never started a downfield march.

The St. Peter's effort was featured by two sensational catches by Masterson who galloped for 70 yards after picking the ball out of the air.

LOTS OF FUMBLES

The game produced fumbling at its best on the part of both teams with St. Peter's being guilty of 18. But alertness got them the ball back every time but twice. The college team juggled the ball eight times, losing it four, one good for a touchdown and three indirectly responsible for scores.

Board called a spendid game for the winners. He had his plays clicking and at times it appeared the fumbles were part of the offensive.

Allen averaged 30 yards in his kicking while Albert's Kirkconnell was good for an average of 30 yards also.

St. Peter's made 11 first downs to four for Albert. Board completed three passes in 11 attempts as did Kirkconnell for Albert.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Senior "B" hockey fans certainly enjoyed that Orillia-Petes" opener here last Friday, the 7-all overtime scrap. The players were stepping fast and bumping in brisk fashion for early in the puck semester. We expect the same will be true of tonight's tilt here when Belleville Memos meet the Petes for their first clash. Coach Red Doran has a sturdy defence lined up in Jake Wade, Bob Taylor and Tommy Schredier alternating with Jud Semark and big Vern Goyer. Forwards include Jackie Wardhaugh, Keith McDonald, Duke Doran, Edwin and Elwin Duncan— twins, no less—Jerry Desjardins, Ted DeGray, Peter Jones, Doug Hall and Red Doran himself. A goodly squad and the Petes will have to hustle to take 'em.

Timothy Geohagen and Hi Lee headline the pro mat card at the Brock St. bump emporium this Wednesday night. Johnny Harmon meets Firpo Zybsko (you sneeze it) in the semi-final of the program. Prelim pits Herb Larson 'gainst tall Bill Stack from down Oshawa way. The hateful Mills brothers are absentees here this week, though no doubt they'll be back from time to time to pursue their unscrupulous but winning ways. Grapple fans from last year will remember towering Hi Lee, he of the shaggy mane, deep-throated roar, bulging muscles and mean mat repertoire He's a huge toughie for sure and Irish Tim will have a strenuous time of it in the main tussle.

They Banked 13 Points

Orfuns hold a 13-point lead on Oakville Black Knights after a 19-6 win away Saturday. Return joust of the Ontario intermediate "A" grid finals is here this Saturday aft at Morrow Park, winner going to Montreal the following weekend in the Eastern Canada final. While Orfuns earned the victory in Oakville, the score might well have been closer as the Knights gave 'em a battle and had some tough breaks on penalties, though the Kotowski crew had some some setbacks, too. A fine fray in perfect weather. Nice to see Clive Naismith out of hospital again and viewing the tilt, along with other chaps recovering from injuries, fellows like Don McGillis, Johnny Giardino, Blair Thomson, Hank Russelle and Johnny Berry. Most will be ready by this weekend.

* * * * * *

The story of the struggle was too much ground power by Orfuns. The shock troops proved their value offensively and defensively against a speedy, passing Oakville team. Bill Huntley turned in a brilliant performance on the attack behind a powerful line, and other halves helped reel off 19 first downs to the Knights' seven. Spin Hope took a touchdown pass neatly, too, and Don Bark lofted many long-gone kicks. Oakville took an early lead and battled hard to the finish, but they couldn't quite cope with those plunging and running plays of the classy Peterborough pack. They may make it close enough in the return playoff but we look for Orfuns to wrap up the provincial title here on Saturday.

SPS Juniors Take COSSA

St. Peter's High captured the COSSA Junior "B" football title in Belleville on Saturday, blanking Albert College team by a hefty score. With Georgian Bay and Niagara Falls districts failing to send representatives into playdowns, the COSSA crown goes to Coach Johnny Lynch's SPS squad. This trong crew proved much too good for the Bay of Quinte club and racked up the count right from the start. Ray Allen was outstanding with two touchdowns, a field goal and four converts to his credit, besides dishing up a dandy plunging and kicking display. Jack Kane was close behind with two majors and some great running. Board, Daly, Masterson, Mahoney and Martyn were just a few others who starred for the classy Saints, the whole team going fine.

* * * * * *

At Riverside on Saturday, Bev Goulding's PCVS senior "A" team took a 29-11 victory over Oshawa CVI for the lakeshore grid title and the right to proceed down the COSSA playoff path. Looks like the Falls next in the final. Chuck Geale and Barry Hollingsworth were the big payoff guys for the PCI-ers, with Terry Roberts passing well, but they had plenty of help from a vastly improved Collegiate club over its showing earlier in the semester. On the ruling that a school couldn't draw players from another school, Oshawa Combines had to break up and send Oshawa CVI into this sudden-death playoff, and the visitors found PCVS too good.

Bombers Bow To Roughriders But Make Finals

REGINA (CP)—A giant cushion of 38 feathery points eased Winnipeg Blue Bombers into the Western Interprovincial Football Union Final Saturday as they dropped an 18-17 decision to Saskatchewan Roughriders but took the total-point, semi-final series 60-23.

The 43-5 lashing Bombers hung on the hobbling Saskatchewan team last Wednesday in the first game of the home-and-home series proved too great a barrier. Riders played the game out as just another game.

Winnipeg now meets Edmonton Eskimos in the best-of-three final with the first game at Edmonton Saturday. The second game is at Winnipeg Nov. 11 and the third, if necessary, in Edmonton Nov. 14.

The Riders opened the scoring late in the first quarter with a touchdown set up when Winnipeg quarterback Joe Zaleski fumbled near his own goal line. Glenn Dobbs, who played a brilliant game at quarter for Riders, tossed 15 yards to halfback Bill Todd on third down for the major. Del Wardien converted.

Gerry James, Winnipeg's 18-year-old halfback, tied the score 6-6 on the first play of the second quarter. Bud Korchak converted.

Riders scored their second major after Dobbs moved them down the field with a series of passes. End Harry Lampman got as far as the Bomber five on a pass and halfback Bobby Marlow went through the line on third down. Wardien again converted.

Riders evened the count in the third quarter when Wardien fumbled one of Jack Jacobs kicks and Al Wiley recovered for Bombers on the Rider 12-yard line. Zaleski passed to Andy Sokol on second down and Korchak converted.

Bombers went ahead briefly in the fourth quarter after half Tom Casey intercepted one of Dobbs' passes and ran it to the Rider seven-yard line. Sokol bulled over the Rider line two plays later. Korchak missed the convert.

Dobbs took the Riders to paydirt with successive 34 and 16-yard passes to end Mac Speedie. Half Herb Johnson took another pass at the Bomber five and shook off Casey to go over for the major. Wardien converted.

Stevenson Leads

In the Mercantile Bowling League at Playfair, Jack Stevenson had high three of 744 with a single of 288 and another one of 230. Allan [illegible] Single of 313 in his 717 total, Jim Price had (275) 666, Walt Byrd (291) 659, Don Reid (251) 655, Ray Brady (270 655, Art Fraser (263) 683, Frank Millard (266) 630, Al Brooks (226) 630, Hazel Davis (235) 622 and Lillian Phillips (205) 604. Good singles were: Ted Storey 264, Alta Lucas 253, Doug Dyer 256, Marcelle Hynes 249, Norm Sidey 233, Harry Rowe 271, Joe Wilkinson 253, Elwood Little 258, Elva Chamberlain 234, B. Smith 233 and Clarence Sedore 233.

The 7-0 wins went to Mustangs over Loblaw's, Combines against Austin's and Pet. Express over Tent and Awning. The 5-2 victories were taken by Bob and Betty from Cherney Jets, Seabrook over United Co-Op, Can. Canoe over Charlotte Credit No. 1, and by Turner's over Credit No. 2. Dom. Store won 4-3 from Ackison's, and Cherney No. 2 won 4-3 over Pet. Co-Op.

PCVS Seniors Gain Honors In Lakeshore District Beating Oshawa, 29 to 11

PCVS seniors downed Oshawa CVI team 29-11, in a sudden death football game at Riverside Park, Saturday afternoon, to take the lakeshore senior high title. From the opening minutes of the game it was obvious that PCI had full control of the gridiron. Within five minutes of the starting kickoff, Chuck Geale snagged a pass from quarterback Terry Roberts and went over. Before the first quarter ended, Geale touched paydirt again and then converted to make the score 11-0.

A 55-yard completed pass from Roberts to Geale, who stepped into the end zone, was called back because of interference in the second quarter, but the try was soon chalked up by Barry Hollingsworth, who incidentally, was just beginning a scoring spree which netted the Peterborough team 15 points. The drive that ended in Hollingsworth's TD, began when Gord McGrath broke through the Oshawa defense to block a kick and retrieve the ball.

ONLY IN THIRD

The only time during the game that Oshawa offered any decisive challenge to the locals was in the third period. The visitors battered their way up to the PCI one-yard line and then struggled through three vain attempts to plunge over. PCI recovered the ball and Marsh Weir kicked it down the field. Bill Pascoe finally broke the goose egg for Oshawa with a 30 across, and 10-yard ahead end run to give the visitors five points. Ken Fisher failed to make the convert.

In the opening minutes of the final quarter, Geale punted a long one down to the Oshawa 20-yard line where the ball was fumbled and retrieved by PCI. Barry Hollingsworth went over a few plays later and Marsh Weir converted to make the score 23-5. But PCI were not through demonstrating who was boss, and started rolling down the field again. With Bill Goodson and John Eastwood picking up steady yardage on their plunges, the locals were soon in scoring position. Barry Hollingsworth made a neat 30-yard run to the Oshawa five yard line and then went over, with Weir converting.

Oshawa staged another vain attempt to get back in the ball game, but time was running out, not only for the game but for the season, as far as they were concerned. They died hard, however, and sparked by their quarterback, Ken Fisher, the motor city ensemble slashed their way toward the PCI end zone. At the three-minute mark, Fisher scored for the Oshawa team and then made the convert himself.

That was the final payoff. Both teams struggled around in midfield for the remaining three minutes, the gun sounded, and cheers echoed over the Otonabee.

Bev Goulding's boys were lakeshore senior high champions. They will now meet the Niagara district senior 'A' winner in the COSSA final.

B. Castle Rolls High

Betty Castle had top single of 281 and R. Connolly was high for two games with 492 in the Girls' City Bowling League. M. Hawthorne with 333 and B. Pogue with 341 split the blind score of 337. Austin's, Towne Togs and Marines blanked Sevenaires, Bassel's and Collis, as 2-1 wins were racked up by Aces over Curtin's and by Davis Sunoco over Cardinals.

Good singles were: R. Connolly 264 and 228, J. Moore 267, B. Morrow 244 and 221, F. Kokesh 255, A. Stinson 235, E. Thompson 227, J. Snape 241, M. Knights 261, N. Ephgrave 248, D. Martin and M. Barringer and M. Timm 431, J. Snape 429, M. Knights 417, B. Peterkin 411, A. Stinson 410.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ted Lindsay, Detroit Red Wings' sharp-shooting left-winger, appears to have snapped out of an unusual scoring slump, so it wouldn't be surprising now if the National Hockey League champions began making a shambles of this season's campaign. The Red Wings made a runaway of the race the last couple of seasons, and it's no exaggeration to figure that with the Detroit captain clipping along at full steam again, the same situation is a definite possibility.

Lindsay, who finished second in the scoring race last year to linemate Gordie Howe with 32 goals and 39 assists for 71 points, scored two goals Sunday night as the Wings whipped league-leading Montreal Canadiens 5-1 in Detroit. They were his third and fourth goals of the season and the first he has counted in three weeks.

TIGHTENED UP

Canadiens' week-end activity was disastrous. On Saturday they were blanked 1-0 by Chicago Black Hawks in Montreal. The win broke a four-game Montreal victory streak, their longest this season.

Montreal's setback moved Detroit within two points of a deadlock with them for first place. The whole race was tightened up a notch as Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins, in a tie for third place, gained three points in two games each.

Boston Beat the Wings 3-1 at Detroit Saturday night and then played a scoreless tie with the Black Hawks in Chicago Sunday night. The Leafs also won Saturday, whipping the Rangers 4-1 at home and then playing a 2-2 tie in New York Sunday night.

NOW TRAILING

Boston and Toronto now trail the Red Wings by three points and are five up on Chicago and New York, deadlocked for fifth place.

Lindsay counted his two goals in the second period in the Detroit victory over Canadiens. The high-scoring Red Wing forward was driving as he hasn't done before this season and missed a half dozen more chances for another counter.

Third-period goals by Dave Creighton and Cal Gardner gave Boston its win over Red Wings Saturday night. Leo Labine fired the other Bruin tally in the opening period. The loss was the Red Wings'.

SECOND SHUTOUT

The Bruins' scoreless deadlock with Chicago Sunday night was the second shutout for goalie Al Rollins in two nights.

The Leafs' win over New York Saturday night was their first in five games. Sid Smith, leading Leaf scorer last season, got two of their four goals with the others going to George Armstrong and Harry Watson.

Harry Watson counted the Leafs' other goal which wiped out a tally by Aldo Guidolin. Wally Hergesheimer came through with the third goal of the first period to put New York ahead 2-1 and it remained that way until Kennedy's tally.

Dutchmen Draw Bye In Final; Session Stormy

TORONTO (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen drew a bye into the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union final and a home-and-home total-points semi-final to be decided by Nov. 8.

The first game will be played in Sarnia Nov. 7 and the second at Toronto the next day. If the round is tied at the end of the second game, 10-minute overtime periods will be played until a winner is decided.

The winner will advance into the two-game ORFU final against the Dutchmen with the first game in Kitchener Nov. 11. If Sarnia wins the semi-final, the second game of the final will have the Dutchmen at Sarnia Nov. 14. Should Balmy Beach advance into the final the second game will be played at Toronto Nov. 15. As in the semi-final, there will be 10-minute overtime periods until a winner is decided if the roond is tied after the second game.

STORMY SESSION

Dutchmen drew the bye from a hat at a stormy league meeting here while Sarnia coach Hugh (Red) Douglas protested in vain.

The squabble was brought about when Beaches, Imperials and Dutchmen wound up in a three-way first-place tie in the 12-game regular schedule, each with 16 points. The home-and-home total-point final will decide the ORFU representative in the Grey Cup semi-final against the Western Conference winner Nov. 21.

Ottawa Flattens Argos 20-8

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Coach Clem Crowe of Ottawa Rough Riders, with a possible assist from coach Darrel Royal of Edmonton Eskimos, is steering his club towards a Big Four playoff berth.

Royal employed the split-T formation and a powerful ground offensive to make Eskimos runaway first-place finishers in the Western Conference and Crowe, a straight T-formation man, probably decided Royal's strategy could be the key to Ottawa's success.

He gave the split-T a 60-minute whirl on a flabbergasted Toronto Argonaut club Saturday and it paid off with a 20-8 victory before 20,187 fans.

ALS COLLAPSE

Victory sent Riders into a second place tie with Montreal Alouettes who lost 31-18 to the Tiger-Cats at Hamilton. As far as Argonauts are concerned, their loss just about wrecked the playoff hopes of coach Frank Clair.

With only two games remaining in the schedule, Argonauts trail Riders and Als by two points and the pace-setting Tiger-Cats by four. One more loss and they are out.

Sarnia Imperials and Toronto Balmy Beach, tied for second place two points behind Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen before the week-end, scored victories to create the triple tie, a situation that officials said had never before happened in the history of the union.

The Imps shut out the Dutchmen 8-0 at Sarnia Saturday and Beaches clobbered the last-place Brantford Redskins 51-6 at Toronto Sunday.

PILEUP AT TOP

The three-way tie made a semi-final necessary and a home-and-home total-point series now will be played between Imperials and Beaches. The Dutchmen drew a bye into the final.

The first game of the semi-finals will be played at Sarnia next Saturday and the second at Toronto the following day.

At Toronto quarter Tom O'Malley handled the split-T assignment as if he had been playing it all his football life. Besides running for good gains himself, he had his backs taking precision-like pitchouts, his ends snaring passes and his line operating in fine blocking and rushing style.

HAPES STARS

At Hamilton, it was almost a personal triumph for Merle Hapes former New York Giants professional who is playing his first full season since 1949. With Tiger-Cats behind 18-7 at the half, Hapes smacked through the Als line for 151 yards, ran for seven of Hamilton's 25 first downs and set up the Cats for touchdowns.

His play fired up the [illegible] who scored four converted majors in the last 30 minutes.

Avatus Stone, Bob Cunningham and O'Malley all scored majors off the split-T formation for the Riders. Johnny Fedosoff scored his first touchdown of the season and the Argos' only major.

PAL STARS FOR ALS

Tip Logan, Dick Brown, Bernie Custis, Royal Bailey and Lou Kuserow scored touches for the Tigers. Joey Pal went across for two of Montreal's touchdowns with Phil Adrian getting the other.

Dick Gregory was practically a one-man team amassing 21 points for the Beaches on three touchdowns and six converts. Harvey Singleton added a pair while Jim Cochrane, Maurice O'Callaghan and Bob Schneidenbach scored the others. Stan Terejko carried the ball over from the one-yard for Brantford's only major.

Jimmy Foxx of Boston Red Sox was voted the most valuable player in the American Baseball League 15 years ago today, after a great comeback following a batting slump in the previous season. It was the third such award for Foxx, who had won the league's most valuable player award with Philadelphia in 1932 and 1933.

Bisons Trip Hornets In 4-1 Triumph

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The American Hockey League put in another heavy weekend schedule and when the smoke had died away, Buffalo Bisons were still atop the league, more comfortably ensconced than before.

Sunday, the Bisons posted their fifth straight victory, a 4-1 conquest over Pittsburgh Hornets. In Sunday's other game, Providence Reds snapped a five-game losing streak by defeating Syracuse Warriors 3-2.

The victory enabled the Reds to move out of the cellar, one point ahead of the Warriors.

At Buffalo, the home forces spotted the Hornets the first goal by Phil Maloney. Then Jacques Plante blanked Pittsburgh the rest of the way while Ed Slowinski, Rollie Rousseau, Ken Hayden and Joe Lund tallied.

TAKE LEAD

At Providence, the Reds struck for two goals in the second period by Bert Hirschfeld and Al Baccari to take a 3-1 lead after Ed Leier, Syracuse rookie centre, and the Reds Walt Pawlyshyn each scored in the first.

Elliott Chorley pulled the Warriors within one goal of a tie but that ended the scoring.

Edmonton Eskimos Hold Light Workout

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos who will battle Winnipeg Blue Bombers here Saturday in the first game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union playoff finals went through a light workout Sunday.

It was the first workout for the team since they closed the regular schedule by losing to Winnipeg at home Oct. 24.

Vessels suffered a fractured spinal muscle attachment in the Oct. 24 game with Winnipeg. Vessels still is in hospital. It is not known yet whether he will be able to dress for Saturday's game.

Department Of Education Policy Called Scandalous

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—John T. Stubbs, of Sault Ste. Marie, past president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation, lashed out at the department of education Saturday with charges of contradictory policy and "scandalous" methods of administration.

He quoted what he termed "irrefutable facts" to show more than 100 teachers from district No. 2 meeting here "the extent to which deceptive and nefarious encouragement is given to cheap achievements in grade XIII examinations."

He told of one candidate last June who failed a language paper required for entrance to his desired university course but who had a pass mark in a mathematics subject which was not required for entrance.

"The department switched the marks and advised the principal of that student's school to alter his records accordingly," Mr. Stubbs said. "The department's moral apparently is 'pass the easy subjects and switch the marks with failures in the more difficult [illegible] out of the picture the present time."

APPLY PRESSURE

Now, he said, the minister of education is trying to apply pressure to universities to allow grade XII students also holding teachers college certificates to enrol.

"The universities have resisted to date but . . . should this effort succeed you can see how these same people could in a few years be found teaching maths, sciences and languages in secondary schools after obtaining short cut degrees."

In order to place "professional baby sitters" in elementary school classrooms, the minister has "dropped the bars in another fence."

Plan To Store Bombs In Spain

MADRID (AP) — The United States Air Force will eventually have supplies of atomic bombs stored in Spain for use against "a common enemy," Harold E. Talbott, U. S. air force secretary, declared here today.

Talbott told a press conference that an atomic base for the U. S. strategic air force will be established only with the approval of the Spanish government.

Any use of these atomic weapons by the Spanish air force would be the result of negotiations between the two governments, he said, emphasizing that Spanish use of these [illegible] the picture the present time."

Talbott is at present studying sites for five proposed bases in Spain which the U. S. Air Force will modernize and use in conjunction with Spain.

Watch Governors' Election As Latest Popularity Gauge

NEW YORK (AP) — Observers anxious about which way the political winds of the United States are blowing will be holding up fingers Tuesday at New Jersey, Virginia and New York City.

New Jersey and Virginia elect governors. There is also a special House of Representatives election in New Jersey. New York picks a new mayor, as do a number of otehr cities including Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

In no case, perhaps, is there a clear-cut test of the popularity of the Eisenhower administration because of the many state and local issues involved. But the results will be closely watched, particularly in the wake of the upset Democratic victory in a Wisconsin special House election three weeks ago.

SUPPORTS REPUBLICANS

In brief, this is the picture:

New Jersey—Republican Paul L. Troast opposes Democrat Robert B. Meyner for governor. Both are relatively known politically. Democrats are not counting too heavily on wresting the State House from the Republicans, nor in winning the federal House seat. Democrat Harrison A. Williams Jr. is running rison A. Williams Jr. is running there against Republican George F. Hetfield.

Virginia—Democrats voice confidence they will hold the governorship in the face of the first determined Republican campaign in a quarter of a century. Republican Theodore R. Dalton's Democratic opponent is former Representative Thomas B. Stanley.

New York City—There are three major candidates: Republican Harold Riegelman, former acting postmaster of the city; Robert F. Wagner Jr., Democrat, Manhattan borough president; Rudulh Halley, Liberal, city council president. Wagner is generally conceded to have the edge. Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, who lost the Democratic nomination to Wagner, sought to run as an independent, but his name was ruled off the ballot on grounds his nominating petition had insufficient valid signatures.

TALKING POINT

Joseph Fay, convicted extortionist and labor racketeer, has been a talking point both in New York and New Jersey.

Troast was disclosed to have written a letter in 1951 urging clemency for Fay. Meyner sought to make it an issue. Troast has said he knew Fay in the contracting business and wrote the letter as an "act of mercy."

In New York, Wagner has said that among those urging a parole for Fay has been a close associate of Governor Thomas E. Dewey, an associate he described as "a national figure . . . one of the most important men in the United States."

This mysterious figure became known as "Mr. X." Dewey and the parole board deny that such a person exists.

WESTCLOX WORKERS MEET

A report on the first meeting with management of the Western Clock Co. will be given tonight by Joe Wirtz, IUE Canadian co-ordinator, when the membership attends a regular meeting. Proposals for a 1953-54 contract have been submitted by Local 570, IUE (CIO-CCL), and they are being studied by management. Next meeting between the parties will be Nov. 18.

BUCK SOON

Some go to the deer hunting camp just for a good time. Some go back for a good time and deer. Others just go back for deer. One such party returned early today, driving down George St., with a dressed deer on the fender less than 12 hours after the season opened.

GARBAGE ON TRUCK BURNS

Firemen were called today to what was at first believed to be a truck fire. However it turned out to be some garbage burning on the back of a city truck on its way to the dump in North Monaghan township. There was no damage, but as one wag put it: "The garbage was a total loss."

TWO POLIO CASES

Two cases of polio were registered at Civic hospital over the weekend. Both were little girls, aged five and six, one from Trenton and the other from Irondale. No paralysis is evident in either case as yet.

Hot Potato

COBOURG — (ENS)— Whether he knows it or not, a thief has a police revolver in his possession. In a weekend robbery which occurred while the occupants were out, someone broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Barnett on Henry Street and stole a small sum of money and a .39 special revolver owned by Provincial Constable Ralph Tremill. Constable Tremill discovered the robbery when he went to his room to get ready to go on duty.

New Trunk Sewer Being Laid Along West Side

Construction of the trunk sewer on the west side of the city, a major municipal work of the year, is approaching Sherbrooke St. on its way to the projection of Charlotte St. and beyond to Weller St. St.

This development is being carried on by employees of the board of works under the direction of City Engineer Charlmers. The present stretch of new pipe extends from the west side of Clonsilla Ave., opposite the end of Third Ave., to Sherbrooke St.

When it crosses that street in its northerly reach, the sewer turns east a short distance to the south end of Dobbin Ave.

This street has not yet been opened north of Sherbrooke St., but its course is indicated on a street map of the city. The route of the sewer will follow Dobbin Ave. until it emerges into the property of Civic Hospital, and will continue northerly to Weller St. That will be the end of board of works project in its extension northerly from Clonsilla Ave., at Third Ave.

Another section of this main west side sewer has been completed from Third Ave. along Clonsilla to Western, and down that street the end of Chamberlain St. From there construction will be a contract job by Peter Mohan of Toronto.

The sewer goes down Western to Lansdowne St., easterly to Erskine, and south on Erskine to Borden Ave., a street that has yet to be opened. The southern section carries on easterly on Borden to Monaghan Rd, and south to Braidwood St. From that neighborhood connection is made with a sewer line now in use and reaching to the river and sewage disposal plant.

This trunk sewer was contemplated by city councils as far back as the mayoralty of Roland Denne, and as an improvement that was regarded as essential to the development of that west front of the city.

The sections that have been built for some time were planned as links in the ultimate scheme. Stimulus to the present operation came from the purchase of the Hugh Stewart property by Westbrook Company of Toronto for a housing subdivision that is now in the market and also in the work of laying out streets, building of the first houses in what is known as Westmount Gardens.

City council began early this year acquiring property north and south of Sherbrooke St. for the sewer right-of-way. Negotiations were protracted by the detail of obtaining deeds.

The present job that is being done by the board of works lies across low land where water used to lie late in the spring. The soil is composed of a layer of black topsoil over clay, through which the digging of the sewer ditch is now close to Sherbrooke St.

Another phase of this development will prbably be eventual road building, presumably in the extension of Dobbin Ave. southerly, and also in the opening of a road between Stewart St. and Clonsilla Ave.

Another aspect of this work is the probability that as the city expands north of Weller St. the sewer which Westbrook Company undertook to lay through their property north of Weller St. would eventually be built through to Park Hill Rd.

BIG CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN for main street merchants, an annual big headache, was window-washing to erase the trademarks of Hallowe'en pranksters who applied soap and lipstick to all expanses of glass they could find on Saturday night (top photo). Staid banking offices were no exception and bank messenger Jack Pollock found it an added chore in addition to his regular duties. Little property damage was reported by city police by the masked gala crowd (lower photos) that jammed George St., in amusing and original costumes.

Two Fires Lit By Pranksters On Orono Street

The celebration of Hallowe'en may be becoming tamer in most places, but in Orono they still preserve the good old days.

About 4 a.m. Sunday after the evening had apparently ended mildly with only three dozen street light bulbs broken, residents learned the night was not over yet.

Provincial police called the volunteer fire brigade into action. Pranksters had ignited a large pile of old tires at each of the village's two main corners. Old oil or gasoline had been used to ensure a lively fire. Police were afraid sparks might start a real fire in the village.

Bruce Mercer, substituting for the chief who had had a heart attack and the acting chief was away, called out the volunteers. Using their booster tank which they had to refill once, they managed to squelch the blaze. No damage was done, but the smell of burning rubber had spread through the whole village.

Residents smiled and went back to bed. After all, it had all been done Hallowe'en last year and it was beginning to look like the start of an Orono tradition.

Residents of Blackstock and Caesarea were a little confused when they woke up Sunday. Highway signs that used to name Blackstock now indicated that the village was Caesarea. And Caesarea had become Blackstock, at least so far as the signs said.

Closer to home on the northeast outskirts of the city on Leahy's Lane someone took two Chinese geese owned by Bill Godfrey out of their pens. Mr. Godfrey hopes the pranksters won't forget to bring them back.

In other parts of the district, schools, churches, mailboxes and windows took the brunt of Hallowe'en high spirits. Several mail boxes were taken off their posts at Fowler's Corners and in Omemee others were damaged.

Considerable damage was done to Zion School, SS 11 Smith township and SS 2, Ops township school near Downeyville. Two privies at a church in Young's Point were overturned.

Five windows of the feed mill in Westwood were broken and windows were broken and flower boxes overturned at a cottage in Bridgenorth.

Other damage was done to a vacant house in Otonabee township and the mail box taken. One hundred and twenty-five yards of rail fence on the farm of Thomas Fitzgerald, Douro township, were dismantled.

Other damage that was not reported was also done throughout the district, but down Orono way, they celebrated Hallowe'en with spirit.

Rambunctious Citizens Count Cost Today; Others Just Enjoyed Hallowe'en

To most people, Hallowe'en was a lot of fun. Then there were those who awoke Sunday with hangovers, and those who sustained black eyes, and the motorists whose cars were sabotaged. A Korean veteran was a guest in court this morning on an assault charge; his victim was sporting a minor shiner. Another youth appeared for causing a disturbance at the Civic arena.

Those attending the big Hallowe'en dance were treated to a share of fights, too, but on the whole, things were pretty tame compared to what might have happened. A big part of the credit should go to the city police. About three-quarters of the force was on duty.

MANHOLE COVERS GONE

They couldn't be everywhere, though. Three manhole covers on the Hunter St. bridge were misplaced sometime during the night. No one, at press time, could say exactly where they went to, but it is perhaps significant that there's a nice, big river nearby and mighty handy. . .

One woman found her car windows had been soaped up, but smiled tolerantly. When she discovered her radio aerial had been broken off at the base, her facial expression changed.

Most of those garages open Sunday morning did a lot of business in their tire departments. More than one motorist snorted: "Fun is fun but . . ."

Perhaps the most obvious mark left by Hallowe'en revellers could be seen on every store window in the city. The soap wasn't spared and even today there's still plenty in evidence.

HIT SEVERAL TIMES

Petawawa - stationed Donald Woods, 23, was found guilty of assaulting Fousco Leface by Magistrate R. I. Moore. Leface told the court in broken English how the Korean veteran had struck him "three or four times" and knocked him to the pavement.

Woods was fined $15 and $5.50 costs.

Wayne Belfry, 24, of 547 O'Connell Rd., was charged with causing a disturbance. According to Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, Belfry tried to pick a fight at the arena, then turned on the caretaker when the man tried to ejeet him.

Belfry's case was adjourned until next week. Between then and now he is supposed to see the caretaker gets a new pair of pants. The man's trousers sustained much damage in the fight, the crown said.

Board Orders Wage Meeting

The conciliation board hearing the dispute between the two IUE salaried workers' unions and CGE management has ordered the two parties to meet and discuss the subject of salary inequities.

This came after management and union both read briefs at the first meeting of the conciliation board on Friday. The hearing was then postponed to Nov. 27, and the two parties will meet Nov. 6 in Toronto to discuss inequities.

Persumably the board wants to get some of the smaller union proposals settled before starting to consider the major items of salaries and working hours.

Some 740 office and salaried workers are affected in Peterborough and Toronto. Their two biggest demands are for a reduction of the work week from 40 to 37½ hours with no loss of take-home pay and a general salary increase of $5 a week.

Chairman of the three-man board is Judge J. C. Reynolds of Kingston. Pat Tirrell of Toronto is the union nominee, and C. B. C. Scott, also of Toronto, is the management nominee.

Local 599 are the bargaining agents for 540 Peterborough employees and Local 567 represent the Toronto (Davenport) employees.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS UP

Officials at the Canadian government customs house in Peterborough reported receipts for October were $921,483.36 compared wiht $542,416.89 during the same month last year.

RCMP To Appear At N.Y. Horse Show

NEW YORK (CP)—Thirty-eight Royal Canadian Mounted Police arrived here today but they weren't looking for anyone.

During the eight-day show, 32 horses and men will appear twice daily in their intricate and colorful "Coronation Ride."

Fires In Roof Living Room Do $900 Damage

Two fires during the weekend caused $900 damage to two Peterborough homes. One was started from a defective chimney, the other from a mislaid cigarette butt.

After smouldering for more than four and a half hours a fire broke Saturday afternoon in the roof of Leslie Rendell's home, 107 Aylmer St. A fire was lit in the morning and some men who were shingling the roof could smell smoke that seemed to be coming from inside the building.

This was at 10 a.m. and the fire did not actually break out until 2.57 p.m.

The fire is believed to have crept through the brickwork of the defective chimney and ignited the joists inside the roof. Instead of blazing up right away it just smouldered.

Firemen used two booster lines and 1½-inch line on the blaze which swept up to the peak of the roof and down one side. A large hole was cut in the roof to get at the flames.

Most of the damage was caused to the building. Chief William Sorrie estimated damage to it at $450, and another $150 to the contents—including a dresser and clothes.

The second fire was reported at 8:43 p.m. Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hammell of 350 London St. came home from church just in time to prevent a serious fire loss. Apparently a cigarette butt had fallen on a chesterfield chair in the living room, when the Hammells returned, after being away for a little more than an hour and a half, they could see flames leaping up the wall from the chair.

The chair, and a chesterfield that was set at an angle beside it, were both destroyed. The wall was singed and there was considerable smoke damage. Just recently decorated, the room will have to be done over again.

Damage is estimated at $300.

Municipal Board Approves Annexation Of Land From North Monaghan Twp.

Subdivision, Public School Site Added To City's Western Limits After Hearing; Effective Dec. 1

The Ontario municipal board today approved annexation of the portion of North Monaghan township comprising the Westbrook subdivision and the land purchased recently by the city as a future public school site. The Westbrook subdivision comprises the former Hugh Stewart farm north of Weller St. and Civic Hospital. The school site is adjoining.

The annexation will take effect December 1 but all 1953 taxes on the property will be paid to North Monaghan township.

City Clerk E. A. Outram presented the city's application to R. H. Yeates, representing the municipal board, at the hearing in city hall this morning. School Superintendent K. S. Wightman represented the board of education and W. M. Bowes the Westbrook company.

Mr. Bowes told The Examiner today that 25 of the 235 lots in the subdivision have been sold so far and construction of six houses had been started by three builders. He made a "conservative estimate" that there would be 100 houses erected in the subdivision by some time next year. Prices of the ranch-type houses under construction range from $18,000 to $22,000.

The city's new trunk sewer serving the subdivision and other sections of the extreme west portion of the city is now being laid and the machinery is on hand to begin laying street sewers in the subdivision this week. Cost of grading the streets and laying sewers is being borne by the Westbrook company.

General-manager W. Howard Powell of the Peterborough Utilities Commission said today about eight or 10 lot-owners in the subdivision had applied for water service so far. Application would be made at the next commission meeting on November 17 to extend the water service from Weller St. main.

Outboard Local Vote To Switch To Steelworkers

Production workers at the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co. Ltd. have voted 527 to 72 in favor of switching to the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL). The switchover was completed after a vote in the plant Friday sponsored by the Ontario Labor Relations Board.

For the last two years the Outboard production workers have been chartered directly to the Canadian Congress of Labor. But earlier this year they decided to switch to the international union which has greater facilities for servicing unions.

Last June the membership voted for the change in union jurisdiction and in August they applied to the OLRB for approval.

Steelworkers' membership cards were circulated among the employees and those signing up as members took an "obligation" instead of paying the usual $1 initation fee. (The argument over the validity of obligations was heard before—when the IUE applied for certification at Canadian General Electric in April. The OLRB made no decison on it at the time).

After considering the application, the OLRB ordered a vote at the plant Friday. It was conducted under the supervision of J. M. Flannery, OLRB examiner.

The ballot handed to production employees in the plant read: "Do you wish to have the USW as your bargaining unit with the company?" Of the 636 eligible workers in the bargaining unit 527 voted yes, 72 voted no, two spoiled their ballots, 16 were absent, and 19 didn't vote.

Local 230, Outboard Marine Workers Union (CCL) had signed three contracts with the company. CCL officials helped them in their negotiation; now this job will be done by Steelworkers representatives.

Before the production workers at the plant voted to become directly chartered to the CCL, about two years ago, they formed an independent union. Now they will be the first Steelworkers' union in Peterborough.

Fred Burrett is president of the local which has not yet received its local number from the international. Cecil Osborne is the financial secretary, and Cres. Tighe is the recording secretary.

Seek Anchorage On Chemong For Dep't. Plane

A Lands and Forests floatcraft, piloted by pilot Charles Lefevre, landed at Chemong Lake on Sunday with chief of the air service division George E. Ponsford of the Soo and chief of forest protection T. E. Mackie aboard.

They were joined by regional forester W. B. Greenwood and looked over several proposed seaplane anchorage sites on the lake for future air basing next season. No definite decisions were arrived at.

TWEED TOO

The plane proceeded to Tweed to look over the same problem at Stoco Lake where permanent docking facilities are required for department aircraft.

Pilot Lefevre said that he planned to use Skyboro airstrip in winter when ski-wheel installations are equipped to department seaplanes at freeze-up changeover this fall. He said he would be able to use wheels on the strip if snow was lacking here and skis in the Bancroft area, in case of emergency flights throughout the winter.

THE WAR MEMOIRS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

THE LIBERATION OF WESTERN EUROPE

General Eisenhower, in accordance with previous and agreed arrangements, assumed direct command of the land forces in Northern France on September 1 (1944.) These comprised the British Twenty-First Army Group, under Field-Marshal Montgomery, and the American Twelfth Army Group, under General Omar Bradley, whose operations Montgomery had hitherto controlled. Eisenhower disposed of five armies in all. In Montgomery's Twenty-first Army Group were the First Canadian Army, under General Crerar, and the Second British Army, under General Dempsey; a total of fourteen divisions and seven armored brigades. On their right, under the Twelfth U. S. Army Group, were the First Army, under General Hodges, the Third Army, under General Patton, and the Ninth Army, not yet operational, under General Simpson. Eisenhower thus wielded more than thirty-seven divisions, or over half a million fighting men. Each Army Group had its own Tactical Air Force, the whole being under the control of Air Chief Marshal Leigh-Mallory.

This great array was driving before it the remnants of the German armies in the West, who were harassed day and night by our dominating air forces. The enemy were still about seventeen divisions strong, but until they could re-form and were reinforced from the homeland there was little fight left in most of them.

Eisenhower planned to thrust [illegible] possible strength and to the utmost limit of his supplies. The main effort was to be made by the Twenty-first Army Group, whose drive along the Channel coast would not only overrun the launching sites of the flying bomb, but also take Antwerp. Without the vast harbour of this city no advance across the lower Rhine and into the plains of Northern Germany was possible. The Twelfth U. S. Army Group was also to pursue the enemy, its First Army keeping abreast of the British while the remainder, bearing eastwards towards Verdun and the upper Meuse, would prepare to strike towards the Saar.

Montgomery made two counter-proposals, one in late August that his Army Group and the Twelfth U. S. Army Group should strike north together with a solid mass of nearly forty divisions, and the second on September 4, that only a thrust should be made, either towards the Ruhr or the Saar. Whichever was chosen the forces should be given all the resources and urged that the rest of the front maintenance they needed. He should be restrained for the benefit of the major thrust, which should be placed under one commander, himself or Bradley as the case might be. He believed it would probably reach Berlin, and considered that the Ruhr was better than the Saar.

But Eisenhower held to his plan. Germany still had reserves in the homeland, and he believed that if a relatively small force were thrust far ahead across the Rhine it would play into the enemy's hands. He thought it was better for the Twenty-first Army Group to make every effort to get a bridehead over the Rhine, while the Twelfth advanced as far as they could against the Siegfried Line.

Their discussion caused no check in the pursuit. The number of divisions that could be sustained, and the speed and range of their advance, depended however on harbours, transport, and supplies. Relatively little ammunition was being used, but food and above all petrol governed every movement. Cherbourg and the Mulberry harbour at Arromanches were the only ports we had, and these were daily being left farther behind.

Antwerp was thus the immediate aim of Montgomery's Army Group, which now had its first chance to show its mobility. The Second (British) Army led the advance north of the Seine towards Belgium, grounding one corps and using its transport to sustain the others. The XXXth Corps was in the van. Its 11th Armoured Division captured the commander of the Seventh German Army at his breakfast in was entered by the Guards Armoured Division on September 3, and, as everywhere in Belgium, our troops had a splendid welcome and were much helped by the well-organized Resistance. Thence the Guards turned east for Louvain, and the 11th Armoured entered Antwerp on September 3, where to our surprise and joy, they found the harbour almost intact. So swift had been the advance—over 200 miles in under four days—that the enemy had been run off their legs and given no time for their usual and thorough demolition.

Meanwhile the First Canadian Army had the heavy and responsible task of clearing the western Amiens on August 31. Brussels, hastily evacuated by the Germans, flank. Their commander, General Crerar, had under him the 1st British Corps and the IInd Canadian Corps, which included the Polish Armoured Division. Their main task was to clear the Channel ports from Havre to the north, occupy the flying bomb sites, and establish themselves on the south shore of the Scheldt. Although Antwerp was in our hands our ships could only reach it through the winding, difficult estuary of the Scheldt, and the Germans held both flanks.

The 1st British Corps crossed the Seine near Rouen, swung left-handed, and on September 2 the 51st Highland Division occupied St. Valery, the scene of the tragedy to its parent unit in June of 1940. The left of the corps turned and advanced on Havre, where a garrison of over 11,000 resisted fiercely. The Germans did not surrender Havre till September 12. Meanwhile the Canadian Corps, on their right, had moved swiftly. Dieppe, where they avenged their old scores of 1942, fell to them on September 1. Boulogne and Calais were invested by September 6, then Dunkirk. By the 8th the Canadian Army had cleared all the Pas de Calais, with its flying-bomb launching sites, and reached Bruges. Ghent was taken by the Polish Armoured Division. Boulogne, with nearly 10,000 prisoners, fell on September 22, and Calais on the 30th. Dunkirk, with its garrison of 12,000 was only masked, as the advance to the Scheldt was far more urgent. Here for the moment we must leave the Canadians to follow the fortunes of the American Army Group.

Their advance beyond Paris had also been conducted with all the trustful impulse of Bradley and his ardent officers. After crossing the Seine on the right of the British the First U. S. Army made for Namur and Liege. They reached Charleroi and Mons by September 3, cutting off and capturing a large pocket of 30,000 Germans south-east of Mons; then, wheeling to the east, they liberated Liege on September 8 and the city of Luxembourg two days later. Resistance was increasing, but on the 12th day they closed up to the German frontier on a sixty-mile front and pierced the Siegfried Line south of Aachen. In a fortnight they had swept from the Seine and freed all Luxembourg and Southern Belgium. The Third Army captured Verdun on August 31 and crossed the Meuse. A week later they had enough petrol to advance to the Moselle. The enemy had scraped up sufficient strength to defend the river, and Metz held a substantial and determined garrison. However, by September 16 bridgeheads were won at Nancy and just south of Metz. As already related, the Seventh U.S. Army and the First French Army, now formed into the Sixth Army Group under General Devers, coming up from their landing in Southern France, had met patrols from Patton's army west of Dijon on September 11. Swinging to the east, they drew level with the general advance on a line from Epinal southwards to the Swiss frontier. This was the end of the great pursuit. For the next few months we could only advance after very hard fighting. Everywhere enemy resistance was stiffening, and our supplies had been stretched to the limit. These had to be restored, and the forward troops reinforced and replenished for the coming autumn battles.

During our voyage to Quebec our Joint Intelligence Committee had furnished a report on "German Capacity to Resist," which I deemed somewhat optimistic, and I had minuted to the Chiefs of Staff as follows:

Prime Minister to General Ismay, for C.O.S. Committee 8 Sept 44

I have now read this report, and have not noticed any facts in it of which I was not already aware. Generally speaking, I consider it errs on the side of optimism. At the present time we are at a virtual standstill and progress will be very slow. I trust the assumption of a decisive Russian offensive on the Eastern Front will be realized; but it is at present only an assumption.

On the other side there are factors to be noted. Apart from Cherbourg and Arromanches, we have not yet obtained any large harbors Unless the situation changes remarkably the Allies will still be short of port accommodation when the equinoctial gales are due.

No one can tell what the future may bring forth. Will the Allies be able to advance in strength through the Siegfried Line into Germany during September, or will their forces be so limited by supply conditions and the lack of ports as to enable the Germans to consolidate on the Siegfried Line? Will the Germans withdraw from Italy?—in which case they will greatly strengthen their internal position. Will they be able to draw on their forces, at one time estimated at between twenty-five and thirty-five divisions, in the Baltic States? The fortifying and consolidating effect of a stand on the frontier of the native soil should not be underrated. It is at least as likely that Hitler will be fighting on January 1 as that he will collapse before then. My view was unhappily to be justified. If he does collapse before then, the reasons will be political rather than purely military.

But there was still the chance of crossing the lower Rhine. Eisenhower thought this prize so valuable that he gave it priority over clearing the shores of the Scheldt estuary and opening the port of Antwerp. To renew Montgomery's effort Eisenhower gave him additional American transport and air supply. The First Airborne Army, under the American General Brereton, composed of the 1st and 6th British Airborne Divisions, three U.S. divisions, and a Polish brigade, with a great complement of British and American aircraft, stood ready to strike from England. Montgomery resolved to seize a bridgehead at Arnhem by the combined action of airborne troops and the XXXth Corps, who were fighting in a bridgehead across the Meuse-Scheldt canal on the Dutch border. He planned to drop the 1st British Airborne Division, supported later by the Polish brigade, on the north bank of the lower Rhine to seize the Arnhem bridge. The 82nd U.S. Division was to capture the bridges at Nijmegen and Grave, while the 101st U.S. Division secured the road from Grave to Eindhoven. The XXXth Corps, led by the Guards Armoured Division, would force their way up the road to Eindhoven and thence to Arnhem along the "carpet" of airborne troops, hoping to find the bridges over the three major water obstacles already safely in their hands.

The preparations for this daring stroke, by far the greatest operation of its kind ever attempted, were complicated and urgent, because the enemy were growing stronger every day. It is remarkable that they were completed by the set date, September 17. There were not sufficient aircraft to carry the whole airborne force simultaneously, and the movement had to be spread over three days. However, on the 7th the leading elements of the three divisions were well and truly taken to their destinations by the fine work of the Allied air forces. The 101st U.S. Division accomplished most of their task, but a canal bridge on the road to Eindhoven was blown and they did not capture the town till the 18th. The 82nd U.S. Division also did well, but could not seize the main bridge at Nijmegen.

From Arnhem the news was scarce, but it seemed that some of our Parachute Regiment had established themselves at the north end of the bridge. The Guards Armoured Division of the XXXth Corps began to advance in the afternoon up the Eindhoven road, preceded by an artillery barrage and rocket-firing planes. The VIIIth Corps on the right and the XIIth on the left protected the flanks of the XXXth. The road was obstinately defended, and the Guards did not reach the Americans till the afternoon of the 18th. German attacks against the narrow Eindhoven-Nijmegen salient began next day and grew in strength. The 101st Division had great difficulty in keeping the road open. At times traffic had to be stopped until the enemy were beaten off. By now the news from Arnhem was bad. Our parachutists still held the northern end of the bridge, but the enemy remained in the town, and the rest of the 1st Airborne Division, which had landed to the west, failed to break in and reinforce them.

The canal was bridged on the 8th, and early next morning the Guards had a clear run to Grave, where they found the 82nd U.S. Division. By nightfall they were close to the strongly defended Nijmegen bridge, and on the 20th there was a tremendous struggle for it.

The Americans crossed the river west of the town, swung right, and seized the far end of the railway bridge. The Guards charged across the road bridge. The defenders were overwhelmed and both bridges were taken intact.

There remained the last lap to Arnhem, where bad weather had hampered the fly-in of reinforcements, food, and ammunition, and the 1st Airborne were in desperate straits. Unable to reach their bridge, the rest of the division was confined to a small perimeter on the northern bank and endured violent assaults. On the 25th Montgomery ordered the survivors of the gallant 1st Airborne back. They had to cross the fast-flowing river at night in small craft and under close-range fire. By daybreak about 2,400 men out of the original 10,000 were safely on our bank.

Even after all was over at Arnhem there was hard fighting for a fortnight to hold our gains. Gradually the three corps of the Second Army expanded the fifty-mile salient until it was twenty miles wide. It was still too narrow, but for the moment it sufficed.

Heavy risks were taken in the Battle of Arnhem, but they were justified by the great prize so nearly in our grasp. Had we been more fortunate in the weather, which turned against us at critical moments and restricted our mastery of the air, it is probable that we should have succeeded. No risks daunted the brave men who fought for Arnhem.

Clearing the Scheldt estuary and opening the port of Antwerp had been delayed for the sake of the Arnhem thrust. Thereafter it was given first priority.

During the last fortnight of September a number of preliminary actions had set the stage. The IInd Canadian Corps had forced the enemy back from the line Antwerp-Ghent-Bruges into the restricted Breskens "island," bounded on the south by the Leopold Canal. East of Antwerp the 1st Corps, also under the Canadian Army command, had reached and crossed the Antwerp-Turnhout canal.

The problem was threefold: the capture of the Breskens "island"; the occupation of the peninsula of South Beveland; finally, the capture of Walcheren Island by attacks from east, south and west. The first two proceeded simultaneously. Breskens "island," defended by an experienced German division, proved tough, and there was hard fighting to cross the Leopold Canal. The scales were turned by a Canadian brigade, which embarked upstream, landed at the eastern extremity of the "island," and forced a way along the shore towards Breskens, which fell on October 22. Meanwhile the 1st Corps had steadily advanced north-west from the Antwerp-Turnhout canal, meeting increased opposition as they went. The South Beveland isthmus was sealed off, and plans could be made for continuing the operations westwards towards Walcheren.

This hard task was undertaken by the 2nd Canadian Division, which forced its way westwards through large areas of flooding, their men often waist-deep in water. They were helped by the greater part of the 52nd Division, who were ferried across the Scheldt and landed on the south shore at Baarland. By the end of the month, after great exertions, the whole isthmus was captured. Meantime the last pockets of enemy on Breskens "island" were being eliminated and all was set for the Walcheren attack. The Canadian Army's success was an essential preliminary to more spectacular operations. In four weeks of hard fighting, during which the 2nd Tactical Air Force, under Air Marshal Coningham, gave them conspicuous support, they took no fewer than 12,500 German prisoners, who were anything but ready to surrender.

The island of Walcheren is shaped like a saucer and rimmed by sand-dunes which stop the sea from flooding the central plain. At the western edge, near Westkapelle, is a gap in the dunes where the sea is held by a great dyke, thirty feet high and over a hundred yards wide at the base. The garrison of nearly 10,000 men was installed in strong artificial defences, and supported by about thirty batteries of artillery, some of large calibre in concrete emplacements. Anti-tank obstacles, mines and wire abounded, for the enemy had had four years in which to fortify the gateway to Antwerp.

Early in October the Royal Air Force struck the first blow. In a series of brilliant attacks they blew a great gap, nearly four hundred yards across, in the Westkapelle dyke. Through it poured the sea, flooding all the centre of the saucer and drowning such defences and batteries as lay within. But the most formidable emplacements and obstacles were on the saucer's rim, and their capture, already admirably described, * can be told here only in outline. The attack was concentric. In the east the 2nd Canadian Division tried to advance from

* The Green Beret,

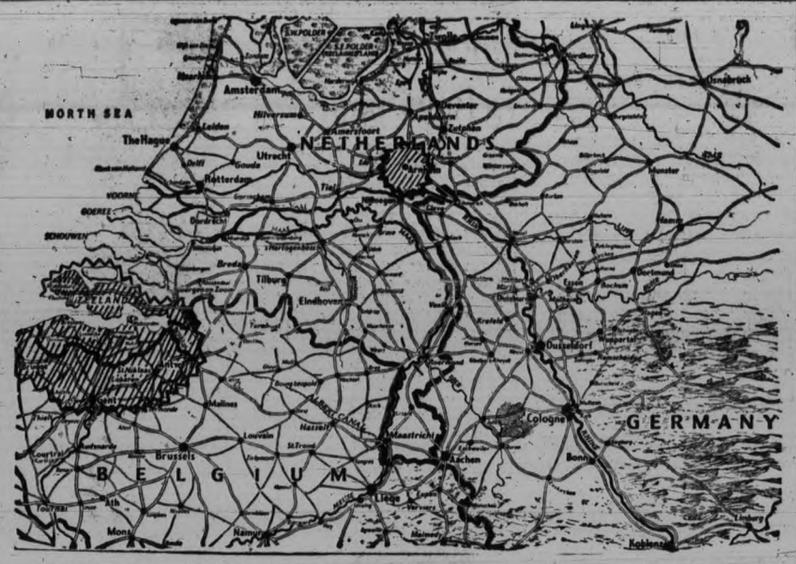
South Beveland over the connecting causeway, and finally seized a bridgehead with the help of a brigade of the 52nd Division. In the centre, on November 1, No. 4 Commando was ferried across from Breskens, boldly landed on the sea-front of Flushing. This was followed rapidly by troops of the 52nd Division who battled their way into the town. The main attack was from the west, launched by three Marine Commandos under Brigadier Leicester. Embarking at Ostend, they sailed for Westkapelle, and at 7 a.m. on November 1 they sighted the lighthouse tower. As they approached the naval bombarding squadron opened fire. Here were HMS Warspite and the two 15-inch gun monitors Erebus and Roberts, with a squadron of armed landing-craft. These latter came close inshore, and, despite harsh casualties, kept up their fire until the two leading Commandos weer safely ashore. No. 41, landing at the northern end of the gap in the seawall, captured the village of Westkapelle and drove on towards Domburg. No. 48, landing south of the gap, soon met fierce resistance. Invaluable though the naval covering fire had been, a principal adjunct was lacking. A heavy bombardment had been planned for the previous day, but mist prevented our aircraft from taking off. Very effective fighter bomber attacks helped the landing at a critical moment, but the Marines met much stronger opposition, from much less damaged defences, than we had hoped.

That evening No. 48 Commando had advanced two miles along the fringe towards Flushing, but was held up by a powerful battery embedded in concrete. The whole of the artillery of the 2nd Canadian Division, firing across the water from the Breskens shore, was brought to bear, and rocket-firing aircraft attacked the embrasures. In the gathering darkness the Commando killed or captured the defenders. Next morning it pressed on and took Zouteland by midday. There No. 47 took up the attack, and, with a weakening defence, reached the outskirts of Flushing. On November 3 they joined hands with No. 4 Commando after its stiff house-to-house fighting in the town. In a few days the whole island was in our hands, with 8,000 prisoners.



Many other notable feats were performed by Commandos during the war and though other troops and other Services played their full part in this remarkable operation the extreme galantry of the Royal Marines stands forth. The Commando idea was once again triumphant.

Minesweeping began as soon as Flushing was secure, and in the next three weeks a hundred craft were used to clear the seventy-mile channel. On November 28 the first convoy arirved, and Antwerp was opened for the British and American Armies. Flying bombs and rockets plagued the city for some time, and caused many casualties, but interfered with the furtherance of the war no more than in London.

Antwerp's ordeal was not the only reason for trying to thrust the Germans farther away. When the 2nd Canadian Division swung west into South Beveland there were still four German divisions in a pocket south of the river Meuse and west of the Nijmegen corridor. It was an awkward salient, which by November was eliminated by the 1st and XIIth Corps. (The 1st Corps at this time was a remarkabe example of Allied integration. It consisted of four divisions, English, Canadian, American and Polish).

Kept Three Wives

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Police have announced the arrest of a 42-year-old Mexican textile worker accused of keeping at least three wives under lock and key for years. The man, Manuel Fragoso Villasenor, was picked up Friday when a search for a woman who disappeared 16 years ago led to the discovery of the first of his three spouses. The two other wives were found later. Police said the three had borne Villasenor 15 children in captivity.

27th Brigade On Way Home

HANNOVER, Germany (CP)—The 1st battalion of the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade was en route home today after serving two years in West Germany as part of NATO forces. Other units will leave later.

They are being replaced by the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade which will be based at Soest, the new Canadian Army base in Germany.

The 800 men of the 1st battalion boarded two trains here Saturday night for Rotterdam where they are to go aboard the liner Samaria. The ship is due at Quebec Nov. 9.

Meanwhile, the new base at Soest was occupied Saturday by 850 replacement troops, mostly veterans of Korea from the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Things Haven't Changed

BRANTFORD (CP) — Firemen answering an emergency call at midnight Saturday night sped nine miles with an ambulance to the scene of a supposed serious accident at the main intersection in Burford. They found two overturned cars, but no victims. Hallowe'en pranksters had towed two old cars to the intersection and upset them to look like a collision. Other pranksters—or possibly the same ones—transplanted a half dozen outhouses, depositing them at points along Burford's main street.

Record Freighter

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—A new freighter being built at Port Weller for Colonial Steamships Limited will be 684 feet long and will have the greatest carrying capacity of any ship in the Canadian Great Lakes fleet, Capt. R. Scott Misener, Colonial president, said Sunday. It is expected to carry 800,000 bushels of grain.

Lakefield Lions Stage Party On Hallowe'en

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Lions club staged a gala Hallowe'en party for the children on Saturday evening beginning with a parade from Memorial hall through the village, returning to the hall where costumes were judged. Leading the parade wre trucks from the fire department.

Judging the costumes were Mrs. W. E. Gillman and Mrs. G. E. Renwick. Their decisions were as follows: Under 5 years, fancy—1 John Hunter, 2 Muriel Ann Hurl; comic—1 Cameron McGregor, 2 Phyllis Foster; children, 6-8 years, fancy—1 Karen Foster, 2 Lynda Leonard; comic—1 Lynda Hopkins, 2 Anne Jessup; children, 9-11 years, fancy—1 Judy Doubt, 2 Sharon Jewell; comic—1 Judy Slater, 2 Jim Henderson; children, 12-15 years—1 Gail Porter, 2 Shirley Tripp; comic—1 Ronald Farrow, 2 Lance Hill; adults, comic—Dorothy Kingdon.

Movies were shown and each child was presented with a bag of candies and nuts.

Following the children's party a dance was held. Prizes were won by Douglas Davis as Robin Hood, Mrs. Eric Anderson as a sack of potatoes, Kenneth Remnant as Uncle Sam and Art Kingdon as L'il Abner.

Says Compensation Board Shirking Its Responsibility

TORONTO (CP)—C. H. Millard Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CQP), Sunday has accused the Ontario workmen's compensation board of shirking its responsibility for accident prevention.

Speaking at the first accident prevention conference of the Ontario Federation of Labor Sunday, he said the board is ignoring one of the two main purposes of the provincial act which established it in 1915. The other is to arrange compensation for injuries.

"Surely the time has arrived for organized labor, on behalf of workers and their families, to cry out against this senseless and inhuman waste of life and limb. We should demand that the board act to reduce accident hazards and that a working safety committee function in every industrial undertaking."

He said that during its 38 years the board has paid out $349,927,000 in claims — including $107,620,000 during the last five years.

He said there had been 322 deaths from industrial accidents during the first nine months of 1953. A total of 163,249 accidents have been reported.

"The Ontario Federation of Labor should insist that the compensation board discharge its responsibility for accident prevention by developing a program in which organized labor can actvely participate."

Film In Brazil Big Fiasco Ford Reports

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Glenn Ford has returned from Brazil and what may be the biggest film fiasco of recent times.

Ford, Caesar Romero, Arthur Kennedy and a group of Hollywood film makers travelled to Brazil last summer to make a movie called "The Americano." They stayed two months. Net results: 17 minutes of usable film.

"It was chaos," reported Ford. "Everything possible went wrong. I'm convinced that much of our trouble was caused by the Communists."

He said he could see the Communist opposition at the outset. When the company arrived in Brazil, the Red press started sniping. It called Romero "a has-been actor" and Kennedy "an unknown" and said the producer, Robert Stillman, had come "with his palm out."

ROMANCE RUMOR

Ford himself came in for abuse. During a radio interview after his arrival, he was asked what Portuguese words he had learned. The actor mentioned a few common phrases and also the name of a popular drink. The next day the Communist paper featured a picture of him with a large bottle of the drink, which Ford learned was a potent liquor.

Ford, who was accompanied by his wife, Eleanor Powell, and their son, said the Reds also started the rumor that she was having a romance with another man. It was a friend with whom both had lunched a few times.

"You can't pin such things down," Ford continued, "but I'm sure the Reds had a lot to do with the troubles that plagued our company. For instance, we would be promised so many head of cattle and horses for an important sequence. They arrived three days late.

"Big arc lamps were arranged for; they didn't arrive. Things like that cost thousands of dollars."

ALMOS TSTRANDED

Other things went wrong, too. Return transportation for the Hollywood contingent hadn't been arranged and many were almost stranded. And someone neglected to obtain government approval of the script, a situation that still hasn't been cleared up.

During his two months in Brazil, Ford worked only three weeks. The footage was impressive, he said, but there is a question whether a feature film can be salvaged from it.

Ford has made pictures in many far-off places, but now is content to settle down in Hollywood for a while.

"But I'm not soured on foreign film-making," he added. "You just have to get used to conditions where you work. In France, I came out of a scene and a woman started removing my clothes. I found out they have wardrobe women to take care of the actors there."

Too Colorful

KNAPHILL, England (CP)—Tenants of a council-owned housing estate in this Surrey community protested at doors painted in yellows, blues and creams, and windows of pink and orange. "Too ridiculous," said complainants, demanding repainting to their own tastes.

30 Violent Deaths Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Canadian Army panel truck veered off a road near Plessisville, Que., and crashed into a tree killing its five passengers to head the list of four week-end multiple fatalities in eastern Canada. Altogether there were 30 violent deaths.

A Canadian Press compilation today showed 18 persons killed in traffic accidents, three drowned and three dead in shooting mishaps, two dead in fires, one in a plane crash, one killed by a train, one kicked by a horse and one in a tavern brawl.

Quebec listed 15 fatalities, Ontario 14 and New Brunswick one.

Montreal Police Sergeant Paul Regimbal, 36, was killed when the service revolver he was cleaning discharged and Russell Hopper, 51, of Aylmer, Ont., died when a shotgun went off on the seat beside him while driving near Lac Beauport, Que.

KILLED IN BRAWL

Raymonde Gemme, 32, was killed in a tavern brawl at Ste. Julie, 15 miles south of Montreal.

Frank Borg, 23, William Calleja, 38, and Carmel G. Grech, 29, all of Detroit, were killed when their car collided with a truck near Thamesville, in the Chatham area. At Napanee, Mrs. Ann Jillings, 22, and nine-year-old Jean Winger were killed when their car collided with a brewery truck only a few hundred yards from their destination.

Four pedestrians were killed in Ontario street accidents. Richard E. Ineson, 41, died near Toronto, David G. Craig, 82, near Owen Sound, Hector Grant, 60, near Oshawa, and Elizabeth Mannen, 6, at Brantford.

Charles Peacock, 23, died when pinned beneath an overturned car near Cooksville, and Reginald Clarke, 38, was killed by an overturned tractor near his Oshawa home. Mrs. Mary V. Deveaux, 44, died when her car crashed into a tree east of Galt.

Treaty Indian Emeric St. Germaine, 26, was killed by a train near his home on Rama Indian Reserve.

FO. Robert Bailey, 23, of London, Ont., and Windsor, was killed when his Mustang fighter crashed at Dromore, 45 miles southeast of Owen Sound.

Call Segregation End 'National Suicide'

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Governor Herman E. Talmadge of Georgia declared today that a United States Supreme Court decision to end racial segregation in schools in the southern states would be "nothing less than a major step toward national suicide."

Talmadge, chairman of the southern governors conference meeting here, said any such "political decision" by the high court would involve "the most foolhardy sociological calamity in our national history."

The Supreme Court has scheduled December hearings on racial segregation cases which have aroused most of the southern governors.

Expect Canada Will Tighten Dumping Laws Before Pact

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada probably will tighten her dumping laws as a prelude to the signing of a new trade agreement lowering import tariffs on Japanese goods.

The Japanese trade pact likely will be ready for signing within the next few months.

Concern is growing among industries that lowering of the tariff wall may invite a return to conditions of the 1930s when Japanese goods flooded the Canadian market and forced some Canadian manufacturers out of business.

Tightening of the dumping regulations may be the government's answer to the industries' fears.

Dumping regulations in all countries are designed to protect domestic industry. Under them the government can boost tariffs above the normal level if an article is imported bearing a price below what is considered its "fair market value."

FAIR VALUE

Defining this value is tricky. Before 1948, Canada considered this to mean a price tag including the cost of production in the home market, plus a reasonable margin for handling costs and profit.

In 1948, however, it eased the restriction when Canada and other countries signed the General Agreements on Tariffs and Trade, lowering tariffs among the signatory countries.

NO DUMPING

For some reason an item might be selling in New York for less than it cost the American manufacturer to produce. The item can be brought into Canada at the New York selling price.

"That," says an official, "is no dumping."

Canada hoped by her 1948 actions that the U. S. would follow suit by relaxing her dumping laws but the U. S. declined.

Now with the Japanese agreement coming up, various Canadian industries have suggested that Canada revert to the pre-1948 regulation. Others have suggested Canada impose even stiffer laws.

What finally emerges likely will be some compromise.

Toronto Blanks McGill In 34-0 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A tight down-to-the-wire race for a playoff berth in the senior intercollegiate football union is in prospect as the result of weekend games.

University of Toronto Blues, who have been able to crack Western Ontario Mustangs hold on the college title only once in the last nine years, took a big step with a decisive 34-0 decision over McGill Redmen and Queen's Golden Gaels whipped McMaster Marauders 34-20. The action left Mustangs in the lead just two points up on the Blues and four ahead of Gaels and McGill.

And the Blues have a big one coming up next Saturday with the Purple Raiders at Toronto. It could be the key game of the schedule.

ONESCHUK AGAIN

The Blues, with Steve Oneschuk showing the way, made it look easy over the Redmen. Oneschuk clicked for three touchdowns and five converts, sharing individual weekend honors with Ron Stewart of Queen's who crossed the McMaster line three times for majors.

The Blues compiled 28 first downs, against five for the Redmen and picked up 363 yards rushing against only 87 for McGill.

GAELS PULL FROM BEHIND

The Gaels twice came from behind to defeat the winless Marauders. Jim Dodds kicked a field goal early in the game to put Marauders ahead 3-0 and after Stewart went over for his first touchdown in the quarter the Marauders went ahead again on a major by Ken Stanley early in the second.

Stewart crossed the McMaster line for his second touchdown before the half and Queen's never looked back. They led 13-8 after two quarters and 19-14 going into the final 15 minutes.

Marmora Church Has Anniversary Services

MARMORA (ENS) — St. Andrew's Church was decorated with roses and chrysanthemums for anniversary services on Sunday.

The preacher for the day was the Rev. W. K. Pace, of Tweed.

In the morning the choir sang the anthem "O King Eternal," by Lorenz. The preacher took for his subject "Action of the Soul."

The anthem in the evening was, "Thy Word, O Lord," by Gabriel. The Rev. K. J. Crawford also took part in the service. The subject of the sermon was "A Christlike Church—the Greatest Need of Our Time."

The preacher said the Christlike church is not to be thought of in numbers but rather in its quality. Better to have 100 members of a Christlike church than 10,000 members of a Christless crowd.

One of the greatest weaknesses in the Protestant Church is not its lack of numbers but its quality, he said. Our world is simply dying for Christian living. A Christlike membership involves a worshipping, praying and working membership.

3 More Papers Use Teletypesetters

NEW YORK (AP)—Newspapers in three southern states today joined the new 24-hour teletypesetter trunk circuit provided by the Associated Press.

They are the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser and Journal, Charleston (S. C.) News-Courier and Post and the Chattanooga (Tenn.) Times and News-Free Press.

The teletypesetter circuit is received in member newspaper offices on teletype machines using both capitals and small letters and in code on perforated tape. The tape, fed into a line-casting machine, steps up the production of type with which the newspaper is printed.

The AP began providing around-the-clock teletypesetter service last month, after having operated the circuit from 2 p. m. until 7 a. m. on a country-wide scale for the last two years. The circuit originates from the general offices in New York.

WINS RICHEST RACE

The triumph was as great a surprise as the same stable's victory in the Kentucky Derby with Dark Star beating out Native Dancer. It was Native Dancer's only defeat.

The two heavy favorites, Joe Gavegnano's Errard King and C.V. Whitney's Fisherman, finished out of the money in the scramble of 20 two-year-old colts.

Jockey Henry Moreno, who rode Dark Star, was in the saddle as Turn-To took the lead on the final bend of the mile and one-eighth race and rambled under the wire two lengths ahead of R. S. Lytle's Correlation, a California invader.

Turn-To, a son of Royal Charger-Source Sucree, won $151,282.25. The time was 1:46 1-5 on a fast track.

Tee Pees Win Two Games Lead League Buy 4 Points

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines TeePees were the opportunists during the weekend, chalking up a maximum four points to forge ahead of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A pack by a four-point margin.

TeePees won two games while their two rivals for the top spot went nowhere. Toronto Marlboros, one of the three teams that shared first place before week-end action, lost two games to drop behind. Guelph Biltmores, the other team in the former three-way tie, were idle.

St. Catharines dropped Barrie Flyers 9-2 at home Saturday and then stole a 3-1 victory from St. Michael's College in Toronto Sunday.

In other Saturday games Galt Black Hawks defeated Marlboros 4-2 in Galt and Hamilton Tigers decisioned St. Michael's 3-1 in Hamilton.

UPHILL CLIMB

Quebec Citadelles continued their uphill climb Sunday when they edged Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts 2-1 in Quebec. Galt robbed Marlboros 2-1 in Toronto Sunday in the only other Sunday game.

In St. Catharines Saturday Hugh Barlow rapped home three goals for the TeePees. Barry Cullen added a pair with others going to Brian Cullen, Danny Poliziani, Hank Ciesla and Cec Hoekstra. Jim Robertson scored for the Flyers.

LOSERS TOOK LEADS

In both ends of the doubleheader at Toronto Sunday, the losing teams took leads. St. Michael's had a 1-0 margin before the TeePees tied it up in the second and salted it away with another pair in the last 20 minutes.

In the second game Marlboros opened the scoring in the second. But Galt replied twice within 40 seconds of the last period to sneak it away.

Quebec Citadelles took their third in a row when they fought back from a 1-0 deficit to edge the Greenshirts. All the scoring was done in the middle period. Richard Bouchard clicked twice for the Citadelles after Gary Collins had given the Shirts their short-lived lead.

St. Michael's goes to Galt in the next OHA junior A action Tuesday while Kitchener visits Quebec.

Kitchener Clips Stratford Indians 4-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It appears that there's no stopping Hamilton Tigers and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

The Cats and Dutchies pulled out farther in front of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A standings over the week-end as each scored single victories.

Kitchener downed Stratford Indians 4-2 in Stratford Saturday while Hamilton shut out Niagara Falls Cataracts 3-0 in Niagara Falls. It was the fifth victory against one setback for Hamilton and the fourth victory for the Dutchmen, who have yet to be defeated.

In the circuit's Sunday contest, Windsor Bulldogs took to their home ice for an 8-3 pasting of the Indians.

In three week-end games in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A group overtime was needed in two of them. Sudbury Wolves edged out Pembroke Lumber Kings 5-4 in an extra period in Pembroke Saturday and Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians battled North Bay Trappers to a 4-4 stalemate in Sault Ste. Marie Sunday.

In a second Saturday game Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. Greyhounds won their fifth consecutive game when they put down North Bay 8-3.

PENALTY HELPFUL

Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts took advantage of an Indian penalty to rap home a pair of goals for their 4-2 decision. Hank Scholes, Jim McKenzie, Ron Hurst and Jerry Theberge shared scoring for the Dutchmen. Apples Finkbeiner and Steve Dejordy countered for Stratford.

The stellar netminding of Al Bennett, teamed with the sharp shooting of Murray Comfort who fired two goals, gave Hamilton their 3-0 whitewash of Niagara Falls Saturday. Bud Kemp scored the other Hamilton tally.

Gord Haidy and Fred Hildebrand netted three goals each for the Bulldogs. Gary Gordon and Lyle Wiseman completed the cycle. Mickey Roth, Bob Mader and Tom Walker did the Stratford scoring.

In Sault Ste. Marie Saturday, Johnny Officano scored two for the Greyhounds with the others going to Johnny Ubraico; D. Johnson, Lay, Smelle, Hurst and Heximer. Ab Demarco, Hogan and Elix connected for North Bay.

OVERTIME VICTORY

In Pembroke Saturday night Sudbury Wolves tied the score with two seconds left in the game and then repeated in the overtime period for their 5-4 nod over Pembroke.

Frank King, with two goals, and Gordie Heal, Gel St. Pierre and Tomiuk with singles, wrapped it up for the Wolves. Lionel Barber and Bruce Giesebrecht bagged two each towards the Pembroke cause.

Bo Elik scored for North Bay Trappers with less than a minute remaining in the third period in Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Sunday to carry the Trappers through an overtime period for a 4-4 draw with the Indians. Gord Pankhurst scored twice for North Bay, with Don Hogan collecting the other. Laurie Peterson, chalking up a pair of markers, was best for the Indians. Gordie Kerr and Henry Backor shot singles.

Owen Sound Mercurys journey to Kitchener and Chatham Maroons go to Niagara Falls in OHA games Tuesday. Sudbury Wolves play host to Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds tonight.

No Serious Injuries In Three Accidents

Dr. George H. Field, Roseneath physician, while driving on Highway 45 north of Roseneath on Saturday, hit a cow that started across the road directly in the path of the car.

Early on Saturday, a car driven by Ted Manley of Bewdley failed to make the turn on a hill near Centenary church, three miles west of Roseneath, turning over twice and seriously damaging the front of the car. No-one was injured apart from a shaking up.

Archie Mouncey, Roseneath, driving a 1937 sedan and B. A. Cowan of Donald, Ont., driving a 1948 halfton truck collided on Highway 45 one mile south of Roseneath. Both vehicles received damages to the radiators, front left wheels and axles. The windshield of the truck was badly splintered. Mr. Mouncey received a severe shaking up.

3800-Acre Test Site Largest In World

(Editor's Note: This is the second of two articles written by the Examiner's telegraph editor following a visit to the laboratories of the Chrysler Corporation in Detroit.)

BY JEAN E. STENTON

The largest vehicle proving grounds of its type in the world will go into operation near Chelsea, Michigan during this month. Here the work of weeks and months in the laboratories will receive its most gruelling tests in the unrelenting search for flaws and improvements in cars and trucks.

"The purpose of the Proving Grounds is to spot quick failures before cars go on the road. We can't wait till the customers drive so many thousand miles before flaws develop. It is a final road testing. If the car will stand up for us all right for 10,000 miles, then it will be satisfactory for a motorist for 100,000 miles," explained H. P. Bruns, head of the Road Test Division of the Chrysler Corporation Engineering Division in Detroit.

The 3,800-acre Proving Grounds have facilities for testing passenger cars, civilian trucks, army trucks and tanks. This will supplement the company's long established program of scientific road testing in every geographical area in the United States, Canada, Alaska and Mexico. Until this track opened, the largest proving grounds were 2,800 acres, owned by the General Motors Corporation.

LOTS OF THRILLS

Test piloting has nothing on the thrills of putting a car through its paces at Chelsea. They do everything a plane does—but on the ground. From the outside looking in neither the driver nor the car should come out in one piece. But they always do. They haven't lost a driver yet. All I can say is — their guardian angels must be on 24-hour duty.

The 45 miles of test roads and tracks with various types of surfaces haven't overlooked a thing. There is a treacherous water trough, a gooey mud pit and a sand pit to make it as tough as possible. There are specially designed steep inclines, a 10.5 mile endurance road, two long concrete straightaway tracks and a 4.7-mile high speed oval test track of concrete surface built for speeds up to 140 MPH without side thrust.

The oval test track which is 60 feet wide, is scientifically banked at the turns for the 140 MPH speed. It consists of five lanes, four for high speeds and one for slow speeds. The mud pit is a mile long and is of controlled consistency and depth in a concrete trough.

SPECIAL GRADES

There are special grades set up. A 32 per cent grade is 400 feet long. It rises 32 feet per 100 feet travelled. The 15 per cent grade is 830 feet long and the 7 per cent grade is 1,720 feet long. They have gravel surfaces.

The Endurance road which is 25 feet wide has a gravel surface. This is a "contour" road encircling the proving Grounds. Fairly level on the east and south legs, the road follows a rolling terrain in the northwest, with grades up to 20 per cent.

If a car or truck can come through its paces on the Belgian Road it has made the grade. A Belgian Road is patterned after some of the old cobblestone ones in Belgium, hence the name. It is given rough and uneven brick surfaces with big holes etc., so that the vehicle will take a severe pounding. A part of the endurance road, it is two miles long.

PRELIMINARY TEST

But a car has had a rough going over on the Belgian Rolls before it ever reaches the Belgian Road. The former is also under the Road Test Dept. Here for the first time the work from the laboratories is put on an actual car. Then the Road Test boys do their stuff under simulated conditions. The rear wheels of the car to be tested ride on drums and by means of a belt they drive pressure on the front rolls under the front wheels so that the car is driving itself. There are plates on the drums which give a rough road effect as the wheels turn. The car is tied to this contrivance at the back and front and a large fan at the front of the machine keeps it cool.

An operator at a special control panel changes the speeds and switches them back. The speeds run from 5 to 20 MPH and it goes through this cycle five times a minute, which gives the car a hard pounding. The car is inspected every night to observe any cracks or other flaws that have developed. This test has to run 100 hours to determine if the parts will stand up.

"In laboratories the material is tested under simulated conditions. But in Road Test section, the parts are put on a car. This test is tied up too with the Proving Grounds," Bruns said.

SEE NORTH AMERICA

But the tests do not end with the Proving Grounds. Join the Road Test Dept. and see North America might be their slogan. The men in this section visit every state in the union to test cars under different conditions. They go where it is 40 below zero and then to Arizona or Texas where it may be 120 degrees. They try Pike's Peak, 14,000 feet high to solve mountain problems of brakes and transmissions; and go to the mountains around Acapulco, Mexico, which are different from mountains in either the United States or Canada. Two years ago in their enthusiastic search for information, some of the test cars were sent to Alaska.

"The tests cover over 3½ million miles a year," one employee revealed. There are two types of out-of-town check-ups. For a base trip, the driver-mechanics and engineers may go to a city like San Antonio and stay there for several weeks working out in different locales outside the city."

Then there is the cross country circuit—for example, Detroit to California. This is to get the general feel of the machine over different terrain. Each state has its own road peculiarities and specialties.

TWO-FOLD JOB

"The men in Road Test have a two-fold job," it was explained. "First they must act like customers. They decide from that viewpoint how things feel, look and sound. If a seat doesn't seem quite right, then it goes right back to the lab. This is called evaluation.

"Their second duty is to test the endurance of the vehicle. They mistreat a car to get improvements and to spot weaknesses for the equivalent of 50,000 miles."

Then there are the local operations. The laboratories screen out the bad parts and the parts are then turned over to Road Test which in turn screens out poor material. This is followed by several road driving tests. A lot of things happen on trips which bring more changes before production, officials reported.

Cars are always available for tests since 326 are on call. The Chelsea Road Tests have 86 cars assigned and the remainder are issued to departments—some assigned and some on loan.

Although the main Chelsea track will be operating this month, the buildings will not be fully completed for some time.

Dies of Injuries

HAMILTON (CP)—One of the 10 persons injured in a car-truck crash near Bismarck Friday died in hospital here Saturday. He was Peter Goertzen, 39, of Beamsville, a passenger in the truck. Hospital officials report two of the eight Grimsby high school students injured still in critical condition. They are Barry Bourne, 16, who police said was the driver of the car, and Marion Rushak, also 16.

Flee Fire

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Two families were forced to flee in their night clothes early Sunday when fire destroyed the interior of their home. The families were those of Albert Gelinas, 33, and Melborne Barrow, 32.

Jniversity Students Burn McCarthy Effigy

TORONTO (CP)—University students burned Senator Joseph McCarthy, Communist-hunting United States Republican from Wisconsin, in effigy early Sunday.

Lighted candles formed a huge flickering cross as a match was touched to the effigy on a scaffold on the University of Toronto campus.

The incident was apparently inspired by a verbal and written campus controversy on McCarthyism.

Strike Spreads, Burns Plants May Be Closed

VANCOUVER (CP)— Possibility that a closure of the Burns and Company meat-packing plant here might spread to the entire Burns chain was suggested Saturday by Norm Richards, a United Packing House Workers of America (CCL) official from Calgary.

Picketing of the Vancouver plant was stopped Friday by a Supreme Court order granting the company an injunction against striking employees.

About 300 workers left their jobs after a truck driver was demoted by company officials who said he was not competent.

Company officials claim the employees called an illegal strike but the union contends they have been locked out.

After talks with local union officials, Mr. Richards said: "There's a good likelihood of this thing spreading to the Burns chain if this isn't settled here quickly."

He said the union represents 2,000 workers in Burns' plants at Edmonton, Calgary, Regina, Prince Albert, Winnipeg and Kitchener.

200 Children At Parties In YW Gym

About 200 children enjoyed two Hallowe'en parties in the YWCA gym on Saturday morning. All were in costume and though they were judged, all received small prizes and also apples. One child came as a Christmas box and was perhaps the most unusual.

These were not the kind of party-ers that "come late and leave early;" some children came at nine o'clock for the 11 a.m. party, which was to include the 9 to 15 year old gym and dancing class members. The "pixie" class for 3 to 5 year old, the boy's gym class and the 5 to 8 year old gym and dancers held their party at ten o'clock.

Gym director Miss Beatrice Pelsis was assisted with the games by several girls who have been picked for the new leadership training class. Miss Eleanor Carroll, a Peterborough school teacher, told Hallowe'en stories.

Board members acting as judges for the first party were Mrs. H. T. Rehill, Mrs. T. Cook and Mrs. N. Northrop and for the second Mrs. L. Yeates, Mrs. L. B. Martin and Mrs. J. E. Watters. Mrs. J. Lewis and Mrs. S. McBride assisted with the prizes

H & S Conference Speakers Put Forth Good Suggestions

Regional Conference of the Home and School Associations of District 10, (Hastings, Prince Edward, Victoria and Peterborough Counties) was held Saturday in the Queen Mary School auditorium, Peterborough. Fourteen city associations were represented by the 75 delegates attending from the district, five of whom were men.

There was one local speaker and three from out of town. Mrs. J. R. Henderson of the Peterborough Public Library staff spoke on "Reading—the great keystone of education"—urging "give them a golden key rather than a shoddy brass one." Professor Isabel Laird, psychologist of Queen's University, Kingston, spoke on "Adults as seen by children."

Conveners in the Federation of Home and School are Mrs. G. C. McAuley of Hamilton for secondary schools and Mrs. M. D. McLellan of Brantford for school education, who spoke on these subjects.

District chairman Mrs. Clarence Coons of Lakefield presided throughout the conference. Civic greetings were extended by Alderman T. D. Miller and greetings of the Board of Education by Mr. S. R. Adamson, chairman. Greetings of the Peterborough Home and School Council were extended by president Mrs. V. Reynolds and of the Belleville Council by president Mrs. W. Gander, who also read the Home and School Creed.

During the period set aside for luncheon at the YWCA, the parents were kept thinking for the workshops conducted by the out of town speakers. One was for presidents only, one for parents of secondary school students, and one general.

URGES PARENTS EDUCATION

Mrs. McCauley, in her address titled "Bridging the gap at the secondary school level", stressed that clear thinking in the home to deal with problems makes it easier for young people in the outside world."

Thus, there should be more parent education, and the easiest way to do this is by study groups, she said. These groups should use their own needs and resouces in the community as basis for study, and they must have enthusiasm to be successful, she added.

"You can't impose rules on these young people" Mrs. McCauley said. "You must show faith in what you've taught them. By joining the study groups and attending grade meetings parents will have more contact with the school, will learn what is going on in the way of extra-curricular activities as well, and can ascertain the actual facts about things they feel disapproval of.

She explained that there is a wider gap between the home and the school at the secondary school level, probably because of the rural attendance and the rotary system. Because there are so many more attending the higher schools now, there is real need for parents to learn about secondary schools, and also for principals and teachers to learn about the parents, she feels. Parents sometimes have prejudices against some subjects which they may iron out in this way.

WANTS INTERVIEW TIME

Mrs. McLellan, speaking on the public school level education, suggested that there should be definite arrangements made for parent-teacher interviews. She did not mean the parents' night introductions, but a special time allotted by the school for individual talks. She also mentioned that teachers should have training to give help to the parents.

"Sometimes parents blame the school for what is not a school problem but an emotional problem in the home," she said. 'It may be something you do not know about. The teacher can help you to understand your child in a different setting."

The speaker also stressed "You must divorce pride in your children from your thinking in regard to the school. The teacher must accept each child in the school, and the parent must also. Helping the child to get to his destination, without undue pressure, is your job."

A second suggestion put forth by Mrs. McLellan was that Councils might train discussion leaders for the grade meetings. She feels that meetings of parents of the same age group of students are very important, but she doesn't think the teachers should be the discussion leaders. You need to know what the teachers are doing, and what the aims of education are.

In conclusion Mrs. McLellan added," "I think we can do a lot to influence young people to go into the teaching profession. We need more good teachers to do a good job."

DISPLAYS

Displays tables in the rotunda received careful scrutiny by the parents. There was a letter from the health convener supplied to each Association delegate and pamphlets on good health including menu suggestions. The various Home and School publications for parents were displayed and a wide selection of children's books provided by the Public Library.

The panel for questioning by the parents, last item on the program, included Professor Laird, Mrs. McAuley, Mrs. McLellan, Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. Coons.

Dawson-Humphrey Nuptials

Gold and bronze chrysanthemums made a beautiful setting at the altar of St. Luke's Anglican Church for the wedding on Saturday afternoon of Miss Pamela Nellie Humphrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Stanley Humphrey of Peterborough, to Mr. William Edward Dawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dawson of Bewdley.

Canon Walter J. Gilling performed the ceremony and the wedding music was played by Mr. Clark Armstrong. Miss Nicolette Humphrey, sister of the bride, sang. Her selections were "O Perfect Love" and "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden."

Ecru lace over rust velvet fashioned the bride's gown, finished with stand-up collar and long lily point sleeves, and she wore matching velvet and lace cap and rust slippers and carried a bouquet of cream roses.

She was given in marriage by her father and attended by her sister, Mrs. Patricia Minnes who wore a deep turquoise velvet gown with matching lace overskirt and a turquoise velvet cap. She carried a bouquet of rust 'mums.

Mr. Douglas Buck attended the groom and ushers were Bert Godwin, Douglas Delaney and George Lea.

The wedding reception was in the parish hall. Mrs. Humphrey was gowned in purple crepe and lace and wore a purple velvet hat and corsage of buff pinocchio roses. Mrs. Dawson chose grey crepe and wore a black velvet hat and coral pinocchio roses.

The bridal couple are honeymooning in western Ontario, and on their return will live at 57½ Hunter St. E.

For going away the bride donned a navy suit and accessories with a pink topcoat and she wore a corsage of white camelias and pink sweetheart roses.

Afternoon Of Hallowe'en Choice For IODE Fall Tea

Ladies of the Otonabee Chapter, IODE, were wise in choosing October 31st as the date for their annual fall tea. The spirit of Hallowe'en was in the air and their guests enjoyed friendly visits in the tea room, enlivened by the decorations in bright orange and black, in keeping with the day.

A big round pumpkin was in the centre of the daintily covered tea table and apples and grapes filled the space around it, giving evidence of the abundance of the harvest season. Highlighting the setting were stout orange candles set in a pair of wrought iron candelabra, each with four holders at graduated heights.

The orange and black color scheme brightened the mantelpiece and drew attention to bazaar tables and particularly to the large hamper of groceries offered as a draw prize by Mrs. R. Pollard.

Draws were made by Regent Mrs. Frank Merrett at close of the tea and this hamper was won by Mrs. A. Tivey who was an assistant for the penny sale, with Mrs. H. Lowes. There were 15 prizes in the penny sale, ranging from a plastic salad set, cups and saucers, notepaper to toiletries, etc. Only four were cliamed following the draws but the holders of the numbers listed here, 72, 88, 4, 90, 11, 78, 12, 75, 28, 52 and 35, may claim their prizes by telephoning Mrs. Lowes at 8171.

Mrs. Merrett was assisted in receiving by immediate past regent Mrs. A. R. McWilliams as Mrs. Bert Jackson was unable to attend because of illness in her family. Mrs. W. A. Davern received the tea tickets and Mrs. W. Comstock was hostess in the tea room.

Mrs. McWilliams had been convener of the tea table and her duties were taken over by Mrs. W. A. Burrell assisted by Mrs. F. A. Gray.

Tea was poured by Mrs. B. W. Harvey, Mrs. W. A. Conners, Mrs. W. G. McLaren and Mrs. L. Davis and serving were Mrs. N. Adams, Mrs. D. E. Bell, Mrs. B. MacLean, Mrs. S. Mitchell and Mrs. C. H. Sherwood.

Mrs. W. A. Greenslade provided a musical background in the tea room.

The sale of home cooking was in charge of Mrs. I. Rattenbury and Mrs. J. Dunkerley.

Professor Laird Addresses H. & S. Conference

Professor Isabel Laird had some wise counsel for parents, although she herself is a spinster, when she spoke at the Home and School Associations regional conference here Saturday.

Professsor Laird is a psychologist. She came from her native Scotland two years ago and is now on the staff of the Queen's University. In addition she is giving fortnightly classes in psychology at several outside points, including Peterborough.

"Adults as seen by children" was her subject. She said that one of the reasons a persoinality gets "stuck" is the way that person looked at an adult when a child.

She also believes "No matter what kind of human beings we are our tangible feelings that cover the God figure come from people we knew as a child."

Regarding "authority", Miss Laird said "If we teach them to live under authority, they expect it and when they grow up will want dictatorship. People like that form one of the biggest blocks in Canada today", she added.

Questioned later about young people drinking, she said "I think they should not touch alcohol until they are 21". She explained that scientific research going on at Queen's University has found that a huge number of the people now miserable from the use of alcohol formed the habit before they were 21.

"But they will not be kept from drinking by the laws of the land" the Professor advised. "You must show them something to take the place of drinking, such as sports, clubs etc." She also said, "It is nonsense to say anything is completely taboo in our culture. Never tell them that they must 'never' take an alcoholic drink, or that you will 'never' take one."

TAKE ORDERS

"When did you last do something your child told you to" the professor asked the parents. "Occasionally take orders from them" she advised. "The picture you give them of authority is what matters."

A question from the audience regarding directives on behavior to the child brought the unexpected reply from [illegible] "There are very few occasions—in fact I cannot think of one—when we cannot allow children to speak to us as we speak to them."

Under the sub-heading of "impressions" she stressed the place of the father in the family which she feels is often overlooked. "He should be important to the children and to the mother".

"You can make a happy life for your children by helping them to make an adjustment from child to adult" the professor said. "We grow, but we never grow out of anything but our clothes. Therefore, adults, according to children, change as the child feels and as the adult feels."

She said that is why children consider their parents hopelessly old, anyone 40ish completely ancient, and 20 years an incredible age when they are 14.

To illustrate this point of age feeling, Miss Laird told that 20,000 people now have bookings for journeys to the moon. She confessed that she did not have one herself, being Scottish.

Professor Laird left a part of her allotted time for questions from the parents, and afterward she was a member of the panel for a question and answer period.

Herring-Schellenberg Rites

The marriage took place in Trinity United Church, Saturday, of Rowena Schellenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Schellenberg, of Peterborough, to S/Sgt. John Herring, of the U.S. Air Force stationed at Westover Field in Massachusetts, the Rev. Gordon S. Maxwell officiating.

The church was decorated with yellow and bronze 'mums. Music was played by Mr. Donald Kennedy. During the signing of the register, Mr. Mort Knox sang "Through the Years."

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and she wore a gown of white satin with overskirts of white nylon, pleated in the front, and with petal-shaped lace insertions throughout. Her veil was of nylon net and was of fingertip length, caught with a white pearl headpiece. She carried a bouquet of white 'mums and pink roses. Maid of honor was Miss Mary White, of London, Ontario. She was dressed in an emerald green velvet gown with double overskirt of net in a lighter shade, with a hat of dark green velvet. She carried a bouquet of bronze and yellow 'mums.

Groomsman was Mr. Allan Bennett, of Huntsville, and the ushers [illegible] ham, and Allan Doney of Peterborough.

A reception was held at Hooper's Palm Room where the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of red metallic gabardine with a black velveteen stole and hat of the same material. She wore a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

Later, the bride and groom left for a trip to Montreal and the New England States. For travelling, the bride chose a gold gabardine suit with a wool box topcoat in a lighter shade, brown accessories and a corsage of bronze 'mums. They will make their home in Springfield, Massachusetts.

Newlyweds Feted At Stirling Party

STIRLING (ENS) The home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGee was filled with neighbours and friends Tuesday evening to honour Mr. and Mrs. Allan Sine on their recent mariage.

Wm. Johnston acted as chairman The program consisted of community singing and musical selections by Mrs. Walter Warren and Mrs. Ken Broadworth.

An address was read by James Johnston and the couple were presented with a couch from the community and a mirror from the charivari crowd. Numerous [illegible] friends.

The bride and groom expressed their thanks and lunch was served.

Paris-Born Jungle Fashions Invade Britain

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The Paris-born "jungle look" is catching on in conservative Britain.

Ingredients? Plenty of leopard and ocelot trimmings in real or synthetic furs.

In France, the fall fashion collections featured leopard-dotted cloches and leopard-collared coats, leopard muffs and pantaloons. There were unusual touches like a strapless leopard bra to a chiffon evening gown, a matching yard-long muff taking the place of an evening bag.

SMART FUR FABRICS

Jungle evening wear isn't too prevalent in London and you might look a long way for the leopard-printed bra and panties shown recently across the channel, but there's plenty of outdoor fur trimmings to lighten the dark pebble tweeds now a seasonal favorite here.

There are rich-looking fur fabrics for those who want to add a fur strip to last year's outfit. Ocelot trimming in eight-inch strips costs less than £1 a yard, and narrow collar edgings are priced at less than five shillings a yard.

In smart "arty" dress shops you'll find fabric leopard and ocelot waistcoats and matching drainpipe pants. Or there's circular skirts and striking hip-length coats in real or synthetic skins. Fur fabric blouses are teamed with evening skirts or black drainpipe pants.

CHIC TOUCHES

For smart women there are leopard-printed velvet linings to dark top coats, fur-printed nylon taffeta lining white nylon fur jackets and fur-spotted hats in many styles. Muffs, cravats, belts, collars and shoes come in printed velvets, fur fabrics and real skin.

Not all trimmings are of the spotted variety. Paris' love for Persian lamb and beaver lamb trimming has also crossed to Britain. Luxury touches to princess-line coats are outsize polo neckpieces in black Persian lamb matched to bonnets or muffs.

A pre-war favorite, narrow fur trimming encircling the neck and travelling down the front of the coat to the waist or hem, is also noted. A chic French touch is narrow fur trimming to wide necklines and three-quarter sleeves.

GAINS PREFERENCE

The post-war demand for smart clothes at low prices has resulted in preference for fur fabric for trimmings and accessories. Working girls object to paying that small extra cost for real fur touches.

Fur fabrics now are so close to the real thing. Nylon fur is steadily increasing in popularity. Imitation ocelot, leopard, ermine, mink Persian lamb and other furs come in a wide range of fashions including long and short coats, capes, stoles, hats, muffs and cravats. There are also many nylon trimmings.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Do You Serve Well-Balanced Diet?

Between them the departments of health and education are doing a magnificient job in their efforts to raise the standards of health and learning. But do you know that there are some mothers (and fathers, who object to having a little school card signed by their dentists confirming the fact that their child's teeth are periodically examined?

Whose child does she think is being protected? What does she pay school taxes for? How would she like to live in most other countries in the world where nobody cares whether her child's teeth fall out or not?

. . . and another thing—does she remember that her child is at school to study and that one of the subjects that he studies is health? If she neglects to have his card signed, she not only is training him to be negligent about his teeth, but if the card is not signed by the dentist her child's marks for health will be lower?

I harp on the "well-balanced diet" as much and as often as I dare and here I am again today back at it because I'm all steamed up about the ignorance and negligence of some mothers.

I'm going to ask some pointed questions. You don't have to answer because I'm here and you're there, but you will know if you are doing your duty by your youngsters and your husband, or not.

1) Do you buy a great variety of foods and serve them attractively?

2) Do you serve your family an adequate breakfast?

3) Do you serve too many starchy and sweet foods? (Here's where dental decay thrives.)

4) Do you buy enough milk or milk products? (Milk powder is an economical and excellent source of milk.)

5) Do your groceries include plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables?

6) Do you spend too large a portion of your food money on fancy groceries or luxury cuts of meat, and too little on basic nutritional foods?

7) Do you overcook or prepare vegetables and fruits ahead of time, thus losing vitamin and mineral content in cooking waters or by exposure to air?

THIAMINE: Pork, potatoes (particularly baked with skins on) liver, legumes, nuts, whole grains (this means whole wheat bread and cereals), milk, meat, eggs, green leafy vegetables.

RIBOFLAVIN: Milk, cheese, liver, legumes, green leafy vegetables, meat, eggs.

Friends—have you had your spinach and liver today?

Affectionately yours
Mary

Preaching Mission Begins At Norwood

NORWOOD (ENS)—An interdenominational preaching mission, sponsored by Christ Anglican Church, Pentecostal Assembly, Norwood Baptist church, Norwood Gospel hall, Norwood United church and St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, was begun Sunday evening.

The first service of the mission was held in St. Andrew's church. The main body of the church was filled to capacity.

Harry Wildman led the assembled congregation in a period of hymn singing. The service was conducted by the Rev. R. D. Duncanson, who welcomed the people to the church and the missioner, the Rev. Gerald W. Gregson of Wycliffe College, Toronto.

The scripture lesson was read by Miss Rogers of the Pentecostal assembly, followed by a prayer by the Rev. H. K. Wright of Norwood United church. The Rev. Gilbert Smith of St. Giles' Presbyterian church, Peterborough, gave the offertory prayer.

Mr. Gregson's text was "Awake, thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light."

He said unfortunately many are asleep and do not know it. They talk of all manner of things concerning religion but they are as those who talk in their sleep.

The service was concluded by benediction and the singing of the chorus "He lives."

DOROTHY DIX:

After Years Girls Disagree About Mates

DEAR MISS DIX: This problem involves two lifelong friendships, so I hope you can offer some advice to save them. My girl friend and I recently married two young men who had also been friends for many years. We were all pleased with the arrangement. My husband, Garry, and I thought we had the beginning of a pleasant social life. Low and behold, however, Edith, my friend, suddenly took a terrific dislike to Garry, and is highly disturbed whenever the two men are together. She insists they are discussing her personal affairs, when nothing could be further from their minds. We have now reached the point where interfamily visits are matters of tension, instead of relaxation. Edith's husband seems afraid to be with us. He never calls my husband for lunch anymore, and almost seems to avoid him when they do meet accidentally. Have you any suggestions?

Evie

TIME MAY BRING SOLUTION

ANSWER: Time, that good old healer of wounds, will undoubtedly bring a solution—If you have the patience to wait. Edith simply has never recovered from infantile possessiveness. Anything that belongs to her must be hers entirely and exclusively. She looks upon her husband as a child does a favorite doll, and since he is HERE, no one else can snatch him for a moment. As time marches on, she may have the good fortune to see the error of her ways, to realize that her type of emotional greed repels, rather than holds, a man. When trouble enters the home, as it is certain to do, she'll have a great need for friends, since she is not the type to bear misfortune alone.

In the meantime, if you can possibly get to her and point out how dangerously she is living, some sense may percolate through her warped consciousness. Involved in an unhappy marriage, Edith's man is bound to seek sympathy elsewhere, sooner or later.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a friend who is married, has two children and is running around with a man who is also married and a father. It's terrible to see how they are disgracing their children. They don't sneak around, but meet quite openly. This has been going on for about five years. Can anything be done to bring them to their senses?

A Friend

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If anything is to be done, it must be done by the unfortunate husband or wife. Outsiders can do little in such matters. As the man and woman aren't even trying to be furtive about the affair, it can be no secret from their spouses, who should take the necessary steps to protect their respective children.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX. Some time ago I made an excuse to my wife, and visited an ex-girl friend in another city. My wife was very hurt when she found out. Don't you think she's being unreasonable?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If you would stop to realize how deeply a wife is hurt by such careless or thoughtless behavior, you will understand the reason for your wife's present attitude. It will take a bit of patience on your part to soothe her hurt feelings; but since you are the culprit, the least you can do is show consideration now.

Don't Know If Win Car Or Apples

KITCHENER (CP) — Folks who bought tickets on a Rotary Club draw didn't know today if they won a new car or a basket of apples. The club isn't saying—yet.

The draw was made Saturday at the Kitchener-Waterloo Rotary carnival. Winners were not announced because officials said they were told legal action might be taken against the club.

"The club decided to draw a series of tickets until further decision on the matter can be reached," Leo Henhoeffer, president, said.

New-Type Barn Built In Quebec

MONTREAL (CP)—A new-type barn is being built as an experiment at Senneville, Que.

The Macdonald College agricultural engineering and animal husbandry departments report a keen interest in the new barn, which in construction is similar to a large scale igloo.

It is a giant dome 80 feet in diameter and about 40 feet high. Like an igloo, it has no internal bracing, but there the comparison stops.

WEATHER-BREAK

Designer Jeffrey Lindsay of Montreal describes the barn as a weather-break. He claims it lends itself to mass production techniques, is extremely strong and will have a low depreciation.

The present plan calls for orlon plastic curtains around the bottom six feet of the structure. These could be rolled up in summer. The entire structure will be covered by flat fibre-glass plastic panels one-sixteenth of an inch thick, and these are filled with a material to cut some of the sun's heat-rays.

20 Employees Cross Plant Picket Line

WELLAND (CP)—About 20 employees of General Tire and Rubber Company crossed picket lines of Local 455, United Rubber Workers of American (CIO-CCL) today on the first working day since employees staged a walkout Friday.

The strike, termed illegal by the company, affects some 450 employees.

The union called the walkout when it said several employees were given a week off as a disciplinary measure after attending a union meeting called during working hours.

The union and the company have been attempting since last May to negotiate a first contract.

Camel Train Carries Portable Palace

LONDON (Reuters) — A camel train laden with a prefabricated portable palace will trek across the Arabian desert soon for one of the wealthiest Arab princes in the oil-rich Middle East.

The "palace" a group of factory-made aluminum buildings, will go wherever 52-year-old crown prince Saud of Saudi Arabia goes hunting. The prince, heir to King Ibn Saud, ordered the palace from a British firm.

Each of the buildings can be erected an dismantled within an hour. The equipment includes a shower and a water tower which will be filled from buckets.

E. F. Wheeler Honored Guest At Hall Opening

Edwin F. Wheeler, the blind field secretary of the London district, and formerly a Peterborough man, was one of the important guests Saturday for the official opening of Tweedsmuir Hall, London home for the blind, which was built at a cost of $345,000.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wheeler, 624 St. Catherines St., and brother, Walter Jr., of Oakville, were also present for the ceremonies.

His honor, Louis O. Breithaupt, LL.D., lieutenant-governor of Ontario, officially opened the home which will accommodate 21 women and 19 men in separate wings which include 34 single and three double bedrooms. Everything including a large recreation room, three lounge rooms and all the bedrooms, are on one floor.

There are no stairs even at the entrance or exits to the house. The only second floor area is that of the business offices located in the centre of the house.

The total blind population in the area is about 400, but only 10 per cent of these are expected to require the use of the home. Forty per cent of this total are over 70 years of age and most of the residents will come from this group. No more than 30 are expected to be in the residence for the next few years.

Maintenance costs of the house will be shared by the four counties immediately bordering London.

Residents have been in the house since September 1, but official opening was delayed until the inmates had time to learn the topography of the area and operation was running smoothly.

Open house was held Sunday.

Don't Expect Reds To Make Move Yet

By RUSSEL BRINES

DALAT, Indo-China (AP)—The leaders of southeast Asia, who prepared for a possible Communist invasion early this year, have told Vice-President Nixon of the United States that they now do not expect any new Red military threat in the near future.

Instead, they said, they are taking added care against a possible step-up of Communist infiltration tactics.

Nixon was told that both Thailand and Malaya have recovered from their jitters over the Communist threat into the Laos area of Indo-China during the winter.

Barbara and Christine Reed, 18, were attacked while they rode their bicycles along a towpath late at night.

Body In Chapel Reported Bishop

LONDON (AP)—Church authorities today identified a corpse found in a tomb in Westminster Abbey's sacred chapel of Edward the Confessor as that of Richard Courtenay, Bishop of Norwich, who died in 1415.

The tomb was discovered last week by Mrs. S. E. Dykesbower, an abbey official.

Church historians said Henry V had commanded that Courtenay be buried in the chapel, although they had never known exactly where. In the tomb was discovered a bishop's crozier, the hooked staff carried by the prelates.

Courtenay was once treasurer of Henry V's household. He went with Henry to the French wars in 1415 and died at Harfleur.

Accountant Invents Oven

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — An Auckland accountant, K. Hounslow, has invented an oven which runs on two 200-watt light bulbs. Constructed of aluminum, it weighs a little more than four pounds.

The principle of the oven is based on radiation. The aluminum has a high reflective capacity, so that heat from the lamps, if not at first absorbed by the cooking, is reflected back by the polished sides.

The radiation principle also obviates the need for costly insulation around the oven. The power consumed is only a fraction of that needed in ordinary ovens — 400 watts against 3,000.

Dim Glow-Worms

HAMILTON, N.Z. (CP)—The famous glow-worm grotto at Waitomo caves in the north island of New Zealand may not be at its best for the Queen's visit early next year. Severe flooding swept away about a third of the glow-worms. The grotto, entered in boats on an underground river, once was described by Bernard Shaw as "the eighth wonder of the world."

Want Atomic Engines

LONDON (CP)—Sir Frank Markham, Conservative, complained in the House of Commons that nothing is being done to hasten the day of railway trains driven by atomic power. He said a recent research report on railways contained not a word on the subject.

Must Drive Reds Off Soil

DALAT, Indo-China (AP)—Vice-President Richard Nixon of the United States told Bao Dai, Viet Namese chief of state, and his cabinet ministers Sunday night that to remain free "it is first necessary to defeat the representatives of Communist imperialism on your soil" with the help of foreign allies.

Nixon and a few others made a round-trip flight to see the Viet Nam leader on whom the West is depending to rally his people to fight against communism.

The vice-president's remarks are evidently part of a cautious campaign to present the American view that the defeat of communism is essential to Indo-China, in an effort to counteract the Paris proposals for a negotiated truce.

Bao Dai told Nixon he believes Ho Chi Minh, Moscow-trained Indo-China rebel leader, and Red China's Mao Tze-tung "have agreed that Ho is to conquer southeast Asia and Mao the rest."

Find Nazi Files Listing 25,000 Dead

BERLIN (AP)—The East German Communist government announced today discovery of old Nazi Wehrmacht files listing the execution of 25,000 men who opposed the war. It said many Germans mistakenly believe these men are still held as prisoners by the Russians.

The Soviet zone regime said the executions were carried out on the front, and in Germany itself between September, 1939, and January, 1945, when the files ceased recording.

In most cases the executions were kept secret by notifying the families that the man was missing in action. The East German regime said many of the victims were shot or hanged because they were against the war with the Soviet Union and either refused to fight or tried to desert.

$1,000 In Damage Done To Cars On Hallowe'en

Well over $1000 damage was caused to cars involved in six Hallowe'en weekend accidents on Peterborough streets. No one was injured in crashes which involved 11 vehicles.

William Green, 21, of 49 Fairlawn Ave., Toronto, appeared in magistrate's court today on charges of careless driving and driving without a licence as a result of an accident early Sunday morning.

He was remanded one week on $100 cash bail.

The crash inolved an OPP cruiser driven by PC George Louth. The constable was driving north on Park St. when he saw Green backing up ahead of him. The officer stopped but the youth continued backing up and struck the cruiser.

HEAVILY DAMAGED

In a Saturday evening accident, two cars were heavily damaged when one driven by Eldon Llewellyn, 31, of 146 Hunter St. E., collided with a parked car on Parkhill Rd., west of Aylmer St.

A rear-end collision at the intersection of Reid, Park and Sherbrooke Sts. Sunday night saw damage of $175 divided between cars driven by Harry Martin, 58, of 1064 High St., and Arthur Elliott, 45, of Golden Ave., Toronto.

Elliott was driving behind Martin who stopped at the intersection. The Toronto driver couldn't stop in time and collided with Martin's stopped car.

HARVEST TIME—Despite the past summer's searing drought, Lady Luck and a sometimes generous nature have provided some bumper crops across the nation. Leonard Haase, above, of Malta Bend, Mo., has managed to grow a whopping average of 131.59 bushels of corn per acre on land which received only 4¼ inches of rain during the growing season in drought-ridden Missouri. He has entered his rich field in the statewide MFA Corn Yield Contest. Below, grain pours in an overflow flood from an elevator at Wilbur, in eastern Washington. Despite a large-scale storage construction program, grain dealers are unable to contain their golden hoard.

Hasn't Arrived At Convent Yet

QUEBEC (CP)—Marie Dionne, one of the famous 19-year-old quintuplets from Callander, Ont., due to enter a cloistered convent here, has not arrived, the superior of the Servants du St. Sacrement, said today.

The mother superior said Marie is supposed to be visiting relatives for the last time in Montreal before entering the convent of the Serving Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament to pray for Canada's war dead.

The superior said the soon-to-be novice is expected soon, but she could not say when Marie will arrive.

About 45 nuns live in the convent, in northside St. Pascal de Maizerets parish. The convent was opened in 1920, but a new building, called Nouveau Thabor (New Thabor) was opened last February.

Members of the order spend most of their time in silence and in prayers for Canadians who died in the two world wars.

TORONTO (CP)—Suspension of the licence of the New Ritz Hotel in Windsor for two weeks has been ordered by the Ontario liquor licence board. The suspension starts today.

The licence was suspended for failure to provide the service of food with alcoholic beverages in the dining lounge; for serving persons in an apparently intoxicated condition and for double servings of beer, the board said.

Want Pakistan Be Republic

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters)—The Constituent Assembly voted today to make Pakistan a republic, but left untouched the country's membership in the British Commonwealth.

Hindu members, who are in minority, walked out of the assembly, claiming that undue emphasis was being placed on the Islamic nature of the state.

The decision to establish a republic is not effective immediately, but will be incorporated in the draft constitution. This will in due course be submitted for adoption by Parliament, whose membership is identical with that of the Constituent Assembly.

The assembly voted that the country should be an "Islamic republic." Amendments had been submitted to add the words "outside the Commonwealth," but they were not brought to a vote.

India became a republic after the sub-continent was divided between India and Pakistan in 1947, but remains within the Commonwealth.

Approves Move To Wear Slacks

LONDON (Reuters) — Slacks for girls are a good thing because they cover "acres of bare thigh and lanky legs," the magazine Justice of the Peace Review says.

The magazine, official organ of Britain's JPs, was less happy about what slacks can reveal in certain mature female figures.

"It may well be true that some woman are endowed by nature with curves an protuberances in certain places," the magazine said, "which are often better concealed by the flowing lines of a skirt. . ."

The Review was commenting on the case of schoolgirl Eva Spiers, 14, whose headmistress recently branded slacks as "unseemly." The case created a national stir when Eva was banned from attending school in slacks.

The judges' magazine asked, "what is there that is 'unseemly' about the wearing by girls of trousers that cover the whole of the lower portion of their anatomy?"

Talent Director Mrs. Ferrin Dies

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Mrs. Jean Moorhead Ferrin, former star of Broadway musical comedies, died Sunday. She was 35.

Mrs. Ferrin, who was talent director for the Miss America pageant, apparently died of a heart attack in her sleep.

As Jean Moorhead, she was a dancer in the review "The Show Is On" which starred Beatrice Lillie. She also appeared in Cole Porter's "You Never Know."

Sudanese Voters To Decide Independence

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP)—Sudanese voters, including tens of thousands of illiterate tribesmen, started general elections today, marking their first step toward an eventual decision as to whether to form a union with neighboring Egypt or become fully independent.

Today's voting began in 24 "backward" areas among tribesmen who are to indicate — some by acclamation and others by paper tokens marked with the symbols of rival candidates — their choice of delegates to a 97-member House of Representatives. "More advanced" areas will elect their representatives some time around Nov. 18.

The voting puts into effect the provisions of an agreement between Britain and Egypt, reached after years of feuding over possession of the area guarding the upper Nile. The Sudan has been jointly ruled by Britain and Egypt since 1899.

Following the elections for the lower house, a smaller electorate made up of literates and public office holders will vote for a 30-member senate. Twenty other senators will be appointed by the British governor-general, Sir Robert Howe.

Results for the lower house are not expected to be known before the first week in December.

Begin Drive On Atrocities

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The United States today opened a decisive campaign in the United Nations to muster world condemnation of the Communists on charges of committing atrocities in Korea.

Red China and North Korea, backed by the Soviet bloc here, have refused to allow a UN impartial commission to investigate on-the-spot Soviet charges that the U. S. engaged in germ warfare in Korea.

The assembly's political committee heard pro-Western delegates argue into last night and up Saturday that Communist refusal to accept such an inquiry proved the charges were groundless.

The committee also rebuffed the Soviet bloc by referring to the disarmament commission its demands that the U. S. now sign the Geneva convention banning germ and gas warfare.

The U. S. has not signed the Geneva convention on the grounds it does not provide sufficient guarantees against the use of these weapons.

Cars Hit At Crossing Woman Slightly Hurt

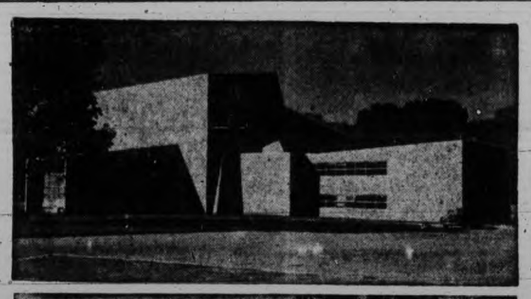
WARKORTH (ENS) — Two cars collided at the Oak Hill school intersection about four miles west of Warkworth shortly before 11 a.m. Sunday on the Oak Heights road.

A passenger in her husband's car, Mrs. Ed Pratt, was shaken up and received a bump on the head when thrown forward against the windshield by the impact.

The Pratts were driving east into Warkworth to attend a church service. Driver of the other car was Bert Sangster, Percy township.

His view of the intersection was blocked by a hill and trees. After the collision, the Sangster car continued on through the intersection. Both cars were slightly damaged.

Mrs. Pratt was later taken to Dr. John Free in Cambellford but her injuries were not serious.



Cannington Man Dies In Collision

Police said driver of the car was Eugene Boissonneault, 23, of nearby Bonfield.

COME ON, GRANDMA—Obviously enjoying the attention she's drawing, but perhaps a bit shy about it, a Chinese grandmother grins broadly as she takes part in a "Respect the Aged Day" in Taipeh. Clad in a richly embroidered kimono, she is led down the street by her grandson.

NEW ANGLES FOR COLLEGE MUSE—Departing from traditional concepts of college architecture, the new Sophronia Brooks Hall Auditorium on the campus of Oberlin College is causing a considerable stir among students and townspeople of Oberlin, Ohio. Said to be the most modern public building in Ohio, its angular roof and exterior walls, and its serpentine-like facade set it apart from its campus "mates." The $1,200,000 white limestone and brick structure seats 422, and is a gift to the college from an alumnus, Charles Martin Hall, discoverer of the electrolytic process of aluminum manufacture. It was designed by Wallace K. Harrison, who was the architect for the United Nations and Rockefeller Centre building. Rear view (top) shows striking assortment of planes and angles. Interesting shadow pattern plays on "serpentine" front wall (bottom).

Six other teen-agers injured in the crash are reported to be responding satisfactorily to treatment.

Embassy Files Routine Report

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States embassy announced today it will file a "routine report" to the state department concerning Sunday's demonstrations at the University of Toronto, in which students burned an effigy of Senator Joseph McCarthy.

An embassy spokesman said a telegram had been received signed "the Students of Victoria College" protesting the Republican senator's political activities. Victoria College is part of the University of Toronto.

In their telegram, the students said they were denouncing the senator "not as the man but as the symbol of American politics which has robbed the vitality of North American democracy."

The embassy spokesman said no comment would be made here and expressed doubt that any would be made in Washington.

Allowed To Stay 6 More Months

OTTAWA (CP) — A 63-year-old Vancouver woman will be allowed to remain another six months in Canada so she can arrange to go to a country of her own choice rather than be deported.

The immigration department has granted Mrs. Caterina Jacono Basha a six-months extension of her entry visa. She came to Canada last year on an Italian passport issued to her during the lifetime of her husband who was an Italian citizen. Later, she married Ellis T. Basha, a United States citizen.

Mrs. Basha went to court in Vancouver two weeks ago for an order to prevent the immigration department from deporting her to Italy when her passport ran out.

The court was told she probably would not be allowed to land in Italy and an order was granted.

The immigration department has ruled that she may remain in Canada another six months to find a country which will accept her.

Hamilton Girl To Have Fabulous Trip

HAMILTON (CP). — The royal summer palace at Bankok; the seaside home at Hua Hin; the weekend cottage at Sarika where elephants can be seen at work in the nearby teak forest. . .

They will all be part of a fabulous holiday that a Hamilton girl will soon have as the guest of Prince and Princess Chumhbot, of Thailand.

Miss Jean Firth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman F. Firth, leaves Wednesday for Thailand on a trip that recalls the adventures told in the book, Anna and the King of Siam.

A member of the Hamilton branch of the Canadian Red Cross Corps for the past 10 years, Miss Firth acted as attache to Prince and Princess Chumbhot at the 18th annual Red Cross conference in Toronto last year. Prince Chumbhot was the vice-president of the Siamese Red Cross at the time.

During the two weeks of the conference, Miss Firth became a close friend of the prince and princess, even spending a week in New York with them before they sailed for Thailand. Since then, the princess has been corresponding regularly with Miss Firth, urging her to visit them in Thailand.

Miss Firth will journey by air and will stop over in Hawaii, Japan and Hong Kong.

Salvage Ships Lift Hatch Covers Of Boat

SARNIA (CP) — Salvage ships have lifted the hatch covers from the sunken German motorship Wallschiff and will try to determine today how her cargo of steel sheeting can be removed.

The Wallschiff sank in the St. Clair river channel after colliding with the United States ore carrier Pioneer Oct. 2. One man died in the collision.

Divers found the current so swift they had to lash themselves to the sunken ship.

To facilitate unloading, an electro-magnet may be brought from Amherstburg to bring up the sheeting.

Says Prisoners Afraid To Go Home

By JOHN RANDOLPH

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A "very reliable" source said tonight that only chains of fear are holding back 19 of the 22 American war prisoners who have refused to return home.

The other three, he said, are confirmed Communists who are dominating the little group of Americans who stayed behind.

The source, who declined use of his name, said the three Communist Americans and their Red captors have drummed terror of going home into the 19 by telling them they now are "outside American law" and can be executed as traitors.

He painted this bleak picture of the neutral zone camp where the 22 Americans are held with one Briton and 332 South Koreans—a handful of deceived, bewildered and frightened men, afraid to remain behind but more fearful of going home because they believe home means death.

ONE RETURNED

Twenty-three Americans originally were turned over by the Reds to the neutral nations repatriation commission in September—men the Reds said had refused repatriation.

One, Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson, returned to the Allies last month by his own choice. Three South Koreans also have returned.

The 22 other Americans are awaiting interviews by the United Nations command on the possibility of their return. The UN command has not announced when it will begin.

The informant said letters from relatives and friends "probably would do more than anything else to convince the fearful 19 that they can be free Americans again."

More Supplies Sent To NATO Partners

OTTAWA (CP)—More Canadian military supplies, particularly vehicles, will be shipped this month to the French, Danish and Norwegian armies under the North Atlantic treaty's mutual aid agreement, the army said today.

[illegible] the second such shipment announced in the last week. During November, 18 ships will sail from Canadian ports to at least six NATO countries. Other countries receiving aid this month are Italy, Portugal and the Netherlands.

The new shipment includes 150 jeeps and batteries and 65 three-ton trucks for the French army, 48 trucks for the Norwegian army and 30 trucks for the Danish army. The ships will sail from Montreal and Hamilton.

Windsorite Turns Santa Claus With Float Tour

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—For thousands who line the streets of more than a dozen Ontario cities to view the annual Santa Claus parade, Ben Matlock is the nearest thing to Santa this side of the North Pole.

Ben is the paint-smeared genius behind the glittering, $30,000 two-mile long display which kindles the Christmas spirit in young and old.

He and his helpers, working in a large building which resembles an airport hangar, handle tons of papier mache, paint, silver rope, wire mesh, wooden frames, artificial snow and multi-colored cloth to fashion several new floats and remodel some of last year's for this year's parade.

Sketches are transformed into 18 giant floats to equal in splendor even the most vivid dreams of youngsters who have followed the adventures of Cinderella, Humpty Dumpty and dozens of other fairy-land folks.

With eight motorized floats hauling the other trailer floats they will head for cities as far away as Ottawa. The first engagement will be at Dearborn, Mich. During the last six years Ben has handled 100 parades in 20 cities.

PLAYS SANTA ROLE

Santa, usually Ben himself, rides a 50-foot, snow-covered combination truck-trailer on which is mounted the traditional sleigh and eight reindeer.

Other floats include a three-car candy train, Jack the Giant Killer, the Old Woman in the Shoe and her children, and Cinderella in a posh carriage. Ben draws many ideas from his library which includes probably the largest private collection of children's books in Canada.

He and his wife and three children live in a cottage adjoining the plant, situated on three acres of land in suburban Windsor.

Born in a small community near Kingsville, Ont., some 50 years ago Ben first showed his artistic ability on one of the walls of a house his family occupied. Later he became a decorator in a Detroit department store.

STARTED OWN FIRM

Six years ago he started the firm of B. G. Matlock, Ltd., here to create animated characters and displays for Canadian stores. He got the idea for the Santa parades after Windsor merchants paid $2,000 to import a parade from the United States. En route the parade ran into a hurricane and presented a tattered sight by the time it arrived here.

The following year Ben made some models and won the financial support of a merchants' association. The parade has been going ahead ever since.

Another pet project is the possibility of creating a "Parade of Progress" which would tour about 30 of the major fall fairs in the province. If he can get enough support from various industries and firms, he said, the parade could be extended later to take in more of the 200 fairs held in Ontario annually.

Shadow Cabinet Of PC Party Has Little Change

OTTAWA (CP)—The official Opposition, the Progressive Conservative party, will start the 22nd Parliament Nov. 12 with its shadow cabinet virtually unchanged from the last session.

The shadow cabinet is composed of the chairmen of committees charged with studying the activities of government departments. It also represents the men the Opposition leader probably would name to the cabinet if called to form a government.

Only two former members are missing from the new line-up. They are Gordon Graydon, member for Peel who died recently, and Percy Black, former member for Cumberland, who did not run in the Aug. 10 election.

Mr. Graydon was chairman of the Opposition's external affairs committee, deputy Opposition House leader and chairman at meetings of committee heads. Mr. Black was chairman of the resources and development committee.

Hon. George Drew, Opposition leader, has not yet announced successors.

Cabinet Ends CPA Hearings

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet Saturday concluded hearings on an application by Canadian Pacific Airlines for a transcontinental freight-flying licence and Prime Minister St. Laurent said he hopes for an early decision.

The CPA application calls for a reversal of government air policy, which up to now has reserved main-line operations between east and west for the publicly-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines. TCA opposed granting the Canadian Pacific franchise.

At the close of two-day cabinet hearings Mr. St. Laurent said he looks for an early decision because the issue has been hanging fire for a long time. The CPA application was made originally to the air transport board last February.

However, the prime minister said he doubted a verdict would be reached before Parliament assembles Nov. 12.

Soviet Insists Wife Beating Must Go

By RICHARD R. KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—The ladies of the Soviet Union are not getting an even break from their menfolk and Kremlin over-lords are unhappy about it.

Wife-beating, polygamy and child brides are under fire. Such practices, says Pravda, Communist party organ, are in violation of one of the keystones of Communist policy: Equal rights for women.

Actually, equal rights for women in Russia is more theory than practice. Female workers do most of the heavy work on Soviet farms and a good part of it in Soviet industry. Moscow street-cleaning gangs are heavily staffed with women. Not many Soviet women reach positions high in the government.

But Pravda brings up its heavy artillery to blast at such feudal practices" as plural marriages, wife-beating and the like. It says these must go.

MOSLEMS BEHIND TIMES

Things are especially bad in the Soviet republic of Uzbekistan, where Moslems make up a large part of the population. Authorities there, Pravda warns, are behind the times with "a wrong attitude toward women."

Pravda bears down on a case involving one Kemal Rakhimov, a "certified teacher of philology, a good chap in the opinion of his drinking pals, but, in reality, a petty man."

Kemal laid seige some time ago to the heart of a student of his, a buxom lass by the name of Khalima Akmedova.

Said Pravda:

"With what heartfelt shyness and pure joy did Khalima meet Kemal. She sang the finest songs for him. She read beautiful poetry to him."

And then they were married.

TURNED HER OUT

Things went along fine at first. Then Kemal started stepping out—without Khalima. There were fights. Then Kemal made his big mistake, at least as far as Pravda is concerned. He took a whip to his wife and turned her out in the street.

Town officials heard about it, but didn't take action. Pravda tells why:

"They were having troubles with their own multiple wives and their hands were full."

Pravda now insists something be done about Kemal and others who practise such "barbaric customs and scorn the human dignity of women."

There's a lot of bustling in Uzbekistan now. But it's a tough job to shed plural wives in a hurry. Kemal and his indulgent town officials are hoping the whole thing will blow over.

Author Found Hanged In Country Home

MCLEAN, Va. (AP)—Randolph Leigh, 62, author, traveler and former newspaperman, was found hanged in his country home Sunday, with the body of his 42-year-old wife nearby. She had been killed by a shotgun blast.

The bodies were discovered by the couple's two-year-old son, Richard and the six-year-old granddaughter of Mrs. Leigh by a previous marriage.

Making the discovery, the children ran to the nearby home of Dr. Randolph Leigh, Jr., son of the dead man by his first marriage. Dr. Leigh ran back to the other house, cut down the rope which held his father, and called police.

Authorities sid not immediately Authorities did not immediately Leigh's death.

LEFT NOTE

Police said the dead man left a three-page note which he had written after the woman was killed.

Dr. Leigh told reporters that his father's note indicated that the shooting was accidental, but that he felt he would have a difficult time proving it was accidental, and that because of his two-year-old son's future he felt it best to take his own life.

Police said that the dead woman was Leigh's third wife.

Leigh, a native of Memphis, Tenn., was publisher of the Cheyenne, Wyo., State Leader and the Sheridan, Wyo., Enterprise from 1916 to 1920. The three subsequent years he was an editorial writer for the Los Angeles Times.

Leigh organized the national intercollegiate oratorical contest. He was the author of several books.

Flying Discs Back Again

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Those flying saucers have come back to haunt southwestern Ontario skies.

A Talbotville report two weeks ago hinted that "flying discs" were back in circulation again but a 45-year-old Lambeth man pinned it down positively Saturday night. "It couldn't have been an aircraft," said Oscar Plewes. "It was flying low and I got a good look at it. Besides it was completely noiseless."

Mr. Plewes said "it was about 1,000 feet high and must have been travelling at least 500 m.p.h."

The front half, said Mr. Plewes, was shaped like a V and was brilliantly lit up. The back part was round. "It was a monstrous size, bigger than the giant American B36 planes," he added.

Two weeks ago a flash of silver that streaked like lightning across the sky near Talbotville stopped traffic along the Lambeth to Port Stanley highway as passengers tumbled out of cars to watch.

Railroader Dies

OTTAWA (CP)—George Arthur Stone, 81, a member of the board of transport commissioners for 15 years, died Saturday following an illness. Mr. Stone, who had been a railroader in the Maritimes and rail union executive for many years, became a transport commissioner in 1932 and retired in 1947. He had previously been chairman of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Approve Resolutions On Superannuation

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — No. 1 district, the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, Saturday approved two resolutions urging changes in present superannuation and Salary plans.

The 150 teachers from Essex and Kent counties suggested that a study be made of the present system of superannuation "with a view to overhauling the system to provide for greater benefits and improved conditions."

The second resolution supported the attempts by members of the Toronto branch who are seeking recognition of secondary school teachers as a separate bargaining unit. The resolution said secondary school teachers should not be groups with other teachers in wage bargaining and should be allowed to appeal for a single salary schedule.

Regimental Reunion

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — The Lincoln and Welland Regiment held its annual reunion here during the weekend. The First and Second World War veterans held cenotaph ceremonies and a church parade Sunday.

Blames Industry For Tensions

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. W. H. Cruickshank, medical director of the Bell Telephone Company, Montreal, says that an "alarming proportion" of tensions that can induce alcoholism stem from the demands of industry.

This was especially true of jobs involving great monotony, deadlines and excessive or ill-defined responsibility.

He was speaking Saturday at a conference of the Ontario alcoholism research foundation, attended by about 150 social workers and representatives of industrial and government management.

Dr. Cruickshank said that a little more than three per cent of alcoholics require intensive psychiatric treatment and about 10 per cent require medical attention. The remainder could be helped by counselling.

Fatal Accident

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Allen Gilmour Deer, 24, died Sunday night from what doctors said was an embolism which developed after an accident Oct. 29 in which both his legs were crushed. A spokesman for the construction company which employed him said that, while Deer was working at a machine shop bench, someone stepped on the starter of a truck which was in high gear. The truck jumped forward, and pinned Deer against the bench.

Fire Fatal To One

MONTREAL (CP) — One man died in a fire Saturday at the plant of the Nu-Way Lambskin Processors, Ltd., and a 16-year-old youth was taken to hospital in serious condition. The body recovered was identified as that of Irving Steinberg, 53. Georges Cormond was taken to hospital. Between 30 and 40 employees were said to have been in the plant when the fire broke out. The cause was not known.

$40,000 Jewelry, Car Stolen From Traveller

Man Tossed 75 Feet By Car, Dies

Havelock Resident Killed On Road 2 Miles From Town

Struck by an eastbound car, 78-year-old Joseph Lewis of Havelock was thrown or carried for 75 feet in a fatal accident two miles west of Marmora on Monday night. He is believed to have been killed instantly.

The elderly pensioner was walking east on the travelled portion of the road when he was hit by the car, driven by Hugh Kenneth Robinson, 47, of Richmond Hill.

Dr. Parkin of Marmora went to the accident and on arrival declared Lewis dead.

ORDERS INQUEST

A preliminary inquest was ordered by Coroner Dr. S. R. Beatty of Madoc later Monday night. After the body was identified the inquest was adjourned to Nov. 17.

For some time Lewis had been living in Marmora with his daughter, Mrs. Harry Keating, but his home for the last 40 years was Havelock. His son Harry, a CPR employee, also lives in Havelock.

When struck by Robinson's car he was hitch-hiking back to his daughter's home from Havelock. Apparently he had already got a ride part of the way and was walking along the highway, looking for a lift, when he met his death.

There is a straight stretch of highway where the fatality

Churchill Says Russ Rulers Busy At Home

LONDON (AP). — Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill said today it was possible to "conclude" that the new Russian rulers were now more interested in their own domestic affairs rather than external aggression.

He told the House of Commons it was with this idea in mind that he proposed a meeting of the Big Three Western heads of state with Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov.

The 78-year-old statesman recalling the death of Stalin and the assumption of power by Malenkov, stated:

been far reaching changes in the temper and outlook of the immense populations, now so largely literate, who inhabit all the Russias and that their mind has turned to internal betterment rather than external aggression.

CAN AFFORD ATTEMPT

"We can afford, if vigiliance is not relaxed and strength not suffered again to dwindle, to await developments in a hopeful and, I trust, helpful mood.

"The only really sure guide to the actions of mighty nations and powerful governments is a correct estimate of what are, and what they consider to be, their own interests.

"Applying that test, I feel a sense of reassurance. Studying our own strength and that of Europe, under the massive American shield, I do not find it unreasonable or dangerous to conclude that internal prosperity, rather than external conquest, is not only the deep desire of the Russian peoples but also the long interest of their rulers."

RAPID DEVELOPMENT

Churchill referred to what he called the "rapid and ceaseless development of atomic warfare and the hydrogen bomb," and added:

"These fearful scientific discoveries cast their shadows on every thoughtful mind, but still I believe we are justified in feeling that there has been a diminution of tension and that the probabilities of another war have diminished, or at least become more remote."

Churchill made his statement even as Moscow radio claimed that Soviet scientists have created "several types of atomic and hydrogen bombs."

Churchill declared that "When the advance of destructive weapons enables everyone to kill every-

Police Find Car On Road In Monaghan

Trunk Still Locked - But Valuable Gems No Longer Inside

Theft of $40,000 in jewelry from a traveller's car stolen Monday night has been confirmed by city detectives.

For a time it was thought the jewelry might still be in the locked trunk, but removal of the car's rear seat enabled detectives to enter the trunk and find the valuables no longer there.

Toronto jewelry salesman Clifford Phillips reported to police Monday night that his car, containing $40,000 worth of watches, rings and gems, had been stolen from the King St. parking space he had been using.

The car was found about 8:30 a.m. today abandoned on a road in North Monaghan township. The trunk was still locked.

BELIEVED OUTSIDE

Theory then was that a youth or group of youths had taken the car for a joyrite without realizing the value of the trunk's contents.

How the car was stolen baffles police. I was equipped with a burglar alarm which would sound a siren if the doors or trunk were opened or the hood lifted.

However, the alarm was of the open circuit type. If a wire forming part of such an alarm is cut, the alarm will not sound. Police believe the thief would have a difficult job cutting the wire, since that would necessitate going beneath the car and reaching up to grab and snip the correct wire.

SIMILAR THEFT

The car was equipped with the alarm system after a similar theft in Pembroke.

4th Ship Blast In 17 Days; Suspect Sabotage

BOSTON — (AP) — Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, Rep. Mass. called today for a "complete investigation" of sabotage in the fire Monday aboard the Norwegian freighter Black Falcon— the fourth ship ablaze on the Boston waterfront in 17 days— which took seven lives. A three-way inquiry was begun to determine exact cause of blast. A three-member coast guard court of inquiry convened at Constitution wharf. The Boston fire department's arson squad opened an independent survey and the army, at whose base the ship was berthed, also is investigating.

Mrs. Rogers said she has informed the defence secretary that "four ship fires—two of them extremely serious—in a few weeks create great concern."

WILL RECONVENE

Meanwhile, the navy announced a court of inquiry which has been investigating an explosion and fire aboard the aircraft carrier Leyte on Oct. 16 with a loss of 37 lives will reconvene Thursday. The navy is not officially concerned [illegible] Black Falcon [illegible] which occurred only a short distance from the Leyte disaster.

Eighteen persons were injured Monday, 13 of them longshoremen; the others, firefighters. The dead were all longshoremen working in the hold of the vessel.

The seven victims either were killed outright by the blast or burned to death by the roaring fire which shot flames 200 feet in the air.

The victims included a father and son—Anthony Bensaia, 53, and Alvin L. Bensaia, 24—who were working their first day as longshoremen.

5 JUMP OVERBOARD

In addition to those killed and injured in the hold, five firefighters suffered burns that required hospital attention.

Edward F. Montgomery, chief of the Boston fire department's arson squad, said after a preliminary survey of the scene that it is his theory the explosion was caused by a mixture of chemicals.

Federal Taxes Crippling Municipalities

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec Chamber of Commerce said today heavy federal taxes have created an "untenable" situation for Canadian provinces and municipalities.

In a preliminary brief prepared for delivery before the royal commission set up by the Quebec government to look into federal-provincial relations, the 25,000-member chamber said the federal government collects such large sums of national tax revenues that "provinces and municipalities no longer have the required freedom of action to meet the needs of their population."

Public sittings of the six-man commission, presided over by Chief Judge Thomas Tremblay of Quebec City court of sessions, opened today eight months after it was set up on recommendation of the chamber.

STUDY ALL ASPECTS

The commission's mandate is to study all aspects of a problem that is not new to Quebec.

Quebec is the only province not at present drawing federal subsidies in return for certain taxation rights.

The Quebec chamber said that under the British North America Act provinces are limited to direct taxation and it is "vital" for them not only to keep their rights in this field, but also to be in the position of exercising these rights freely.

Entry by the federal government into the income tax field "to the point of saturation" had made the provinces' position "untenable."

"This evolution toward centralization of taxation powers reached its peak in 1942. Taking advantage of circumstances the federal government obtained from all the provinces the guarantee that expenditures would be limited and that taxation would be withheld in the principal fields."

Hospital Death Rate Down 58% In Year

WINDSOR — (CP) — The death rate at East Windsor Hospital, an institution for the chronically ill which was subject of a months-long inquiry in 1952, has dropped 58 per cent during the last seven months, it was announced.

Fifty-eight persons died at the hospital during the seven months since the new board of directors took over in place of the board which was dismissed by Attorney-General Porter following the royal commission inquiry into the hospital's affairs.

The death rate figures were released Monday by Dr. John Nettleton, new superintendent, with the permission of board chairman Ian R. McFarlane, appointed to head the new board by Mr. Porter.

The report said that while the number of patients has remained substantially unchanged, the number of deaths has shown sharp decreases since last March.

The 58 deaths during the last seven months gave an average of 8.3 deaths a month. During the immediate preceding eight-month period, the report said, 155 persons died at the hospital for a monthly average of 19.4.

Dr. Nettleton said th decreased death rate was due largely to increases in the medical staff and a vigorous occupational therapy and physiotherapy program.

No Canadian Welcome At Queen's Request

OTTAWA (CP)—At the Queen's request, there will be no Canadian welcome for her, formal or informal, when she stops briefly at Gander, Nfld., Nov. 24, it was learned authoritatively today at the state department.

The plane carrying Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to Bermuda in the start of their Australasian tour is scheduled to make a 1½-hour refuelling stop at Gander at 3:45 a. m. NST Nov. 24.

Queen Opens Parliament Pledges Fight For Peace

LONDON — (CP)—The Queen, radiant in jewelled crown and imperial robes, opened Parliament today by reading the speech from the throne, in which Sir Winston Churchill's government solemnly pledged to use the vast resources of the Commonwealth in the fight for a lasting peace.

The speech said Britain will campaign relentlessly for a four-power conference aimed at "the relaxation of international tension and the preservation of peace."

Major surprise of the speech was its failure to mention impending legislation to amend the Regency Act and relieve Princess Margaret of the ruling responsibility in the event of the death or incapacity of the Queen to perform her duties.

Under the forthcoming law, it is believed, the Duke of Edinburgh would become Regent until his son, heir-apparent Prince Charles, reaches 18.

R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, told the last session of parliament that such a bill would be introduced soon.

No A-Bombs Stored In Spain

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. State Secretary Dulles said today the United States has no plans for storing atomic weapons in Spain.

If and when the United States has such plans, Dulles said, it will not announce it to the world and potential enemies.

Dulles spoke at a press conference one day after Harold E. Talbott, secretary of the air force, said in Madrid Monday that the air force eventually will store supplies of atomic bombs in Spain, to have them ready for use against "a common enemy."

Talbott said the storing would be done only if the Spanish government agreed.

Dulles told the conference he did not know precisely what Talbott or Gen. Nathan Twining, air force chief of staff, had said. He added, however, he was sure Talbott and Twining would be surprised at the headlines in American newspapers about what they were reported to have said.

Living Costs Continue Climb

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs in Canada and the United States are in step. Both are rising.

In Canada a continuous, four-month increase brought consumer prices in August to a 16-month high. In the U.S. the average American paid more for his basic living needs in September than ever before.

Officials here say that for the present at least, they feel economic conditions are good and prices will remain strong.

Meanwhile, the bureau of statistics is preparing the result of the September cost-of-living survey. It is expected tomorrow.

PARIS (AP)—A French foreign ministry spokesman said tonight that the Soviet reply to the Big Three's request for a four-power meeting on Germany and Austria Nov. 9 at Lugano was delivered today to the Moscow embassies of Britain, France and the United States.

Former Matron In Fraud Plot

TORONTO (CP)—Frances Shirak 28, a former matron at Toronto's Don Jail, was held by police today after what they described as the uncovering of a well-planned scheme that will leave an elderly woman penniless when she leaves Kingston Penitentiary.

Miss Shirak was charged with defrauding Anna Maydan of Toronto out of $2,800. She was remanded to Nov. 9.

Mrs. Maydan was imprisoned last year when convicted of manslaughter in the death of her husband. It was at the penitentiary that Miss Shirak interviewed her, posing as a member of a law firm, police said.

They said Miss Shirak talked Mrs. Maydan into signing over the power of attorney to her and then sold the Maydan home for $2,800.

Mrs. Graydon To Be Nominated

BRAMPTON (CP)—Mrs. Daisy Graydon said today she will let her name stand at a Nov. 20 Progressive Conservative nomination meeting in Peel riding, the federal seat her 56-year-old husband, Gordon Graydon, held when he died Sept. 19.

A native of Stayner, Ont., and a member of a well-known Peel county family, Mrs. Graydon was the former Daisy Giffin. She taught school in this town 12 miles northwest of Toronto before her marriage in 1927. She is the mother of three girls.

Mr. Graydon was foreign affairs expert for the Progressive Conservative party and a member of early Canadian delegations to the United Nations.

Canada May Set Up Permanent Office

BERLIN (Reuters)—The Canadian government is considering setting up a permanent emigration information office in West Berlin, a Canadian official said here today.

Hitherto a Canadian immigration team has made regular trips from West Germany, said the Canadian pavilion at the recent West Berlin industrial exhibition led to many inquiries about emigration possibilites.

Police had to turn people away from the first meeting because the hall couldn't hold them all.

Threaten Police With Eviction

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) The Ontario government has threatened the police department with eviction unless it moves from the provincially - owned courthouse.

The department was originally ordered to move by May 1 but the order was held up when preparations were started for a new police building. City council last week decided to delay start on a new building because of high costs.

Council received a letter last night from Sheriff W. H. Birks threatening court action if the department does not move.

Report 5 Killed In 12-Car Crash

The five killed were occupants of a car headed toward Walterboro. It and another vehicle collided shortly after dawn about one-half mile from town.

Woods fires had left a pall of smoke in the area where the vehicles hit. Ten other vehicles, including a Greyhound bus and a tanker truck, piled into the wreckage or ran off the road on either side to avoid collision. The pile-up occurred on a long curve.

Find Mystery Mine - Barrel Of Tallow

DILLON BEACH, Calif. (AP)— Demolition experts from the army and navy Monday exploded a "mystery mine" which floated up on Dillon Beach last weenend.

The corroded iron cylinder, first identified as some type of unknown mine or depth charge, turned out to be a barrel of tallow lost from some coastal steamer months ago.

Giving Reds Rough Time

Korean PoWs Drown Out Interviewers

By JOHN RANDOLPH

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Tough, jaunty Korean prisoners-of-war rejected Communism today by more than 96 per cent, turning Red efforts to win them home into a taunting, cursing attack on Communist interviewers.

The prisoners easily dominated the interview sessions.

The explanations ended in less than six hours with only 17 of 483 interviewed choosing to return to North Korea.

A North Korean general observing the operation sank down on a bench, his grey, gold and scarlet uniform glittering in the sun, and glumly held his head.

The interviews began after the Reds had made loudspeaker broadcasts to the North Koreans, only to have them drowned out in a roar of yells and singing from the PoWs.

The PoWs stormed into the interview tents shouting South Korean army slogans. Many screamed and chanted throughout the interviews.

The language of these prisoners was the vilest in the Korean tongue.

One prisoner had learned the English equivalents and threw them at the uncomprehending North Korean colonel who interviewed him. It was lost on all but the American observer present and the Indian chairman, who was forced to bite his lips to repress a laugh.

Soviet Clothes Drab

Canadian's Shoes Attract Russians

(Editor's Note: Gerald Clark, staff writer with Weekend Picture Magazine and the Examiner's Saturday magazine section, is the first Canadian newspaperman to receive a working visa to the Soviet Union since 1946. This series of six daily despatches from Moscow will be followed by other articles from Clark on Soviet Union in early issues of WEEKEND.

MOSCOW, November 3 — My shoes, more than anything else, stamp me as a foreigner in this capital of the Soviet Union. I'm always conscious of them. Passers-by stare at my feet, and then look up to see what manner of man wears such fine shoes (they cost $16 at home). Not that they aren't wearing shoes here. They are, of poor quality.

But when they look, I don't think it's with resentment. What little exchange of conversation I've had with people in cafes and in government offices adds up to this: "Okay, maybe we're lacking in some things, but give us time. In another few years we'll have more consumer goods and we'll be very comfortable."

This hope ties in with the recent and, for this part of the world, extremely frank pronouncement of Premier Malenkov that consumer production must rise, and with it must come an improvement in quality. Already there are a few small indications that the new policy is being enforced. Stores display more goods than a few months ago, and even though prices are high every offering is quickly grabbed up.

You get the same explanation—that conditions will improve — when you see the drabness of the people on the streets. They're adequately clothed but the sight that struck me at first was the baggy, wide-bottomed trousers of the men and the nfeminine styles of the women. Most of the structures here are of brick, covered with a yellowish plaster, some of which is fading.

MORE IMPORTANT THINGS

Muscovites point out that they have more important things to do than scrub facades or press trousers or go in for fancy hair-does. Among other matters, they're still recovering from the war and rebuilding the most heavily-hit cities. There are constant reminders that 7,000,000 Russians died in World War II.

Still, I've had a western diplomat, who's lived here since 1944, tell me that the change for the better, in the last few years, is considerable. At the Metropole Hotel, where I'm staying, the biggest tip you could give a waitress in 1946 was the bread left over from your meal. Today, rationing no longer exists, and food, by Russian standards, is plentiful. I have no way of making comparisons myself, but some of the experts at foreign embassies claim that, physically, Russians today are living better than at any tim in the past.

Despite the transition, the government is obviously aware that the people want even better conditions. Moscow, surprisingly enough, covers an area about the size of Vancouver, and you can drive from the centre of town to the outskirts in 15 minutes. Yet 6,000,000 people are jammed into it. New apartment blocks are going up, and so are a few buildings ranging up to 20 storeys. (You don't call them "skyscrapers"—that's too American a term).

TWO COMPLETED

Two of these multi-storeyed buildings are now complete—one for the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the other for Moscow University, which vaguely resembles the University of Montreal. The tall ones look strangely out of keeping with the rest of the city's six-floor flats and offices. But they're part of the "New Look" which every Russian keeps talking about.

The New Look also boasts some paradoxes. You see signs that proclaim "Citizens, drink champagne," "Citizens, take taxis," "Citizens, smoke cigars." This doesnt mean that the Soviet Union now approves of all capitalist practices. Far from it. No brand names are mentioned in the slogans, because there are no competing brands. Every bottle of pop you drink, every cigarette you smoke is stamped C.C.C.P., the Russian for U.S.S.R. The nearest I've come to private enterprise is the shoe-shine boy who hangs around the entrance to my hotel. You could also add to this the farmer who's allowed to sell some surplus in the open-square market—an encouragement for higher yield.

Otherwise everything you do or buy is through the state. I still can't get over the weird feeling that the women who sweep the streets or dig ditches have the same boss as the relatively attractive girl who serves my breakfast. Stop at the corner kiosk for a pair of shoelaces, or for a bar of ice cream from one of the innumerable portable stalls, and you're dealing with someone who works at least a co-operative. Go to a newsstand and line up for the morning edition of Pravda, and everyone in sight, including the vendor, gets his rubles from just one source.

On second thoughts, I've found one touch of home. It used to be that tips were frowned on, as undignified to the human soul. People in service trades—such as waiters and hat check women—don't demand a tip, but they won't refuse it. Ten per cent on a bill for vodka is just right.

Convicts Sleep Off Bender

Go On Weekend Binge With Sleeping Pills

WALLA WALLS, Wash. (AP)— All was quiet at the Washington state penitentiary Monday night.

It should have been.

Warden John Cranor tells this story:

Prisoners working at the penitentiary's warehouse got curious Saturday when a shipment of war-surplus hospital supplies arrived. They happened to open a box containing 40,000 Nembutal tablets.

They passed 10,000 pills around to other convicts and, as one guard put it:

"By Monday morning the whole prison population had rubber legs. A man would be walking down the sidewalk and fall flat on his face."

A shakedown by prison guards, Cranor said, turned up most of the pills not gobbled down by the prisoners or flushed down the toilets just prior to the shakedown.

Roodman Found Guilty Of Manslaughter

CORNWALL (CP) — Max Roodman, 40, will be sentenced today for manslaughter in connection with a bus-truck collision near Morrisburg July 31 which killed 20 persons.

Evidence was that Roodman was the driver of an unlighted pickup truck stalled on No. 2 highway about 4 a.m. July 31. An eastbound bus crashed into the truck and both vehicles plunged into the Williamsburg canal running parallel to the highway.

Twenty of the 37 bus passengers were drowned.

Roodman was charged specifically in the death of Ordinary Seaman John Fanya of Hamilton and Churchill, Man.

Roodman, testifying on his own behalf, said that when his truck stalled he turned out the lights "because my battery was weak."

He said he had trouble with the truck at Newcastle and while leaving there he ran into a subway wall and damaged the right front fender. At Brockville, police detained him half an hour when he refused to say what caused the damage to the fender.

MISSED TURN

"I was supposed to go to Ottawa but somehow I missed the turn near Prescott," said Roodman.

The truck developed more trouble near Morrisburg, he said. It stalled and other truck drivers helped him get it started again. The lights went out "only momentarily" twice between Brockville and Morrisburg, he said.

Near Morrisburg, he parked off the highway 20 to 25 minutes "to let the truck cool off." Then he started east along the highway again and the truck was "in good running order with the lights working," he said.

SAW NOTHING

"The truck stalled in the south lane of the highway after half a mile. I looked back to see if the road was clear. There was nothing on the road.

"Then I put out the lights because my battery was weak. I noticed one truck pass me. Then I found myself in the water. After that, I was in Cornwall General Hospital for five weeks with three or four broken ribs and other broken bones."

Roodman said he was not used to driving on the highway at night.

"When I met oncoming cars, their lights blinded me and I stopped several times."

Cross-examined, he said he failed a driver's test "five or six times" before obtaining an operator's licence at Dundas. He said he had been driving for five weeks before the accident.

Italian Inventor Makes New Claim

GENOA, Italy (AP)—An Italian inventor claimed Monday night in an interview with the Genoa newspaper, Il Secolo XIX, that he had succeeded in the wireless transmission of electric power.

The inventor, Capt. Giuseppe de Nitto, a former chief engineer in the Italian merchant marine, said he made his first successful tests two months ago.

Electric energy transmitted without wires operated an electric motor which had been slightly modified, he said.

De Nitto did not explain how far the receiver was from the transmitter or what kind of equipment was used. He said details would have to remain secret until he has patented the principle.

Montagu Plans Return To U.K.

LONDON (Reuters) — Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, 26, will return to England "shortly to face charges for which a warrant for his arrest has bene issued", his lawyers said today.

Montagu, a bachelor, was in the United States when magistrates at Lymington, Hampshire, issued the warrant Oct. 15. He now is in France. His lawyers indicated he had deliberately stayed away until after last week's wedding of his sister, one of the year's big social events.

The magistrates said the charges against Montagu and a friend, Kenneth Hume, who also is out of the country concerned Boy Scouts who were camping near Beaulieu, Montagu's Hampshire estate, last summer.

(Montagu's own engagement to Miss Ann Gage, 21, history student at Oxford University, was broken off last month.)

Bishop Asks Boycott On Newspapers

EXETER, England (AP) — The Anglican bishop of Exeter, Dr. R. C. Mortimer, today called on Christians to boycott British newspapers that exploit sex in their news columns.

Speaking at the Exeter diocesan conference attended by clergy and laymen from all parts of Devon, the bishop said:

"The trouble I suspect is that many of us church people enjoy the titillations which these papers supply and persuade ourselves that we suffer no harm in reading them.

"We are wrong. The situation has become too serious. It is the duty of every Christian to be honest with himself and to refuse to buy the papers of which he knows his moral principles force him to disapprove."

SAYS PUBLIC AROUSED

He said the "near pornography of some parts of the press" had come under public protest.

"These protests are valuable and healthy," he said, "but more valuable and healthy are the protests beginning to come from within the press itself."

"It is obvious that any effective reform or any salutary raising of standards must be the work of those who are themselves responsible for the production of newspapers. A little discipline on their part is worth more than any amount of external control, censorship or regimentation."

Queen Opens

A spokesman said: "He is preparing the speech he will make to the House of Commons later today."

WORK WITH U.S.

"My government are resolved to work constantly in harmony with the government of the United States," the speech said.

"My government will continue to regard the relaxation of international tension and the preservation of peace as a basis of their policy. To this end they are persisting in their efforts to bring about an early meeting between the Soviet Union and the three Western powers."

The young monarch wore the priceless imperial state crown, containing 2,783 diamonds, 277 pearls, 18 sapphires, 11 emeralds and five rubies.

FIRST TIME

This was the first time the Queen had worn the crown since the Coronation last June. The world's ambassadors listened in a special box and the Duke of Edinburgh, leaned forward to catch each word.

"My government will continue to take their full part in all efforts by the United Nations to promote international co-operation. The North Atlantic alliance is fundamental to my government's policy, and they will do their utmost to keep it vital and strong.

"My government are resolved to work constantly in harmony with the government of the United States of America. They will also continue to co-operate with their partners in Western Europe to promote European unity and economic well-being. They hope to see the early establishment of the European Defency Community (the European army) and will afford it all possible support.

AUSTRIAN TREATY

"My government will continue to work for a settlement of the problem of German unity, in conjunction with the governments of France and the United States and in consultation with the German federal government. They will also maintain their efforts for the conclusion of an Austrian state treaty."

High up on the agenda of world affairs would be efforts for the resumption of normal relations with Iran, as a step towards the solution of the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

Under domestic affairs, the speech dropped a hint that before long there may be some further curtailment in the hereditary rights of the House of Lords.

Reflecting the changing pattern of British life, it also dealt with such topics as atomic energy and commercial television.

It disclosed plans to transfer the atomic energy program from government hands—it now is controlled by the ministry of supply—to a corporation, and said there will be a discussion of television, now a BBC monopoly. Some form of commercial TV is expected to emerge.

The speech stressed the importance the government attaches to consultations with other members of the Commonwealth. It promised action to check the high accident rate on British roads, to maintain full employment by striving for export trade, and to build more houses.

TO END RESTRICTIONS

The speech also promised a bill to end present restrictions on private trading in raw cotton, and steps to encourage farmers to produce more food, combined with a marketing scheme to take over when rationing ends, probably next year.

The statement about reforms of the House of Lords said simply "my ministers will give further consideration to the question."

A bill to reform the 850-member upper house is not expected this session, but the government evidently plans a new effort for all-party talks on reform. Last year similar talks broke down on the powers the peers should have to delay legislation. At present they can hold up a bill passed by the Commons for one year. There may be an effort to restrict membership—many peers do not implement their right to attend sessions—and to admit women.

The speech referred to the forthcoming Royal tour of Australia and New Zealand and said the Queen "looks forward eagerly" to visiting the dominions.

In connection with the absence from the speech of mention of the regency act, Reuters News Agency quoted political spokesmen as saying there were "technical reasons" for not referring to it.

BEST SINCE CORONATION

The occasion today was the first full show of pageantry since the Coronation. The Queen drove in the autumn sunshine from Buckingham Palace with the duke in the Irish state coach.

Thousands gathered before Buckingham Palace as the cavalcade clattered through the wide-flung gates and disappeared into the inner courtyard.

ROUNDS OUT YEAR

Today's ceremony rounded out a glorious Coronation year for the Queen. And the procession through the streets provided Londoners with probably their last Royal ceremony for some time. On Nov. 23, the Queen and her husband will leave for the six-month Royal tour of Australia and New Zealand.

Troops of the Household Cavalry preceded the Royal coach down the Mall and through Whitehall, lined with Grenadier Guardsmen. She was handed out of the coach by the duke, dressed as an admiral of the fleet, who then escorted her into the House of Lords. After donning the state crown, the Queen walked into the peers' chamber surrounded by her escorts from the College of Arms and by her officers of state.

Philip showed her to her raised throne, crossed in front of her and sat at her left on a smaller, lower throne.

As the Royal procession entered the chamber, the lights suddenly blazed on in full. Diamonds and other jewels flashed and sparkled in every corner of the room.

Under her Imperial robes, the Queen wore a full-skirted dress of white lace mounted on stiff white satin and embroidered in gold and silver outlines of the rose, the thistle, the leek and the shamrock —the national emblems of England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland.

At the end of the speech, the Queen arose, and bowed to the left and the right after receiving curtsies from the assembly.

Then she stepped down from the dias, and hand in hand with the duke, walked slowly out of the chamber.

Present among the diplomats was the Canadian high commissioner, Norman Robertson. Field Marshal Earl Alexander, former Canadian governor-general, bore the sword of state which he held upraised through the reading of the throne speech.

Police Find

Three witnesses within 50 yards of the car heard nothing. Two of the men, Donald McGillis, operator of the McGillis hotel, and Andrew Price of Sherbrooke St., noticed the vehicle pulling away from the parking spot.

The car had been parked on the south side of King St. in front of Fanning's Laundry, just west of an adjacent laneway and facing toward George St. when Phillips left it to eat dinner at the nearby Foster's restaurant.

The car was locked and the alarm, which when set off sounds a horn or siren, was set.

After lunching, the salesman returned to the scene, found his car missing, and phoned police shortly before 7:30. He then rushed over to Avalon Taxi office and tried to get a cab to take him to the station.

Hugh Davis, operator of the cab company, quoting him as saying: "Did you hear a siren? My car's been stolen."

There was some difficulty in obtaining a taxi, however, and a private car owner drove Phillips to the station.

"It certainly didn't go off," Davis said later, referring to the car alarm. "If it had, I would probably have heard it."

Phillips had left Toronto Monday morning and stopped in at a motel outside of Peterborough where he engaged a room for the night. He then proceeded into the city and visited McFadden's Jewellers.

After leaving there, he drove up to Haliburton on other business and returned here just before going to dinner. His car, 1953 light tan Ford has the license 6A247. The jewelry in the trunk consisted of watches, rings and gems.

THROWN 75 FEET

The impact was so great that Lewis was thrown or carried — Robinson isn't sure which — 75 feet down the highway. Robinson went to a nearby service station where the attendant called Marmora provincial police. Constables R. J. Devey and Art Bolyer investigated.

Lewis was born in Cardiff, Wales, the son of the late Vernon Lewis and Mary Llewellyn. He came to Canada by himself, when only 12 years of age.

For 31 years he was coal foreman at the coal chutes on the CPR line in Havelock. Before that he lived in the village but worked at the coal chutes in Trenton. Altogether he was a resident for about 40 years.

His wife died six years ago.

He was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Details of the funeral are not completed. It will be Thursday in the Curtis funeral parlors, Havelock. Burial will be in the Protestant cemetery in Marmora.

He said a drum of sodium peroxide apparently was stowed "too near the boilers" and that the heat caused some of the chemical to leak out and mix with bauxite—aluminum ore—stored in the same hold.

He said that when the mixture began to smoulder, one of the men threw a pail of water on it and caused "a violent chemical reaction."

COURT OF INQUIRY

The United States Coast Guard called a court of inquiry to investigate the disaster.

None of the Black Falcon's crew of 40 was injured.

Fellow worker Jack Crowley, 36, said he saw McConnell pull "four or five" men to safety, "then I saw him split his head open on the bulkhead. His clothing and hair caught fire."

Crowley said he saw McConnell stagger to the rail and plunge overboard. Rescuers pulled him out but he died on the way to hospital.

In addition to the Black Falcon and Leyte explosions, a government-owned experimental fishing vessel was swept by a $100,000 fire while tied up in Boston Oct. 22, and a navy radar ship, the William K. Wood, suffered $8,000 damages Oct. 26 in a fire caused by a boiler flareback.

body else, nobody will want to kill anybody at all."

Churchill implied he was quite willing now to bide his time before insisting on a "Big Four" heads-of-state conference. This is in line with the reported view of President Eisenhower who wants the Russians to demonstrate their good intentions before he consents to highest-level talks.

In opening his address, Churchill, who appeared in fine fettle, asked:

"When are we going to have another election?"

DIFFERENT EXPECTATIONS

"Two years ago (when his Conservative party took office again), many thought that there might be a trial of strength even within the 12 months . . . Now it is quite evident that different expectations prevail. After all we have been elected for a five-year period under what is called the Quinquiennial Act. I have always been in favor of the quinquennial act."

But, he added, "Nothing I have said about our desires or intentions to allow this parliament to run its course is intended to exclude the necessary constitutional action if events should require it."

Churchill told the Commons that while he is opposed to the Socialist idea of nationalization his government will not completely undo what the Laborites had previously done.

"But where we are preserving it (nationaliation" he stated, "as in the coal mines, the railways, gas and electricity, we have done and are doing our utmost to make a success of it. . . ."

Farmer Faces Trial On Charge Of Rustling Calf

Charles Harrington, an Ennismore township farmer, was today bailed for trial on a charge of theft of a heifer calf worth about $45.

Harrington, who elected trial by a higher court, was not put on his defence by his counsel, Trevor Clarke. The preliminary hearing lasted for about three hours.

The alleged theft took place about October 19, when the calf's owner, John Sullivan, found three pools of blood on ranchland he owns some distance from his own farm.

FOUND MEAT

Provincial Constable John Cawood told court that after getting a search warrant, he found a barrel about half full of fairly fresh meat and water in the cellar of Harrington's home.

Harrington told him, said the officer, that he had found the calf dead in the pasture, had dressed it out and skinned it, and cut it up for dog meat. Asked why he hadn't told Mr. Sullivan, Harrington told the officer he just hadn't got around to it.

Constable Cawood testified that some distance from the pools of blood, which were still wet, he found the "insides" of a large animal. A further search yielded a calf's skin. There was a fence between the skin and the intestines.

Harrington told the officer the skin was that of the calf he had found dead, but said he didn't know how the skin got separted from the offal. He thought some dogs might have hauled it away. Constable Cawood said he and OPP Corporal Fred Rawlings had hauled the skin to Harrington's home, and he thought that it would have been an impossible task for even a large dog to carry off the skin.

John Sullivan told court that the skin discovered by the constables was that of a calf he had on the ranch. He identified it by some spots about the size of a five-cent piece on the animal's shoulder. It was the only calf of that color on the ranch.

Strikers Ready For Meeting

WELLAND (CP) — Striking workers at the General Tire and Rubber Company plant here said today they were ready to meet with company officials in an attempt to settle a walkout which began last Friday.

Bill Bunnett, a field representative for the United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America (CIO-CCL), said members of the General Tire local were in favor of early negotiations if the company withdrew disciplinary notices issued to 18 women employees last week.

The plant was closed when some 500 employees walked off their jobs because of what they termed "discrimination."

Union officials said the company had issued disciplinary notes to 18 women because they attended a union meeting Wednesday when they should have been on the job.

Ottawa Club Pianist Jailed On Drug Count

OTTAWA (CP)—Albert (Costi) Constantini, 32-year-old Ottawa night club pianist, today was sentenced to six months in jail for illegal possession and transportation of maijuana.

He was given six months concurrent on each of the two charges, to which he pleaded guilty last week.

His car was ordered forfeited to the crown and he was also fined $200 on each charge. Unable to pay the fines, he was given an additional two-month term.

RCMP last Oct. 10 found a quantity of the drug in his home. The court ruled that he had it for his own use.

Italian Extremists Blocked From Trieste

TRIESTE (Reuters)—Police today blocked Italian extremists from entering Trieste for two-day celebrations marking the arrival of Italian troops in the territory in 1918, when it was added to Italy for her role on the Allied side in the First World War.

The Anglo-American command also posted guards at potential trouble spots throughout the city.

Display of the Italian flag on public buildings was forbidden, but Italians made up for this ban by hanging every available flag in the windows of their homes.

On Oct. 8 Britain and the United States promised to hand over zone A to Italy, but set no date.

How Times Have Changed

Trained Teen-Agers Nervous Of Dad's Driving

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—The head of the family used to shudder with apprehension when his teen-age children took out the family car. If he had to go along as a passenger, he usually came back a bundle of nerves.

All that seems to be changing here. After three years of driving classes at the St. Catharines collegiate, it's the kids who tremble when riding with dad at the wheel. They've even suggested that the grown-ups take a few refresher lessons themselves.

"The kids think they can drive better than their parents, and in many cases that is the truth," says principal Gordon Price, who has seen about 75 students complete the course in each of the last three years. There are 100 students enrolled this year.

BETTER THAN PARENTS?

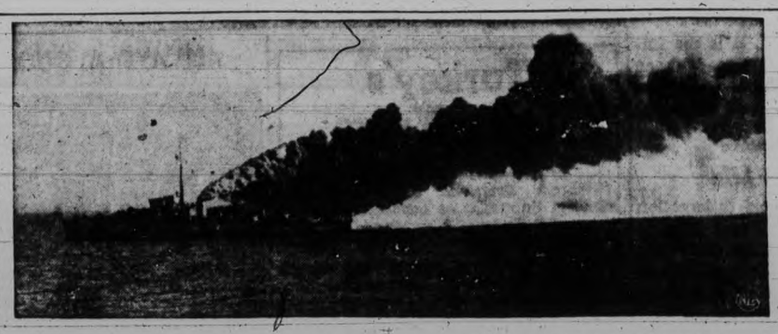
"It is the parents we should be teaching, not the children," comments instructor Fred Pattison. "One pupil, after passing the course, said he would no longer drive with his mother. Another said his father constantly broke sound driving rules."

Pattison's course consists of about 20 class lessons and 12 hours of actual driving practice on a dual-control car presented each year by a local automobile dealer. Many students who already have their licences attend the classroom periods to brush up on safe driving tips.

Two students are taken out together on the driving instruction, one driving and one observing. Pattison is at the dual controls, but rarely uses them.

GAIN CONFIDENCE

"The less you interfere with a student, the more confidence he gets," he says.



To take the course, a student must be 16 and have a beginner's permit. Senior students have first chance, since it is impossible to handle all those who would like to learn. Pupils take lessons during free periods, after school on weekdays, and Saturdays.

Each year more girls than boys have enrolled for the course.

"The day is soon coming when we won't be able to call the women crazy drivers," says Dr. Price.

Relations Improved Sentence Suspended

COBOURG —(ENS)— Eugene Smoke of Roseneath was bonded in the amount of $500. to keep the peace for two years, after he pleaded guilty Monday to beating up his wife.

Last week his wife informed the court that she would like to withdraw the charge providing there was some quarantee that her husband would stay away from her. The domestic situation had improved since then as the couple were sitting in court together Monday morning.

Mrs. Smoke told Magistrate R. B. Baxter that she was willing to take him back and Smoke said that he would behave himself in the future.

"If you don't you'll be back before me and you will answer for your recent misbehaviour and whatever new offence results in your being brought into court," said the magistrate.

Blamed For Crash Driver Fined

Thomas O'Donohoe, 33, of Port Hope, was convicted on a charge of careless driving by Magistrate R. I. Moore Monday and fined $25 and $10.50 costs. The charge was laid following a two-car head-on collision on Highway 7, May 21.

Another charge, dangerous driving, was dismissed after the magistrate heard evidence last week at the bedside of Mrs. Edward Cochran, 35, of Bridgenorth, who has been hospitalized as a result of the accident.

The accident resulted in $1,300 damage to the cars of O'Donohoe and Mrs. Cochran. The accused was also in hospital for about two weeks recovering from injuries.

According to evidence, O'Donohoe's car was on the wrong side of the road when the accident occurred. The accused, however, could not remember anything about the crash.

AUSTWELL, Tex. (AP)—Officials of the Aransas wild life refuge near here are enthusiastic over chances for an increase in the population of the almost extinct whooping crane.

A count of the gangling, white birds today showed 16—including three young—had already made the long trip from their nesting grounds in northern Canada to their winter colony here.

Last year the winter colony, which includes all the known survivors of the once-plentiful waterfowl, totalled 21 with only two young.

Canada Plays Too Small Part

LONDON (CP)—Canada plays too small a part "in the beneficent network of Commonwealth sport" says an editorial today in The Times.

Britons, The Times says, have seen many visiting teams from New Zealand, South Africa, Australia, the British West Indies, India and Pakistan, but adds:

"There are no Canadian occasions in the calendar of famous tours to this country. Clearly this should be remedied, whatever the cause."

It suggests that 1954 may see "the beginning of a new era" and points to two Canadian sport "landmarks"—the British Empire Games at Vancouver in July and a three-day cricket "test match" between Canada and Pakistan in London next summer. A Canadian cricket team will play a number of games in Britain then.

Arab Legion Foils Israeli Attack

Holding School For Ushers

HALIFAX (CP)—A well-schooled church usher can disarm criticism of a badly-performed anthem. That's the word from Prof. E. M. Hosman of Omaha, Neb., who is conducting classes for ushers from 32 congregations here as part of a Canadian tour.

He told his first Canadian student ushers Monday night that the practice of worship is a complex experience and some persons are in such awe of it that they stay away from church. Because the usher wants the congregation to have a satisfactory worship experience, he must be careful to establish the appropriate mood.

The usher—by standing around talking at the back of the church or walking about aimlessly—can destroy the whole feeling of worship.

A party spokesman said there are no differences of opinion on policy between Ben-Gurion and his party.

Traffic Guard Suggested

COBOURG (ENS). — A traffic guard may be hired to see that school childern get safely across teh busy Division St.-University Ave. intersection.

A traffic signal system was one suggestion but authorities feel that children are apt to ignore stop lights. The best solution, they feel, is to station a man to direct traffic when school is out at noon hour. This method has been successful at the west-end public school.

The matter will be discussed at the next meeting of town council.

Heavy motor traffic begins shortly before noon and is increased with the cars from the CGE travelling along Division St., the ordnance depot workers going west on University, and the factory workers going east on University.

To Correct Abuse Of Local Waterways

In Peterborough as in all unplanned cities, abuses of land have taken place. Building has been done higgledy-piggledy, factories have been put up smack in the middle of housing areas, or vice versa; streets have grown with little or no order, surveys have been inaccurate or overlapping; when the town's boundaries have been extended— as they have have been repeatedly since Park street was the western boundary and Townsend the southern —roads and streets did not jibe and township and town lines contradicted each other. Many of the blotchy or inconvenient irregularities are smoothed by time and changes of a district's fortune, also by regulations of the Council. Later planning and rational care can mitigate the abuse of land although it cannote eradicate the basic pattern which has become characteristic of the city.

* * *

In Peterborough as in all unplanned cities, but more seriously because there is more of it in this city, abuses of waterways have taken place. The abuses which began 125 years ago have continued to this day, thus destroying what might have been Peterborough's supreme joy and distinction, the Otonabee and the Jackson Park creek.

* * *

The city's ancestors need not be condemned out of hand. They were not building a city; they were erecting a mill where a mill eventually could be operated, putting houses and shops where they would be accessible (by the river), carving a townsite out of woods and mud. The conscious abuse followed later; of the Jackson Park creek when it was built over, bridged, gouged, fouled and ignored; of the Otonabee when its rapids were put to use, and thereafter, when the Trent circumvented it through the city and made the river less turbulent and Little Lake a place of beauty. The abuse was intensified when factories were put along the creek, when railway lines were laid along the river, and more factories put on its banks. With such use of the creek and river, both waters and banks, the public enjoyment and beauty of them were barred.

* * *

Thereafter have followed careless or damaging treatment of the water and the remaining shore. The creek became an open sewer, the waters of the Otonabee particularly in Little Lake, were polluted.

* * *

Not all these developments nor all the treatment of river and creek have been retrogressive and despoiling. Some factories have even improved the banks they control and added rather than detracted from the property. The Lock Company has treated its street bridge flanks well, after years of disregard. The Quaker Oats Company has improved the east bank of the river north of Hunter Street and is in other ways showing its consciousness as a custodian of what can be riparian beauty. The city has taken measures chiefly to end the pollution of Little Lake and the lower Otonabee.

* * *

In order to repair fully the damage of time and man, constant vigilance is required, also some long-range plans and a solid body of informed opinion about what is good for our waterways, what is bad, and how, before the century ends, Peterborough can reclaim its squandered heritage. We therefore greet with approval the interest that has been stirred in recent years in the subject, the work of the Study Group on Civic Affairs which began several months ago to rouse the public from apathy about it all, and the project to be aired Thursday evening at a public meeting, to form a permanent civic committee to conserve and repair as time, interest and money permit—the Otonabee and the Jackson Park creek. The meeting has been organized by the Study Group and is an outcome of their previous work and thought.

* * *

A hundred years ago neither the creek nor the river could have been spared or improved as they can be today. The creek varied from turbulence to muddy sluggishness, the river from flashing rapids to a trickle which could be forded between marshy banks. Now both waters have been more or less canalized, the banks are defined, the flow sufficiently regular to make planning and projects possible. So out of all the helter-skelter development, abuse and carelessness of time and the city's fathers, may come something finer and more beautiful than Nature gave in the first place or the city founders could have envisaged. It is the improvements which have already been made as well as the blights that have been perpetrated, which call attention to what can be done.

Reverence For Life

There will be widespread satisfaction at the award of a Nobel Peace Prize to Dr. Albert Schweitzer. This man, who gave up a great career in Europe, both as a theologian and a musician, to become a medical missionary in Africa, is perhaps the most striking modern example of a man who has striven to carry out the teachings of Christ in his own life. The Nobel Prize does not make Dr. Schweitzer a greater man, but it is a reassuring sign that the modern world recognizes and honors the great principles which have inspired his life. A civilization may be judged by the men whom it chooses to regard as great; of the greatness of Schweitzer there can be no question.

Albert Schweitzer is not one of those who reduce theology to simple terms, but the phrase "reverence for life" which occurs from time to time in his writings and in his rare speeches gives us some insight into his religious attitude. It was reverence for life which took him to a part of the world where, in his opinion, life was at a very low ebb, there to work as a medical missionary. In his hospital in French Equatorial Africa he has laboured long and hard on behalf of the native population, and his many theological works, and his great and illuminating works on music, have literally been accomplished in the time he can snatch from the demands of his humanitarian labours. Unquestionably Schweitzer is a great man, and if Protestantism had not cut off its list of saints at the time of the Reformation, sainthood would undoubtedly follow his death. Here is a man who, by giving up the world, has drawn the eyes of the world to his work and his example.

A Symptom Rather Than A Disease

We are in agreement with the Toronto Star in regarding drug addiction as a symptom rather than a disease. Wise physicians know that treating symptoms is usually nothing more than a way of making a patient comfortable so that the true nature of his disease may be discovered. If it is true that there are more drug addicts in Canada now than there used to be, we must try to find out why this is so, and eliminate the cause; putting addicts in jail does nothing for them and leaves the real problem untouched.

Drug addiction and alcoholism have been carefully studied for some years by physicians and psychiatrists, and there is an influential modern school of opinion which regards them both as symptoms of what are called personality disturbances. In other words, people take to drugs or drink because they are in flight from something else. Now it is not possible to make a blanket statement that they are in flight from "the stresses of modern living," or something vague of that sort. Each addict or drunkard is making a personal protest against the conditions of his own life, and only people who understand those personal problems can do much for him. It is futile and cruel for most of us to pass judgement upon such people; it is out of the question to prescribe cures for them which are quick or easy; we must face the fact that in many cases no cure is possible.

To blame modern society is of no use. Modern society is what we have made it and the plain fact is that most of us take to it as a duck takes to water.

The study of these difficulties of personality from a scientific point of view is a thing of this century. Formerly, drunks and drug addicts simply had to be endured. We must not be impatient because cures have not already been found; we seem at last to be on the right track in these studies, and though we may hope for progress, we must recognize that age-old problems cannot be settled in a few months or even a few years.

NOTES AND COMMENT

A doctor writes that eating plenty of carrots builds up resistance to colds. We already know what it builds up toward carrots.

An American sociologist points out that most of the world's population lives in Asia, is non-white, is ill-fed, is sick and is illiterate. These facts may account for the further circumstance that Asiatics have an unerring instinct for the wrong kind of government.

Back in 1944 the cost of Toronto's subway (still under construction) was estimated at $28,000,000. Extras and higher costs raised a later estimate to $50,000,000. And now a worried Toronto alderman says he fears the final cost will go to $80,000,000.

"It's A Terrible Thing To Be Killed By A Bull", is the heading of a piece which is being widely reprinted in Ontario papers. Very true, but being pushed over a cliff by a runaway perambulator is not, in the end, much more fun.

Turkey's Thirty Years

By ARNOLD TOYNBEE

(Research Professor of International History, University of London, author of "A Study of History" etc.)

THE REPUBLIC of Turkey was inaugurated on October 29, 1923. Looking back, to-day, over these last thirty years of Turkish history, what impressions do we have of this chapter, and what auguries for the next?

✧ ✧ ✧

THIRTY YEARS AGO, the Turkish people led by President Mustafa Kemal Ataturk and his companions, had already snatched victory out of their defeat in the First World War. In the course of four heroic and historic years, they had saved the Turkish nation and its homelands in Anatolia and Thrace from perishing with the Ottoman Empire; but twelve almost continuous years of war—which had begun with the Italian attack on the Turkish Empire's last African dominion in Libya in the autumn of 1911—had left the Turks exhausted, and in the autumn of 1923, Turkey was like a man who has survived a terrible operation but is still in danger of dying of shock.

MOREOVER, at that critical moment, the Turks could not afford to relax or allow themselves time for convalescences; for they still had no time to lose. Mustafa Kemal, with his penetrating vision, saw clearly that, even now that his people had won the aftermath of the First World War, they would lose the peace unless they could summon up the resolution, and the stamina, to keep up their war-time pace after the fighting was over.

At that date, Turkey was in ruins, and a double task of reconstruction lay ahead of her people. It would not do for them simply to rebuild their country on the traditional lines; they must do the rebuilding on a brand-new Western plan if they were to survive in a now rapidly Westernizing world. Such a task, after such previous sufferings and exertions, might well have broken any nation's back. Turkey's achievement, during the thirty years that have elapsed since then, has been to ensure her presence as an important participant in the world-wide society of the future by successfully re-organizing her life from top to bottom on a Western model.

TURKEY'S PROGRESS during the last thirty years may be gauged by two tests. On the political plane, have the Turks shown themselves to be possessed of the sovereign political virtue of moderation? And, on the social plane, which matters even more, have they succeeded in raising the mental and material standard of living of that vast majority of the Turkish people that lives in the countryside, in villages, working on the land?

Political moderation in the field of foreign policy was the keynote of Ataturk's programme for the regeneration of the Turkish people. While he fought like a lion to save the Turkish people's own national home, he persuaded them to renounce all ambition to saddle themselves again with the incubus of the old Ottoman Empire by attempting to reconquer the lost Ottoman dominions in the Balkans and the Arab countries. Neither Ataturk nor his successors ever wavered in holding to this self-imposed, self-denying ordinance, and it has duly made Turkey's fortune because it has enabled her to concentrate her energies on reconstruction at home instead of continuing to squander them on barren efforts to hold down recalcitrant non-Turkish subject populations.

IT REMAINED to be seen, however, during the first twenty-five years of the Turkish Republic's history, whether the political moderation which was the foundation of the country's new foreign policy was going to prevail in its domestic policies as well; for the Turkish Republic had started life under a dictatorship backed by a single party enjoying a monopoly of power.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT IS POSSIBLE that no less stringent a regime than this would have carried Turkey through the tremendous revolution through which she put herself during the ten years 1919-1928. During this decade she underwent, simultaneously, experiences that were equivalent to our Renaissance Reformation, Scientific Revolution, Industrial Revolution and French Revolution, all rolled into one. The mere thought of doing all that in ten years, instead of taking a leisurely three hundred years over it, is enough to make any Westerner's mind turn dizzy. It would have been difficult indeed for the Turks to "get by," during those hectic ten years, under a democratic parliamentary regime. But the question was: Would they be able to achieve genuine democracy in their domestic politics when the spate of the revolution was over, and when they could therefore at last afford to slacken the pace?

✧ ✧ ✧

THE ANSWER to this question has been given, and given in the affirmative, by the latest general election in Turkey. It was a genuinely free election, in which a party that had been in office for a generation allowed the electorate to express its will by giving the opposition party a majority, and then allowed the opposition party to take office peacefully—in consideration of a "gentleman's agreement" that the retiring politicians would not be victimised by their victorious opponents. This has been a notable victory for democracy, not only in Turkey but in the world at large.

BUT WHAT about the Turkish peasantry? For, after all, the Western-educated professional class, from which parliaments and ministries are mainly recruited, is only a small minority of the population. This is the question that will be decisive, in the long run, for Turkey's future; and here a foreign observer who has been in touch with Turkey for the last thirty years and more can report encouraging signs of new life.

There are new village schools, staffed by schoolmasters recruited from among the country people themselves. There are new roads, with new buses and lorries travelling on them, to bring country-side and town into closer touch with one another and to carry Westerners into the hinterlands of Istanbul and Ismir and Ankara and Adana. There is a new race of lorry-drivers and mechanics. As one travels along these roads and sees modern mechanised transport bowling along side by side with ox-carts and camels and donkeys, one is catching in the act the self-transformation of an old world into a new one.

ALWAYS A QUORUM AT THIS MEETING PLACE

The Price of Automobiles

(VICTORIA TIMES)

MR Maurice Western, Washington correspondent of The Winnipeg Free Press, recently bought an American automobile and proposed to bring it home to Canada with him. Then, for the first time, he discovered why automobiles cost so much in this country.

After figuring it out, Mr. Western concludes that on one car selling for $2,041.34 in the United Sales the Canadian Government adds $893.23 in tariff and taxes. Including all other items, the toal cost of the American car delivered in Canada is $3,034.20.

Of this increment $756.53 is straight protection for the Canadian automobile industry—enough protection to make sure that very few American cars ever reach this country to compete with local manufacturers. On the the American manufacturer's price of $1,440, in the case of Mr. Western's car, the rate of protection is 52.5 per cent. That is protection running wild at the cost of the Canadian automobile buyer.

But these arrangements are more complicated and subtle than the public had ever suspected until The Free Press at last revealed them. "The general public," says The Free Press, "will be surprised and shocked to learn that the Department of National Revenue at Ottawa, in defiance of the Geneva trade agreement, has been granting to the Canadian automobile industry about twice as much tariff protection as the Customs Tariff Act (Item 438 A) would appear to authorize."

How is this managed? By a remarkable arrangement which the public, and probably Parliament itself, has never suspected.

The tariff on American cars is supposed to be 17½ per cent. This tariff, it has been generally assumed, applied on the retail price of an American dealer—less U.S. Taxes—at the point of manufacture. On this price, as The Free Press says, plus 17½ per cent tariff, the normal Canadian taxes of 15 per cent excise and 10 per cent sales tax were imposed. Allowing only for the amount by which these taxes increased the tariff, it was concluded that the total margin or protection was 22 per cent.

"That conclussion," The Free Press admits, "was wrong." In fact, the National Revenue Department at Ottawa spaks the Canadian public far more than this. The value upon which the 17½ per cent tariff is imposed is the United States dealer's price, including the United States federal and state taxes and any extra charges he—the U.S. dealer—has paid. In the result, the protection given to our Canadian manufacturers is sky-rocketed outrageously . . . This practice of pyramiding the taxes of the two countries is not only unjust. It is a violation of the principle if not the letter of the Geneva trade agreement. There is universal agreement among nations that it is wrong to compel the citizens of one country to pay taxes to another country. Yet here, in the case of automobiles, a Canadian, before he can import a car from the United States, must first pay the United States taxes upon it. More than that, he must then pay our tariff on those taxes. Still more, he must then pay our taxes of 15 per cent excise and 10 per cent sales taxes upon the U.S. taxes, plus our tariff."

Finally, Canada forbids the importation of used American cars, lest they compete with used cars here. A Canadian can import a used American car only if he takes his case to the Cabinet at Ottawa and it graciously consents to pass an order-in-council permitting the importation. That, to say the least of it, is highly improbable.

Considering all these hidden factors, it is no wonder that automobiles cost so much in Canada and are so much cheaper a few miles away in the United States. In our tax and tariff policies they seem to be regarded not as vehicles of transportation, not even as luxuries but as an evil, like liquor, to be discouraged at almost any cost to the buyer.

SAFETY FIRST

"Sorry to put you to the trouble of fetching water 'specially for me," said an English tourist who had ordered whiskey in a Highland inn.

"Nae trouble at all," replied the host. "I always keep a drop on the premises in case of fire."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Lord, hear my voice: let thine ears be attentive to the voice of my supplications. If thou, Lord, shouldest mark inequities, O Lord, who shall stand? But there is forgiveness with thee, that thou mayest be feared. (Ps. 130:2-4.)

Jesus went unto the mount of Olives. And early in the morning he came again into the temple, and all the people came unto him; and he sat down, and taught them.

And the scribes and Pharisees brought unto him a woman taken in adultery . . . Now Moses in the law commanded us, that such should be stoned; but what sayest thou? This they said, tempting him, that they might have to accuse him. But Jesus stooped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground, as though he heard them not.

So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself, and said unto them. He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her. And again he stooped down, and wrote on the ground.

And they which heard it being convicted by their own conscience, went out one by one, beginning at the eldest, even unto the last: and Jesus was left alone, and the woman standing in the midst. When Jesus had lifted up himself, and saw none but the woman, he said unto her, Woman, where are those thine accusers? Hath no man condemned thee? She said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said unto her, Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more. (John 8: 1-3, 5-11.)

Letter To The Editor

BIBLE TRUTH

SIR: This is a reply to J. M. R. Bonney's article in Monday night's Examiner, Re Bible Perversion.

Not having read the New Revised Version, I cannot make any comments on it. Rev. 22-18-19 is mentioned about adding and taking away from the Bible. But it isn't very wise to censure someone else for doing something of which we ourselves are guilty.

As the words, "God the Son, God the Holy Ghost," are nowhere to be found in the Bible from Gen. to Rev., it is not perverting God's word to make others who do not read their Bibles think that those words are given in it. Truth cannot be established on presumptions.

The God of the Bible, tells us very plainly that He and He alone is God, Isa 43-10, Isa 44-6-8, Isa 45-5-6, etc. Christ and His Apostles confirmed this in John 17-3, John 14-28, 1 Cor. 8-6, Gal. 3-20, Epp. 4-6, 1 Tim. 2-5.

Those who seek to nullify the words of God and of Christ, His Son, are their enemies. If J. M. R. Bonney knew Bible history, he would know that the doctrine of the Trinity did not come into the sacred writings until the year 70 A.D., when it was "added" by men. So. Rev. 22-18-19 is applicable to those who believe in those additions. The Son of God said "In vain, do they worship Me, teaching for doctrine the commandments of men," Mark 7. 7. Moffatt's translation gives a good rendering of Hebs. 1-8.

Native Westerners

(Red Deer Advocate)

Forty years ago it was unusual to see an adult person who had been born in the West. It was a country of people, who had come from the East and the South and from overseas to make new homes here. Forty years has made a considerable difference. Westernborn people today probably outnumber those who come from other parts and the young settlers of 40 years ago are now elderly men and women.

Fake Pearls Still Come From Sea Depths

WASHINGTON—Pearls on a costume jewelry counter may be artificial, but like real ones, their gem qualities come from the sea.

True pearls are manufactured by oysters or mussels. Artificial pearls, are glass or plastic beads coated with essence d'orient—pearl essence—made from the silvery scales of small fish.

Before World War II, the scales used came from the bleak, a slender little carp found in the rivers of Europe. Since the war, the industry has found a way to use herring scales as well.

YOUNG HERRING USED

Young herring from the Bay of Fundy have been diverted from the breakfast table to artificial pear factories in nearby Maine and Canada. Similarly, part of the Norwegian herring catch goes to a Norwegian factory which can produce 12,000 necklaces, earrings and bracelets a week.

Artificial pearls can be good copies in color and shape, but they all invariably lack true pearl luster. Real luster comes from light reflected and refracted by many layers of iridescent nacre, products of years of oyster labor.

When they are manufacturing pearls, oysters are intent upon comfort, not necklaces. Finding a foreign object within their shells, they cover it with smooth nacre to prevent irritation.

The first fine imitation pearl produced in Western Europe was made in the 17th century by Jacquin, a rosary maker of Paris. Coating the inner surface of a thin, opalescent glass sphere first with parchment sizing, then with pearl essence, he filled the hollow middle with white wax.

NEAR-PANIC RESULTED

His product and the imitation-pearl business it inspired did not disturb the natural pearl industry, but the world gem market almost went into a panic in the 1920's when Japan began to export cultured pearls in quantity. Fortunately experts found ways, including X-ray, to tell the difference between the wholly natural and the cultured products.

The Japanese learned pearl culture from the Chinese, who had used the process as early as the 13th century. Dating from this period are small Chinese-made pearl images of Buddha. The first perfectly spherical cultured pearl was produced by the Japanese only in 1909.

Basically, it is a simple matter to stimulate the formation of a cultured pearl. The culturist merely puts a small object into the shell of an oyster or mussel and lets the bivalve do the rest.

But in actual practice, the pearl is apt to be of poor quality unless the tiny "factory" is carefully fed, nursed through sicknesses and guarded in underwater cages. So onerous and expensive is the process that the Japanese have no competitors outside their country today.

Air Passenger History Made On Flight

TORONTO (CP)—Air passenger history was made Monday with the arrival from London at Malton airport of a Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star.

TCA officials said the flight was the first in air history of a direct scheduled passenger plane flight from Britain to a point 1,500 miles inland on this continent.

REUNION IN IRON LUNG—Former paratrooper W. W. Judd, one of four men who rescued Canon John Turner in the Arctic in 1947, is in Sunnybrook veterans' hospital in an iron lung, paralyzed by polio. Judd suffered polio last year and a few months ago his wife and three children moved to Galt, Ont. Mr. and Mrs. Judd's meeting at Sunnybrook was a reunion after a separation of four months. Judd was brought to the Toronto hospital last week.

Police Probe Into Past Of Cameron

TORONTO (CP)—Fred (Scotty) Cameron used to play bagpipe records in his $5-a-week bedroom in central Toronto, police discovered as they dug into the background of the 57-year-old investment house messenger whose bullet-ripped body was found in a ditch 50 miles north of here last Friday.

In the hope of finding a clue that would lead them to the killer, detectives probed the private life of the former soccer player for St. Mirren of Paisley.

While they appeared no closer to finding the slayer or establishing a motive, police uncovered several facets of Cameron's character he had succeeded in concealing from most of his friends.

Office associates described him as a friendly, easy-going Scot who liked to yarn about football.

SECRET LIFE

Police, however, said he used to go back to his rooming house after his day's work as a messenger, don an expensive suit and slip out into the night in quest of feminine companionship.

They said Cameron, separated from his wife for 10 years, used to bowl every Wednesday night with an attractive auburn-haired brunette half his age.

John Quigley, an English immigrant who lived at the same rooming house as Cameron and often talked with him, described him as a shrewd, secretive, confused and lonely man who seemed inwardly disturbed, "as though he had a premonition of a violent end."

PLANNED RETURN HOME

Cameron planned to return to his native Scotland and settle down there in two years, he said. He played Scottish piping records as a nostalgic reminder of the land he loved.

One theory in the slaying is that he was killed by someone who sought to rob him. But police say there is no indication he carried any money with him the night he was slain, as he did not pick up his two weeks' pay, $150, as usual Thursday.

U.S. Has Compromise For Arabs, Israel

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Informed sources said Monday the United States has offered to sign separate pacts with Israel and its three Arab neighbors in order to get around Arab refusal to negotiate directly with the Jews on a plan to develop the Jordan river into a giant powerhouse for the Middle East.

This is the substance of the proposals now being carried to the Middle East countries by President Eisenhower's envoys.

(These officials said the proposal is still in its very early stages and any discussion of finances or other details would be very prem-

The proposal would provide for an agreement signed by the United States with Syria, Jordan and the Lebanon either individually or jointly for the Arab portion of the vast development project which would spread over both sides of the Jordan. A separate agreement would be signed by the United States and Israel to cover the Israel portion of the project.

Arab complaints to the United Nations security council in New York finally brought an Israeli agreement last week to halt the project at least temporarily while the merits of the case are discussed.

The Damascus newspaper Albina said today it had learned that Britain, the U. S. and France would announce a new tripartite declaration after the UN Security Council completes consideration of the Arab complaints against Israel.

MARMORA (CP)—Joseph Lewis about 65, of Havelock, was killed Monday night when hit by an automobile while walking on No. 7 highway three miles west of here.

Roy Loken Director Of Stratford Festival

STRATFORD (CP)—Roy Loken of Toronto has been named director of administration of the Stratford Shakespearian Festival of Canada, festival offices here said Monday.

Tom Patterson, formerly general manager, has become director of planning, and Cecil English now is director of production. Mr. English was previously assistant director and productions manager.

Mr. Loken was formerly secretary-treasurer of the Royal Conservatory of Music at Toronto.

Change Minds About Censoring Musical Scene

LONDON (Reuters) — An unchanged his mind and decided to known behind-the-scenes official reinstate censored words in a scene from the musical "Guys and Dolls" performed before the Royal Family Monday night.

Just before the curtain went up, American stage stars waiting to put on the mission hall scene from the play were told to forget some of their new lines learned specially for the occasion.

The cuts—words like "brother," "sister," "sinner" and "devil"—were made in case religious feelings were offended. But newspapers had pointed out Princess Margaret has seen "Guys and Dolls" three times, the Queen and her husband once.

The Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh, Princess Margaret and the Duchess of Kent, who sat in the royal box, applauded enthusiastically as Stubby Kaye sang "Sit Down, You're Rocking the Boat."

The play did not escape the blue pencil entirely. The Salvation Army-type uniforms which performers usually wear in the scene were missing.

The show, in aid of the vaudeville artists' benevolent fund, raised about £18,000.

Council Grant To Be Unchanged

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—One of six Oxford county municipalities Monday decided to maintain its grant to the county tornado relief fund.

Five centres sliced in half their grants to the fund, following the lead of Oxford county council which reduced its grant from $30,000 to $15,000 last Saturday.

The cut backs mean a loss of almost $30,000 in aid to tornado victims, including about $10,000 in provincial assistance.

East Nissouri was the exception. Council decided to stand pat on its grant of $2,000 for relief because the township was one of the hardest hit by the tornado.

Ingersoll, Tillsonburg, East Zorra West Oxford and North Oxford reduced their grants to the amounts granted before they learned incorrectly that the province would pay 50 per cent of municipal grants.

Ontario Forester W. D. Cram Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Wilson Dunlop Cram, 61, an Ontario forester for 30 years, died Sunday of a heart attack.

For the last six years he was chief of the lands and recreational areas division of the Ontario department of lands and forests. In that position he supervised provincial parks and resort areas and the selling of government-owned lands for cottage building.

A native of Carleton Place, Mr. Cram served in the Royal Flying Corps in the First World War. He graduated from the University of Toronto in forestry in 1923 and was appointed assistant forester in the Parry Sound district. In 1927 he became district forester at Kenora and in 1942 regional forester.

Car Output In Canada Sets Record

DETROIT (AP)—Canada's car and truck output so far this year already tops the total of any previous year, Ward's Automotive Reports said Monday.

The statistical agency noted that car and truck assemblies in Canada so far this year number 434,000 units. This contrasts with successive record volumes of 432,973 in all of 1952; with 415,420 in 1941 and with 390,102 in 1950. Ward's added:

"This year's volume is 60 per cent over the 270,191 pre-World War II peak set in 1941 and definitely establishes Canada as a world power in automotive production.

"Optimism for high level 1954 operations is strong. Used car inventories and consumer credit admittedly (as in the United States) are high, but not out of control. Moreover, Canadian producers brighten when these factors are mentioned: (1) Population, at about 15,000,000 now, is trending towards 20,000,000 by perhaps 1970; (2) the replacement market, with 50 per cent of cars in use seven years of age or older, is impressive; (3) vehicle ownership per capita has steadily increased in post-war years.

"Such factors portend not only an expanding market but also deeper penetration with sales. And the current revolutionary scope of plant modernization and expansion programs indicate the industry and its suppliers are out to accomplish just that. Canada, behind only the United States, Great Britain and France in world vehicle output, is third ranking with its total 3,115,090 units registered for operation."

Sentenced On 2 Charges

CHATHAM (CP) — Harold Forsythe of Ingersoll Monday was sentenced to jail for 30 days when he pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident. To a charge of having liquor in a public place, he pleaded guilty and paid a $10 fine and court costs. The charges arose out of separate accidents.

Randy Turpin Arrested For Beating Up Woman

NEW YORK (AP)—British boxer Randy Turpin, recently beaten in a fight for the world's middleweight championship, was arrested Monday on a charge of beating up a woman.

The woman, Adle Daniels, 24, was described as Turpin's "girl friend." Both are Negroes.

At his arraignment on the assault charge, Turpin pleaded innocent and a hearing was set for Wednesday morning. The boxer had been scheduled to sail for England Wednesday afternoon.

Turpin, 25, who remained silent throughout the proceedings, was paroled in the custody of his lawyer, Saul Strauss.

Miss Daniels also had nothing to say. But her lawyer, J. Roland Sala, was far from silent.

He argued for high bail and a later hearing, and said Turpin should be committed for a psychiatric examination. He claimed Turpin was "highly vicious and bestial." Strauss replied that Sala was the one who should be committed.

Miss Daniels, fair-skinned and red-haired, said in her complaint that she is "black and blue" from a number of beatings by Turpin.

Turpin lost to Bobo Olson Oct. 21.

Petes Beat Quinte Club 6-2 In Senior "B" Puck Fray To Climb Into Second Place

Downing the Belleville Memos 6-2 here last night, the Petes pulled into second place in their OHA senior "B" group standing just half a game back of Oshawa Truckmen. The Kingston Goodyears trail Eddie Redmond's men at the moment by half a game, while Orillia is fourth and Memos in the cellar.

A fair-sized crowd viewed a game which was speedy in spots but marked with considerable shinny. It was close enough till out in the third period but not as good a game to watch as the Orillia-Petes' tilt here last week. However, the Peterborough pack got untracked in the third to dominate play and rack up the victory in handy fashion.

TIED IN FIRST

Petes scored one in the first frame but Red Doran's bunch knotted it up before the gong. Neither side counted in the second. Belleville tallied early in the third for a brief 2-1 lead in the game, but the Petes replied with five before the finish, notching a pair with Jackie Wardaugh sitting out a charging penalty.

The game wasn't unduly rough, though it got chippy at times, with Referees Maurice Walsh and Jim Crombie calling them close. The Petes drew eight of the 14 penalties, one being a misconduct to Denny Peterson for crowding Referee Crombie after a minor penalty.

Toodie Greenlaw counted two goals for the winners, singles going to Bill McMaster, Ron Belisle, Chum Fryia and Curly Mason. High in assists was Gus Leonard with four in a fine playmaking role, as one each was marked to Roy Armstrong, Fryia, Keith Montgomery, McMaster and Eddie Redmond. For Belleville, Doug Hull and Duke Doran scored, as Vern Goyer and Peter Jones each gained an assist. Both goalies were good, Ron Sarault of Memos being hurt in the last minute but staying in.

GOALIE GOOD

Belleville might well have racked up a higher count in the first two frames but for smart netminding by Jack Donlevy, as the Memos had a territorial edge on the rather lackadaisical locals. Only in the third period did the Petes appear to be properly organized, get a and Belleville played a pretty steady brand all through. They were thefted repeatedly the first half when in on goal.

Penalties struck the Petes late in the last chukker and at one time they were shy two men, Doc Prentice for holding and Bert Hill for high-sticking. Short two players for nearly two minutes the Petes' trio of Redmond, Montgomery and Bill Crowley played a great checking game to keep the swarming Memos from getting a clear shot on the net.

Belleville: Goal, Sarault; defence, Wade and Goyer; centre, Wardaugh; wings, McDonald and D. Doran; alternates, Bastedo, Semark, Taylor, R. Doran, Jones, Hull, Ed Duncan, Erwin Duncan and DeGray.

Petes: Goal, Donlevy; defence, McMaster and Montgomery; centre, Hill; wings, Crowley and Prentice; alternates, Fryia, Leonard, Greenlaw, Belisle, Peterson, Mason, Armstrong, Munroe and Redmond.

Referees, J. Crombie and M. Walsh.

First Period

Summary:

Petes—Mason 15:55
Belleville—Hull (Jones, Goyer) 17.47
Penalties—Goyer, Mason, D. Doran, Taylor, Peterson, Montgomery.

SECOND PERIOD

No Score.
Penalties—McMaster, Peterson (2), Taylor.

THIRD PERIOD

Belleville—D. Doran 1.25
Petes—Fryia (Leonard, Redmond) 2:46
Petes—Belisle (McMaster) 4:42
Petes—Greenlaw (Leonard, Montgomery) 7:09
Petes—Greenlaw (Leonard, Fryia) 7:25
Petes—McMaster (Leonard, Armstrong) 16.45
Penalties—Wardaugh, Prentice, Hill, Montgomery.

Can't Decide Between Williams, Musial

By BEN OLAN

Before Williams, the Boston outfielder, re-entered the armed services in 1952, baseball observers spent much of their time comparing the two. Ted's followers claimed he was more of a long-ball threat. Those who favored Musial said he was the more scientific batter—he hit to all fields.

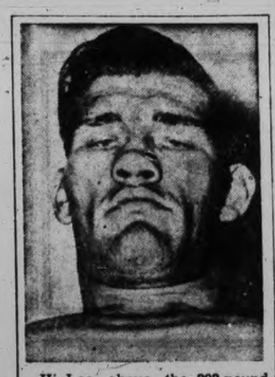
Including their 1953 performances, Williams shows a mark of .348 and the Cardinal slugger is close behind with .345. They far outdistance the active big-league field in lifetime averages compiled by the Associated Press.

Williams has poundd out 1,804 safeties in 5,187 times at bat. Stan shows 2,223 hits in 6,437 trips. Ted is ahead in home runs, 337 to 257, and runs batted in, 1,298 to 1,127. Musial leads Williams in doubles, 467 to 367 and triples, 142 to 62.

Jackie Robinson, a .329 batter in 1953, brought his lifetime mark up to .319 to rank second to Musial in the National League. Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia Phillies is third with .312.

Cleveland's Dale Mitchell is runner-up to Williams in the American League with .315. Behind him come George Kell and Billy Goodman of Boston Red Sox with .311 each.

Carl Furillo, the National League batting champ, raised his lifetime average seven points to .301. Mickey Vernon, who won the American League title for the second time last season, gained five points to bring his mark for 12 years to .285.



Lindsay 'Spiel Opens Ladies Curling Season

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Ladies' Curling Association said Monday night its season opens with the annual three-day Lindsay bonspiel starting Nov. 23.

The main event of the season—the tankard—will be played in Owen Sound Jan. 25-26.

Good Medicine

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP)—Laughter "is as good a general all-round physical training as you can get," said Prof. Isabel Laird in an address to Queen's alumni here. An outstanding psychologist who came to Queen's University from Edinburgh two years ago, Professor Laird said humas do not laugh enough.

Hi Lee, above, the 292-pound Ozark giant, may have considerable trouble trying to use his usual rough and rugged tactics when he clashes with Timothy Geohagen, the Irish strongman, in the feature wrestling bout at the Brock Arena on Wednesday night. Lee is a big, wild and woolly mountain of a man, but Timmy, who can bend cold steel with his bare hands, may be just the one to tame him. Johnny Harmon of Atlanta, Ga., will oppose Firpo Zbyszko, the moustached Pole, in the semi-final. First match will be Herb Larson of Hamilton, against Bill Stack of Oshawa.

P-W Club Picks G. Monkman President Again

By C. H. IRESON

Gordon Monkman was re-elected president of the Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club at the annual meeting, with John Wild named vice-president. Secretary is H. Dibben and treasurer A. Hamilton. T. Clarke will captain "A" team, with B. Smith vice-captain, while K. Illingworth is captain of the "B" team and S. Jennings vice-captain.

The club had a good season in 1953 with the "A" team winning top place in the third division of the Toronto and District Cricket Council, winning 12 matches, losing one and drawing one, to advance to the second division.

The "B" team did not do so well, having three wins and eight defeats, but proved valuable in giving many young players the chance to perform in organized competition. The club officials are quite optimistic of next year, and will hold a spring meeting to make plans for the 1954 schedules.

Cricket has a long and honorable record in sports here, going back for more than a century.

City Carpetball

The schedule for the week of November 9 is: Fire Hall No. 4 vs. Legion No. 11; Orphans No. 8 vs. Legion No. 1; Glens No. 6 vs. Legion No. 7; Legion No. 9 vs. Legion No. 5; Red Patch No. 13 vs. LOL No. 12; Lawn Boys No. 2 vs. Legion No. 3; Post Office No. 14 vs. Fire Hall No. 10.

Results of last week's play are: At the Fire Hall, Legion No. 1 dropped both games to Fire Hall No. 4 by scores of 7-17 and 6-11. The four and five scored by No. 4 in the first game were deciding factors. The second game was tied at 6-all in the eighth frame but No. 4 scored three singles and a deuce to win out in the latter frame. Post Office No. 14 lost two games to LOL No. 12. The Posti's were leading 10-3 going into the 10th end then it happened! The Orangemen in the last three ends to win by a 12-10 score. The Postal boys were again in the lead in the second game but again they weakened, and the Orange Squeezers went into the lead 13-7 while the Posties captured the final two ends with singles, then lost out 13-9.

The deciding factors in the two wins of Legion No. 9 over Legion No. 11 were the three big ends scored by No. 9 in the first game and scoring in every one of the first six frames of the second game. The final scores in favor of No. 9 were 16-11 and 10-9.

The games between Fire Hall No. 10 and Orphans No. 8 were odd, to say the least. The first game saw the fire laddies take every one of the first seven ends and one of the last five ends but they only beat their opponents 11-10. The second one was a nip-and-tuck affair with the Orphans finally coming from behind, tied it at 11-all in the 10th end and then going on to win 15-11.

CLOSE ENOUGH

Red Patch No. 13, by taking most of the ends, even if they were by singles, in the first game proved that it was sufficient to take the game 9-8 from Legion No. 7. The second game was tied twice before a winner was declared when No. 7, finishing strong by taking the final two frames with doubles, won 13-10.

Glens No. 6 just could not find the kat in the first game and were defeated 3-13 by Legion No. 3. The second game was much closer, but again the Glens went down 10-8.

Lawn Boys No. 2 allowed Legion No. 5 to make it 7-all in the ninth frame and then won it 10-8. The second game was a walk-away for Legion No. 5 as going into the 10th end they were leading the Boys 18-5 and won it 18-11. This score, by the way, was added wrong.

That postponed game from the first week between LOL No. 12 and Legion No. 11 was played and resulted in two wins for No. 11. The first game was very close and, while No. 12 scored a big four in the final frame, they had started too late and lost 11-9. The second frame was tied twice but this time the Orangemen faltered in the final ends and lost 15-10.

J. Wilson has paid his honorary membership fee and is now eligible to play for any team shorthanded. There has been no more teams' dues paid.

Next week the standing in the league will be prepared and published.

The executive meeting should be called at once to get that draw started and the other business completed.

Plan To Expand Television Stations

MONTREAL (CP)—J. E. Hayes, chief engineer of the CBC said Monday three out of every four Canadians will "eventually" be within range of a television station.

Addressing a joint meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada and the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Mr. Hayes said Canada would then be "the world's second leading nation in terms of the number of television transmitters in use."

At present seven CBC and 14 private TV stations were in operation or under construction in Canada, and applications were pending for private stations in Peterborough and Charlottetown.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Montreal Star writer remarks: "Intermediate football, where Canadians won't have to jostle with USA imports for playing positions, are now in the midst of eliminations aimed at bringing champions of Eastern and Western Canada together Nov. 21 for the Dominion title. In the west the field is reduced to two, St. Boniface Legionnaires, 1952 Canadian titleholders, and Fort William Redskins of the Thunder Bay League. They meet Nov. 8 in a sudden death western final. Peterborough and Oakville are playing off for the Ontario title, the winner to have a sudden-death final in Quebec Nov. 15. The Quebec playoff is expected to have a winner by Nov. 7. The east-west game will be in the east a week before the Grey Cup game. Last year some 10,000 western fans saws St. Boniface down Peterborough in Winnipeg.

* * * * * * *

So there's the score to date on ORFU, QRFU and CRU intermediate "A" playdowns. The Quebec winner won't be known till next week. Our Orfuns hold a 13-point lead over Oakville in provincial finals and are favored to take this series here Saturday, thus putting them into Montreal the following weekend in Eastern Canada finals, or the CRU semi-final, which ever way you wish to call it. Until we get by both Oakville and the Quebec champs we won't worry unduly which western team will be heading east Nov. 21 after the Ferguson Trophy. Meantime, Tony Kotowski will keep Orfuns drilling for the playoff here Saturday aft in Morrow Park. Get your tickets now, grid fans.

Lakefield Lining Up

Lakefield Indians downed Bowmanville 5-3 the other eve in an exhibition hockey tilt, a warmup for the OHA intermediate schedule opener with Lakefield at Port Hope tomorrow. The Indians will play at Civic Arena this Friday. Club executive has Clayt Hannah prexy, Percy Archer secretary, and Gar Samis, George Birch and Earl Edwards. The Lakefield goalie is none other than Ray Harding and the defence has John Richlark, Rock Wilson, Dean Wasson and Joe Sabatino guarding the blue line. Up front are Dave Quigley, Tom Birch, Ace Reid, Doug Hunter, Dick McCracken, Ken Floyd, Cam Wasson, Ab Caravaggie, Mark Donoghue, Len Lonsberry, Keith Fawcett and Neil Wasson. A good outfit, we'd say. In their Bowmanville exhibish, McCracken scored two goals, and Birch, Richlark and Hunter one each.

Marmora is coming up with artificial ice this year and it'll be a great thing for this thriving village and the surrounding area. Not only will the TVL team there get a break now but hockey will be stressed for the area. A pre-season loop has already been lined up for peewee, bantam, midget and juve teams We hear Havelock, Marmora and Coe Hill are in peewee competition. Havelock, Madoc, Marmora and Stirling go in bantam play. Midgets include Stirling, Norwood, Coe Hill, Flinton, Stirling and Marmora. More power to the Marmora arena commission.

Clicked in the Third

Petes started to fly in the third frame at Civic Arena last p.m. and tossed in five straight goals to gain a 6-2 OHA senior "B" win o'er Belleville Memos. That puts 'em in second place in the young group race, half a game back of Oshawa Truckers. As predicted right along on all sides, this is early shaping up as a keen league race with a lot of smart puckists performing for the various clubs. Petes have considerable bench strength now with Bill McMaster back in action and Chum Fryia on deck again following an injury in the opening joust of the season. The local team takes off Friday for a fixture in Kingston's grand ice igloo, and Petes are at Belleville next Tuesday, not showing here again until November 13.

* * * * * * *

Jack Donlevy's steady goaltending kept the hustling Memos down to one goal the first two periods though the Dorandudes outplayed Petes. Latter didn't get going right till they erupted in the third and thatwas that. Gus Leonard was in on four goals, Toodie Greenlaw notched a pair, while Chum Fryia and McMaster each figured in on two. Coach Eddie Redmond is a fine team player and he spearheads a strong defence, though the blue-line guardians, like the forwards, were slow getting untracked in last night's streamlined shinny showing. The Quinte crowd is stronger than last semester, too, which promises plenty of hot action when these clubs clash again down Bella Villa way.

Windsor Man Places Wreath On Memorial

WINDSOR, England (Reuters)—Charles Cook of Windsor, Ont., Monday placed a wreath of poppies and maple leaves on the new air force memorial at nearby Runnymede, just below the name of his son, PO H. L. Cook.

The wreath should have arrived by air in time for the unveiling of the memorial by the Queen two weeks ago. But there was a mix-up and the wreath was sent by sea instead.

The mayor of the English Windsor, Sir Cyril Dyson, was with Cook at the memorial.

The names of 12 Windsor, Ont., fliers who died on active service in the Second World War are inscribed on the memorial.

Central Boys Win To Go Into Finals

Central won by 1-0 over King Edward yesterday at King Edward Park to move into the Public School Soccer League finals against Prince of Wales "A" team. Lumbard in the losers' goal and Gray of Central were exceptionally good in this keen contest. Play was cautiuos with Walling and Stevens showing neat footwork. Late in the last half, Central took control long enough to push one between the uprights. Backed by consistent kicking by V. Armstrong, the forwards swarmed in and Terry Armstrong passed neatly to Mills, uncovered, and the latter banged in the only goal. Harrington for Central and J. Livingstone of King Edward at full-back showed up well[illegible]

Teams:

King Edward: Lumbard, Livingstone, Outram, Murduff, Busby, Kemp, E. Warner, G. Warner, Walling, Stevens, Roseborough, Waldie, Tushingham.

Both Teams Champs Headmasters Agree

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — The winner of the Little Big Four football title? Why, either Ridley or St. Andrew's. It doesn't matter.

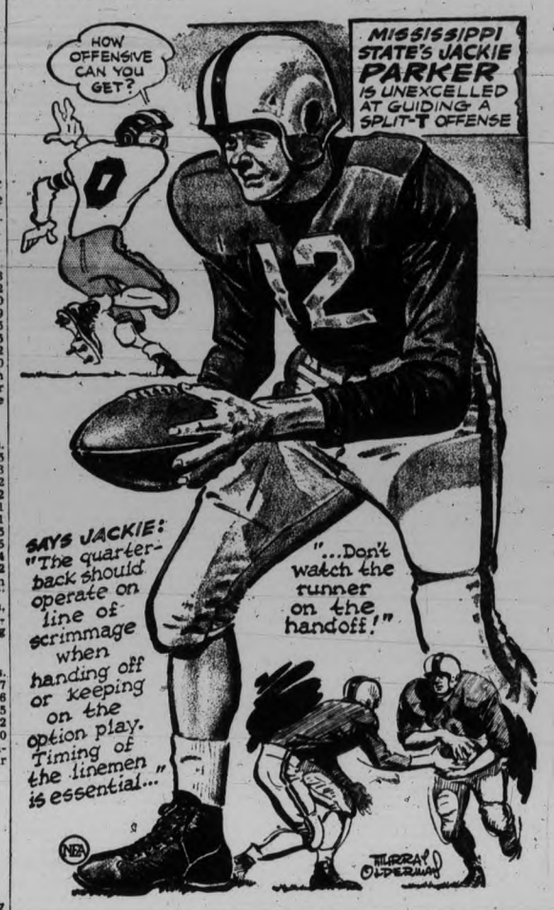
Headmasters Dr. J. R. Hamilton of Ridley and Ken Ketchum of St. Andrew's will be the last to argue about the champion of the sudden-death playoff Saturday when their teams tied 17-17.

Some Ridley fans claimed the title because the St. Catharines college was the defending champion and was not beaten. Not so, said St. Andrew's fans. They pointed to their club, which had a better goals for-and-against record.

Commented Dr. Hamilton:

"As far as Ridley is concerned it was a tie game. We are both champions. That's fair, isn't it?"

Said Mr. Ketchum at Aurora:



"Let's just call it a split. Both clubs were the best in the league. And, after all, there's no championship cup."

Since the league has no executive, the headmasters call the shots. A tie it is.

Rookie Centre Helping Red Wings Produce Points

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings' famed "production line" is producing at a greater clip than ever this season because of a sharp-eyed rookie centre who last year had trouble with his vision.

Earl (Dutch) Reibel, 23-year-old newcomer, is playing like a veteran between the Wings' two high-scoring forwards, Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay. They threaten to break all scoring records for a forward line.

Reibel and Howe are tied for the National Hockey League scoring lead with 14 points each. Lindsay is right behind.

This trio has been averaging 3.64 points a game—far ahead of the 2.97 established two seasons ago by the Howe-Lindsay-Sid Abel combine.

Abel retired last year to take over coaching duties for Chicago Black Hawks. That left a big gap in the Wings' "production line." Five centres were tried between Lindsay and Howe last season, but none of them could keep up.

REIBEL "AT HOME"

Then along came Reibel, and from the opening game, when he made four assists, he's been right at home with Howe and Lindsay.

However, only 16 short months ago there was some doubt that Reibel would ever play hockey again.

An automobile crash in July, 1952, sent him hurtling through the windshield, impairing his vision. The Wings sent him to a specialist, and in time his vision returned to normal through eye exercises.

This season he has proved beyond doubt that his vision is back to normal. He has overshadowed Jean Beliveau, the highly-touted $20,000 rookie of Montreal Canadiens. Beliveau, now injured, led the league in press clippings, but Reibel leads in points.

Scoring points is nothing new to Reibel, though. Playing with Edmonton last season, he led the Western League in scoring with 90. The previous year he was named the outstanding rookie in the American League while playing with Indianapolis.

Game For Charity

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League will play St. Catharines TeePees of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series in a charity game here Thursday.

Proceeds will go to the Niagara Peninsula Shrine Club and the St. Catharines Council Knights of Columbus.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

The most sporting football game played in Canada this year didn't take place on the gridirons of the eastern Big Four, nor the Western Conference. Doubtless these grim battles in Canada's upper pigskin brackets had their incidents of sportsmanship. But not the kind to which we refer.

The most sporting game of all was played on McGill's big football bowl, September 19. It was Canada's nearest approach to the Rose Bowl game that hits the peak of United States college football glory. And, as in the Rose Bowl, it was college vs. college, and east vs. west.

This game was of high sporting merit because it was designed for a fine purpose, that of establishing, or contributing to, a fund to make life brighter for Canadian paraplegic war heroes.

University of British Columbia sent its football team east to play McGill. The game was the first of what is planned to be an annual event for the Winston Churchill trophy. The grim old British warrior and statesman, who defied Nazi air power at the lowest ebb of Allied hopes in the last World War, gave his consent to use of his name for a trophy. There is a trophy record-book, which will be kept in a compartment of the famous sculpture "The Onslaught," a suitable receptable, for the fine piece of work is by Dr. Tate McKenzie, famed Canadian scupiture, a work that is the property of the University of Pennsylvania and depicts with great vigor and vibrancy, a charging football line. Each year, the autographs of the competing teams will be inscribed in the record-book, and it will become, over the years a valuable contribution to the history of Canadian college football.

The game was played in the presence of two of the Dominion's most colorful mayors—Fred Hulme of Vancouver and Camillien Houde of Montreal.

Mayor Hulme kicked off in this, the first east-west college classic to aid the Canadian Paraplegic Association. Similar to famous yearly Shriners Bowl games in San Francisco each adian "Paraplegic Bowl" game is expected to become an an-New Year's Day for the benefit of crippled children, the Cannual attraction with the 1954 game to be played in Vancouver.

As the most sporting football game of all, in Canada, this column heartily commends it, for its scope, its sporting spirit, and its fine objective.

Your comments and suggestions for this column will be welcomed by Elmer Ferguson, c/o Calvert House, 431 Yonge St., Toronto.

Bruins Team To Watch In National League, Knocking Off Opposition

MONTREAL —(CP) — It's about time more attention was paid to Boston's Bruins, who have been lumbering along in the National Hockey League and knocking off opposition on foreign ice while few gave heed. In six road games the Bruins have won three, tied one and lost two. At home they have won two of three. Currently, the Bruins are tied with Toronto Maple Leafs for third place, but what makes them so worrisome to other clubs is that that the Bruins have played only nine games.

The league - leading Montreal Canadiens, faltering on the road last week, have played 12 games. The second - place Detroit Red Wings have played 11.

Canadiens still are leading by two points but the pressure is on. Just to complicate things, Chicago's lowly Black Hawks gave signs of getting out of the penguin class by winning two and tying one last week and have caught up with fifth-place New York Rangers.

BIG CHANCE

The Bruins have their big chance this week when they are at home to the Black Hawks and then play home and-home games with Canadiens.

Top rung in individual point-scoring now is shared by rookie Earl (Dutch) Reibel of the Red Wings and his teammate Gordie Howe, NHL champ. Reibel got himself only one assist last week while Howe picked up three. Each has 14 points, with four goals and 10 assists.

Ted Lindsay of the Red Wings moved sharply into contention with two goals and one assist, bringing his total to 13. His teammate, Red Kelly, Boom Boom Geoffrion of Montreal and Tod Sloan of Toronto are tied at 10 points each.

RICHARD HAS 9

Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal, leading the goal-getters with six, added two assists and now has nine points.

Three goalies are fighting it out for net-minding honors with goals-against averages of less than 2.00. Terry Sawchuk of Detroit leads with 1.27, followed by Harry Lumley of Toronto with 1.75 and Gerry McNeil of Montreal with 1.83.

Canadiens are the most penalized team, with a total of 143 minutes, and their own Maurice Richard heads the individual penalty parade with 22 minutes.

Gregory Voted Most Valuable

TORONTO (CP)—Dick Gregory, halfback with Toronto Balmy Beach of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union, has been voted the league's most valuable player this year, ORFU president Donald F. Downey announced Monday night.

Gregory, who joined the Beaches a month after the schedule began, won the ORFU scoring championship with 95 points in eight games. Last Sunday he scored four touchdowns against Brantford Redskins.

Jack Mancos of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, second to Gregory in the individual scoring race, was chosen second most valuable player in balloting by players of the league's four teams.

Gregory is a product of Minnesota University and played professional with Chicago Bears of the National League at one time.

Mantle Surgery Said Successful

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—The surgeon who operated on Mickey Mantle Monday said the New York Yankee baseball star came through in good shape and "we expect complete recovery."

Dr. Dan Yancey removed the semi-lunar cartilage from Mantle's right knee, which was injured in the 1951 world series and again last July. He said the operation revealed more damage to the cartilage than was expected.

The speedy outfielder "will be as strong as it was before the operation and there will be no loss of action," Dr. Yancey said.

Mantle was kept under sedatives Monday night and today. Dr. Yancey said there would be considerable pain until tonight. Mantle probably would remain in hospital a week or 10 days before returning to his Commerce, Okla., home.

Stewart Clings To Slim Lead

NEW YORK (AP)—Gaye Stewart of Buffalo Bisons is clinging to a slim lead in the American Hockey League's scoring race, with four of his team-mates challenging the 30-year-old left winger.

Stewart, an experienced hand who played with four National Hockey League clubs, has 19 points on eight goals and 11 assists in games through Sunday.

Don Marshall of the Bisons is second with 18. Red Sullivan, Hershey Centre, is third with 17. The other Bisons in the running are Ed Slowinski, Joe Lund and Johnny McCormack, each with 16.

Stewart, Slowinski and Marshall, who make up the No. 1 line for the league-leading Bisons, are tied for the most goals, eight. Frankie Eddolls, their playing coach, leads in assists, 11.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

First $500,000 To Be Tax Free

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Orioles disclosed Monday their purchase of St. Louis Browns includes a gimmick that makes the first $500,000 of net income tax-free and said every cent will go toward rebuilding the American League team.

"Over and above that half million, we have a very tidy and substantial figure to spend this year for new players," said Clarence W. Miles, president of the new Orioles.

He said the Browns had lost $500,000 which the club can take as a loss. "It means that Baltimore won't have to pay taxes to that extent."

He promised that it all "will be plowed back into building up this ball club. No purchaser of a ball club ever enjoyed that before."

McGill Coach May Resign

MONTREAL (CP)—Vic Obeck, director of athletics at McGill University, said Monday night he is considering resigning his post as coach of the university's senior intercollegiate football entry.

He said he doesn't like the "under the table deals" which are going on in "some colleges."

In a telephone interview, the McGill coach said if he does decide to quit the coaching job it will not affect his position as director of athletics.

Obeck came here from the United States several years ago as coach of the Redmen, and later was appointed director of all the university's athletics.

Coach King Clancy Chastises Team

TORONTO (CP) — King Clancy, coach of Toronto Maple Leafs Monday chastised his boys for waiting too long before shooting at the opposing goal.

"If they wouldn't wait to go in and shake hands with the goalie before they shot the puck they would be a much better team," said Clancy on his return from New York where Leafs gained a 2-2 tie by scoring in the game's dying moments of the National Hockey League game with the Rangers Sunday.

May Use Copeland As Argo Quarter

TORONTO (CP) — Royal Copeland who played defensive halfback for Toronto Argonauts most of the season, may take over duties as a quarterback when Argos meet Ottawa Rough Riders in Ottawa Saturday.

Regular quarter Knobby Wirkowski injured his throwing arm in last Saturday's 20-8 loss to Ottawa here.

Copeland practised at quarter Monday night and coach Frank Clair said he did "a good job."

Logan Totals 67 Converts Without Miss For Ti-Cats

TORONTO (CP) — Tip Logan made it 67 converts without a miss when he booted the extra points on five Hamilton Tiger-Cat touchdowns last Saturday in his Big Four club's 31-18 triumph over Montreal Alouettes. The Canadian-born end also scored a touchdown for a 10-point day and a jump into fourth place in the scoring race.

The former Queen's University star hasn't missed a convert in his three seasons with the Tiger-Cats.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show the 200-pounder with 48 points in 12 games on two touchdowns, three field goals, 27 converts and two singles. He hopped from sixth place with his brilliant Saturday effort.

ROBERTS TOP MAN

Gene (Choo Choo) Roberts of the powerful Ottawa Rough Riders leads the race with 80 points, 11 more than Montreal Alouettes' Ray Poole, veteran kicking star from New York Giants. Avatus Stone, former Chicago Cardinal and now with Ottawa, is in third place with 64 points.

Roberts, former New York Giant, kicked three converts in Riders' 20-8 victory over Argonauts Saturday. He has scored six touchdowns, five field goals, 33 converts and two singles in 12 games.

Dick Gregory, an import from Chicago Bears via Saskatchewan Roughriders, won the Ontario Rugby Football Union scoring championship with 95 points. In eight games with Toronto Balmy Beach he scored 13 touchdowns, two field goals, 23 converts and a single.

ONESCHUK NEW LEADER

Steve Oneschuk, who scored three touchdowns and kicked five converts in University of Toronto Blues' 34-0 victory over McGill Redmen Saturday, took over the Intercollegiate scoring lead. He replaces Gino Fracas of University of Western Ontario Mustangs.

Oneschuk now has 37 points, four more than the Mustang back.

Ron Stewart of Queen's University Gaels, scored three touchdowns against McGill Saturday to leap into third place in the college circuit, with 25 points.

SAVOIE CONFIDENT

MONTREAL (CP)—Armand Savoie, who gets a crack at Jimmy Carter's world lightweight boxing title Nov. 11, says "I think he's made to order for me."

The black-haired little Montrealer said it with calm confidence and not a trace of cockiness.

"I'm in better shape than I have ever been. I'm about seven years younger than Carter. If Carter wins it won't be the easy way. As long as I can stand up I won't quit.

"I saw him fight George Araujo in New York. I beat Carter here in a non-title fight, I'm sure I know his style, and he doesn't change. It's hard to explain but he has a funny little step when he's coming in. He didn't hurt me at all when I fought him last spring and I know I'm in far better condition now."

Savoie has just returned from his training camp in the Laurentian mountains, where he did road work, climbed mountains, chopped and sawed trees and boxed 18 or 20 rounds a day.

Savoie, 23, is five feet, eight inches tall and now weighs 136.

BOXERS IN RING AGAIN

LONDON (AP)—Ray Barnes and Yolande Pompey, middleweights who have been out of the ring for months, go back to work today.

Pompey, of Trinidad, is favored over Barnes, a Detroit Negro who recently was discharged from the United States Army. The fight will be Barnes' first since 1952. His record shows 36 victories, three defeats and one draw.

Pompey has been overshadowed in British rings by former world middleweight champion Randy Turpin. He hasn't been able to find a fight since summer.

lyn shortstop Harold PeeWee Reese refuses to comment on reports from New York that he has been offered the job as manager of the Dodgers.

The reports said E. J. Bavasi, vice-president of the baseball club, put the proposition to Reese at a meeting at Columbus Friday.

Dodger officials previously had indicated Reese would get the offer to replace Chuck Dressen who refused to sign again as manager because he was offered only a one-year contract.

MONTREAL (CP) — Gordon Stringer, general tournament chairman, announced Monday night that a field of 15 to 20 countries is expected to participate in the second annual Canada Cup golf matches at the Laval-sur-le-Lac course next Aug. 13-15.

Stringer said 15 countries have already asked to be represented by two-man teams in the competition won last summer by Argentina's Tony Cerda and Roberto de Vicenzo.

Eight countries participated in last summer's inaugural matches, in which Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Bill Kerr of Montreal finished second. In order then came Australia, the England-South African combination, the United States, Germany and Mexico.

Countries which have already asked to be represented are Germany, New Zealand, Mexico, The Netherlands, Belgium, Japan, Argentina, United States, Canada, England, South Africa, Ireland, Australia, Scotland and Wales.

Riders Win Hallowe'en Treat

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders won themselves a $530 Hallowe'en treat in Toronto Saturday with their 20-8 victory over Toronto Argos. Now they're figuring how it should be split.

Before Saturday's game, club president James P. McCaffrey offered the team a $500 bonus if it beats Argos, matching a similar promise to Toronto players by the Argo management. The Riders earned themselves an extra $30 for three intercepted passes and three covered fumbles, at $5 each.

After the game the eight U.S. imports huddled, then announced they wanted the money to be divided among the Canadian players.

The last word on the subject came from Canadian Bob Simpson, who said they would accept the money and spend it on a party for their U.S. teammates "after we win the Grey Cup."

Nodallu Wins Cup At Australian Race

The victory was worth $22,148 plus a gold trophy.

Free-For-All In Hawks Game

CHICAGO (AP) — Players, coaches and spectators swung fists in a free-for-all Sunday night during the second period of the Boston-Chicago National Hockey League game.

No one was hurt, but it took three officials to sort out the fighters. Jim Peters of Chicago Black Hawks and Bob Armstrong of Boston Bruins were given five-minute penalties for starting the melee.

It started with Peters and Armstrong swinging at each other along the boards between the players' benches. Coach Sid Abel of the Hawks reached over and grabbed Armstrong to haul him away. Lynn Patrick, the Boston coach, went to the defence of his man and swung at Abel. Abel returned Patrick's

The game ended in a 0-0 tie.

Channel Islands Still In Doubt Of Ownership

WASHINGTON — A Franco-British dispute eight centuries old —ownership of some gaunt rocks off the coast of France—has gone in friendly fashion to the International Court of Justice at The Hague for settlement.

Les Ecrehous and the Plateau des Minquiers, mite-sized island groups between the British-owned channel island of Jersey and France's Contentin Peninsula, are the prizes at stake, says the National Geographic Society.

LOST NORMAN LANDS

There was no problem so long as William the Conqueror and his early successors ruled England, Normandy and the Channel Islands in between. Later, however, the British throne lost its possessions on the French mainland, and while the larger islands remained indisputably British, ownership of the Ecrehous and Minquiers was never firmly fixed by treaty.

The Plateau des Minquiers is a rock-studded sea area of some 80 square miles, 12 miles south of Jersey and 18 miles from France. Near it are the Iles Chausey, a tiny archipelago that is definitely French-owned.

SEA SWALLOW HAVEN

Of the Minquiers, Maitresse Ile has the only habitation. Jerseymen have built a few granite houses for part-time use on the 200-yard-long rock, and there is also a Jersey customs house. French fishermen have erected a pre-fabricated sleeping shack there as well, but sea swallows are the island's most regular inhabitants.

The Ecrehous, where once lived a solitary old sailor nicknamed "King of the Ecrehous," lie seven miles northeast of Jersey and eight miles from the French coast. A smaller group than the Minquiers but with more land above water, the Ecrehous now have three inhabited islands.

Largest of these, Maitre Ile, 300 by 150 yards, has one house and a ruined abbey building. Marmoutier and Blanque Ile, really one island except at very high tides, boast a cluster of dwellings.

Main uses of the islands are for summer jaunts and as fishing grounds. In addition to various fishes, lobsters, crabs, shrimp and oysters, the delicious ormer, a type of abalone, is found under rocks at low tide.

The question of fishing rights has already been settled by an Anglo-French agreement to share them, no matter what the International Court of Justice finally decides.

TITLE WAVE—Sir Adrian Ivor Dunbar and Lady Dunbar, both of Upper Fairmont, Md., prepare to sail from Hoboken, N.J., to Southampton, England, aboard the liner Maasdam. Mammoth Real Estate Plan May Alter Montreal's Skyline

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian National Railways planners are working out details of a mammoth real estate project which in 10 years or so could drastically alter Montreal's skyline.

What they have in mind is development of a 24-acre area into which CNR's Central station and the International Aviation Building already have been set.

CNR's immediate plans call for expenditure of $20,000,000 on a modern hotel and an adjoining 28-storey office building that may cost $12,000,000 to $14,000,000.

Once these two structures go up, private business will be given the opportunity to erect commercial buildings on CNR property facing the Central station group.

CNR officials hope the entire development will grow into one of North America's biggest transportation, hotel, business and shopping centres.

While plans for the Central station development were thought out almost a quarter-century ago, it is only in the last three years that planning has got down to details.

In the model room at Central station, CNR men now have set up miniatures of all the buildings they would like to see in the area north and south between Cathcart and Lagauchetiere streets and east and west between Mansfield and McGill College avenue.

SEEK APPROVAL

Plans for the first step—erection of the CNR hotel which would be the biggest in Canada—are so far advanced that only parliamentary approval of the $20,000,000 expenditure as part of the CNR's 1954 budget is needed. If Parliament approves, work will start next year.

The adjoining CNR office building would permit the railway to bring under one roof departments now scattered around the city.

Montreal city planners are ready to co-operate by widening McGill College avenue into a broad thoroughfare extending to a plaza in the middle of the projected commercial section of the terminal development.

There has also been some talk of a civic concert centre in the new section of downtown Montreal.

Apart from CNR estimates of its investment in the terminal development program no one can say definitely what the full cost of the big project would be.

It looks as though it might run to more than $100,000,000 making it the biggest undertaking of its kind ever attempted in Canada.

Hydro Network Outlined To Rotary Club

Bob Aspinall, area manager of Ontario Hydro in the Peterborough - Millbrook district, and George Batley of Canada Packers, discussed various factors concerning their individual occupations at the weekly Rotary luncheon Monday.

More than 800 miles of heavy duty hydro wires cover this area distributing power to various outlets. A current of 140,000 kilowatts, at 230,000 voltage, is pumped from the Cheneaux station on the Ottawa river to the station at Lily Lake. It is then re-distributed to Port Hope, Oshawa, Scarboro and Peterborough at voltages of 230,000, 115,000 and 44,000. Another sub-station is the Auburn plant, which draws 44,000 volts from Healey and Ranny Falls on the Trent river and distributes this power to Lakefield and Lily Lake stations.

The Peterborough rural operating area is responsible for the construction and maintenance of all these wires and employs between 65 and 70 people to do the job.

MEAT PACKING

Mr. Batley briefly discussed the history of meat packing and the domestication of certain animals for that purpose. Although Columbus was reported to have brought beef cattle with him to the new world, the origin of the first American herds is credited to Cortez.

About 1870, Chicago became famous as a packing centre and the war on waste was begun. The plants began processing their own byproducts. This stage of packing has developed to such an extent today that only a fraction of the Canada Packer's plants deal directly with animals.

The total output of meat products turned out by Canada Packers in 1952 was 1,159,000,000 pounds, an increase of some 450 million pounds over the years immediately preceeding the war and corresponding with the increase of Canadian population.

KIDNAP-COP IN HAWAII — Former police lieutenant Louis Shoulders, the man who captured the Bobby Greenlease kidnappers and then retired from the St. Louis police force during an investigation of the missing $300,000 ransom money, arrives unexpectedly in Honolulu. He is accompanied by a woman identified as Mrs. Mae Rossi, of Long Beach, Cal. FBI agents who were in the crowd at the airport when Shoulders arrived did not detain him.

CCF MP Wants To Know Candidates Election Costs

OTTAWA (CP)—A CCF member of Parliament wants to know how much this summer's election campaign costs the candidates.

Stanley Knowles, member for Winnipeg North Centre, placed a motion on the order paper for the forthcoming session of Parliament asking for details of the expenses. Parliament opens Nov. 12.

He sought similar information after the 1949 election and learned that more than 100 candidates did not meet requirements of the Canada Elections Act.

The act requires every candidate in a federal election to provide information on expenses to the returning officer within two months of a new member being declared elected. He must tell who paid his bills, the amount of his personal expenses, the amount paid his agent for running the campaign and a variety of other information concerning his campaign expenses.

The act provides several penalties. A candidate who is elected and sits in the Commons without providing the expense information is liable to forfeit $500 for each day he sits in the Commons. The money may be collected by anyone who successfully sues him for it.

The elected member or an unsuccessful candidate may also be charged with committing an illegal practice which carries a maximum penalty of $2,000, two years in prison or both.

No court action was taken against any of the 100 candidates in 1949 who did not meet the election act requirements.

Windhoek, capital of the territory of South-West Africa, is built at an altitude of 5,568 feet.

Officer Plans To Be Wed

HONOLULU (AP)—The St. Louis police officer who arrested the Bobby Greenlease kidnappers said Monday he hoped to marry his landlady, who accompanied him to Hawaii.

Louis Shoulders, who resigned his lieutenant's commission after breaking the case, told newspaper men on the island of Maui that his companion, hitherto unidentified, is Miss June George, his landlady.

He added they expected to be married if his present wife will give him a divorce.

Shoulders came to Hawaii Saturday for a vacation, travelling under an assumed name. Miss George was carried on the manifest of the plane which brought them as Mae H. Rossie, Long Beach, Calif.

ASKS: "WHAT'S MORE"

Referring to the Greenlease case today, Shoulders said:

"I got the kidnappers. I got the woman and the gun. What more do they want of a police officer?"

Shoulders said he would remain in Hawaii until recalled to testify in the kidnapping case.

Delay Decision In Trial On Store Hours

Decision on a bylaw charge against Zimel Levine, operator of the Muriel Specialty Shoppe, 202 Charlotte St., was reserved two weeks by Magistrate R. I. Moore, Monday in court.

Sitting more than two hours during the afternoon Magistrate Moore heard one defence witness and arguments by city solicitor W. F. Hüycke, Q.C., and defence counsel W. B. Gordon.

It is expected the result of this case could affect similar charges facing six other women's clothing store operators charged with staying open the night of September 11, contrary to provision of bylaw 2864.

After hearing his witness describe the store as one dealing in women's specialties as compared with women's ready-to-wear articles, Mr. Gordon asked for dismissal of the charge on several points.

DELAYED PASSING

For one, he said the bylaw wasn't passed in the time limit set forth by provincial regulations during its legislation in 1929.

Secondly, the original petitioner's operations were not clearly defined on the petition. Thirdly, as a specialty shop, Muriel's does not fall in the same category as other women's clothing stores and therefore, is not effected by the bylaw.

Mr. Gordon contended, too, there was "not a scrap of evidence to show Levine was the occupier of the store," and contended that was the essence of the charge.

No attempt was made however, to deny that the store was open Friday, September 11, until nine o'clock at night. Bylaw 2864 make provision for closing between seven o'clock at night and five o'clock the next morning.

DIFFERENT SALES

The witness, Miss Evelyn Barrett of R.R. 6, Peterborough, said she had been employed by Levine for over eight years. She said Muriel's sell smaller women's articles and accessories as a specialty shop while ready - to - wear stores carry coats, dresses, suits and similar articles.

Murray Thomas, assistant city clerk, also appeared in the witness box to read a report of the finance committee of city council dating back to November 4, 1929.

The committee at that time recommended the bylaw be passed for November 15th and at that time, it went into effect.

MORE HUNTERS THAN DEER was the situation in the Kawarthas on opening day, Monday. In the above group on a high rock beside a beaverpond lake are, left to right, Earl Grose, Eric Nickson, Mel Beattie, George Dawson and Ed Sullivan (who shot one buck). "We should have shot nine . . . ," said Grose pointing across the marsh to the far shore.

Boy's Gesture Cause Of Crash Of 2 Trucks, Bus

A schoolboy's gesture was the indirect cause of a collision of two trucks and a bus on Highway 7, near Fowler's Corners, late Monday afternoon.

Nobody was injured and there was only slight damage to the vehicles.

The unusual accident occurred on the highway, three miles west of the junction with the Chemong road. An eastbound truck, loaded with wood, was being driven by James Owles, 33, of RR 2 Peterborough.

Owles stopped suddenly on the shoulder of the road after a schoolboy pointed at the load. He thought the boy's gesture indicated that some of the load had fallen off so he stopped to investigate.

Another eastbound truck, pulling a trailer, was following and swung wide to miss Owles' truck. At the same time, an eastbound Lindsay-Peterborough bus, driven by 23-year-old Robert Fontaine of 663 Water St., tried to go between the two vehicles and sideswiped them.

The right fender of the truck driven by Jack Watson, 25, of Oak Ridges was damaged. All three vehicles drove away after the investigation by OPP Constables Wallace Mohns and Thomas Armitage.

Hallowe'en Damage Closes School For Day

KEENE — (ENS) — The Upper School had an enforced holiday Monday when it was discovered that Hallowe'en pranksters had broken eight of the 18 panes in the school windows, removed the front step, dumped the books, ground chalk into the floor and rifled the teacher's desk.

The damage was not discovered until late Sunday night and the teacher, Mrs. Thomas Gall, had to dismiss the pupils Monday morning until the glass-covered debris could be cleaned up and the windows repaired.

It has not been ascertained who the vandals were.

Jewelry Thief

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Music publisher Larry Alva Daniels was fined $500 and placed on five years probation Monday for stealing $5,000 worth of jewelry from actress Joan Davis while a guest in her home in 1951. The judge said he received four letters recommending clemency for Daniels, including one from singer Bing Crosby.

October Warmer This Year Than In '52

Undoubtedly those who keep an eye on the thermometer already know this, but for those who don't, October was a warmer month this year than in 1952.

Jim Harrison, the district's official weather recorder, said today that the average temperature for October this year was six degrees higher than last year's average of 42.9 degrees.

Even the high for the month was higher this year, 74 degrees as compared with 72 in October 1952. At the same time October's monthly low of 25 degrees on the eighth and thirteenth was five degrees higher than the low of 1952.

Rainfall was less than half this year. Mr. Harrison reported .45 inches of rain in October as compared with 1.06 in October '52.

New Rains Sweep Across Northern Italy

Near Varese, the River Tresa surged over its banks flooding a number of homes on the outskirts of the town of Luino. Small streams and torrents in Trento province were rising rapidly.

Heavy, intermittent rains pounded northern Italy all last week, threatening a major flood disaster in the rich Po valley. They stopped Friday and officials considered the danger past. The new downfall began Monday.

Provincial Police Join Search For Youth

SUDBURY (CP) — Ontario provincial police today joined the search for 22-year-old Gilbert Brockaupe of Maniwaki, Que., who escaped yesterday from Burwash industrial farm near here.

Brockaupe had served four months of an 18-month sentence for theft. He was cleaning one of the institution offices when he escaped.

More Hunters Than Ever, Few Deer Shot First Day

By NICK NICKELS

NO MAN'S LAND—(Highway 28 north)—Deer hunters climbed into bright, warm clothing in cheerless shacks before dawn on Monday morning and stumbled away to their chosen watches. They stalked along dim trails half asleep with hounds on leash at their heels. They stood on high shoulders of rock singly and in pairs, watching the sky brightening the valleys of fog around them.

By 6:15 a stray shot or two, now here, now there, told them that deer were moving from night beds of bracken. From 6:30 throughout the early morning rifles cracked, increased to a roar. The deer hunt had officially opened in the Kawarthas.

They did not reckon on the paper-dry leaf mould that robbed their belling hounds of deer scent or the rising morning wind that confused and drowned the soft rustle of travelling game. A few sharp-eyed hunters squeezed off shots and downed their game but many got nothing more than a good chilling. The first day of deer hunting in the Kawarthas was disappointing.

DISTRACTING GEESE

A large flock of southbound geese, just after daylight, offered an attractive, but impossible, target to many bored trigger happy hunters. They blasted away at the flock and only succeeded in changing its formation. An invisible jet plane distracted one hunter just as a fine buck bounded across the runway he was covering.

From Haultain north on Highway 28 stub roads were lined with cars, the majority of them with out-of-town licenses. And compared to past opening days there were more hunters on hand than ever before.

Mrs. Reg. Scotland of Toronto "sat" her watch on a hill near the Herman Harris farm in a small wooden shelter. She "got one shot" but missed. It is her sixth season hunting in that area and she made her count each time and is confindent of repeating her record within the next week of her stay. Her husband, Herb Bamborough, Ernie Leeds, Sid Alcock and Don Morrell, all of Toronto and guests of the Harris', are members of the Peel County Game and Fish Club.

Another woman hunter with faster luck, Mrs. Sid McCauley of Apsley, shot her deer early in the morning. Lone hunter Elton Blakely of Warsaw went into the woods west of the Burleigh Ranch and shot an 11-point buck by 6:50 a.m. He guessed it would dress 190 pounds.

Many deer hunters are staying at summer hotels near the highway, few try to sleep in their parked cars and several Peterborough men spent nights in their own homes.

Two elk were shot at the Millard camp near Crab Lake. A female moose was shot "accidentally" at the F and F Hunt Club, ten miles north of Apsley; the Port Perry hunter reported his error to conservation officer Bob Trotter who investigated the breach of game laws. It took 12 men to cut up the moose on the spot and pack it out to a jeep. The hunter said that he saw something moving, and shot.

One of the most comfortable and well-run deer camps visited belonged to Herb Payne of Peterborough. Ed Sullivan and Angus Twomey each shot their deer early in the day and others in camp confessed to missing seven more: they were Herb Payne, Earl Grose, Mel

Third More Houses Started Oct. '53 Than Year Ago

The number of houses for which the city issued building permits last month was a third greater than in October 1952 and their total value was more than 50 per cent higher. But the total value of building permits issued to the end of October this year had dropped below the total for the same period last year because of the fact that the permit for the $1,451,002 federal building on Charlotte St. was issued in October, 1952.

For that reason, it is unlikely that the total of new building at the end of the year will have caught up to last year's record, although the construction of small buildings is continuing to stay ahead of the 1952 rate. The total value of permits issued to the end of October this year was $4,224,585 and for the same period in 1952 it was $4,790,246.

Here is the breakdown of permits issued last month: 28 garages valued at $12,315; 40 houses valued at $345,000 and 78 miscellaneous permits valued at $95,392, for a total of $452,707.

For October, 1952, the breakdown was: 21 garages valued at $6,744; 30 houses valued at $239,100, and 80 miscellaneous items valued at $1,451,002, for a total of $1,696,846. The total number of permits issued that month was only 131, compared with 146 last month.

Largest item in last month's total was the permit for the erection of the new $60,000 St. Giles' Presbyterian church on Park St. S., where construction is already under way.

But the greatest boost to the total came from permits issued for construction of houses in the Cordach sub-division near Park and McDonnel Sts.

Permits were issued for construction of six houses there by Earl Minor, five of them valued at $8,000 and one at $9,000. Dumoulin brothers were issued permits for three $9,000 bungalows and one $9,000 house. All are on Cordach crescent.

The next largest permit was issued to Frank Ephgrave for construction of three $9,500 dwellings on Elizabeth Ave.

Other permits were issued for construction of houses ranging in cost from $5,000 to $10,500.

Wants To Make Sure Enough Scotch Made

LONDON (Reuters) — Liquor importer Harry L. Lourie has arrived here to make sure Scottish distillers produce enough whisky to keep up with the home-drinking boom in the United States inspired by television.

Lourie, executive vice-president of the Association of Alcoholic Beverage Importers, wants the Scotch Whisky Association to increase the flow of scotch across the Atlantic by 25 per cent in the next six years.

"There are 45,000,000 families in the United States—just think of the difference to our industry if they would drink just one bottle of scotch each every year," he said Monday.

Mother's Idea To Small Son Start Of Plant

Mothers may often wonder about the effects of their counsel and suggestions in imparting ideas in the ambitions of their sons when they are in the impressionable period of youth.

Frank Fisher recalled last night an incident from his own boyhood when he was asked by the Examiner whether he could remember little influences which had directed him and his brother into the business they have developed at Fisher Gauge Works Ltd.

"This may be what you mean," he said, and going into the tool stock department he picked up a steel drill.

"I found that drill one day when I was playing as a boy in the canal. Maybe it was lost from a dredge. Who can tell? I took it home and was cleaning off the rust and polishing it. My mother asked me what I was going to do with it. "Sell it," I said. I recall that mother's reply was: "I wouldn't do that; I'd keep it. Some day you are going to need it when you have a business of your own."

FIRST TOOL

That drill was undoubtedly the first tool in the equipment of Fisher Gauge. Maybe it is only rarely used now, but the expanding industry has grown from that small seed.

Frank Fisher is in charge of production, and his brother is the designer of the refinements in machines, in charge of drafting and so on.

Parole Board Needs To Be 'Rejuvenated'

TORONTO (CP)—W. J. Stewart, chairman of the Ontario legislature's select committee on reform institutions, Monday suggested the chairman of the Ontario Parole board be replaced and the board "rejuvenated."

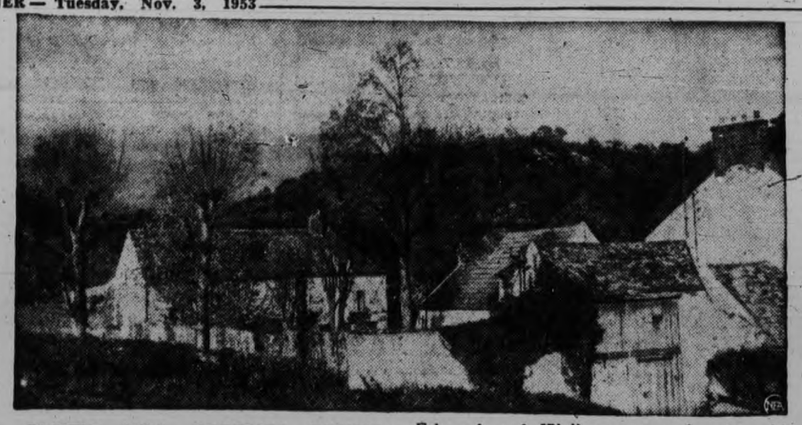
He made the suggestion when the board did not appear for an appointment with the committee. The Rev. George Dix of Toronto is board chairman.

"It seems to be a very unbusinesslike way of operating," Mr. Stewart said. "It's all evidence of lack of leadership and sense of responsibility."

ACTING CHAIRMAN

Mr. Stewart suggested an acting chairman be appointed from within the parole board's ranks to head its report on the parole board and other topics to the legislature.

Magistrate Thomas Elmore of Toronto told the committee as many drunks are arrested in Toronto as in New York. He did not quote figures. He also said it is common here for one person to go to jail 10 or 11 times a year for being drunk.



Licence Suspended

CHATHAM (CP)—Gerold Monk of St. Thomas was fined $100 and his licence to drive was suspended three years by Magistrate I. B. Craig Monday when Monk was convicted of dangerous driving. Police stopped the youth on No. 2 highway in Raleigh township Sunday night. Monk had had a driver's licence since Tuesday.

Actor Sues For Divorce, Beats Wife

Expensive stores where the glamorous beauty has charge accounts today got this letter, dated Oct. 30, from Sanders:

"Gentlemen: As of today, I have separated from my wife, Sari G. Sanders, also known as Zsa Zsa Gabor, and on and after this date, I am not responsible for any debts she may incur."

Martin Gang, Sanders' lawyer, said there will be no property settlement, explaining:

"There is no property to divide."

Sanders used to call all women "spoiled little beasts" until he married Zsa Zsa in 1949. Then his attitude changed.

"Whereas I used to be pontifical on the subject of women-hating," Sanders said, "my marriage to Zsa Zsa has made me merely confused."

Sanders' suit said his wife had caused him "great humiliation and much mental anguish."

Duke Of Windsor Settling In Countryside Of France

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

GIF-SUR-YVETTE, France — (NEA)—The 2000 citizens of this small village in the wooded valley of the Chevreuse, some twenty miles from Paris, have become title-conscious in the last few months.

Everywhere you go, you hear some reference to the "Duke" or the "Prince." The villagers seem to take it for granted that you know they are referring to the Duke of Windsor or, for the old-timers, to the Prince of Wales.

Reason is that the Windsors have acquired the romantic old millhouse owned by artist Etienne Drian. Soon after the sale, a small army of workmen set to work to transform the place from a comforable but rustic home into a luxurious residence.

Observed the former owner Drian: "One simply cannot comprehend the standard of luxury they take for granted. It is completely out of this world."

* * *

To begin with there were only four bathrooms for the 15 bedrooms. Obviously nowhere like enough. So more had to be installed, including one like a gilded birdcage for the Duchess.

A swimming pool is also under construction in the 14-acre garden, plus air-conditioning, central heating, the very latest gadgets in the kitchen—all things the like of which Gif had never before seen.

TWO FLOORS

The house itself is a rambling old structure with two floors and a tiled roof mellowed by the years. As you come over the brow of the hill, you get a glimpse of it nestling in a bower of towering trees. Not far off is a spot known as the "Hermit's Vale."

While the Duchess plays at being Marie-Antoinette, the Duke will probably hunt in the neighboring forest of Rambouillet, where the President of France has his summer home.

Gossip has it that the Duke and his American-born Duchess will occupy separate wings on the second floor. Her rooms look out on the valley and the woods. Downstairs is to be the "bachelor quarters."

The dining-room is bright yellow. Menus from famous restaurants all over the world will paper the walls of the cocktail lounge. Multicolored wallpaper, which the Duchess brought back from America will line the closets.

Around 30 workmen have been employed, and it is reported that when the architect submitted his first estimates Windsor exclaimed: "Good Heavens, are we going to rebuild the whole pla " Apparently the answer is "Yes."

An old resident name Mme. Duillement tells visitors: "Every one is up at the Prince's place. I can't imagine why he bought it. My house is just as pretty."

Freckled, ginger-haired Henri Bernier, 18-year-old local lad who worked at the millhouse as an apprentice carpenter, was not a bit impressed. "I suppose it will be all right when it is finished. But it must be costing a terrible amount of money." His boss, Maurice Roy, is the master carpenter of the village.

MANY CARS

While the Duke's engineer drives through Gif in a Jaguar, Windsor usually comes along in his Buick station wagon, always riding with the chauffeur. The Duchess prefers her large black Cadillac. Windsor has often eaten a sandwich lunch sitting among the plaster and paintpots.

The Windsors are also busy with the large house which they have just rented in Paris on the edge of the Bois de Boulogne. It was once the residence of General de Gaulle when he returned to the capital after liberation.

To the French, this is interpreted as an indication that the 59-year-old "Wandering Duke" and his fabulous Duchess have decided to make their permanent home in and near Paris.

The fact that after the death of Queen Mary, he decided to give up Fort Belvedere, his Windsor home, and shipped a considerable portion of its furniture to Paris seems to confirm French public opinion that he has abandoned the idea of settling down in England.

Ken Best Coaches Judges For Competition

His office will see little of Ken Best, assistant agricultural representative, for the next ten days. He took off to the country Monday with the Peterborough team which he is grooming for the inter-county judging competition at the Royal Winter Fair.

This is a Junior Farmer engagement, and the Peterborough entry is composed of Archie Davidson, Neil Cameron and Norm Blodgett. They leave in the morning at 7:30 visiting farms whose owners assist in selecting teams of stock for judging. At the Royal they will be confronted with three classes of dairy cattle, three of beef, two of swine, one of heavy horses and one of breeding sheep.

The daily schedule shows no variation in timing, except perhaps at the end of each day when Mr. Best and his charges arrive home. For the first part of this week the journeying is nearer the Peterborough office, but it gradually reaches farther afield.

PROGRESS

The program for Friday, Nov. 6 is laid out in Ontario county: 9 a.m.—At Elmcroft Farm, north of Oshawa; 10:30—Beath Farms; 1 p.m. Roy Hall, Oshawa district; 2 p.m. Doug Thomson, Brooklin; 3.15 John Batty, Brooklin.

Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock they are expected at the John Bull farms, Brampton, for a day in Peel. On the 10th and 11th they move on to Ontario Agricultural College for the last stage of their special training, and on Thursday they are entered in the competition on the day preceding the formal opening of the Royal Winter Fair.

Ed Summers, agricultural representative in Durham, was here last week with his team calling at some of the farms on the same mission as that of Mr. Best and other county teams of the province.

500 Savages Ambush Gov't Party

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — The Assam Tribune of Gauhati said Monday 500 savage Abor tribesmen have ambushed and wiped out 70 members of a government expeditionary party in the north-east mountain wilderness.

The attack took place about 10 days ago, says the newspaper, which gave this account of the attack:

The 70 men who were to distribute salt to tribesmen paused in a deep forest for lunch. Suddenly 500 whooping tribesmen leaped out from behind the trees shooting bows and arrows, firing spears and daggers into the surprised travellers.

They left every one of the 70 men dead in the clearing.

Most of the dead were tribesmen serving as porters and guides. The Abors had a grudge against the tribesmen in the expedition.

The rest of the 100-man expedition had taken another route and thus was saved, the Assam Tribune says.

Rented Car Skids, Driver Killed

TORONTO (CP) — Harry W. Payne, 32, was killed Monday night after his rented automobile skidded in street-car tracks and crashed into a safety island.

Three hours earlier, Ernest Webb 14, was killed when his bicycle, with a seven-year-old boy on the handlebars, skidded under the wheels of a truck. The younger boy suffered cuts.

Maj.-Gen. West Plans Tour Of Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Maj.-Gen. M. M. A. R. West, retiring commander of the 1st Commonwealth Division in Korea, will arrive at Vancouver Wednesday for an 11-day tour of Canada on his way home to Britain.

Gen. West, who commanded British, Canadian, Australian and New Zealand troops in Korea for the last 14 months, will visit military and industrial installations on the West Coast before coming east next Friday.

At Kingston, Gen. West will address the National Defence College and the Canadian Army Staff College.

Fortune Dissolved In Water Of Salty Dead Sea

WASHINGTON—Bitter waters of Israel's Dead Sea are too salty to sustain any form of life, but their fabulous mineral reserves are commercially valued at more than a trillion dollars.

The earth's lowest spot and one of the hottest, the Dead Sea contains two billion tons of potash, vital to fertilizers. The basin also holds some 22 billion tons of magnesium chloride, used in textile and cement manufacture; 980 million tons of bromide, essential to medicine and photography; and 11 billion tons of sodium chloride, or common salt.

RECORD SALT CONTENT

Although only one-fifth the size of Utah's Great Salt Lake, the Dead Sea has nearly double the salt content—26 per cent. Ocean water has a mere five per cent salt content.

The "chemical gold mine" is simple to tap: water is pumped onto land to evaporate under a fiery sun, and the various dehydrated products are later separated and purified. Commercial extraction was begun in 1930 by British and American interests.

Evaporation, estimated at from 6½ to 17 feet at the surface of the Dead Sea annually, is the sole outlet for six million tons of water daily flowing into the basin from the Jordan River and lesser tributaries. During the hot, dry season—May through October—blue-white mists hover over the water because of the high rate of moisture evaporation. Temperatures average 100 degrees Fahrenheit in this period.

Salts in the sea originate in the area's nitrous soil and in the sulphurous springs which feed its tributary streams. Asphalt lumps that occasionally ooze from the depths and wash ashore suggest the possibility of rich deposits. Seven petroleum companies have been granted concessions by the Israeli Government.

DIFFICULT SWIMMING

Dead Sea water is bitter to the taste and oily to the touch. Bathers are left covered with a dried crust of salt. It is almost impossible to swim in it; arms and legs protrude out of the buoyant water. The Sea surface is 1,286 feet below sea level, and its deepest point reaches down another 1300 feet.

Cradled between the sandstone Moab Mountains on the east and the limestone Judea hills on the west, the Dead Sea is 47 miles long and 10 miles wide. The southwestern portion touches Israeli territory, but three-fourths of the shore lies in Jordan.

The Dead Sea area is the site of the Bible's wicked cities of Sodom and Gomorrah, which were destroyed by "brimstone and fire". Lava beds and volcanic slag have been found on the south shore, but archeological expeditions have failed so far to uncover any ruins of the towns.

Russia Experiments With Color Television

LONDON (Reuters)—Russia is experimenting with color television and "satisfactory" results already have been achieved, the Soviet news agency Tass said Monday night.

Russia has had black-and-white television for several years, with transmitting stations in Moscow, Kiev and Leningrad.

"The demand for television sets has substantially increased and is growing by leaps and bounds," Tass said. "New types of television sets are being developed."

Sentenced For Arson

KITCHENER — (CP) — Harold Schlumkoski, 30, of Kitchener Monday was sentenced to one year definite and six months indefinite for setting fire to Leland Kress' barn Aug. 7. Schlumkoski was convicted on the charge last week.

Seven Homeless

BURKS FALLS (CP)—A district couple and their five children were left homeless Monday when their farmhouse, about 50 miles south of North Bay, was destroyed by fire. Damage by loss of the farmhouse, owned by Ab Noll, was estimated at $3,000.

6 Months For Fraud

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Betty Harris, 27, was sentenced Monday to six months in reformatory on 407 charges of fraud totalling $2,100. A psychiatrist told the court the woman was functioning emotionally on the level of a 2½-year-old although her intelligence was average. Police said Mrs. Harris obtained the money by running up charge accounts under several names at department stores.

Musician Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Roy Locksley, 54, head of the Second World War Navy Show and one-time CBC musical director in Winnipeg and Vancouver, died Monday.

Author Dies

PLYMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—Royal W. Brown, 67, who wrote short stories for leading magazines, died Monday. A native of Boston, he was once editor of the old Boston Journal. He retired about 14 years ago.

Accept Licence To Develop Power Project

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The New York state power authority today accepted formally the United States Federal Power Commission's licence to develop St. Lawrence river hydro-electric power.

The state authority announced Monday that it would accept the licence despite pending court actions that seek to block the project by having the FPC order set aside.

Chairman John E. Burton said "the planning program for this project has reached the stage where immediate acceptance is more vital than the possible time lost from the licence period."

The authority had delayed accepting the FPC licence, granted last July 15, because any time lost in legal delays after acceptance would represent time lost from the 50-year term of the licence.

One court action to block the project has been filed and others are expected before the deadline is reached Thursday.

Plans call for the $600,000,000 project to be undertaken jointly with Ontario.

EXPECTED ENERGY

It is expected to develop more than 12,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of electrical energy a year on the international rapids section of the St. Lawrence between Massena, N.Y., and Cornwall.

Burton said in a statement that the authority would "proceed with engineering planning at the same time that legal opposition to the project is disposed of in Washington."

The action already begun was filed by the Lake Ontario Land Development and Beach Protective Association, a non-profit group representing about 1,500 persons living on the shores of Lake Ontario.

It asked the U.S. Circuit Court in Washington last Friday to set aside the FPC order granting the licence, on the ground the project would cause "grave increases in the water levels of Lake Ontario."

MANY HOMES USELESS

If the project is built, the association contends, many homes of association members "will be rendered uninhabitable" and roads and utilities destined to serve the properties "will be seriously impaired."

Burton said engineering planning could "proceed for a short period before unresolved legal proceedings in Washington would constitute an obstruction to the project."

Actual construction delays would be caused if legal opposition continued beyond this short period, Burton said. He added:

The chairman said the engineering review and planning would "far exceed the capacity of the authority permanent engineering staff" and that the authority would announce the selection of engineering consultants "within a few days."

FILE PETITIONS

The New Jersey utility, an unsuccessful contender for the licence, asked the court to review and rescind the order approving New York's participation in the project. Trenton Power contends it should be the U.S. partner.

The coal organization said min employment would be harmed New York went ahead with the power project.

Liquor Profits Soar To $121,293,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Liquor profits made by provincial governments during the fiscal year ended nearest to March 31 soared to $121,293,000 from $111,863,000 the previous year, the bureau of statistics reported Monday.

The rise was reflected in an increase in net general revenue to $1,221,000,000 from $1,048,000,000. Net general expenditures also jumped among the 10 provincial governments to $1,233,000,000 from $1,083,000,000.

The bureau's preliminary analysis of provincial government finances also showed that tax revenues for all provinces dropped—to $470,704,000 from $554,864,000—due largely to Ontario's participation in the 1952 tax rental agreements between the federal and provincial governments.

CONTRIBUTING FACTOR

Ontario's participation in the agreement also was a contributing factor in the rise to $303,148,000 from $95,801,000 in provincial receipts from the agreements. Part of the rise also was due to higher payments to all provinces resulting from the rise in population.

Liquor profits by provinces were: Newfoundland, $1,745,000; Prince Edward Island, $865,000; Nova Scotia $8,770,000; New Brunswick, $6,368,000; Quebec, $21,500,000; Ontario $30,580,000; Manitoba, $6,350,000; Saskatchewan, $9,950,00; Alberta $13,360,000; and British Columbia $21,805,000.

Iwo Jima Hero Given Second Chance

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An American Indian, hero of fight[illegible] on Iwo Jima and more recently a victim of alcohol, has forfeited $20 bail on a new drunk arrest. But he still has his job if he wants it.

"I'm all through; I guess I'll go back to Arizona," said Ira Hayes when he got into trouble again Monday after benefactors got him out of a jam in Chicago.

Hayes was one of six United States marines who raised the Stars and Stripes on Iwo's Mount Suribachi, an event recorded by Joe Rosenthal with a picture which won a Pulitzer Prize. Rosenthal then was an AP photographer.

READERS GAVE $1,200

When Hayes was arrested on a drunk charge in Chicago recently, a newspaper paid his $25 fine and sent him to a sanitarium. Its readers donated nearly $1,200 to rehabilitate the 210-pound Pima Indian.

Twelve days ago he was offered a job as chauffeur and handy man for Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Martin and her four children. Hayes flew here to take the job, which pays $300 a month, room and board.

West Los Angeles police say found Hayes sitting on a curb Monday, counting again and again a fistful of bills. He had $121.75. They booked him for intoxication.

Mrs. Martin, divorced wife of singer Dean Martin, said the 30-year-old Hayes still has his job, even though he failed to appear on the charge.

Car Exhaust Fumes Cause Lung Cancer

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — Exhaust fumes from cars, trucks and buses creeping in traffic jams may be a hazy, blue plague causing some lung cancers, scientists reported today.

Exhausts from gasoline or diesel engines apparently contain more of these chemicals when running slowly, as in traffic tie-ups, than at higher speeds.

But engines kept in good condition don't give out any.

CITE EVIDENCE

The exhaust studies were cited as one of numerous bits of evidence that polluted air—from factories, highways and even home furnaces—may be a big cause of a frightening and rapid rise in lung cancer.

Lung cancer now is killing at least four times as many American men and twice as many women as in 1933. Its prevention is the theme of the annual meeting of the American Cancer Society here this week.

Lung cancer is more frequently found in cities than in rural areas.

SOME BLAME SMOKING

Smoking, especially of cigarets, is blamed by other scientists as a main or contributing factor.

Twelve different studies in five countries now indicate that the risk of lung cancer "increases with the amount smoked," said Dr. Ernest L. Wynder, of Memorial Centre for Cancer and Allied Diseases, New York City.

He suggested two preventive steps. One is moderation in smoking. The other is to discover what chemicals in tobacco may be responsible—and then to remove them.

Omemee Church 77 Years Old

OMEMEE (ENS) — Trinity United Church in Omemee celebrated their 77th anniversary on Sunday with the Rev. R. C. White, of Bobcaygeon, as speaker, who changed pulpits with the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt. Miss Dorothy Connell was soloist.

At the morning service, Mr. White said the Christian church had things old and new to bring out of its treasury. At anniversary times she reflects upon past achievements and then looks forward to new endeavour. As Christian people, he stated, we have a treasury out of which to offer things old and new to those who have not—old things of value such as the congregating of ourselves in the Lord's house for rest, recreation and worship, the Bible and the old hymns, and the new birth around which Christianity is centred.

His evening theme was "The Followers of the Golden Plow." The Christian plowman, said Mr. White, must be prepared to be a lone workman who preserves, whether or not he gets encouragement, plowing in those things which will make the soil fertile for the good seed and plowing under growth from seeds of the enemy.

B.C. Voters Have Some Color In Campaign

VICTORIA (CP)—British Columbia's Election Act, modernized at the last session of the legislature, gives a free-swinging style of campaigning its first test starting this week in the staid Victoria constituency.

Social Credit headquarters has already printed 1,000 green and white badges so that every Social Crediter may carry the party's colors and slogan on his lapel.

A placard for cars is also planned—but officials have not yet decided what to have printed on them.

The British Columbia Progressive Conservative leader, Deane Finlayson, is opposing Mr. Gunderson. Alfred Matthews, 21, will campaign for the CCF. Liberals have not yet nominated.

CAN PUT ON SHOW

B. C. eased restrictions of the old election legislation when the legislature decided it was all right to campaign with bands, hula dancers, cowboy minstrels, acrobats or whatever human ingenuity, bounded by good taste, could devise.

The previous act was confused and contradictory, but in general prohibited the B. C. voter from wearing his political sentiments on his lapel.

Mr. Wright was the assistant city clerk who received permission to run in the provincial election last June 9, but who, when he won, couldn't obtain leave of absence to serve. His city hall position was abolished, leaving him with only the $3,000 sessional stipend received by members of the legislature.

Mr. Wright was subsequently appointed campaign chairman for "Gundy," who had been defeated in Oak Bay riding.

Red Leader III

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Mexican Communist party said Monday its leader has gone to Russia for medical treatment. A party statement said Dionisio Encina had chosen Russia because Soviet science "is the best guarantee of the re-establishment of comrade Encina." The statement did not say what ails Encina, for years secretary-general of the party.

Use Of Antibiotics Topic At Havelock WI Meeting

HAVELOCK (ENS). — Dr. Douglas B. Kelly of the Medical Centre, Peterborough, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Havelock Women's Institute Monday afternoon in the council chamber.

Dr. Kelly took as his subject "The Importance of New Drugs and Their Uses." He described the smallest particles in the human body, the cells, which vary in size, shape and type, and the organisms that produce infection. The largest of the latter group is termed bacteria and the smallest viruses. He dealt with ill-effects which are experienced by some patients after using some of the new drugs, and said that the toxic effects are pretty well controlled and they were not seriously concerned about the ill effects. Penicillin, he said, was still the big one of the new drugs, and he dealt most extensively with its action and origin.

The president, Mrs. H. Pollock, moved a vote of thanks to Dr. Kelly.

Mrs. G. Wright was the soloist, with Mrs. D. Kirk as accompanist. Mrs. H. W. Roche was the program convener.

During the business session the president, Mrs. Pollock, presented a lengthy list of resolutions to be presented by various branches throughout the province at the forthcoming convention in Toronto in order that the delegates would know how the branch wished them to vote.

Mrs. W. Woodbeck reported that she and Mrs. Melville had attended the leaders' training course in Peterborough and had 10 girls lined up as members for what is known as the supper club whose program would cover making and balancing a menu.

The sum of $40 was voted for delegates' expenses to the convention. A letter of thanks was authorized to be sent with a donation of $5.00 to St. John's Anglican Church for the use of their basement for the Institute anniversary dinner. Letters of thanks are also to be sent to two stores for the loan of dishes and to the Home and School Association for their donation toward prizes for the local oratorical contest to be held in the town hall November 6.

It was announced that the county oratorical contest would be held in Lakefield High School November 13 and the inter-county contest at Brighton November 20.

Mrs. W. Harris, president of the Belmont Women's Institute, was present and extended an invitation to the Havelock branch to attend a meeting of their branch November 10, at the township hall to hear an address on "Aids to Public Speaking" by a speaker from the department.

A suggestion was made by Mrs. R. Melville to raise funds, that the Institute purchase the material to make a Christmas cake on which tickets would be sold for a draw. Mrs. Melville's offer to make the cake was accepted and a motion of thanks was extended to her for the use of her home for the Hallowe'en tea Saturday. Mrs. H. W. Roche read a poem in connection with the motto for the day, "To thine own self be true."

Propaganda Angers Church

NEW YORK (AP)—The governing body of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. said Monday that "a subtle but potent assault upon basic human rights is now in progress" in the United States.

Moreover, the church charged, "loyalty to truth" is being sacrificed for propaganda purposes.

In what was described as an extraordinary action, the denomination's general council sent to its 8,000 pastors and 2,500,000 members a letter on contemporary affairs, asserting:

"Dangerous developments are taking place in our national life. . . The shrine of conscience and private judgment, which God alone has a right to enter, is being invaded."

The letter charged that a "cynical attitude" in official circles was discouraging attempts to settle world tensions by negotiation, and that congressional inquiries have tended to "become inquisitions."

"These inquisitions, which find their historic pattern in medieval Spain and in the tribunals of modern totalitarian states, begin to constitute a threat to freedom of thought in this country," the letter said.

Adventists Condemn Any Censorship

OSHAWA (CP)—The annual publishing convention of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Canada Monday condemned any form of censorship, designed to curb obscene literature, that did not contain specific guarantees for freedom of the press and religion.

D. A. McAdams of Washington, D. C., associate secretary in charge of publications from the world headquarters of the church, said the 43 publishing plants operated by the church throughout the world have sold $16,000,000 worth of religious literature.

Yes, Magic . . . Dark Magic . . . your beautiful, dark, rich, chocolate cake, made with Shirriff's Chocolate Cake Mix. What made you a "super" cake baker? Was it the "super" quality of Shirriff's Chocolate Cake Mix? Was it the fresh, whole milk you added to the mix? Like any magic . . . there's a simple explanation. It's just this: Only food experts can make the BEST mix for a cake!

Wonderful you, Mother!

Best To Discuss Finances Before Getting Married

Money, money, money! Love of it is the root of all evil. Arguments concerning finances are the cause of most matrimonial woes. According to a Chicago judge, money problems account for more than 60 per cent of divorces. The figure may seem surprising, in view of the fact that more dramatic causes are usually credited (or would discredit be more appropriate) as the chief reasons for broken marriages.

DISGUISES GALORE

Consider, though, the number of disguises a money problem can wear, and the judge's conclusions appear quite less astonishing. There are extravagant wives and husbands—also wives who are not permitted to have any share in the family's financial arrangements; husbands who lay claim to a wife's earnings without permitting her any spending money, families who exhaust the bankroll keeping up with the Joneses, and so on. In fact, probably most family troubles result from a financial snag.

What can be done to decrease the financial woes of matrimony? Well, one essential factor in getting a new family started without monetary mishaps is a small matter too often overlooked. It's the simple idea of having two people, planning marriage, to have a comprehensive discussion on finances before they take the plunge.

Young women seem to have an inherent dislike to talk about anything as mundane as mere money. Such practicality interferes too much with romance! As for the young man— well, if the girl doesn't ask him about the ways and means, he doesn't have to tell, does he? A girl should know exactly what her fiance earns, how much he has saved, what his prospects are, what responsibilities he may have to his own family within a reasonable future, his views on home owning, his position on insurance, etc. Quite a list, but what an important list.

If all these angles are thoroughly understood before marriage, there's little likelihood of them cropping up later as divorce bait. If such matters have not been brought into the open during courtship, it's difficult, if not impossible, to adjust them later. They're much too vital to be left to a nebulous future on the theory that, "we love each other so much we'll NEVER have trouble over money."

BUDGETING KNOWLEDGE HANDY

A little practical budgeting knowledge comes in handy also, especially from a professional source. For this, I heartily recommend some of the Government's excellent publications. "Guiding Family Spending," (15c), and "Family Budget of City Worker," (5c) are particularly recommended. They may be obtained by writing to the Superintendent of Documents, United States Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. Do not send postage stamps for remittance.

A practical approach to a practical problem may put a dent in that 60 per cent ratio.

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happeneing to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH the alkaline (non-acid) powder on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Orange Bread Recipe Requested

In the column business the Fall and Cristmas seasons are top-heavy with reader's letters. But I love it. Who wouldn't when letters like this arrive:

"Dear Mrs. Moore: Having recently moved I was afraid at first I would no longer be able to read your column, but luckily discovered that your column was carried in our own daily Examiner. Even my husband reads it sometimes!

"I'm afraid my requests are many, but I have been planning to write for so long to you, that I kept adding to my list of queries. Do you remember when your children were aged two and three? Well my girl is three and my boy is two—so you can imagine my activities day by day.

"We are very fond of Chinese food, and have good recipes for Chow Mein and Sweet and Sour Spareribs, but cannot find any directions for Chicken and Tomato. It's the tomato sauce that I cannot reproduce. I think the chicken pieces are French Fried and then added to the sauce.

"Have you ever heard of "Stand Pie?" My husband is a Yorkshireman and often speaks of it, and would like me to make it. I think it must be somewhat like a Pork Pie with sausage meat, or something like that.

"Could you give me a good recipe for Orange Bread? I make Date and Nut Cake in 15 oz. tins and it keeps very well and I would like an orange and nut recipe that I could bake in 15 oz. tins also. They would be easy to slice for lunches and teas.

"Would you also please let me have your calorie chart. My husband and I are both too fat, and are full of good resolutions to try to get rid of some of the excess.

"Thank you once again for your most interesting columns, and your inspiration to your many readers to try to serve more healthful and diversified meals. . . . THAIS.H."

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I have a Chinese friend who is an expert cook. He gave me this basic sauce recipe. I am fairly sure you can vary it enough to satisfy you: A SWEET SOUR SAUCE: ¼ cup vinegar, ½ cup liquid—this may be tomato juice or tomato puree (use the puree if you want a sauce rich with tomato flavor and color) or pineapple juice, ½ cup solidly packed brown sugar, 1 tablespoon each cornstarch, cold water, salt and seasoning. Heat all other ingredients together to boiling, stir in paste until thick, let simmer about 5 minutes. If this is made with pineapple juice it is cooled and served as a "dip" with appetizers such as shrimp or cubes of chicken or lobster.

ORANGE BREAD

This calls for nuts and light raisins. You could omit the raisins. Squeeze the juice from 1 large orange into a measuring cup, then add boiling water to fill cup and turn into mixing bowl. Put orange rind through food chopper and to it add enough light seedless raisins (or dates) to fill the cup. Add to the orange juice and water, then stir in ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons shortening and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat in 1 egg. Sift together 2 cups stirred but not sifted flour with 1 teaspoon each baking soda and baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt. Beat well, then beat in ½ cup finely chopped walnuts or blanched almonds. Bake in greased loaf pan 50 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. If you bake this in 15-oz. tins it will not take this long.

I have enquiries out for the "Stand Pie" so please watch for it.

Canadian Girl Very Popular On British Radio And TV

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Ann Murray, a 23-year-old Toronto girl increasingly prominent in British radio and television, figures broadcasting is in her blood.

Miss Murray is the daughter of Gladstone Murray, Toronto business consultant and one-time general manager of the CBC.

An attractive girl with tawny, expressive eyes, Ann is reversing her father's order of things. He started in England with the BBC and went to Canada in 1936. Ann started in Canadian radio, then came to Britain and hooked up with the BBC.

PESTERED PRODUCERS

"I just kept pestering British producers until I finally got an acting role," said the dark-haired Miss Murray, whose face now is familiar to millions of Britain's TV viewers. She wangled six auditions trying to get parts and finally landed a lead role in "Middle Watch," a sound radio comedy starring Jack Hulbert, broadcast in August.

Ann was born in England but went to Canada as a child, with her family, and had her first taste of radio work in Ottawa doing children's parts. She came back to Britain in 1948 on a three-month visit to relatives.

She studied with a well-known dance and drama school in Stratford-upon-Avon, learning dance and mime as well as drama.

Recently Miss Murray appeared in a half-hour television play called "Chorus Girl" and followed this with a part as a witch in a Hallowe'en children's play. She was also heard in a sound radio production by Val Geilgud called "Hope of Britain." This was completely in verse and Ann says it gave her a "real kick."

STROKE OF LUCK

Her luckiest break so far—she's keeping her fingers crossed—is a chance to audition for the position of guest announcer, who takes over for regular announcers, when the need arises.

"It's a wonderful chance for those who are chosen," said Ann in an interview. The last guest announcer, Noelle Middleton, a dark-haired Irish girl, was offered film, stage and radio parts shortly after her first appearance.

Miss Murray has made a documentary appeal film for the St. John Ambulance Brigade and another documentary is on schedule. None of her British parts, however, has come up to the standards of roles played in Canada.

In shows at the University of Toronto she acted lead parts in Giraudoux's "La Folle de Chaillot" and Moliere's "Tartuffe." Under the direction of Toronto newspaper man Herbert Whittaker she also played Isobel in "The Enchanted."

Ann has one other connection with radio: Husband Peter Paul-Huhne, an Englishman she met and married in Toronto, is training with the BBC in an administrative post.

ACTS IN LONDON—Ann Murray, 23-year-old daughter of Gladstone Murray, former general manager of the CBC, now is in London acting in radio and television plays. Born in England, she came to Canada with her father in 1936 and acted in Toronto and Ottawa before returning to England in 1948.

Moscow Claims H-Bombs Too

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio claimed today that Soviet scientists have created "several types of atomic and hydrogen bombs."

The claim was made in a Moscow broadcast to Russian listeners summarizing a talk on the achievements of Soviet chemical science by academician S. I. Voitskovich.

The broadcast said joint work by physicists, chemists and petrologists solved the "secret of the atomic weapon and of creating several types of atomic and hydrogen bombs."

"This work demonstrates the high standard if Soviet science and technology," the broadcast said, adding "but our country is resolutely coming forward against the use of the atomic weapon (and) it continues a persistent struggle for its prohibition."

Soviet premier Georgi Malenkov last Aug. 8 told the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) that "the United States no longer has the monopoly of the hydrogen bomb" but today's broadcast was the first Soviet reference to the production of "several types" of hydrogen and atomic bombs.

Smith Couple Honored Leaving Community

A very pleasant evening was held at the home of Ernest Ireland, Friday evening when a number of their friends and neighbors of the Lily Lake area gathered to bid them farewell and extend best wishes for their future happiness in their new home.

An address was read by Mrs. Arthur Hancock and a clock and a matching table lamp were presented by Arthur Bell and Clifford Prophet. Mr. and Mrs Ireland both made appreciative replies.

The evening was spent in playing progressive euchre. Fred Steinkrauss won a prize for high score, while Mr. J. A. Middleton won the consolation prize. The ladies' prize was given to Mrs. Roy Hancock for high score and the low, going to Mrs. Ireland.

Lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Arthur Hancock, Mrs. Wm. Steinkrauss and Mrs. E. Ireland.

Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Drury and son, are coming to take up residence on the Ireland farm which they have bought.

Duke Of Edinburgh Seen Wearing Glasses

LONDON (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh made his first public appearance in spectacles Monday night.

The handsome duke donned the horn rims at the 24th annual Royal Variety Show, to which he escorted the Queen and Princess Margaret.

Sir Stewart Duke-Elder, the Royal Family's surgeon-oculist, told reporters later that the duke "has had spectacles for quite some time. He wears them infrequently."

Second Child Dies While Soldier Away

KITCHENER (CP) — Five-month-old Linda Young died in hospital here Monday from a heart disease while her father, Norman Young, was aboard a troop ship, sailing to Germany with the Royal Canadian Regiment.

Two years ago, a brother about the same age died of a heart ailment while Young was serving with the Canadian Army in Korea.

Miss M. Battersby Reports To Club

The Business and Professional Women's Club held their monthy fireside meeting, Monday evening in the Green Room of the YWCA. Highlightwas an excellent report of the recent meeting of the Ont. Provincial Conference in Hamilton, given by the delegate, Miss Margaret Battersby.

In order to keep routine business and reports to a minimum, minutes and other reports had been mimeographed and sent to all clubs prior to the convention. All 68 clubs were represented at the conference, and one new one was reported organized since last year's convention.

Several resolutions were dealt with; one was that a request be sent to the United States clubs to hold Business Women's Week at some time other than the Canadian Thanksgiving weekend, as it was this year.

Another resolution, presented by local president, Miss Alice Hardwicke, dealt with the idea of setting up some plan whereby persons employed in small offices might be enabled to benefit from retired security. The Provincial Board was asked to appoint a committee to consider and report on this resolution. Miss Battersby reported.

A unique feature of the convention was the "president's march," when all presidents marched into the banquet hall and took places at special tables. Guest speaker at the banquet was Mrs. Ruth Miller, president of the Detroit Club and for the Sunday luncheon, Madame Menon of India.

Ancient Skeletons

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio state museum archeologists have found skeletons of two women of the Adena Indian civilization, estimated to have flourished in Ohio between 400 B. C. and 700 A. D. The skeletons were found near the top of a large Indian mound near the Scioto river. The area is being levelled for an industrial site. Raymond S. Baby, curator of archeology of the museum, called it a "rare find."

Fisher Gauge Works Show Plant That Makes Dies, Parts Used Across World

Open house for the families and friends of the staff of Fisher Gauge Works Ltd. at Sophia St. and Armour Rd. Monday night will be resumed this evening, with executives of other Peterborough industries as invited guests.

The company recently completed an enlargement of their plant, and from their interest in Peterborough they felt "that others are interested in us and would like to see what we have been doing," as Frank V. Fisher remarked to The Examiner.

"I fancy that we are better known in some parts of the United States than we are right here in our own city, particularly about the products which we manufacture."

So, the purpose of the two receptions by the brothers, William F. and Frank W. Fisher, who have built up their industry principally in the production of diecasting machines, is a house-warming for relatives of the employees and for the heads of other industries in the city.

OFF BEATEN TRACK

Fisher Gauge is pleasantly located on the eastern border of Ashburnham, a stone's throw from the canal, and beyond its water, the open fields of the country. It is comparatively remote from the beaten track of the group of industries on the southwest side, a situation fronting on Sophia St. that tends to obscure it from most of the people of Peterborough.

"It is probably true that most of the homes here have in their electric meters working parts made by machines of our manufacture," Mr. Fisher said. "Pehaps 90 per cent. of all those household meters in Canada and the United States have some parts that are turned out by Fisher diecasting machines."

A display of electric meters identified such widely known manufacturing companies as General Electric of Lynn, Mass., Westinghouse of Raleigh, N. Carolina, and the English Electric Co. of Stafford, England, and others.

"Some of the parts made by Fisher diecasting machines are assembled in Stafford and the meters are returned to this country for sale," Frank Fisher said.

PRECISION WORK

These machines are designed for fine precision work. Within an electric meter, for instance, is an assembly of small wheels devised and arranged to "meter" or measure the current flowing through it. The meter also registers the current. In the case of the householder his bill to the Utilities Commission, as in Peterborough, is based on that metering record.

The hub of one of those wheels is set exactly in it centre, and is firmly "cast" in that position by the injection of metal which secures that small part of the wheel exactly at the centre. The efficiency of the meter depends on the preciseness and "trueness" of every part, and not the least the contribution of Fisher diecasters in the making of those meter wheels. Once they were a manual job, liable to the tardiness and flaws of some hand work. The diecasters made on Sophia St. are automatic, and highly productive.

This reference to the manufacture at Fisher Gauge mentions only their parts in the assembling of electric meters. What is done in that case is readily told, but the how of it is too intricate for description.

DELICATE PARTS

They make small parts for a meteoroligical apparatus carried aloft by balloons, and into the stratosphere. In the early days when time was more or less on their hands, they designed a cream-whipper, so rugged and durable that they last for years. Some of the neighbors perhaps retained the notion that this was the general type of production in the plant.

Early in the war when the government was searching for competent help in the making of munitions of all kinds, jobs would be proposed to the Fishers with the challenge: what can you do about this for us? And so, into airplane parts and other complements of wartime production, then the switch to peace and the gradual design, evolution and refinement of the disaster. Gauges are still being made, but they have been slowly moved off into the background of production. Demand and manufacture of these new products have increased more than 300 per cent in the last two years.

Incidentally, and the layman knows little of this significance, the company makes interchangeable dies, which permit six or more different operations on the diecaster simply by changing the part holders.

FATHER A TOOLMAKER

Fisher Gauge works in an extension of a talent and skill that appear to be a family inheritance. Their father, Fred Fisher, was for years a toolmaker with the Western Clock Co., one of whose operations is the making of wheels with hubs and spindles that have been a detail of their practice for 40 years or more.

The two sons are graduates of the die and toolmaking department of the Canadian General Electric Co. Along the way they must have been influenced by the little suggestions, example and encouragement of their parents.

When they were boys they had a lathe their father bought for them, a secondhand machine made for cutting steel. The young Fishers used it for turning out different things made of wood. Later came the thorough training course at CGE, and then according to a chronology of their development:

1942—Prior to this time, Fisher ideas and industry had already become active in the cellar of their home. In June the firm was registered, and operations were begun in the making of gauges, aircraft instrument components; two employees and 280 sq. ft. of floor space.

William Fisher was the first to direct the early course of the emerging industry. Six months later he ways joined by Frank.

MOVED OUT

Space in the cellar at home was too cramped, and the first move to building was made at the northwest corner of Sophia St. and Armour Rd. The site was bought in 1943, and in 1944, "we moved in, with 2,000 sq. ft. of floor space."

The firm developed their first diecasting machine in 1945, tooled their cream whipper the next year; enlarged their building to 3,700 sq. ft. in 1947; developed their No. 14 diecaster in 1948.

In 1940 they made their first overseas export of diecasting equipment. The schedule in the office today does not mention when shipments were begun to Brazil and Australia for example, and apart from the British business.

"1950—Further developments in the diecasting units. The company was incorporated in 1952 and this year their building was increased to 7,300 sq. ft.; and No. 18 diecasting machine was brought into production. They have now 18 employees.

The factory, on two floors, is exceptionally well lighted and ventilated, with facilities for employee convience and the processes of manufacturing dies and the building and assembly of the machines in which the dies are the main working part.

LOCAL DEMAND

Sales of machines outside of Canada are emphasized for the element of distance to which the Fisher business has been extexnding. But, there is also the Canadian demand for the machines, from Canadian General Electric, Westinghouse, Ferranti Electric.

Back of the beginning of the Fisher enterprise and skill has been the inspiration of both parents of the boys, Mr. Fisher in the direct and practical manner of a toolmaker setting up a cellar lathe; Mrs. Fisher in little suggestions as her sons grew up, that someday they should have their own factory.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fisher must be happy in the fulfilment of the ambition they fostered when the boys were young.

"We had some helpful consideration from the city council," Mrs. Frank Fisher said. "When we were buying this property from the city, Mr. Swanston was an alderman, and I remember that he urged the council to try to help a native industry as well as trying to bring others to Peterborough. the land was quite favorable at a thel and was quite favorable at a time when that extent of help appeared more material than it does today."

$50,000 Damage In Warehouse Fire

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—More than $50,000 damage was caused early today when fire swept through a fruit warehouse in suburban Grantham township.

The warehouse, belonging to John Gonos of nearby Port Weller, was destroyed along with an adjoining unoccupied house, two trucks and a transport trailer.

A shortage of water forced St. Catharines and Port Weller firemen to stand helplessly by as flames spread throughout the structure.

More Hunters

and Tom Beattie and John Cranley.

LOST DEER

Guide Clarence McIlmoyle with a party of four Americans from Selby, O., at the head of Stony Lake "lost" three downed deer to unscruplous hunters, he said. Let in the bush by the hunter who went to their base camp for assistance to lug them in, the animals had disappeared when reinforcements arrived.

As traffic rolled south at dark smoking roadside flares and red lanterns stopped it in Young's Point. Conservation officers had sprung a surprise road checking manoeuver.

Motorist-hunters did some wild searching for deer licenses and got out of their cars to explain away rifles and shotguns that were not properly plugged, deer carcasses that had no metal shipping tags attached to them or why they were carrying an arsenal of guns with with only one license in the car-load of passengers.

Officers were quick, searching and embarrassing in their questioning as confiscated game and guns mounted in a small pile beside their prowl car. Though they were starting their third sleepless night of hard travelling their eyes were not dulled to the smallest infraction of the game laws. They let no violators through their net. Conservation officers Stan Windsor, Gordon Buie and Ken Tolmie manned the Young's Point check station.

At the Burleigh-Oregon Trail highway intersection, and in Apsley, warden Bob Trotter and deputies Art Wilson and Mel Young confiscated four deer without license seals attached and seven guns for various offences.

Officer Ray Simpson and deputy Carl Adams caught the caretaker of Club Whitesands and two friends jacklighting spawning lake trout in Lake Catchacoma. Fish, motor boat, spears and lights were confiscated and charges will be laid. The same officers confiscated four guns of hunters in Harvey township who were gunning without deer licenses.

In summary of the opening day of the deer hunt, officials said it was poor. Too many hunters. Too dry for the use of hounds. Too warm to keep game.

THE WAR MEMOIRS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

OCTOBER IN MOSCOW

The arrangements I had made with the President in the summer (of 1944) to divide our responsibilities for looking after particular countries affected by the movements of armies had tided us over the three months for which our agreement ran. I felt the need of another personal meeting with Stalin, whom I had not seen since Teheran, and with whom, in spite of the Warsaw tragedy, I felt new links since the successful opening of Overlord. The Russian armies were now pressing heavily upon the Balkan scene, and Roumania and Bulgaria were in their power. As the victory of the Grand Alliance became only a matter of time it was natural that Russian ambitions should grow. Communism raised its head behind the thundering Russian battle-front. Russia was the Deliverer, and Communism the gospel she brought.

I had never felt that our relations with Roumania and Bulgaria in the past called for any special sacrifices from us. But the fate of Poland and Greece struck us keenly. For Poland we had entered the war; for Greece we had made painful efforts. Both their governments had taken refuge in London, and we considered ourselves responsible for their restoration to their own country, if that was what their peoples really wished. In the main these feelings were shared by the United States, but they were very slow in realising the upsurge of Communist influence, which slid on before, as well as followed, the onward march of the mighty armies directed from the Kremlin. I hoped to take advantage of the better relations with the Soviets to reach satisfactory solutions of these new problems opening between East and West.

I telepraphed to Stalin:

Prime Minister to Marshal Stalin

27 Sept. '44

* * * I have just returned from long talks with the President, and I can assure you of our intense conviction that on the agreement of our three nations, Britain, United States of America, and U.S.S.R., stands the hopes of the world. I was very sorry to learn that you had not been feeling well lately, and that your doctors did not like your taking long journeys by air. The President had the idea that The Hague would be a good place for us to meet. We have not got it yet, but it may be the course of the war, even before Christmas, may alter the picture along the Baltic shore to such an extent that your journey would not be tiring or difficult. However, we shall have much hard fighting to do before any such plan can be made.

Most Private. The president intends to visit England, and thereafter France and the Low Countries, immediately after the election, win or lose. My information leads me to believe that he will win.

I most earnestly desire, and so, I know, does the President, the intervention of Soviet Russia in the Japanese war, as promised by you at Teheran as soon as the German Army was beaten and destroyed. The opening of a Russian military front against Japan would force them to burn and bleed, especially in the air, in a manner which would vastly accelerate their defeat. From all I have learnt about the internal state of Japan and the sense of hopelessness weighing on their people, I believe it might well be that once the Nazis are shattered a triple summons to Japan to surrender, coming from our three Great Powers, might be decisive. Of course, we must go into all these plans together. I will gladly come to Moscow in October if I can get away from here. If I cannot, Eden will be very ready to take my place. Meanwhile I send you and Molotov my most sincere good wishes.

29 Sept. '44

* * * In a conversation with Clark Kerr and Harriman the other night U.J. (Stalin) was most expansive and friendly. He, however, "grumbled about his own health." He said he never kept well except in Moscow, and even his visits to the front did him harm. His doctors were averse to his flying, and it took him a fortnight to recover from Teheran, etc.

In these circumstances Anthony and I are seriously thinking of flying there very soon. The route is shorter now. Stalin has not yet replied to our suggestion. The two great objects we have in mind would be, firstly, to clinch his coming in against Japan, and, secondly, to try to effect an amicable settlement with Poland. There are other points, too, concerning Yugoslavia and Greece which we would also discuss. Averell's assistance would of course be welcomed by us * * * certain that personal contact is essential.

Off the record: It was with much gusto that I read your speech, and I was delighted to see you in such vigorous form.

Every good wish.

Marshal Stalin to Prime Minister

30 Sept. '44

I have received your message of September 27.

I share you conviction that firm agreement between the three leading Powers constitutes a true guarantee of future peace and answers to the best hopes of all peace-loving peoples. The continuation of our Government in such a policy in the post-war period as we have achieved it during this great war will, it seems to me, have a decisive influence. Of course I have a great desire to meet with you and the President. I attach great importance to it from the point of view of the interests in our common business. But, as far as I am concerned, I must make one reservation. The doctors advise me not to undertake long journeys. For a certain period I must take account of this.

I warmly welcome your wish to come to Moscow in October. We shall have to consider military and other questions, which are of great importance. If anything prevents you from coming to Moscow we should of course be very ready to meet Mr. Eden. Your information about the President's plans for a journey to Europe is of great interest to me. I also am sure of his success in the election. As regards Japan, our position is the same as it was at Teheran.

I and Molotov send you our best wishes.

On this I put matters in train.

Eden and I with Brooke and Ismay started in two planes on the night of (October) 5th. At Naples we had four hours' discussion with Generals Wilson and Alexander.

We alighted at Moscow on the afternoon of October 9, and were received very heartily and with full ceremonial by Molotov and many high Russian personages. This time we were lodged in Moscow itself, with every care and comfort. I had one small, perfectly appointed house, and Anthony another near by. We were glad to dine alone together and rest. At ten o'clock that night we held our first important meeting in the Kremlin. There were only Stalin, Molotov, Eden, Harriman, and I, with Major Birse and Pavlov as interpreters. It was agreed to invite the Polish Prime Minister, M. Romer, the Foreign Secretary, and M. Grabski, a grey-bearded and aged academician of much charm and quality, to Moscow at once. I telegraphed accordingly to M. Mikolajczyk that we were expecting him and his friends for discussions with the Soviet Government and ourselves, as well as with the Lublin Polish Committee. I made it clear that refusal to come to take part in the conversations would amount to a definite rejection of our advice and would relieve us from further responsibility towards the London Polish Government.

The moment was apt for business, so I said "Let us settle about our affairs in the Balkans. Your armies are in Roumania and Bulgaria. We have interests, missions, and agents there. Don't let us get at cross-purposes in small ways. So far as Britain and Russia are concerned, how would it do for you to have ninety per cent predominance in Roumania, for us to have ninety per cent of the say in Greece, and go fifty-fifty about Yugoslavia?" While this was being translated I wrote out on a half-sheet of paper:

Roumania
Russia	90%
The others	10%
Greece
Great Britain	90%
(in accord with U.S.A.)
Russia	10%
Yugoslavia	50-50%
Hungary	50-50%
Bulgaria
The others	25%

Ipushed this across to Stalin, who had by then heard the translation. There was a slight pause. Then he took his blue pencil and made a large tick upon it, and passed it back to us. It was all settled in no more time than it takes to set down.

Of course we had long and anxiously considered our point, and were only dealing with immediate war-time arrangements. All larger questions were reserved on both sides for what we then hoped would be a peace table when the war was won.

After this there was a long silence. The pencilled paper lay in the centre of the table. At length I said, "Might it not be thought rather cynical if it seemed we had disposed of these issues, so fateful to millions of people, in such an offhand manner Let us burn the paper." "No, you keep it," said Stalin.

In the evening of October 11 Stalin came to dine at the British Embassy. This was the first time that the British Ambassador had succeeded in making such an arrangement. The record of this visit, as written by the British interpreter present, gives an impression of the scene.

Before the appointed day the Russian authorities took most elaborate security measures. The NKVD representatives visited the Embassy, examined the premises, the garden, and entrance. All our Russian servants were interrogated. Huge arc lamps were placed over the entrance gates. We benefitted from the latter until the end of the war, whereas previously the black-out was complete. On the night of the dinner my first job was to conduct our Soviet guests from the entrance door upstairs. One of those I conducted was M. Vyshinsky. On passing some of the N.K.V.D. armed guards on our staircase he remarked, "Apparently the Red Army has had another victory. It has occupied the British Embassy."

During dinner there was a "salute" to celebrate some Red Army success. The guests left the table, the curtains were drawn, and everyone admired the fireworks against the background of a blackened-out Moscow.

While the toasts were being translated there was an altercation between Maisky and Pavlov. Pavlov had been doing most of the interpreting, but at one point Maisky intervened with an alternative translation of a sentence, to which Pavlov retorted, "Are you interpreting or am I?"

After dinner Mr. Churchill and Stalin went into the adjoining study, and a tall N.K.V.D. colonel promptly slammed the door behind them and took up his position "on guard," with his back to the door and facing the Staff. A typical Soviet watchdog.

Till the small hours of the morning we ranged over the whole field of discussion in an informal atmosphere. Among other topics we discussed the next General Election in England. Stalin said that he had no doubt about the result: the Conservatives would win.

At five o'clock on the evening of October 13 we had our meeting at the Soviet Government Hospitality House, known as Spiridonovka, to hear Mikolajczyk and his colleagues put their case. These talks were held as a preparation for a further meeting at which the British and American delegations would meet the Lublin Poles. I pressed Mikolajczyk hard to consider two things, namely, de facto acceptance of the Curzon Line, with interchange of population and a friendly discussion with the Lublin Polish Committee so that a united Poland might be established. Changes, I said, would take place, but it would be best if unity were established now, at this closing period of the war, and I asked the Poles to consider the matter carefully that night.

At ten o'clock the same evening we met the so-called Polish National Committee. It was soon plain that the Lublin Poles were mere pawns of Russia. They had learned and rehearsed their part so carefully that even their masters evidently felt they were overdoing it. For instance, M. Bierut, the leader, spoke in these terms: "We are here to demand on behalf of Poland that Lvov shall belong to Russia. This is the will of the polish people." When this had been translated from Polish into English and Russian I looked at Stalin and saw an understanding twinkle in his expressive eyes, as much as to say, "What about that for our Soviet teaching!" The lengthy contribution of another Lublin leader, Osubka-Morawski, was equally depressing. Mr. Eden formed the worst opinion of the three Lublin Poles.

The whole conference lasted over six hours, but the achievement was small.

On the 14th there was a Command Performance at the Bolshoi Theatre — first a ballet, then opera, and finally some splendid dancing and singing by the Red Army choir. Stalin and I occupied the Royal Box, and we had a rapturous ovation from the entire audience. After the theatre we had a most interesting and successful military discussion at the Kremlin. Stalin had with him Molotov and General Antonov. Harriman brought General Deane. I had Brooke, Ismay and General Burrows, head of our Military Mission in Moscow.

We began by telling them our future intentions in North-West Europe, Italy, and Burma. Deane followed with a statement about the campaign in the Pacific, and gave an outline of the sort of help which would be particularly valuable from the Soviets, once they were at war with Japan. General Antonov then made a very frank statement about the situation on the Eastern Front, the difficulties which confronted Russian armies, and their plans for the future. Stalin intervened from time to time to emphasize points of special significance, and concluded by assuring us that the Russian armies would press vigorously and continuously into Germany and that we need not have the slightest anxiety that the Germans would be able to withdraw any troops from their Eastern Front.

There was no doubt whatever that the Soviets intended to enter the war against Japan as soon after the defeat of Germany as they could collect the necessary forces and supplies in the Far East. Stalin would not commit himself definitely to a date. He spoke of a period of "seven months" after the German defeat. We got the impression that this might be interpreted as about three or four.

As the days passed only slight improvement was made with the festering sore of Soviet-Polish affairs. The Poles were willing to accept the Curzon Line "as a line of demarcation between Russia and Poland." Neither side would give way. Mikolajczyk declared that he would be repudiated by his own people, and Stalin at the end of a talk of two hours and a quarter which I had with him alone remarked that he and Molotov were the only two of those he worked with who were favourable to dealing "softly" with Mikolajczyk. I was sure there were strong pressures in the background, both party and military.

Stalin did not think it desirable to proceed with an attempt to form a united Polish Government without the frontier question being agreed. Had this been settled he would have been quite willing that Mikolajczyk should head the new Government. I myself thought that difficulties not less obstinate would arise in a discussion for a merger of the Polish Government with the Lublin Poles, whose representatives continued to make the worst possible impression on us, and who, I told Stalin, were "only an expression of the Soviet will." They had no doubt also the ambition to rule Poland, and were thus a kind of inverted Quislings. In all the circumstances the best course was for the two Polish delegations to return whence they had come.

In other directions considerable advantages had been gained.

There is no doubt that in our narrow circle we talked with an ease, freedom, and cordiality never before attained between our two countries. Stalin made several expressions of personal regard which I felt sure were sincere. But I became even more convinced that he was by no means alone. As I said to my colleagues at home, "Behind the horseman sits black care."

PRIME MINSTER TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

22 Oct 44

On our last day at Moscow Mikolajczyk saw Bierut, who admitted his difficulties. Fifty of his men had been shot in the last month. Many Poles took to the woods rather than join his forces. Approaching winter conditions behind the front would be very hard as the Russian Army moved forward, using all transport. He insisted however that if Mikolajczyk were Premier he (Bierut) must have 75 per cent of the Cabinet. Mikolajczyk proposed that each of the five Polish parties should be represented, he having four out of the five of their best men, whom he would pick from personalities not obnoxious to Stalin.

2. Later, at my request, Stalin saw Mikolajczyk and had an hour and a half's very friendly talk. Stalin promised to help him, and Mikolajczyk promised to form a Government thoroughly friendly to the Russians. He explained his plan, but Stalin made it clear that the Lublin Poles must have the majority.

3. After the Kremlin dinner we put it bluntly to Stalin that unless Mikolajczyk had fifty-fifty plus himself the Western World would not be convinced that the transaction was bona fide and would not believe that an independent Polish Government had been set up. Stalin at first replied he would be content with fifty-fifty, but rapidly corrected himself to a worse figure. Meanwhile Eden took the same line with Molotov, who seemed more comprehending. I do not think the composition of the Government will prove an insuperable obstacle if all else is settled. Mikolajczyk had previously explained to me that there might be one announcement to save the prestige of the Lublin Government and a different arrangement among the Poles behind the scenes.

4. Apart from the above, Mikolajczyk is going to urge upon his London colleagues the Curzon Line, including Lwow, for the Russians. I am hopeful that even in the next fortnight we may get a settlement. If so I will cable you the exact form so that you can say whether you want it published or delayed.

5. On major war criminals U. J. took an unexpectedly ultra-respectable line. There must be no executions without trial otherwise the world would say we were afraid to try them. I pointed out the difficulties in international law, but he replied if there were no trials there must be no death sentences, but only lifelong confinements.

6. We also discussed informally the future partition of Germany. U. J. wants Poland, Czecho, and Hungary to form a realm of independent, anti-Nazi, pro-Russian States, the first two of which might join together. Contrary to his previously expressed view, he would be glad to see Vienna the capital of a federation of South German States, including Austria, Bavaria, Wurttemberg, and Baden. As you know, the idea of Vienna becoming the capital of a large Danubian federation has always been attractive to me, though I prefer to add Hungary, to which U. J. is strongly opposed.

7. As to Prussia, U. J. wished the Ruhr and the Saar detached and put out of action and probably under international control, and a separate State formed in the Rhineland. He would also like the internationalzation of the Kiel Canal. I am not opposed to this line of thought. However, you may be sure that we came to no fixed conclusions pending the triple meeting.

8. I was delighted to hear from U. J. that you had suggested a triple meeting towards the end of November at a Black Sea port. I think this a very fine idea, and hope you will let me know about it in due course. I will come anywhere you two desire.

9. U. J. also raised formally the Montreux Convention, wishing for modification for the free passage of Russian warships. We did not contest this in principle. Revision is clearly necessary, as Japan is a signatory and Inonu missed his market last December. We left it that detailed proposals should be made from the Russian side. He said they would be moderate.

10. About recognizing the present French Administration as the Provisional Government of France, I will consult the Cabinet on my return. Opinion of United Kingdom is very strongly for immediate recognition. De Gaulle is no longer sole master, but is better harnessed than ever before. I still think that when Eisenhower proclaims a large zone of the interior of France it would not be possible to delay this limited form of recognition. Undoubtedly de Gaulle has the majority of the French nation behind him, and the French Government need support against potential anarchy in large areas. I will however cable you again from London. I am now in the air above Alamein of Blessed Memory. Kindest regards.

He replied:

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO PRIME MINISTER

22 Oct 44

I am delighted to learn of your success at Moscow in making progress toward a compromise solution of the Polish problem.

When and if a solution is arrived at I should like to be consulted as to the advisability from this point of view of delaying its publication for about two weeks. You will understand.

Your statement of the present attitude of Uncle J. towards war criminals, the future of Germany, and Montreux Convention is most interesting. We should discuss these matters, together with our Pacific war effort, at the forthcoming three-party meeting.

31-Year-Old Invention Of Bell's Now Finds Use

WASHINGTON—One of Alexander Graham Bell's scientific developments, far removed from the telephone that made him world-famous, has gained importance in 1953, thirty-one years after the inventor's death.

The United States Navy recently announced it has found significant uses for "hydrofoil" boats and has an active development program under way.

Dr. Bell's work in this field, as in so many others, was years ahead of its time," said a Navy spokesman.

"In his day, the Navy had no applications for the speeds so vital in 1953. Now we have uses for hydrofoils, and we find that much of our preliminary work was brilliantly done for us years ago by Dr. Bell and his associate, the late Frederick W. Baldwin."

HEADED GEOGRAPHIC

When the world hears Dr. Bell's name, it usually thinks of the telephone invented by the Scottish-born genius, president of the National Geographic Society from 1898 until 1903.

Few remember that in 1919, the Bell-Baldwin "Hydrodrome No. 4", fourth in a series as the name implies, roared over the waters of Nova Scotia's Bras d'Or Lakes at 70.86 miles an hour to set a world speed record for boats.

Driven by air propellers on two 350 - horsepower, low - compression Liberty motors, the 60-foot-long HD-4 rode on hydrofoils. Dr. Bell and Mr. Baldwin had been experimenting with hydrofoils—underwater "wings" arranged in vertical tiers and set beneath the boat's hull—since 1909.

As a hydrofoil-equipped boat gains speed, it rises on the foils, just as an airplane rises on its wings, until finally it rides only on the bottonmost foils. Unlike a normal displacement-type hull, it runs on a minimum of wetted surface, hence there is little friction. When the boat is "up", a maximum of power is translated into speed.

RESEARCH SLOW

Dr. Bell died in 1922. Hydrofoil research languished in ths United States although Mr. Baldwin continued it in Canada. Germany produced a hydrofoil patrol boat during World War II. It could make 65 miles an hour but showed a tendency to capasize.

The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics developed a hydrofoil boat in 1943. Photographs show it had foils much like those fitted to HD-4. Since the war, Sweden has built a 35-knot hydrofoil ferryboat.

Dr. Bell wanted to drive his boats with underwater propellers to take advantage of water's heavier-than-air density. He tried submerged drive on HD-1 in 1909, in fact. However, he was defeated by weight and the phenomenon of propeller cavitation.

The latter problem he correctly predicted would be solved one day with greater knowledge of higher speds. The Navy's current experidrive.

As far as it is known, HD-4's 70 miles an hour still stands as the speed record for the type. HD-4 herself is still in existence at Dr. Bell's old home, Beinn Bhreagh, Baddeck, Nova Scotia, on the banks of the big salt lake which once echoed to the thunder of her engines.

Takes 40 Tons Out Of Sunken Ship

SARNIA (CP)—Removal of 328 tons of sheet steel from the holds of the sunken German freighter Wallschiff, proceeded Monday as the McQueen Marine Salvage Company of Amherstburg prepared to remove the vessel from the channel of the St. Clair river.

More than 40 tons had been taken from the Wallschiff's hold and transferred to a lighter by Monday night.

If conditions remain clear and calm, the lightering job should be completed before the end of this week.

ALUMINUM has a habit of turning up almost everywhere. But "farthest north" was reached recently, when a U.S. Air Force pilot set down his aircraft at the geographic North Pole — on a pair of aluminum skis.

Aluminum's lightness - with - strength has made it the basic material of the aircraft industry. And because aluminum is only ½ to ⅓ as heavy as other base metals, a pound of it goes a lot further. Which is one more reason why so many manufacturers of so many products have turned to aluminum to help keep their prices down. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

The Fox and The Grapes

A HUNGRY FOX saw some fine bunches of Grapes hanging from a vine that was trained along a high trellis, and did his best to reach them by jumping as high as he could into the air. But it was all in vain, for they were just out of reach: so he gave up trying, and walked away with an air of dignity and unconcern, remarking, "I thought those Grapes were ripe, but I see now they are quite sour."

Canadian Units In Germany Most Impressive In Exercise

Bill Boss has paid his second visit this year to the 27th Canadian Brigade in Germany. In this story, first of a series of three, he reports on the brigade's showing in the pig NATO autumn manoeuvres. Tomorrow: Hannover sorry to lose the exuberant Canadians.

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HANNOVER, Germany (CP)—The NATO forces' autumn manoeuvres let commanders answer a question that several times this year has stirred Canada: "Just how good is the 27th Canadian Brigade?"

The consensus: "Impressive".

In Exercise Grand Repulse the Canadians were part of the 11th British Armored Division in the 1st Netherlands Army Corps. The assignment was to knock out an "enemy" bridgehead south of Delmenhorst. The attackers, including the Canadians, were grouped under Maj.-Gen. Basil Coad, commander of the 2nd British Infantry Division, who first committed Canadian troops to battle in Korea in 1951.

FOLIOS OF PRAISE

Reporters accompanying Grand Repulse wrote folios of praise about the Canadians. Afterwards headquarters of Brig. John Pangman of Toronto, 27th Brigade commander, were deluged with complimentary messages from senior officers.

A few weeks earlier the brigade's military efficiency had been questioned in Canada.

In Grand Repulse the Canadians carried the armored division's attack forward for five consecutive days. Maj.-Gen. H. E. Pyman said they "set the pace" for his force, advancing its front more than 55 miles.

After the exercise reports were completed he told me: "I am impressed. It isn't easy for an independent brigade to come into an armored division, which has its special techniques, yet they quickly adapted themselves.

"Like most Commonwealth troops they are probably better in attack than defence and so were possibly seen at their best.

GOOD MOBILE TROOPS

"Nonetheless, their infantry moved nicely and quickly, both in the approach and in battle. I got the Canadians to do two battalion attacks to clear a road for my tanks. They reacted quickly and mounted the attacks well.

"I got the impression their artillery (79th Field Regiment, RCA) is pretty good.

"There's no doubt about it—they are good mobile troops. After the cross-country marches there was lots of fire left in them. The boys love this sort of thing. I saw no sign of strain. They looked happy. You can tell."

AUTUMN MANOEUVRES—Mortar competitions among the three infantry battalions of the 27th Canadian Brigade in Germany brought the troops to a pitch of efficiency termed by military observers as "impressive." This mortar team comprises, left to right: Rfm. D. R. Woodcock, Toronto; Rfm. O. C. Bruttoco, Hamilton; L.-Cpl. W. A. Moyer, Toronto.—(CP from National Defence).

Pyman's main criticism was for the brigade's handling of supply problems, but he said he subjects his own division to the same criticism.

The 27th Brigade's advances theoretically enabled the Westland forces to manoeuvre their armor forward successfully and close in battle with the bridgehead.

"GALLOPING" CANADIANS

Another British general who accompanied the scheme—he asked that his name be withheld—said: "We were very pleased with the way they (the Canadians) galloped from the first day. They really set about it and then kept going. The speed with which their last battle was mounted was impressive.

"I'm a tremendous believer in the Canadian soldier, but you can depend on him fully only when you've got his interest, seized his imagination. These men were bitten with the idea of the exercise, were interested and kept going."

Maj. Bill Leonard of Toronto, the Canadians' brigade major, summed it up:

"The chaps knew they were leading. They wanted to lead. They didn't like allegations that they were inefficient. They went all out to disprove them. They behaved marvellously."

From the infantryman's point of view, Maj. Andy Mills of Toronto, second-in-command of the 1st Canadian Rifle Battalion, said:

"The fellows did it in an absolute breeze—no trouble at all. Occasionally we just about ran out of supplies and rations but that was straightened out."

Grand Repulse concluded the brigade's official training program for Europe. Units now return to Canada for their new role in the army's projected 1st Canadian Infantry Division.

BRIGADE IS IMPRESSIVE—The 27th Canadian Brigade was "impressive" in Exercise Grand Repulse, an autumn manoeuvre for North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in Germany. Maj.-Gen. C. P. Jones (left), commander of the British 7th Armoured Division, and chief umpire in the exercise, chats with Brig. John Pangman, of Toronto, 27th Brigade commander.—(CP from National Defence).

Israeli Minister's Wife Fought With Underground

By DON HAWORTH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A charming 39-year-old woman who fought with the Haganah Jewish underground army is the chatelaine of the newly-accredited Israel legation here.

Mrs. Joan Comay is the wife of the minister, Michael Saul Comay. She and her husband with their children Jill 16, and Peter, 14, arrived in the capital for the opening of the legation in August.

The Comays were born in South Africa. Mr. Comay practised law in Johannesburg and his wife combined household duties with courses in architecture.

LEFT FOR PALESTINE

In 1946, with Mr. Comay back from service in the South African Army they decided to join the Palestine Jews in their struggle to establish a national home. The children went with them.

They made their decision not because they felt to be under any pressure themselves but because the suffering inflicted by the Nazis convinced them the Jews would have to have a refuge of their own.

Mrs. Comay's mother, Mrs. Bertha Solomon, an M.P. of the South African United Party, now in opposition, had urged the government refugees from Hitler's persecution. She met with little success.

When Mrs. Comay arrived in Jerusalem in 1947 the city, still under British mandate, was divided between Arabs and Jews, both illegally armed. There was street sniping and shelling from one part of the city to another. For two periods of nearly six weeks the Jewish new city was cut off from the rest of Palestine.

VARIED CAREER

As a soldier in the Haganah underground army Mrs. Comay drove a truck carrying a six-pound mortar which fired bombs into Arab areas. She was also in charge of a school of applied arts which made parts for sten guns.

After the establishment of the Israeli state May 14, 1948, Mrs. Comay worked for the American-published journal, Israel Speaks.

From Tel Aviv she wrote of the domestic austretiy accepted by women to make possible Israel's open door policy, and of the full political and social rights which Israel gave its women.

Mrs. Comay speaks of the development of her country with evangelical zeal.

EVERYONE AFFECTED

"In such a small state," she said, "everything that is done affects everyone. On the day of the opening of the road from Beersheba to Sodom to bring salt and potash from the Dead sea, 80,000 people turned out to watch the ceremony."

As she spoke a phone call came to the suite the legation is occupying in an Ottawa hotel to announce the arrival of a new car made in Israel's only auto factory, set up with American capital.

CANADA AND ISRAEL

Mrs. Comay sees a likeness between Canada and Israel. Both, she says, are immigrant countries, with Canada some generations ahead.

In architecture she says she has seen little that is characteristically Canadian. "Like so much else in Canada it is a stepping stone between the British and the American."

The Israeli legation is still looking for chancellery and residence accommodation. "It is as difficult to find a house in Ottawa as it is in Jerusalem," says Mrs. Comay.

What does she like most in Canada?

"The sound of the big trees. We have planted 5,000,000 in our country, but they are still small. Here I love to hear the wind in the trees."

The Comay children are attending a public school in Ottawa. Both speak English as their native language, but Peter is learning to read and write it for the first time.

DIPLOMAT'S WIFE — Mrs. Michael Saul Comay, 39, wife of the Israeli minister to Canada, fought in the Haganah Jewish underground army. She and her husband are South African Jews who went to Palestine in 1946. Mrs. Comay's mother, Mrs. Bertha Solomon, is a member of the South African Parliament.

Young People Mark Hallowe'en With Parties

The junior WA of St. George's Anglican church had a Hallowe'en party instead of their regular meeting.

Costume prize winners were: Fancy costume—Darlene Colby and Joan McCauley as bride and groom; Joan Oilment—Red Riding Hood; comic costumes—Brenda Everett as witch and Ruth Graham as hobo.

Hallowe'en games were played and lunch was served including Hallowe'en candy.

The CGIT held a masquarade party in the library.

The costume prize was won by Gail Reynolds. After unmasking, games were enjoyed and refreshments served. The meeting closed with taps.

Car Nosedives Into 6 Feet Of Water

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Hurtling into six feet of water at Mud creek about four miles north of here, one Stratford man was killed Monday and two others are in serious condition in hospital.

John William Petrie, about 30, died en route to hospital. In hospital is William Latky, 21, with severe shock and William Cody, 23, with severe chest injuries. Latky was the driver of the car.

Police say Latky evidently lost control and plunged through guard rails and down a 10-foot embankment into the creek.

Meetings Fail To End Strike Of Carpenters

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A spokesman for some 750 striking carpenters said a series of meetings held Monday night with a labor department conciliation officer failed to bring about any agreement between the union and construction firms.

The carpenters, members of Local 494, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (AFL) and some 4,000 other building trades workers who refused to cross picket lines, have been idle since last Tuesday. Work on 85 construction jobs in Windsor and district has been halted since then.

"We are going to dig in for a long, hard strike," Bill Stefanovitch, business agent for the local, said following the meetings.

REFUSES TO LOWER DEMAND

The union refused to lower its demands for an 18-cent hourly pay increase which was recommended recently by a conciliation board. Carpenters now get $2 an hour.

The contractors stood firm on their offer of a 15-cent hourly increase. The employers also demanded that the union local's jurisdiction be confined to the city of Windsor.

"We have had jurisdiction over most of Essex county for 18 years," Mr. Stefanovitch said, "and we are not going to give it up."

1 YOU ENJOY fuller, richer flavor in coffee "creamed" with Carnation Evaporated Milk. That's because Carnation is double concentrated . . . homogenized . . . specially heat refined. It's heavy as cream. Naturally it makes coffee taste rich and delicious.

2 YOU SAVE MONEY. Though Carnation makes coffee taste so much better — though millions prefer it to cream in coffee — Carnation costs only half as much as cream.

Car Plunges Into Canal Campbellford Man Dies

Driver Hurt But Swims To Safety

Manslaughter Charge Has Been Laid; Taken To Cobourg

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—A 53-year-old Campbellford man Harry Smith, lockmaster at Healey Falls about eight miles north of here, lost his life Tuesday afternoon when the car in which he was riding went off a highway and plunged into the cold waters of the Trent Canal at Lock 13, about two miles north of the town.

Driver of the car, Alvin Hollings, has been charged with motor manslaughter. After spending the night in hospital, he was taken today to the United Counties jail at Cobourg. Hollins suffered shock and bruises.

A post mortem on Smith's body was conducted today by Dr. Hans Lucke, provincial pathologist from Belleville. It has been completed but no statement has yet been released.

Hollings was kept under police guard all night at Campbellford Memorial Hospital.

The accident occurred about 2:15 p.m. when an old model car driven by 32-year-old Alvin E. Hollings of Campbellford failed to negotiate a slight curve, skidded nearly 200 feet across a lawn, and plunged over the cement retaining wall of the canal. The car continued for another twenty feet along a sloping cement bank, before turning over in the water.

Hollings managed to free himself from the car, and swam to shore. He told police later that he could see no sign of Smith when he came ashore. He ran to a nearby house to summon help, and Garfield Fraser, who is acting as Lockmaster at Lock 13 where the accident occurred, was at the scene within minutes. He dove into the water in an effort to rescue Smith, but the water was so cold that he could do nothing to help.

BEGAN DRAGGING

The Campbellford fire department arrived and firemen, town workmen and Hydro employees who were summoned to the spot, began dragging operations immediately. The car was pulled from

Three Czechs Shoot Way To Freedom

Spend Four Weeks Dodging Reds, Kill 4 Policemen

BERLIN (AP)—Three Czech youths who shot their way out of Red police nets across the Soviet zone of Germany waited today for word that the West would grant them asylum. One is in serious condition from East German police bullets.

The three told police here a hair-raising tale of four weeks as the objects of a vast manhunt, and of gun-blazing clashes with Red police.

They left two companions behind—one believed captured and the other either dead or taken prisoner.

The youths, who left their Communist-ruled homeland Oct. 3, said they opened fire at a police patrol that stopped them at a railway station near Luckau, about 50 miles south of Berlin. Four policemen were killed and the rest fled.

The Communist press last week reported the shooting of the four policemen and announced rewards of 1,000 marks each $240) had been placed on the heads of the three as hundreds of police searched for them. The Reds claimed the youths were part of a "Fascist underground."

SERIOUS CONDITION

The three who escaped are Czirard Maczin, 22, and his brother Josef, 20, described as sons of a Czech general executed by the Nazis in 1942, and Milan Baumer, 21, who had been a student at the Prague military academy.

Baumer was still in serious condition in the hospital after an operation for removal of bullets received in another scrape with east zone police.

The three said they left Prague after Red authorities arbitrarily refused to let them study at the

Will Not Let Queen Get Too Weary

Australia Promises Every Precaution To Ease Royal Tour

CANBERRA (AP)—Australia and New Zealand gave assurances today that every precaution will be taken to ensure that the Queen is not adversely affected by the strain of the forthcoming Royal tour of her Pacific dominions.

These assurances were given following criticism in the British House of Commons that the arrangements for the tour might be too strenuous.

In Canberra, Eric Harrison, Australian minister in charge of tour arrangements, said that if, despite all precautions, the program shows any sign of unduly wearying the Queen, Australia will not hesitate to advise changes.

He said the Queen will be in Australia 57 days but will have no official engagements on seven full days and nights, 11 afternoons, five mornings and 18 evenings.

In Australia the Queen will be covering great distances, including 10,000 miles in 35 separate flights. He said every possible step has been taken to make travelling conditions as easy and pleasant as possible.

In Auckland, N.Z., Prime Minister Sidney Holland said he was satisfied that the program would not unduly tax the strength of either the Queen or the Duke of Edinburgh.

He said he has appealed to local authorities to avoid adding any engagements to those already planned.

Rail Engineers May Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—Officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (Ind) said today strike action may be taken in an effort to end a long-standing dispute with the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways. The officials said they are meeting with railway representatives today in a final effort to end the dispute, arising out of a representation clause in the union's contract. If the meeting fails to reach agreement a strike vote may be taken among the union's 6,000 members. W. E. Gamble of Winnipeg, Canadian vice-president of the union, said in an interview that the dispute dates back to 1946. Until that year the union was able to handle personal grievances of members and former members.

For instance, if a man was promoted from fireman to engineer he could still ask the brotherhood to handle his personal grievances although he might by his promotion come under jurisdiction of another railway union.

ENGINEER AGREED

Mr. Gamble said that in 1948 the railway companies decided they would deal only with the union to which an employee actually belonged. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers agreed with the companies and now is handling the grievances of former firemen.

The railway companies, said Mr. Gamble, have described the dispute as a "jurisdictional" one for the brotherhoods to settle.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen believes, said Mr. Gamble, that the companies should again recognize the representation clause that has been in all contracts signed by the brotherhood.

Besides Mr. Gamble, those representing the brotherhood at today's meeting will include H. E. Gilbert of Cleveland, international president of the union and A. E. Matthews of Parry Sound, Ont.

Ottawa Plans Stronger Plane Protest

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government will make new, and probably stronger, diplomatic representations to the United States to get clearance for an air service between Canada and Mexico by way of Tampa, Fla.

Transport Minister Chevrier said Tuesday the external affairs department, which has had informal discussions with the U.S. state department on the issue in the last few months, will act again in an attempt to obtain removal of a U.S. block to the proposed service.

Another informant said diplomatic moves would reopen almost immediately and might start with a formal note setting out this government's objections to U.S. policy that has held up the projected Oct. 31 opening of a Montreal-Toronto-Tampa-Mexico City run.

The service has been blocked by insistence of the U.S Civil Aeronautics Board that Trans-Canada Air Lines use different planes on the Toronto-Tampa and Tampa-Mexico City legs.

SERVICE TOO COSTLY

TCA holds that this rigid interpretation of international air procedure would make the service too costly. Mr. Chevrier last week announced federal authorities here are "reviewing the position" of some American carriers operating through Canada.

Canada permits some of these to engage in the procedure frowned on by the CAB for Trans-Canada. U.S. operations that are being reviewed, it was learned, include those of Pan-American Airways into Alaska by way of Whitehorse, Yukon, and Colonial Airlines' Montreal-Ottawa-Washington run.

Police Seize Man At Clarence House

LONDON (AP) — Police today seized a man who went to the home of Princess Margaret and said he wanted to give the Queen's sister a gift. He was released after questioning at a police station.

Scotland Yard refused to comment on the case. Unconfirmed reports said the man was carrying a ceremonial knife.

Princess Margaret and the Queen Mother live at Clarence House, near Buckingham Palace, where the Princess has a separate apartment.

Discuss Improving Old Cemeteries

BRANTFORD (CP) — The Ontario legislature's select committee on cemeteries and local officials Tuesday discussed the care and improvement of abandoned cemeteries.

Local officials sought permission to move stones in abandoned cemeteries to facilitate their care and improvement and asked that the Ontario government aid the project.

The government's inquiry is aimed at the creation, investment and supervision of funds for perpetual care of cemeteries and their facilities.

Hold Man In Hospital In $13,000 Metal Theft, Second Suspect Sought

HAMILTON (CP)—Police held one man in hospital today and were on the lookout for his companion in connection with the $13,000 robbery of two drums of unrefined metal concentrates from an express office platform. Police said they had theft warrants for Joseph Harboway, 33, of Toronto, in hospital here with a broken neck, and Edwin Blair, 29, of Toronto. They said Blair is believed to be the driver of a car that sped from the Canadian National Railways Express office at Port Colborne Tuesday with the 200-pound drums of precious metals and crashed out of control in a culvert.

The drums, containing concentrates of platinum, gold, silver and palladium from the International Nickel Company, were found buried in mud in a culvert beside the wreckage of a car 11 miles south of here Tuesday night.

ONE MAN FLEES

One of the men helped from the wreckage by a farmer was in hospital here. Police identified him as Harboway. The other man fled.

The drums were taken from the platform just before express agent Cecil Flynn went to load them on a train. They were to be shipped to an INCO refining plant at Copper Cliff, Ont.

Plant officials said the concentrates were useless to the average man. A company spokesman said: "It looks like someone told the thieves the stuff was valuable but they'd have a tough time making any money on it. It had to be refined."

Four Youths Questioned

TORONTO (CP)—Four youths, picked up Tuesday night in a raid on a downtown Toronto rooming house, were questioned today in connection with the murder of Fred (Scotty) Cameron.

Cameron's body was found Friday in a ditch near Barrie, 50 miles north of here. He had been shot five times.

Police said they found the youths in an upstairs room in the house with two 15-year-old girls, recent escapees from Mercer Reformatory.

Officers said the youths were being questioned in connection with the Cameron case and also the robbery Tuesday night of 40-year-old Percy Glitero, a Dufferin race track constable.

Glitero told police he was dragged into a car and driven to suburban Dixie where he was slugged and robbed of $65.

$150,000 Fire Razes Hotel In Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) — Fire early today completely destroyed the Plaza Hotel in Chateauguay-Basin, about 15 miles southwest of here, causing an estimated $150,000 damage.

No one was reported injured.

The flames which rapidly swept through the three-storey wooden structure threatened other buildings for a time.

Cause of the fire was not immediately known.

Canada Accepts Queen's Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today the Canadian government is "in full accord" with the Queen's proposal to have the Duke of Edinburgh named regent if the necessity arises.

The prime minister said it does not appear that any concurring legislation will be needed in Canada.

In a statement issued simultaneously with a message given to the British Parliament by the Queen, Mr. St. Laurent said:

"The regency acts of 1937 and 1943 are statutes of the Parliament of the United Kingdom which do not apply to Canada where the powers and authorities of the sovereign in respect of Canada are vested in the governor-general.

"Therefore, though the government of Canada is in full accord with the proposal that effect should be given to Her Majesty's wishes, it does not appear necessary that any action be taken in Canada to that end."

Rhee Reaffirms Decision To Fight

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee today reaffirmed his decision to attempt to drive the Communists out of North Korea if a post-armistice political conference fails to unify his country—or is not held.

The South Korean leader was answering questions submitted to him by The Associated Press weeks ago.

In his written answers, he reaffirmed his position and outlined a two-part plan for holding elections in all Korea, once the country is unified.

Rhee said he doubts if any questions can be peacefully settled at a post-armistice peace conference.

Churchill Praises Work Done By Bevin

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill today hailed a former Labor party opponent, the late Ernest Bevin, as "one of the greatest foreign secretaries" in Britain's history at the unveiling of a bust of Bevin in the foreign office.

Similar tribute came from Opposition Leader Clement Attlee, in whose government Bevin served as foreign office head from 1945 until shortly before his death in 1951. The bust was unveiled by Foreign Secretary Eden.

Cost-of-Living Index Up Half Point In September

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index jumped another half point during September to 116.7 from 116.2 as living costs rose for the fifth month in a row. The bureau of statistics today reported the second consecutive half-point monthly rise, which places living costs at the highest level in 16 months.

The yardstick, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, now is just 1.5 points below the record high of 118.2 reached in December, 1951.

In the United States a new high was reached in September when the American yardstick, based on 1947-49 prices equalling 100, rose to 115.2 per cent of the 1947-49 average. It was the seventh consecutive monthly rise.

Higher food prices along with other price jumps for rent, household operations and health care sparked Canada's September index rise. Clothing prices eased slightly.

The food column rose to the highest in more than a year, increasing by 1.5 points to 115.5 from 114 as prices rose for lettuce, fresh tomatoes, bacon, pork chops, butter, lard, eggs, shortening, oranges, grapefruit and canned fruit.

The shelter index rose to a new high of 124.5 from 124.2 as rents continued to climb. Household operations also rose to a record of 117.5 from 117.4, reflecting scattered increases for coal, electricity rates, floor coverings and ice and telephone rates.

Most health costs were high, offsetting the impact of lower costs for personal care items, and bumping the miscellaneous column to 116 from 115.9. This is the highest for this column since last January.

Clothing was the only column to show a decline. Lower prices for women's and children's wear snipped one-tenth of a point from the index to 110.3 from 110.4. The drop brings the index back where it was last June.

Red Interviews Cause Uproar

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Communists dragged out interviews with balky Chinese prisoners today, netting a storm of protests from United Nations observers, charges of stalling and shouts, screams and curses from violent anti-Communist PoWs.

Three of 205 prisoners interviewed asked for repatriation, but the neutral nations repatriation commission ruled that one was mentally incompetent. He was sent to hospital.

The Communists were scheduled to interview 403 prisoners during the day, but some interviews dragged on for more than four hours and at the 5 p.m. deadline almost 200 were still waiting.

Angry UN observers filed protest after protest, because Indian chairmen were reluctant to cut interviews short even when prisoners obviously were anti-Communist.

One angry American observer stalked out of an interview in protest after it had run three hours. The Swiss member protested the length of the session.

Both protests were overruled by the Indian chairman.

BULLETIN

BERLIN (AP)—Three young Poles sought asylum in West Germany today after fighting their way through a Red police net. The Poles followed three Czechs who arrived earlier.

Arrest Worker After Talk

GALENA, Ill. (AP)—A Savanna, Ill., ordnance plant worker who officials said claims he knows who killed Evelyn Hartley, missing La Crosse, Wis., baby-sitter, is in custody here.

Mrs. Lawrence Grebner, deputy sheriff, said today the man also claims he knows the whereabouts of the 13-year-old Hartley girl's body.

The deputy identified the man as Elder G. Frisled, 26, and said he has told several stories but has denied any direct connection with the girl's disappearance.

At La Crosse, Dr. Richard Hartley and his wife—Evelyn's parents—said that they never had heard of Frisled and that his claim of having dates with their daughter was "absolutely not true."

Stratford Indians Sell Defenceman Bob Leek

STRATFORD (CP) — Stratford Indians of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A circuit today sold defenceman Bob Leek to Sarnia ailors.

Indians manager Dutch Meier said loss of the team's last four games may mean a shake-up in the club. He said deals are pending for a new defenceman and a centre.

Believe Quake In Tibet Area

NEW YORK (AP)—A strong earthquake, recorded all over the world Tuesday night, was probably centred in the mountains of Tibet, Rev. Joseph Lynch, director of the Fordham University Observatory, said today.

His instruments picked up two shocks, some 7,400 miles away.

The Bendandi observatory at Faenza, Italy, said it was of "catastrophic proportions" and about 5,000 miles from its instruments.

The John Carroll University seismograph at Cleveland reported a single strong shock 8,000 miles to the southwest.

On the basis of these figures, Father Lynch said the quake was "most probably" in Tibet, north of India.

The Dominion Observatory seismograph at Ottawa apparently recorded the disturbance, but officials said they could make no estimate of the distance or direction of the epicentre from the record received. They believed it must be "a great distance" from Ottawa.

Queen Asks Duke Regent

House Requested Change Law Before Trip

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen today asked the House of Commons to name her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, as regent, should the necessity arise.

A message from her to Parliament asked the House to change the regency acts of 1937 and 1943 before she goes on her Commonwealth tour this month.

These acts provided that Princess Margaret, her sister, would automatically be regent if the heir to the throne, Prince Charles, became king before he was 18.

The Queen's message, read by the Speaker said:

"The uncertainty of human life leads me to put you in mind of the possibility that a child of myself and my dear husband may accede to the throne whilst under the age of 18 years and I would recommend to your consideration whether it be not expedient to provide that, in that event and also in the event of a regency becoming necessary during my lifetime while there is no child or grandchild of ours who can be the regent, my husband should be the regent and be charged with the guardianship of the person of the sovereign.

"I would also recommend that you should take into consideration the expediency of amending the law so that the heir apparent or heir presumptive to the throne should be capable of being regent if he or she has attained the age of 18 years."

Moscow Pedestrian Has Traffic Trouble

(Editor's Note: Gerald Clark, staff writer with Weekend Picture Magazine and the Examiner's Saturday magazine section, is the first Canadian newspaperman to receive a working visa to the Soviet Union since 1946. This series of six daily despatches from Moscow will be followed by other articles from Clark on Soviet Union in early issues of WEEKEND).

MOSCOW, Nov. 4.—An ambulance just whizzed past my window, its warning cry sounding like the toot of a steam locomotive. I'll bet rubles to doughnuts its was on its way to a street accident.

I wish someone had warned me about the traffic here. It's far heavier than I had expected—what with trolley buses, taxis and private cars jostling to clear a path through pedestrians who insist on overflowing from the sidewalks to the roads. Don't get me wrong. You won't see as many vehicles per block as you might in a busy Canadian city, but rush hour in Moscow looks like rush hour anywhere else.

And what makes it even more hazardous is that the main streets, such as Gorky Street and The Arbat, are tremendously wide—at least twice as wide as Toronto's University avenue or Montreal's Park avenue. You go through the gymnastics of a hop, skip and jump before you're half way across. Militiamen, who act as cops, stand every hundred yards apart or control traffic lights (the same signals as ours) from high booths on the sidewalk. Still, drivers zoom right up to you, practically brush the lint off your pants, and leave you wishing for the days when Moscow was filled with horse-and-carriage droshkys.

ENERGETIC CAMPAIGN

At the moment the militia are conducting an energetic campaign to enforce safety regulations. A pedestrian who jay-walks is bawled out on the spot, but not before the policeman goes through certain formalities, such as saluting him, and addressing him as "comrade citizen." Comrade citizen, more often than not, will lash back at the cop and a hot argument ensues.

I saw one character yesterday laughing over his shoulder as he raced through a crowd, a militiaman in close pursuit. The militiaman almost tripped over his long blue greatcoat, but he caught up with his quarry and gave the usual salute. What followed then was an exchange of language which I could not understand, but it sounded quite vehement. At the end of a ten-minute debate the character simply walked off with a grin on his face.

Later in the day I was packed into a taxi with four other westerners. The driver was halted by a cop who pointed out that the law said only four passengers could ride in one cab—otherwise the driver would be so jammed he couldn't manoeuvre properly. I got out and the cop hailed another cab for me.

Maybe the reason for the educational campaign is that until three or four years ago Moscow's vehicles were ancient and few. Cabs in those days consisted of open trucks, and most of the private cars were bound together with odd bolts and nuts. People just weren't used to a hectic, modern life on wheels. Now whatever is on the road is streamlined and fast. Trolley buses, with yellow roofs and blue sides, cover most of the main routes.

Taxis, painted light gray with a checkered band around the middle are plentiful. You can hail them most anywhere in the downtown area, and you can even phone for one—if you have a phone. When you order by phone a girl at the other end insists on taking your number. Then she calls back, and says that a cab with licence plate 26-03 will be waiting outside in a few minutes. That's to prevent anyone else grabbing your order. A cab ride translated into dollars is expensive, by local standards, it's cheap.

Of the passenger cars, there are three main types. Most common is the Pobyeda, or Victory—about the size of an Austin 40. Smallest is the Moskvitch, about the size of the smallest English car. Largest and most sumptuous are the Zis and Zim, which resemble a 1948 Packard and have some of the appointments that you don't see in the North American counterparts, chiefly, white curtains. Whenever you spot a Zis you can figure there's a high official inside. I'd guess that a good two-thirds of the cars on the road are chauffeur-driven. Still, a number are now owned by technicians and factory foremen. In view of the high salaries earned by some of the skilled hands, a car is not beyond reach.

Last night, incidentally, I took my first ride in the subway. I don't know where I got the picture that Moscow had only beautiful Metro stations and no trains, but it's false. The subway stations are really impressive (a western diplomat dubs them "the peoples' palaces") with their green marble walls and tremendous pillars and bronze statues to Stalin or heroes of the revolution. Sub-stations nearly match the main ones in their elaborate decor. They're obviously the symbol which the people most like to point to as a sign of Russia's progress over the past 35 years (and, they hasten to add, and sometimes believe, superiority over the west). But it's a working symbol. The trains are speedy and clean, and certainly on a par with those of London's underground, which generally is reckoned as the world's best.

Fear 6 Drown In Storm

Boat Overturned, No Sign of Immigrants

RED LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Six persons are believed to have drowned in Red lake, victims of a storm which overturned their light boat.

The boat was found overturned in a bay Sunday, Ontario Provincial Police said today. The five men and a woman left the town of Red Lake some 170 miles northeast of Winnipeg, during a snowstorm on a four-mile trip to McKenzie island.

Police said search parties will check islands dotting the lake on the faint chance some of the boat's occupants managed to swim to land.

Missing are Alex Vukovics, Steve Szep, Mr. and Mrs. John Borbely, Alex Kiss and an unidentified man. All were immigrants from Hungary. The men were miners at McKenzie island.

"There was a blinding snowstorm going on when they left," the McKenzie island police constable said today. "There are a few islands in the four-mile stretch between the town and the island, but some wide-open stretches too.

"I don't think they could have had much experience in handling a boat, either."

Democrats Gain In U.S. Vote

Republican Leaders Concede "Party In Trouble"

NEW YORK (AP)— Democrats jubilantly hailed results of Tuesday's scattered state and local elections throughout the United States as pointing to further gains next year, and the Republican high command conceded "we are in trouble."

But, said Republican national chairman Leonard W. Hall, he is confident things will be different in 1954, when control of Congress is at stake. His Democratic counterpart, Stephen A. Mitchell, claimed his party is "on the march from north, south, east and west."

Both noted the local character of the Tuesday elections. In many cases there were state and local issues which cannot be expected to carry major weight next year.

But Mitchell pointed to a White House statement stamping President Eisenhower's endorsement on all Republican candidates, wherever they were running, and said that gave the results added significance.

FEW SURPRISES

Actually, Tuesday's balloting produced few real surprises. Chief among these were two Democratic victories in New Jersey. Robert B. Meyner won the governorship, first Democrat to do so in 10 years. Harrison A. Williams captured the congressional seat held by the Republicans since it was formed in 1932.

In New York City, Democrat Robert F. Wagner, Jr., rolled up the highest plurality since 1945 to win the mayoralty. He defeated a Republican, a Liberal and one other candidate.

Wagner is the son of the late Senator who wrote the Wagner Act, labor relations law of the early Roosevelt administration.

In Virginia, which Eisenhower carried last year, the Democrats retained the state house in the face of the most determined campaign by the Republicans since 1929. There, at least, the two - party system in state and local affairs appears to be some distance in the future.

Thomas B. Stanley was elected Virginia governor with the backing of the powerful Democratic organization headed by Senator Harry F. Byrd. Republican Ted Dalton was the Republican loser.

EVENLY DIVIDED

Both the federal Senate and House of Representatives now are almost evenly divided. All 435 House seats and a third of the Senate's 96 will be filled next year.

Hall undoubtedly had this in mind when he commented:

"There is no question about it —as of today we are in trouble politically. . . ."

In New York Wagner succeeds Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri Jan. 1 in the $40,000-a-year mayoralty —second biggest political job in the U. S.

Impellitteri tried to run as an independent but a court ruled his nominating petition hadn't enough valid signatures.

Cheese Producers Told British Sales Chances Good

STRATFORD (CP) — Cheese producers were told here Tuesday that they can have high hopes for continued sales to Britain but they were also told that until further notice, they will have to pay two cents a pound marketing licence fee to make up the loss the marketing board sustained in selling cheese to Britain below the guaranteed 30-cent Canadian market price.

The marketing licence fee has been five cents a hundredweight.

Representatives of the Ontario Cheese Producers Association and the Ontario Marketing Board attended a conference with western Ontario producers here prior to Tuesday's regular cheese exchange session.

FIRST OFFICIAL WORD

Producers received their first official word that the British government had paid 25½ cents a pound for the 10,000,000 pounds of cheese purchased in mid-October. That meant a marketing board loss of about $450,000 to $500,000 which will have to be made up by establishing a "surplus" fund to help finance future export sales.

Everett Biggs, Ontario dairy commissioner, said the loss could be made up within a few months. He and other representatives of the Ontario Cheese Marketing Board and the Ontario Cheese Producers Association explained the new financial arrangement to the producers.

Exchange prices rose to 31¾ cents compared to the previous session's bidding of only 30 cents. All cheese was sold except one small offering. Total boardings were 125 white; 1,523 colored and 884 specials.

Would Widen Firing Powers

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (Reuters) — Dag Hammarskjold, secretary-general of the United Nations, has submitted proposals which would widen his powers for dismissing members of the UN secretariat.

In a report Tuesday on personnel policy, he proposed amendments to the staff regulations to put his plans into effect. The report will be considered by the General Assembly.

Hammarskjold proposed that he be able to fire a permanent staff member if his conduct did not meet "the high standards of integrity" required by the UN charter; or if such action would be in the interest of the good administration of the organization and in accordance with the standards of the charter.

Under Hammerskjold's proposals, staff members would be required to avoid any action or public pronouncements which might adversely reflect on their status as international civil servants, "or on the integrity, independence and impartiality, which are required by that status."

He further proposed a new provision to staff regulations as follows: "Unless otherwise authorized in accordance with staff rules issued by the secretary-general, staff members shall not engage in any political activities outside the scope of their official duties, other than voting."

Pest-Control Men Must Take Exams

To many students, examinations are a pest. Now pest-control operators in Ontario are subject to examinations before they may obtain a required operating license.

The regulation goes into control after January 1, 1954, and includes persons who use such extermination substances as carbon tetrachloride, cyanide compounds, DDT, strychnine, and phosphate compounds. In addition to the regular exterminator license, another license will be required to use all forms of gaseous insecticides and sprays.

This ruling, passed by the Ontario Department of Health's Division of Industrial Hygiene, does not include private establishments such as farmers, householders and eating places. They may carry out their own extermination work without a license.

There is no charge for the license, the only requirements being reliability and technical knowledge, proven through examination. A week long course on the subject has recently been given in Guelph.

Any person apprenticed to a pest-control operator must be credited and at the end of one year he will receive a new license. No license will be given after January 1, 1955, to non-apprentices.

Hoover In London For Talks On Oil

LONDON (Reuters) — Oil expert Herbert Hoover Jr., flew into London today for "exploratory" talks on the British feud with Iran.

The son of the former United States president arrived from Tehran, where he spent two weeks investigating Iran's nationalized oil industry and sounding out Iran's views.

Hoover will meet soon with Foreign Secretary Eden and other top officials to convey the Iranian government's views on resuming diplomatic relations and getting Iran's rich oil business on its feet again.

After several days in London he will report to State Secretary Dulles in Washington.

"My conversations here as in Iran will be purely of an exploratory nature," Hoover said. He emphasized that he will not suggest any specific solution to the oil problem.

Democrat Wins Buffalo Vote

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Steven Pankow, Democrat, won the Buffalo mayoral election Tuesday and ended eight years of Republican administration of the 15th largest city in the United States.

With all but four of the city's 457 districts reporting, Pankow had received 92,429 votes to 89,699 for his Republican opponent, Fire Commissioner Harold R. Becker, in the unofficial count.

The incumbent Republican mayor, Joseph Mruk, was forbidden by the city charter from succeeding himself.

Three Czechs

Czech capital's technical academy.

They identified the two companions who didn't make it to the West as Vaclav Svajta, a sawmill hand and former land owner, and Cybynek Janata, a factory controller.

DESCRIBE FLIGHT

They gave this account of their flight:

After crossing the Czech border on foot, they walked to the East German town of Riesa, living on raw potatoes and apples. There they sold a cigarette case and watch to buy railway tickets.

During this train ride that East German police stopped them and the youths, armed with three pistols they had saved since the war, shot it out. During the battle they lost sight of Janata. After that clash, they walked only at night.

BRUSH WITH DEATH

During the night hiking, a Communist patrol detected them and poured machine-gun bullets into the wood. Svajta was hit. He urged the others to go on and leave him behind.

The three later boarded an empty freight car and rode to the town of Zossen, 20 miles south of Berlin. The car was disconnected there, and they bumped into police patrols.

Once again bullets whizzed, and Baumer was hit in the stomach.

The three staggered to an elevated railway line leading to Berlin. And even at this last leg of the journey they had another brush with death. They jumped from the train too soon and found themselves in a Soviet sector station swarming with Communist police who apparently were looking for them.

Under a hail of shots, they fled the station and managed to sneak across the border into the United States sector, where American authorities took them in custody pending a thorough investigation of their story and of their request for political asylum.

Expect Verdict Soon In Trial Of Rape Case

LINDSAY (ENS)—A jury verdict is expected some time today in the case of Arthur Fairfield, of Lindsay, whose trial on a charge of rape concluded with addresses of the crown and defence attorney The last crown witness testified Tuesday afternoon.

The all-male jury heard the complainant in the case, a 19-year-old English girl testify all Tuesday morning. She gave her evidence in a low, halting voice, and once broke down on the witness stand, necessitating a court recess. The trial was further prolonged by two recesses in which the jury retired while the counsels and Mr. Justice Treleaven discussed points of law in the evidence.

The rest of the crown witnesses presented their evidence in the afternoon. Previously, Const. George Mounsteven of the Lindsay OPP had shown pictures he took at the scene of the alleged offence last May, 24th.

Witnesses included Mrs. Rebecca Fairman, and her daughter Norma, to whom the girl went immediately after the offence and who assisted her in reporting the matter to police; Sgt. Gord Eberts and Const. Percy Mark of the Lindsay police, who investigated the case; Dr. Noble Sharpe, medico-legal expert of the Attorney General's Department from Toronto, and Dr. C. S. M. Service, who examined the girl following the alleged offence, but found no signs of physical injury.

The girl told the court she was reading a book in her bedroom at the Fairfield home, after coming home from church when the accused allegedly entered her room and later committed the assault. The rest of the family were away on a motor trip. The girl had arrived at the home two weeks before, after living at Sunderland for a time after her arrival from England, then at the County Home for the Aged where she was employed.

Only one witness was called before the addresses to the jury by H. E. Richardson, counsel for Fairfield, and Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan.

Mr. Justice Treleaven, in his charge, warned the jury of the danger of convicting in a sex offence trial on the uncorroborated evidence of the complainant.

"I would hesitate to convict on the evidence in this case," he commented. "I can't find no corroboratory evidence to that of the complainant."

His Lordship also declined to instruct the jury on any of the included offences, such as attempted rape and indecent assault. He said the verdict should be guilty or not guilty of rape and nothing else.

Poppy Day Saturday Aids Needy Veterans, Families

If you'd like to give a helping hand to needy Peterborough veterans and their families—then buy a poppy on Saturday.

The welfare committee of the Canadian Legion, which has representatives from half a dozen other veterans' groups, has spent about $1,000 during the past year on welfare work among ex-service people and their wives and children. The chief source of revenue is the annual "Poppy Day" appeal, customarily held on the Saturday before November 11.

"The money collected on Poppy Day is used for one purpose only: relief of veterans," said Hurrell Dodds, secretary - treasurer of Branch 52 and Secretary treasurer of the Poppy Fund.

"Some people have the wrong idea about the money we raise by this yearly canvass" he continued. "Not a cent of it goes toward the Legion itself or recreational facilities or anything like that. The fund is in a separate account—even deposited in a separate bank.

"The fund may be available not only to Legion members but to every ex-service man or woman in this branch's area. We make no distinction as long as they are veterans. Some fought in the Boer War; others in the First and Second World Wars. Veterans of the Korean War are also eligible."

WELFARE COMMITTEE

The Legion's welfare committee which administers the Poppy Fund consists of Legion Members representatives from veterans' organizations, and other groups directly interested.

This year the chairman of welfare is Albert Mason. Other Branch 52 members are Lou Durkin, Claire Stuart, Harold Yelland and Hurrell Dodds. Also on the committee are Mrs. George C. Stevens, Ladies' Auxiliary; Frank Hurley of DVA; Mrs. C. B. Merrett and Miss Barbara Waters, Branch 452 (women's branch); Bob Batley and Percy McNamee, CGE veterns; Arthur Bromley and Ronald Seabrooke, Western Clock Co. veterans; Jack Whyte Naval Association; David Metcalfe, Red Patch Club; Bob Wilshaw, SD and G Highlanders Association; George Foster, Hasty Pees; Harold Treen, Children's Aid Society.

Mr. Dodds said that help is given in various ways. Some sick veterans have had to be rushed to Kingston by ambulance and though DVA pays doctor bills and hospital expenses they don't pay for ambulance service. Occasionally a breadwinner gets out of work or becomes sick, so the welfare committee drops in with a hamper of groceries.

Members of the committee are well aware of the professional panhandler type; so each case is given careful study before a dollar of the Poppy Fund account is spent.

As a preliminary to the main tag day on Saturday, Poppy Fund officials have received permission to canvass city schools and factories on Friday.

Mrs. Albert Mason is in charge of the tag day activities. She estimates there will be 100 taggers out on the street corners of the city on Saturday morning. Girl Guides Boy Scouts Air Force cadets. Navy cadets, and school girls have all volunteered as taggers. In the afternoon they will be relieved by members of Legion branches 52 and 452.

New Equipment Used To Fight Norwood Fire

NORWOOD (ENS)—New equipment recently acquired by the local volunteer fire department helped to minimize damage resulting from a fire which broke out in a Queen St. duplex early today.

Damage to the house, owned by Ray Parker, was estimated at about $500, some of it due to smoke and water. The loss was covered by insurance.

The blaze, which broke out in the attic when the chimney from the furnace became overheated, was first noticed about 7:30 a.m. by the occupant of one side, James Inskster, who smelled smoke as he was preparing to leave for work. Occupant of the other side of the duplex is William Garden.

NEW SIREN

Mr. Inkster ran across the street to the home of Fire Chief Earl Hamblin who immediately phoned in the alarm. The new fire siren was credited with effecting a prompt response by fire department members.

The firemen fought the blaze from the roof and inside the attic where the recently-purchased air masks had to be worn because of the dense smoke. The new two-inch hose line made for easy manoeuvrability, firemen said.

The blaze was quickly brought under control but when the chimney began to emit heavy smoke again about 9:00 a.m., the firemen were called back. They stood by until there was no further danger but the height of the chimney above the roof made access to it difficult.

The walls and ceiling of bedrooms on both sides of the house were destroyed.

Police Charge Crowds, Halt Flag Raising

TRIESTE (Reuters) — Police with batons today charged a crowd of Italians who tried to raise their flag on the town hall of this disputed city in defiance of Western Allied orders.

Several hundred Italians, marching with an Italian tricolor reached the city centre in the late afternoon and headed for the town hall.

The Italians—some of them war veterans who had just returned from Armistice Day ceremonies at nearby Redipuglia—were incensed at orders that no Italian flags should be flown from public buildings during two-day celebrations marking Italian acquisition of Trieste in 1918.

FLAG SEIZED BY POLICE

The Italian mayor, Gianni Bartoli, tried to defy the Allied order Tuesday by raising Italian flags over the town hall. They were hauled down and confiscated.

The incident, which enraged local Italians, touched off today's scuffles.

As the Italians tried to raise their flag on the town hall today police attempted to move them on. The crowd stood firm. Police then charged with drawn batons.

The howling crowd picked up tables and chairs from a nearby cafe and began hurling them at the British police officers in charge of the riot squads.

Radio calls brought reinforcements in a few minutes.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—E. C. Row, president and general manager of Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Ltd., said today the corporation has acquired property at Red Deer, Alta., upon which will be erected a parts plant costing in excess of half a million dollars.

It is hoped to have the building ready for use next summer.

Earlier this year Chrysler opened a similar plant at Moncton, N. B. Other parts plants are located at Chatham, Ont. and Regina, Sask. Currently the company has in progress at Windsor a $20,000,000 construction program which, when completed, will permit Chrysler to double its passenger car output.

Of the zone meeting Monday at Kawartha Club, Mr. Johnston said that any farmers who wished to attend the afternoon session would be welcome.

Hydro employees applied artificial respiration for some time but their efforts were in vain Coroner Dr. D. W. Burgess pronounced the man dead and the body was removed to Bennett's funeral home. (A post-mortem was conducted this morning to determine the exact cause of death.)

Smith was a veteran of World War I and had an artificial leg, as a result of being wounded in action during the war. He had worked for the Department of Transport, Trent Canal Division, for some years, serving as Lockmaster at Lock 15. His widow, Flora survives.

They will take up a collection among their compatriots and any amount of money over the price of the wreath will be donated to the welfare committee's Poppy Fund. Trucker Given Year In Jail For Bus Crash

CORNWALL (CP) — Max Roodman, 40 - year - old trucker who passed his driver's test four months ago, was sentenced Tuesday to one year in reformatory and had his licence cancelled for life because of a bus-truck crash that killed 20 persons.

Roodman, from Toronto and Ottawa, showed no emotion when Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow passed sentence. He was convicted Monday on a charge of manslaughter laid after the worst highway disaster in Canada's history.

A Coloniel Coach Lines bus hit Roodman's stalled and unlighted truck in pre-dawn darkness July 31 and plunged into the Williamsburg canal about 34 miles west of here. Twenty of the 37 passengers died.

Roodman's conviction came 10 days after bus driver Lorne Chesebrough of Kingston was acquitted on a charge of dangerous driving. Chesebrough was originally charged with manslaughter but it was reduced.

CONSIDER MENTALITY

In passing sentence, Mr. Justice Barlow said:

"This is a case where justice should be tempered with mercy. I have heard the evidence as to your mentality and this must be considered. I am not criticizing you in any way, but it may be, as your counsel suggests, that some test as to an applicant's mentality should be made at the time a driver's licence is granted."

Roodman's brother, Dr. Harry Roodman, an Ottawa dentist, said Max had the mentality of a 12-year-old boy and had been mentally retarded since an illness in childhood.

Roodman was charged specifically in the death of Ordinary Seaman John Fanya of Hamilton and Churchill, Man.

Jury Suggests Changes To Jail

LINDSAY (ENS)—The Victoria county grand jury, after hearing Mrs. Justice Treleaven tell them to pay particular attention to county jail in their regular inspection tour this week, brought in a comprehensive report, which recommended that visiting room be provided in the jail, an extra shower be installed and the cell corridors be cemented to eleminate the fire hazard.

The jury also recommended that prisoners arrested after ten o'clock at night in Lindsay be kept overnight in the town lock-up rather than brought to the jail.

"Easier Money" on the Bond Market?

The trend towards lower interest returns, termed "easier money", has been evident in London, England, for over a year. Recently there has been a corresponding development in United States.

Although some improvement has taken place in bond prices in Canada, a trend similar to that in England and United States is not yet fully in evidence.

Decide December 7 Date Of Campbellford Election

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—The election bylaw was passed at town council Monday night. The election will be held December 7, with a nomination meeting scheduled for November 30.

Places of voting were named and DROs and poll clerks were chosen. Rental of poles was fixed at $8.00, DRO remuneration $8.00 and poll clerks $6.00.

A donation of $10 was made to the Canadian National Institute for the blind. C. C. Massie was included in the municipal insurance scheme.

Arthur F. Collette asked council for permission to have access to the insurance policies carried by the town so that the insurance might be put on a competitive basis. He was granted permission by council on the grounds that any taxpayer has a right to view such documents.

RENOVATE FIRE HALL

Reeve Nicholas complimented the fire brigade for their interest and efforts in renovating their quarters in the fire hall. The building housing the fire department has been renovated and an oil burner installed, all by voluntary labor. A letter will be sent to the brigade, thanking them for their efforts.

Legal opinion was received from the town solicitor with regard to the Palliser building lots. It was decided to have the solicitor and legal committee confer with George Palliser, owner of the lots, to see if an arrangement can be made regarding the sewer tax on the lots.

Mr. Palliser wishes to sell the lots, but has refused to pay the local improvement tax, which has accumulated to more than the lots are worth. He is acting on advice of his lawyer, who says the tax is not legal, because the sewer was not advertised and was only installed because other work was being done in the vicinity at that time. There are no buildings on the lots.

Councillor MacMillan reported that he had received no answer from the McFarland construction company with regard to resurfacing the Ranney St. sidewalk.

HISTORIC GRAVE

Councillor Isobel Tatham reported that she and Councillor Doug. Maybee had investigated the site of the grave of the late Col. Campbell, after whom the town of Campbellford is named. The grave is on the present Fred Bennett farm in Seymour township just outside the farm and its site was discovered in an old deed held by Mr. Bennett.

Harry Townsend, assessor, reported that a pellet from a BB gun or a .22 rifle had broken a window at the library. He deplored such vandalism and asked that all guns of this class to be registered.

He further reported on the great amount of work in re-assessing the town. After a lengthy discussion it was decided to have an experienced assessor hired to assist Mr. Townsend with his work. The new man will be hired for a short time on a trial basis.

Councillor Macmillan was authorized to purchase a small Trophy for the public speaking contest. Reeve Nicholas requested the use of the council chamber for the Santa Claus parade committee meeting and his request was granted.

Council will attend the Remembrance Day services on November 8 in a body, when a wreath will be placed at the cenotaph.

The town clerk was authorized to purchase larger ballot boxes as some of those formerly used are too small.

COMPLETED FOR THIS YEAR—The new cutoff highway from Highways 2 to 35 (near Orono) has been completed throughout the eastern end. Although gravelled, the highway won't be open this winter. It is expected that it will be completed next year after the government has called and awarded contracts for the paving. This year the Malvern and McFarland construction companies cleared the right-of-ways, graded the land, built culverts and gravelled the highway. Below the McFarland sign (above) the new highway is shown cutting its path to Cavan and west.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Detroit Mayor Re-elected

DETROIT (CP)—Mayor Albert E. Cobo of Detroit won his bid for re-election early today in the city's non-partisan balloting.

Cobo, who was conceded victory by his lawyer opponent James A. Lincoln, will serve the first four-year term in Detroit history.

With the final unofficial tallies of the city's 1,480 precincts in, Cobo, elected to his third term as Detroit's chief executive, had 236,967 votes to Lincoln's 159,072.

Cobo, 60, generally considered a Republican, was endorsed by two AFL unions. His 37-year-old opponent formerly was a law partner of Democratic Governor G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and served as executive secretary to former senator Blair Moody (Dem. Mich.).

The CIO United Auto Workers Union did not endorse either candidate. Detroit is in Wayne county, long a Democratic stronghold.

Campaigning was focused on Cobo's civic improvement program.

Helsinki Cabinet Falls On Program

HELSINKI (AP)—Premier Urho Kekkonen's minority cabinet, which has been skating on thin ice for some time, fell today after losing a vote in the parliamentary steering committee on an industry construction program.

The government was defeated by a vote of 31 to 14. Only the Agrarians and Swedish People's party, who constituted the coalition, voted in favor of the cabinet's industrial program.

Will Attempt New Meetings

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — James Hutcheon, a labor board conciliation officer, said Tuesday night he will try to arrange a second series of meetings soon in an attempt to settle a week-old strike which has kept about 4,750 men away from work on 85 construction jobs in the Windsor area.

The strike was called last Tuesday by Local 494, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (AFL) to back up wage demands. Later, some 4,000 other building trades workers refused to cross picket lines set up by the carpenters.

A series of meetings Monday night between Mr. Hutcheon and officials of the union and major construction firms failed to bring about an agreement.

WILL TRY AGAIN

The conciliation officer attended to other business matters Tuesday and said he hopes to bring the two parties together to discuss the dispute further before he returns to Toronto later this week.

The carpenters, who now get $2 an hour, are seeking an 18-cent hourly pay increase to be granted between now and next July 1. The contractors have stood firm on their offer of a 15-cent boost.

Red Dean Still Supports Germ Charges

LONDON (AP) — The "Red" Dean of Canterbury, Most Rev. Hewlett Johnson, today repeated accusations that United States forces "conducted bacteriological warfare in North Korea and China."

In a letter to Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard, the Anglican churchman questioned the accounts of American airmen that they were tortured by the Communists in an effort to force false confessions.

The dean wrote in reply to an editorial carried in The Standard Oct. 29. The editorial said the Americans' stories of torture constituted "conclusive proof that the Communist accusations of germ warfare were a carefully planned and ruthlessly executed propaganda move; that there was not a word of truth in their fabrications."

THE DEAN CHALLENGED

The newspaper recalled that a year ago the "Red" dean was busy writing articles and addressing mass meetings. It asked why he was silent now and answered the question: "His honesty and integrity have been challenged . . . by the returned prisoners of war from Korea."

The dean denied he had been silent in recent months. Referring to the torture charges, he wrote: "Have they (the American airmen) been sent with others to the Valley Forge mental hospital to undergo 'brain-washing' at the tender ministrations of McCarthy 'psychiatrists?'"

Where Does The Money Go?

Last year the total value of Canadian production was twenty-three billion dollars. Spread over the slightly more than fourteen million people of Canada, this should make them comfortably well off, even rich; give a family of five on the average more than eight thousand dollars. It does not; according to the 1951 census eighty per cent. of all Canadian wage and salary earners were paid less than $3,000 a year, almost half of all male workers got less than $2,000. To correlate the gross production with average wages is of course rough and unfair economics. Yet a disparity does exist and more Canadians are conscious of it than ever before. Most Canadians are beginning to realize that theirs is a very rich country.

* * *

In theory Canadians share the ownership of 3,845,144 square miles of real estate, and the incredibly rich, ample resources that nature has provided on it and under it. The exploitation and cultivation of these resources is being actively pursued. The building of industries on them has progressed fantastically, and the country is fat on the goods it is making. Yet this picture seems deceptive to many Canadians struggling to eat, clothe themselves and their families and to keep a roof over their heads.

* * *

Canada is very rich, but where are the riches going? Some of the answers are easy to find. Six per cent. of national production is going up in smoke, or for a smoke screen against the Russians. It is going into defence goods—planes, guns and so on. From this there is no gainful return, other than, one hopes, security. Another chunk is being put into social services—for babies, for mothers, for health, for old age, for education. Some of the wealth is creating new millionaires—like the province of Alberta which is getting a rich slice of oil profits—and some people whose incomes have shot high with the times. Some of the production is being exported—on credit—to nations which do not have enough food and material of their own, and no money to pay for them to keep Canadian farms and factories humming. Much of the money from production is being ploughed back into production, as capital investment.

* * *

Another sizable chunk of the nation's wealth is going to the United States, or will go. Half the oil industry of this country is owned by Americans. So are great parts of other industries. The American investment in Canada is now many billions. All this money has come in from the States, but more will go out, for the Americans are investing for profits. The high rate of American investment in Canada has a rosy flush now, but what may happen when the money (or goods) go back and if the economy of Canada is contracting? Then the flush may appear to be a sign of disease.

* * *

Last week the Deputy Minister of Defence Production said in Toronto: "If we are feeling the pinch now, in a program of this size, I wonder what we would do in an all-out emergency?" He was speaking about the weight of defence production and the drain of technical workers into it. Reform the question in a changed context: If Canadians are not feeling rich now, in an expanding economy of this size, how will they feel if times tighten? Or if Canadian affairs continue to march well—in bulk and in total and without war—when will Canadians as individuals begin to have the riches for which Canada is now notorious? The answer is that they will never, in all likelihood, have those riches in loose cash, but that they may expect to enjoy them in a high level of employment and a high standard of living.

Korean War Crimes

At the end of every war stories of atrocities mount; returning prisoners are back to tell their tales. It was so in the Boer War, the Great War, the Second World War. Now come the stories out of Korea. Some of the incidents related are more barbaric than anything which has splattered the pages of history since the Inquisition and the Indian torture of French missionaries in Canada.

The experiences of Philip Deane, war correspondent for this newspaper and the London Observer, have already been told in our pages, following his release from his Chinese captors. Dr. Charles Mayo (of the Mayo Clinic) has reported some terrible details to the U.N. General Assembly's political committee, in answer to Communist charges that the U.S. had used germ warfare. False confessions and 'proofs' were forced by barbaric torture from captured American airmen; others withstood the savagery and did not sign.

There is the case of Lieutenant James Stanley: "He was stood at attention for five hours at a time; confined eight days in a doorless cell less than six feet long; held to the ground [illegible] a third kicked and slapped him; stood at attention 22 hours until he fell, then hit while lying down with the side of a hatchet . . . interrogated for three hours with a spotlight six inches from his face, ordered to confess while a pistol was held at the back of his head; placed under a roof drain all night during a rainstorm; left without food three days and water eight days; . . . put before a firing squad and given a last chance; hung by the hands and feet from the rafters of a house." And so the record of Communist inhumanity is documented in scores of cases. Did even mediaeval torture know such brutality? How short have been the effects of Christian teaching in China and Korea. Did not missionaries labour long in those vineyards for the Lord of lovingkindness? Is Communism so much stronger a faith? And what of the long tradition of civilization to which the Chinese lay claim? How contorted has become the caricature of mild and smiling Chinese?

Brutality, torture and crimes against human nature have not been unknown in Christian countries. Germany was a Christian nation, yet it had its concentration camps and Buchenwalds. The Inquisition itself was carried on in the name of Christ. If it is inexact or unfair to link Christianity with such practices, perhaps it is not right or wise to lay the blame for the Korean war atrocities on Communism. War perverts men. Its brutishness is pervasive.

Even our side is not and has not been entirely blameless. A book has recently been published in Germany, compiled from statements made by Germans and others at the trials of war criminals. This book sets out to establish that Allied soldiers and commanders were guilty of atrocities as heinous as those committed by some convicted Nazis, and wants them brought to trial. And in Korea, have not Allied soldiers been found, by our own courts, guilty of rape, plunder and bestiality? Even so, the evidence being put before U.N. of horrible treatment and torture of Americans by Communist captors is terrible; one must believe that the worst kinds of Communist and oriental savagery have been combined in North Korea and Red China.

In November

Yesterday morning when the thermometer in the shade of the office building was reaching sixty degrees and the sun was making the streets glow, men along Number 7 were putting up snow fences.

November is a strange month, neither fall nor winter, neither oppressive nor exhilarating. And in days such as yesterday—and in the beautiful sequence of fine weather we have had for three weeks—one feels that the sun, the warmth and golden moments have a kind of spectral happiness. Lampman felt it in the woods in November, in the sombre company of mullen-stalks, dead goldenrod and the rustling yellow multitude of fallen leaves—

And all around me the thin light,
So sere, so melancholy bright,
Fell like the half-reflected gleam
Or shadow of some former dream;
A moment's golden reverie
Poured out on every plant and tree
A semblance of weird joy . . .

November echoes October's requiem for the year and bruits Winter's diapason. There is a furrow in the sky where the sun shines briefly, then the clouds lower in grey, cold austerity. Even at sunset when the valleys are flooded with purple twilight, warm as wine, the shadow of a forsaken and silent land is cast. November—

The mellow consolation of the year
More mystical than all of summer's pride says Bliss Carman. It is an oboe-sounding month, and you hear it by your fireside after the early night has descended, in Sibelius' Swan of Tuonela.

Stalkers And Stalked

The deer hunting season has opened and the woods north of Peterborough are full of hunters and—they hope—hunted. The deer hunt is a traditional sport hereabouts. In order to sustain it, rules and regulations have been necessary, and also game wardens to enforce them. Thus an attempt is made to ensure that the hunters are sportsmen and not just crude and greedy slayers; moreover that they are no more dangerous to human life and private property than they are to the animals. Already one hunter has had the hand of the game warden on him; the hunter 'saw something moving, and shot'. It was a female moose. It made a lot of meat—but contraband stuff. From the records of other seasons and already from this, the necessity of having game wardens to stalk the stalkers is evident.

Grave Problems For Burma

By CHESTER WILMOT

(Ed. Note: Chester Wilmot, a foremost correspondent has just begun a tour of the far east. Here is his first despatch from Rangoon.)

BURMA'S RICE SURPLUS is presenting [illegible] with a problem that is becoming increasingly [illegible] foreign buyers continue to hold off and as the time for harvesting the new crop draws nearer.

Experts in the rice trade report that up to a million tons of last year's rice crop is so far unsold, and that the mills and godowns (warehouses) along the Rangoon waterfront and throughout the Irrawaddy Delta are filled almost to the overflowing. These must be cleared, or new storage must be provided, they say, before the millers can handle the crop that will start coming in December.

Although the Government remains outwardly optimistic, there is considerable anxiety here that if export markets for this surplus cannot be found within the next three months, there may be an economic crisis which would be quickly exploited by the Communists and other rebels who still control large parts of Burma.

ONE REASON for the present surplus is that thanks to the improvement in internal security conditions during the past year, areas previously controlled by the insurgents have sent in more rice than the authorities expected. Although no official figures have yet been released it is estimated that out of a crop of well over five million tons, 1.6 million was available for export compared with 1.3 million last year.

The main cause of the surplus, however, appears to be the high price demanded by the Burmese Government. Two-thirds of Burma's rice crop is sold on a Government-to-Government basis, and the price in these official contracts was increased from £50 to £55 for the second half of 1952 and to £60 for the first half of this year.

IN RAISING its official price the Government was evidently encouraged by the high prices being paid in the free market—where Burmese rice was fetching £80 per ton before the Second World War. The result was, however, that neighbouring Governments—especially those of India and Ceylon—held back, so that in the first six months of this year exports of Burmese rice were fifty thousand tons less than in the corresponding period in 1952.

As long as there was a world shortage of rice, Burma's neighbours had to pay Burma's price; but during the last three years India and other Asian countries have been consuming increasing quantities of wheat. India's wheat imports have doubled since 1950, and now, being less dependent on rice, the Indian Government is better able to bargain with Burma about prices.

INDIA KNOWS that Burma can afford to make some reduction, since the latter's production costs are the lowest in Asia, and present export prices enable the Burmese Government to make a profit of more than one hundred per cent. The rice that Burma sells for £60 a ton costs less than £25 to grow, mill and market.

In hope of keeping the prices high, the Government of Burma is planning to build new godowns for storing surplus rice; but this plan calls for considerable capital expenditure and would be difficult to carry out before the new crop is ready for milling. In any case, a large part of the rice now in store, having become infested with weevil, will have to be re-milled and cleaned before it can be marketed.

The maintenance of a high return from rice exports is vital to Burma's economy, since these provide eighty per cent of its foreign exchange. A decline in foreign earnings must mean a curtailment of the Government's capital development programme, especially as—at its own request—Burma is no longer receiving United States economic aid under the Point Four programme.

A DECLINE in export prices may have to be accepted, however, since the Government cannot afford to place itself in the position of not being able to take all the incoming crop off the ricegrowers' hands. To fail in this would be to create a situation similar to that which produced the Peasants' Revolt of 1931. Even a minor recession could have serious consequences, and would retard the Government's campaign against the insurgents.

As part of this campaign the Government has just issued a proclamation outlawing all rebel groups, Communist and nationalist alike. This ordinance was directed primarily against the Burma Communist Party (the so-called White Flag Communists) led by Thakin Than Tun, formerly Secretary-General of the Anti-Fascist People's Freedom League, the Party which now governs Burma. In 1950 Than Tun set up a Communist "Government" in Central Burma, and since then there have been intermittent clashes between his followers and Government forces.

The Government is also engaged in suppressing the Karens and other nationalist groups which have been in revolt since Burma gained its independence in 1948.

THE BURMESE ARMY, now forty-five battalions strong—equipped with British arms, and trained with the aid of a British Staff Mission—could probably deal with both the Karens and the Communists, if its main strength were not engaged in keeping in check the Chinese Nationalist force which took refuge in Eastern Burma 1950.

The presence of this force—numbering some twelve thousand—on Burmese soil was strongly condemned by the United Nations Assembly last April, and negotiations for its withdrawal, to Formosa via Siam subsequently took place in Bangkok (capital of Siam) between representatives of Burma, Nationalist China, the United States and Siam. A withdrawal plan has now been worked out, but has yet to be approved by the Burmese Government, which withdrew a month ago in protest against Chinese procrastination.

This much has been reported abroad; but it was only when I reached Rangoon that I realized how strongly the Burmese feel about the "Kuomintang invasion," and about the attitude of the United States over this issue.

DISCUSSING the problem, one of the senior Minister in the Burmese Government said to me: "The so-called agreement reached in Bangkok is purely a smoke screen to bluff the United Nations. If it was genuine, the Kuomintang troops would be moving out already. There can be no doubt that this force is controlled by Chang Kai-shek and, since he is completely dependent on American support, they can support him to withdraw it—if they wished."

Burmese suspicions of American good faith have been accentuated by the recent appointment as Ambassador in Bangkok of Mr. William Donovan, who played a leading part in the direction of operations behind the enemy lines during the last war. There is no evidence to support their suspicions, but it is perhaps not unnatural that leading Burmese should feel that Mr. Donovan's task is to keep open the supply line to the Kuomintang force in Burma.

This issue however, is not as simple as the Burmese suggest. Although it is not disputed that this force comprises about twelve thousand troops, there is reason to believe that only about three thousand of these are Chinese Nationalists and that the remainder are local Burmese insurgents who have rallied to Kuomingtang leadership.

YET it is also evident that if the hard core of well-trained and well-equipped Chinese Nationalists were withdrawn the Burmese Army would be able to deal with the insurgent hangers-on.

This summer the Burmese Army launched an offensive against the Kuomintang, but it was opposed by both Chinese and Karens, evidently working in alliance. Against this combined opposition little progress was made, and it seems now that the Burmese Army will not have the strength to regain control of Eastern Burma as long as the Chinese Nationalists remain there.

The presence of Kuomintang troops in Burma is doubly serious for the Rangoon Government: it greatly increases the difficulty of establishing enternal order and it provides the Chinese Communists with a ready-made pretext for intervening in the Burmese civil war.

So far the Peking Government has maintained what the Burmese officially describe as "a correct and understanding attitude;" but the Government of Burma realizes that the forbearance of the Chinese Communists may be due chiefly to their desire not to lose India's good will as they undoubtedly would if they were to intervene in Burma.

An American Opinion: "OKAY, LET'S SWAP!"

London Music

By PAUL FERRIS

LONDON is full of scraps of music: strolling tenors without voices patrol the theatre queues and string bands are half-heard in restaurants: many a cinema has its organist who rises, bowing and bathed in the spotlight, to play in the interval while the audience buy ice-cream and look under their seats for hats. Often an Underground railway station has a soloist; they say there is one retired schoolmaster who sings in Latin. All summer at Notting Hill a man stood, beside a gramophone in a pram, playing dance tunes of the nineteen-twenties, jingling his cap and beating time with his broken shoe. He has gone this week, and in his place there is a man singing soundlessly—the gestures are splendid and operatic, but nothing comes out of his mouth; it is like an underwater concert.

And larger stations have their music. Paddington is a great black, strutted hangar with roof and walls that faithfully reflect every whistle and syren and loudspeaker voice; at a busy hour, with an Irish boat train leaving, and a train full of men with brief cases arriving from Bristol, and another coming in from Slough with shopping women on their way to Knightsbridge, Paddington is as rowdy as a tinworks. But it can be a quiet place, especially on a Sunday morning, when British people chiefly stay in bed; and then it has music.

I was there to meet someone who never came. The band, of eleven Salvation Army men and one woman, was drawn up in the square of the station beside the train indicator boards. It was playing hymns, "Rock of Ages" and "Abide with Me," to an audience of a few dozen passengers and porters. There were no queues for tea: the tearoom was shut. The bookstall was closed, although you could buy newspapers from a man with a trolley. It was like a seaside resort in winter: shutters down: with an evangelical band still thundering at the closed pier and at the departing girls in "Kiss Me" hats. The buttery sunlight came down through the roof, through the blackened arches; the shining pipes of the tracks ran out into the open: to Cardiff, Crewe and Cornwall: and the music, played with revivalist vigour, gave a religious air to the station, as though British Railways had presented Paddington to the Baptists. There were no sermons on the loudspeakers; there was only a porter hauling past a truck piled with newly-dead rabbits, wired into bundles and ticketed C.O.D.

Outside the Station, in Praed street, there is a different kind of music; only Sunday morning is not the time to hear it. Praed street is somewhat down at heel, but at times, and particularly as the evening wears on, it is a racy place. Its music comes mainly from the pubs—plushy, gilt-and-glass and most entertaining pubs, looking at times like backcloths of music hall scenes, although in fact nothing could be more three-dimensional.

In them are flashing girls, bad old men, bookies in yellow mackintoshes, unshockable cooks, chinless youths and nimble barmaids with small, sharp features. And the music in Praed street, like the soundless man at Notting Hill and the twelve-piece band on Paddington Station, seems unrelated to its surroundings. Behind one pair of swinging doors a number of men are singing a ballad with Irish accents. Behind another, a piano and some ladies are rendering hymns. Why is the singing so sad? Why are they singing at all?

"And now," says the street musician, "I will give you the Flower Song from Carmen." The theatre queue shuffles closer to the wall, but there is no escape. Why sing, in a broken, cheerless voice? Why pick Carmen? You may ask, but no one will tell you. London's music, like London's river, just keeps on flowing.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now there is at Jerusalem by the sheep market a pool, which is called in the Hebrew tongue Bethesda, having five porches . . . And a certain man was there, which had an infirmity thirty and eight years. When Jesus saw him lie, and knew that he had been now a long time in that case, he saith unto him, Wilt thou be made whole?

The impotent man answered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am coming, another steppeth down before me. Jesus saith unto him, Rise, take up thy bed, and walk. And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked. (John 5:2, 5-9.)

Letters To The Editor

DEWEY RAMBLED

SIR: In last Friday's editorial, you assert that a person who does not write clearly is incapable of thinking clearly, logically or creatively. Anyone familiar with the loose, rambling sentences of John Dewey would find this difficult to believe. Dewey is credited with saying that if people were not intelligent enough to understand what he wrote it was no fault of his. Moreover, his thoughts were of sufficient importance that scholars have re-written some of his works so that students might better understand them.

Conversely, there are scores of shallow minds "who can write clearly and well"; however, neither a glib tongue, nor a facile pen constitutes a measure of creative thinking.

DUMP IN ASPHODEL

SIR. With regard to the dump on Concession Two of Asphodel, I would like to say, that Mr. E. Pulfer, Mrs. F. Neilson, Mrs. W. Graham and T. J. Cardwell are all jointly in this suit which was caused by a very poor thinking group of Council men, especially James Humphrey, Bruce Graham, Walter Middlebrook and James Beamish, who passed this motion, and shortly after, moved to Cobourg. They passed a motion in April forbidding any dumping on our roads in Asphodel. Then in May they passed a motion of dumping on Concession Two in front of our property, a man-made law of their own.

So, in order to break this up we had to take legal action, which cost us time and money, and will also cost ratepayers money, as well. Then on May 19, James Humphrey came to my home, and had the gall to ask me if I would supervise this dump, which I had been trying to get rid of for years. I wonder how low some people can get. Mr. Humphrey had difficulty getting this motion passed, so he asked Mr. Scott to take the Reeve's chair, therefore lowering himself to a Council man to legalize this motion. Then he got Middlebrook and Graham to back him. They think this is a joke! a very poor joke indeed, as it could happen to any ratepayer if it wasn't stopped.

When I went to see Middlebrook and asked him how the motions were passed he would not explain, but looked into my face and said "Don't you think the Council and next door neighbours are getting your goat?" Coming from a Council man, I considered this pretty childish. I could write for hours to the ratepayers of Asphodel, explaining all this in full detail. Then I wonder, if at next election, there would be enough interest taken to select a more reasonable group of Council men.

Thanking You,

Yours very truly for now,
T. J. CARDWELL.

Found Guilty Of Carrying Loaded Rifle

A Harvey township man, James H. Pluard, was today convicted of illegally carrying a loaded rifle in his truck, and fined $10 and $2.50 costs. Magistrate R. I. Moore, QC, ordered the rifle confiscated.

OPP Constable Wallace Mohns testified that he stopped Pluard's truck near Rockcroft on Highway 36, and found a boy in the truck holding a .22 rifle.

The boy, Pluard's son, told the officer his father had told him to go to his (Pluard's) father-in-law and tell him Pluard was coming with a gun. Pluard, said the constable, denied this.

The accused said he had loaned the rifle to his brother, who had returned it with shells in it. Pluard was merely taking it home.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, asked Pluard if it was the first time he'd been driving that road with a loaded gun in his truck and "scaring people." Pluard said it was the first time. The crown attorney suggested that it wasn't.

Ross Macdonald Keeps Business Going Two Places

OTTAWA (CP)—Ross Macdonald is halfway out of the Commons and part-way into the Senate. He holds down jobs for both legislative chambers, qualifying as one of Parliament's busiest men these days.

Although his appointment as senator has been approved, he hasn't been sworn in yet as a senator. He also holds the post of government leader in the upper chamber and minister without portfolio in the cabinet. These posts involve preparation for the session of Parliament which gets under way Nov. 12.

In addition to his Senate duties, he also still is speaker of the Commons, his post in the last Parliament. He doesn't give that up until a successor is picked by the Commons Nov. 12 and sworn in.

The result of this multiplicity of jobs is that Senator-Minister-Speaker Macdonald, 62, spends part of his day in the office of government leader in the upper chamber then shifts to his old speaker's office. In that way, he keeps business going in both places.

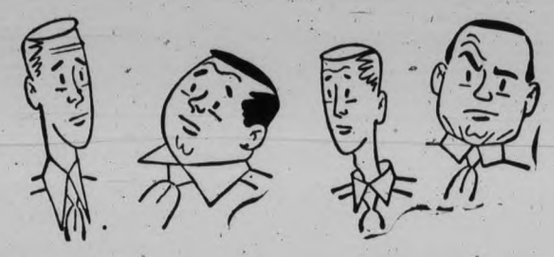
Beaver Causes Fire



ORILLIA (CP) — A beaver is blamed for indirectly causing a bush fire that Tuesday destroyed a cottage valued at more than $10,000. The beaver gnawed part way through a poplar tree near the shore of Sparrow lake, 15 miles north of here, a year ago. The tree died and Tuesday strong winds blew it down. As it fell, it snapped a hydro line and set the woods on fire.

Orfuns Prepare For Return Of ORFU Series

Reserve seat tickets for the ORFU playoff game here Saturday have been put on sale at various uptown stores and at Tem, and grid officials report a big demand for them. The game is at two Saturday afternoon in Morrow Park, the return game of the home-and-home ORFU intermediate "A" finals. Peterborough Orfuns lead Oakville Black Knights by 13 points, following a 1-6 win in Oakville last weekend. Draw tickets for Grey Cup tickets are also on sale now.

Coach Tony Kotowski expects to have his team pretty nearly at full strength for the Saturday playoff, though Clive Naismith is a definite absentee. Blair Thomson and Don McGillis should be ready by this weekend, and Johnny Berry and Johnny Giardino are gradually improving after injuries. Hank Russelle is another absentee through an injury received several weeks ago. With a lot of bench strength, the coach isn't unduly worried at the moment over injuries.

DISCUSSING TRIP

Keeping their fingers crossed in case Oakville Knights pull an upset with a desperate drive here on Saturday, Orfuns' officials nevertheless have been quietly discussing transportation problems facing them in putting the club into Montreal for Eastern Canada finals if they take the ORFU title. The Ontario winner will play the QRFU victor in the metropolis on Nov. 15, and the winner of that eastern playoff entertains the western champion the following weekend for the Canadian crown. However, arrangements for the Montreal trip cannot be completed until a meeting early next week if Orfuns come through on Saturday here.

Junior Game Postponed

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series game, scheduled in St. Catharines Friday between the TeePees and Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts, has been postponed, Bill Hanley, league business-manager, announced Tuesday night.

Butch Arbour, one of the stalwarts of professional hockey in the early days, died 10 years ago today at Orillia, Ont. Arbour was on the Montreal Canadiens team that won the Stanley Cup in 1916 with such famous team-mates as Bert Corbeau, Newsy Lalonde, Howard MacNamara and Didre Pitre.

Eskies Get Strict Workout

EDMONTON (CP)—Coach Darrel Royal sent his Edmonton Eskimos—still minus all-star halfback Billy Vessels—through a workout Tuesday night as the Western Interprovincial Football Union leaders prepared for the opening of the finals here Saturday against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Royal said he plans workouts every evening this week behind barred gates.

Vessels, who suffered a fractured spinal muscle in the final league game Oct. 24 against Bombers has been released from hospital but must return daily for therapy treatments.

Kwong, who injured an ankle in the same game in which Vessels was hurt, still cannot run and Royal wasn't sure whether Kwong will be playing Saturday.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

The four outside sheets of ice will be available for curling on Thursday evening. This information was given to us late Tuesday afternoon. The remaining three sheets of ice are being prepared as rapidly as possible.

It is hoped that as many skips as is possible will be on hand with their new players. A little advice and attention goes a long way.

The ladies are hoping to commence curling, on Friday, with a local bonspiel. Two o'clock is the hour.

The men's schedule games begin this coming Monday evening at seven and nine. If the schedule books are not issued in a day or two it's more than likely that Monday and Tuesday night's draw will be published in this column.

Do you know that the Lindsay Curling Club and the Peterborough Curling Club were formed the same year—1876—and each club joined the Ontario Curling Association in 1877?

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Orfuns are prepping hard for the return game of the ORFU intermediate "A" finals against Oakville Black Knights here Saturday. A two p.m. touch in Morrow Park, and Tony Kotowski's local gridders tote a 13-point lead into it. Club officials at a meeting last eve at Gordon McGavin's made final arrangements to handle a big crowd of football fans from this area and reported a hefty advance sale of tickets. It just could be the last appearance here of Orfuns this autumn win, lose or draw. If they sweep this round, they go to Montreal the following weekend in Eastern Canada finals and must win there to get the east-west Canadian final here a week later.

Verdun Bulldogs gained the bye in Quebec for ORFU finals. St. Aloysius Orfuns and Montreal Lakeshore Flyers meet in a sudden-death tomorrow, winner tackling Verdun for the Quebec title. Lakeshores won out last year and were edged by two points here to permit Peterborough Orfuns to go west, where they lost in Winnipeg. Likely the ORFU finals will be next Sunday as they play Sunday football in Montreal. If Orfuns oust Oakville the local crew will be playing on Sunday, November 14 in Montreal. The intermediate Canadian finals will be November 21, one week before the Grey Cup game at Varsity Stadium. Yes, this month winds up the gridiron game for the year.

Bill Racks up 87 Points

Bill Huntley, starry plunging backfielder for Orfuns, has racked up a grand total of 87 points to date this ORFU semester. He had 73 ere getting out of the Central Ontario group, and added 14 in the first of the provincial finals last Saturday in Oakville. Orfuns took to the field nine times in group play and had two playoff tilts with Cobourg Ghosts as well as one so far with Oakville. That's 12 tilts or better than seven points in every game . . . an excellent record indeed. Clive Naismith now out of action, had 17 points for Orfuns, while Bus Jensen and Blair Thomson have been good for 15 each so far. Football, of course, is strictly a team game and scoring doesn't tell the whole story, by any means.

An item from last week's lakeshore OHA intermediate group meeting says: "A new rule this year makes it possible for a club to gain a freelance player apart from the three waiver imports allowed. Any player signed with an OHA club who does not play more than three games by January 15 can be released and is free to sign with any club he chooses for the rest of the season." Such a player isn't an import then and a club is allowed one in this class in a season. TVL is not affiliated with the OHA so these players aren't considered imports. Of course, local chaps in the TVL would have to be waived by the OHA Petes ere they could go in the lakeshore loop. Cobourg and Lakefield Indians open this group race here on Friday night.

Redhead in Third Spot

George (Red) Sullivan has climbed to third place among scorers in the American Hockey League, the classy Hershey forward from here—property of Boston Bruins—being the only outsider among six Buffalo Bisons in the top seven. Gaye Stewart leads with 19 points in 12 games, Don Marshall has 18 in 12 and Red 17 in 10 tilts. Tied with 16 each are Ed Slowinski, Joe Lund and John McCormack of Bisons, that team having a healthy lead in the standing over Cleveland, where Don Ashbee performs Syracuse (where Nip O'Hearn is spare goalie) occupies the AHL cellar at present. Hershey Bears are in fourth slot. Sullivan's total is made up of seven goals and 10 assists. He has served eight minutes in penalties during the 10 tussles.

No further home action for the TPT Petes in OHA senior "B" ranks until a week from this Friday, Kingston Goodyears (provincial champs) coming up this way on Nov. 13. Meantime, Eddie Redmond's men play in the Limestone City this Friday and trek to Belleville next Tuesday night. They have a win, a loss and a tie to date defeating Belleville 6-2 here, drawing at Civic with Orillia Pontiacs 7-7, and losing to Oshawa Truckmen 8-3 at Bowmanville in the opener. Oshawa leads the pack at this early date, with Petes next, just half a step ahead of Kingston. Orillia and Belleville follow in that order. A Quinte chap tells us that Goalie Tony Parisi will be touring Europe this winter with an Ottawa puck team. Toronto Lyndhursts represent Canada in international play in Europe early in 1954.

BARNES KAYOED

LONDON (AP)—Yolande Pompey, third-ranking light-heavyweight contender from Trinidad, knocked out Ray Barnes of Detroit in 2:03 of the fourth round of a 10-round bout Tuesday night.

Pompey, gunning for a shot at Randy Turpin, the British Empire and European middleweight champion, floored the lanky Negro for a nine-count in the second round and then put him away in the fourth.

Pompey weighed 161½, Barnes 161.

Reese Admits Hints About Managership

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Pee-Wee Reese admitted Tuesday he had been "felt out" on the job of managing Brooklyn Dodgers.

He said he wanted to discuss the "indirect" offer with his wife before making a final decision.

"I don't want to do anything that will jeopardize my standing with the Dodgers," he told a reporter, "but on the other hand, I don't want to make a move that might disrupt the happiness of our life."

Bombers Have Secret Practice

WINNIPEG (CP)—Coach George Trafton worked his Blue Bombers behind locked doors Tuesday night in preparation for the Western Interprovincial Football Union best-of-three final opening in Edmonton Saturday night.

Missing from the workout were sophomore fullback Lorne Benson, who suffered a leg injury last Saturday at Regina in the second game of the two-game, total-point semi-final against Saskatchewan Roughriders, and all-star defensive guard Dean Bandiera, also pulled up lame in the same game.

Bandiera was released from hospital Tuesday but is a doubtful starter Saturday. Benson, who scored a record six touchdowns in the first semi-final match, is expected to be released from hospital this week. However, he will miss the opener.

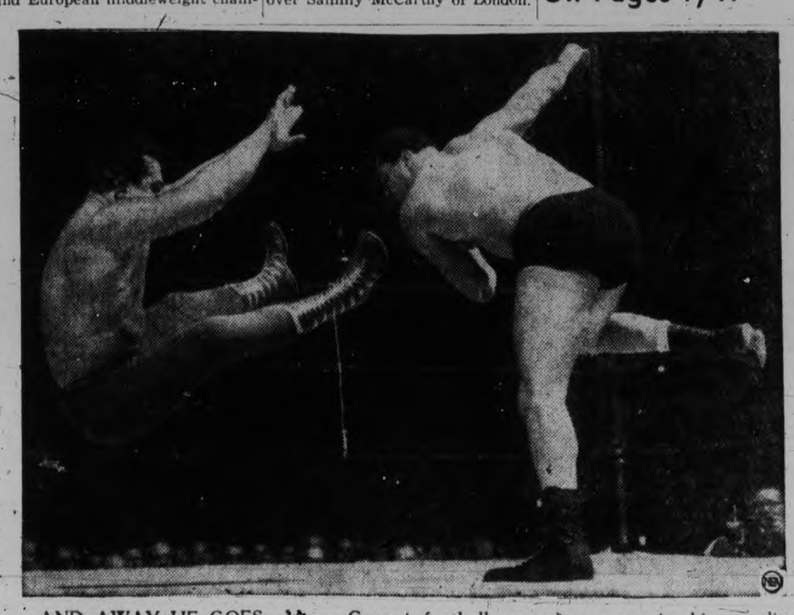
Campbell Clears Two Coaches

MONTREAL (CP) — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said Tuesday his report from referee Red Storey indicated neither coach Lynn Patrick of Boston Bruins nor coach Sid Abel of Chicago Black Hawks was seriously involved in a rumpus at Chicago Sunday night.

"I understand all that happened was that a couple of players started to fight and the fellow attending the gate at the Chicago bench got panicky. He thought he might get hit and abandoned the gate. The players fell into the Chicago bench area and rolled about.

"There was some intervention by the coaches, mostly verbal.



"It's a question in my mind whether the major penalties to the players actually were warranted."

Jimmy Peters of the Hawks and Bob Armstrong of the Bruins were given major penalties of five minutes. The game ended in a scoreless tie.

Switch Formation

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Clair, coach of Toronto Argonauts, announced the Argos will switch to a split-T formation for their Big Four football game with the Rough Riders in Ottawa Saturday.

Stanley Relinquishes Post As Captain Of New York Rangers

By ED SIMON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

The headlines made bitter reading today for Allan Stanley as the blonde defenceman relinquished his post as captain of New York Rangers for a new job with Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League. Five years ago the Rangers gave up $70,000 in cash and players to get Stanley from Providence Reds of the American Hockey League and billed him as the most sensational rookie blue-liner to break into the National Hockey League in years.

The next season he scored two goals and five assists as the underdog Rangers battled Detroit Red Wings to the wire in the Stanley Cup finals. But that was the closest the husky 27-year-old from Timmins ever came to living up to his advance billing.

HEARD BOOING

A severe shoulder separation two years ago hampered his effectiveness and Stanley began to hear booing from the galleries as he tried to play himself back into shape. The booing continued this year, although coach Frank Boucher said his defenceman's play was greatly improved.

When the ax fell Tuesday night, Stanley's replacement from Vancouver was Ivan Irwin.

Irwin is a rough, 26-year-old, Chicago-born bruiser whom the Rangers obtained from Montreal Canadiens last summer in a swap for veteran forwards Pete Babando and Eddie Slowinski.

PLAYER CHANGES

Chicago Black Hawks announced Tuesday night that they will bring up three rookies for a try-out with the professional team.

Making the announcement as they skated in for tonight's game against Toronto Maple Leafs, Hawks said the newcomers who will receive a chance to make the NHL team are Fred Sasakamoose, a full-blooded Indian centre, Ken Wharram, last year with Galt Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, and Wally Blaisdell.

Chicago will also recall Sid Finney from Calgary of the Western League it was announced. The Hawks, who have been unscored upon in the last 147 minutes and 55 seconds of play, have won two of their last three games. The other was a scoreless tie. In the first eight games of the season they could manage only one point, that coming on a 2-2 draw with Detroit.

Mercurys Whip Dutchmen In 5-3 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen had a four-game winning streak in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series checked Tuesday night.

Owen Sound Mercurys recovered from a 2-0 first-period deficit with four goals in the second frame that carried them to their 5-3 victory over the Dutchmen.

In Niagara Falls, the luckless Cataracts dropped a 4-1 decision to Chatham Maroons for their seventh defeat in eight games.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group, Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians dropped their seventh game in a row—a 7-2 trouncing by the Trappers in North Bay.

PENALTY THE BIG BREAK

A penalty to the Dutchmen gave Owen Sound the break they needed for their win. Deadlocked 2-2 when Kitchener's Howie Lee was sent off for interference, the Mercurys counted two fast goals for a 4-2 lead that carried them to the victory.

Tommy Burlington and Al Forslund sparked the Mercurys, each firing a pair of markers. Bill McComb notched the other. Johnny Muretich, Roy McKay and Lee clicked for last year's Allan Cup winners.

SHARE SCORING

In North Bay George Gosselin, Alf Guarda, Mike Bukacheski, Lorne McKay, Bo Elik, Fred Valenti and Chick Cecchini shared the scoring for the Trappers. Hank Backor and Hub Macey counted for the Indians.

Hamilton Tigers visit Chatham Maroons tonight while Stratford Indians are at Sarnia and Niagara Falls play the Mercurys in Owen Sound.

Hershey Bears Edge Syracuse By 5-3

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Lorne Ferguson scored three goals to spark Hershey Bears to a 5-3 victory over Syracuse Warriors in an American Hockey League game Tuesday night.

The victory moved the Bears into a tie with Pittsburgh for third place.

Obie O'Brien and Jerry Toppazzini scored the other Hershey goals.

★ RIDDLE ★

There are plenty of people who just wouldn't like
To have this job of mine.
There are so many unpleasant duties to do
But I like the job just fine.
My physique is in keeping with my kind of work
And artists draw me well.
As far as my age is concerned I am old
So I've stopped to rest for a spell.
I'm feared and respected in my kind of work.
Throwing my special spears.
But now a main governor's taken the helm
And I've been forgotten for years.
There are others like me who happen to be
In exactly the same boat as I.
And they aren't as well thought of nowadays.
Let the high school students say why.
My, aren't riddles simple?

Using Mails To Fight Water Pollution

LONDON (AP)—Britain is turning to the mails in the campaign against oil-polluted beaches, scourge of oceanside resorts.

The oil comes from tankers, which discharge it at sea. It ruins beaches when washed ashore. It also kills thousands of birds and fish.

The government plans to drop 10,000 plastic envelopes in the Atlantic in a rough semicircle within a 500-mile radius from the Bay of Biscay to a point half-way between the Hebrides and Iceland.

Each envelope will contain a stamped, addressed postcard. The finder will be asked to write on the card his name and address, the date and place it was found, and return it to the National Institute of Oceanography.

The institute will be able to estimate the speeds and directions of the currents from the date and position on each card. If a large percentage of the envelopes are recovered from any one area it follows that oil jettisoned in that area is likely to drift ashore.

The cards will be printed in five languages and two shillings and sixpence (35 cents)—or its foreign equivalent—will be paid to each finder.

Auto Output Up

OSHAWA (CP)—General Motors of Canada built 201,964 automobiles and trucks during the first 10 months of 1953, company president William A. Wecker said Tuesday. This compared with the 1952 output of 200,310. Oshawa's production lines are halted this week for plant inventory. Early next week the truck line will resume operations and start on 1954 models.

Fight Restrictions

OSHAWA (CP)—The annual publishing convention of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Canada Tuesday asked the church to fight "restrictive municipal by-laws that virtually constitute an infringement of religious liberty." Delegates said the church should oppose such legislation by legal action if necessary. It was decided to hold the next convention in Ottawa in April, 1955.

BIRTHDAY PARTY—Terry Feakes, one-year-old polio patient in a Winnipeg hospital, has spent almost half his life in an iron lung but has a good time at his first birthday party. Nurses decorated the lung with balloons and a tiny rabbit. A birthday cake with one candle also was brought along. Totally paralyzed, Terry had to be fed his birthday cake with a spoon. His mother couldn't attend since she also is ill in another hospital.

20,000 Canadian Workers Remain Out On Street

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 20,000 Canadian workers were still on strike today, unrelenting in their demands for higher pay and the union checkoff. Another 20,000 were preparing to walk out.

Already hit are rich gold and copper mines in northern Ontario and Quebec, lumbering firms in British Columbia and construction companies at Windsor, Ont.

A Canadian Press survey shows the disputes threaten to erupt in still more areas. About 15,000 employees of 12 pulp and paper mills in Ontario, Manitoba and Quebec have voted to strike if wage and contract demands are not met.

Some disputes have been settled in recent weeks with wage increases for workers. About 1,000 seamen in Canada's deep-sea merchant fleet received a $6-a-month increase. Some 160 employees of a Vancouver fruit wholesaler went back to work after a 3½-month strike with a wage increase of 13 per cent.

MOST SERIOUS

One of the most serious strikes involves 7,000 workers at gold and copper mines in northern Ontario and Quebec. There the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) is pressing for wage increases and the checkoff.

In British Columbia, about 6,300 workers are on strike and another 5,000 have voted to strike to enforce demands.

About 3,000 woodworkers have been out for five weeks, another 1,000 for two weeks. Some 2,000 lumber and rail workers, truckers and cafe employees are out.

About 4,000 pulp and paper workers have voted to strike in British Columbia if their 15-cent-an-hour wage demands are not met. One thousand power workers have decided to quit for a 10-per-cent increase over their present basic wage of $2.21 an hour.

Three hundred workers at a Vancouver meat-packing plant went on strike a week ago in protest over the company's demotion of a trucker.

In Alberta, there are no strikes but disputes are under conciliation for 150 chemical workers and 475 dairy employees.

NEGOTIATIONS OFF

In Manitoba, about 720 men are out at Dominion Bridge plants. Negotiations have bogged down over the provincial government's refusal to arbitrate until errors in a formal request signed by management and the United Steelworkers are corrected.

A strike of 750 carpenters which broke out in Windsor Oct. 27 made 4,000 more building trades workers idle when they refused to cross carpenters' picket lines.

AFL carpenters want $2.18 an hour instead of the present $2.00. Eighty-five construction jobs in the Windsor district are closed.

At Montreal, about 575 paper mill workers have been out since late September for more money and shorter hours.

The gold miners' strike threatens to spread to Val d'Or, Que., where 600 miners have voted to strike.

Committed For Trial

SARNIA (CP)—Wilfred D. Gray, 24, of Port Huron, Tuesday was committed to higher court for trial on a charge of manslaughter. The charge arose from the death Oct. 16 of 13-year-old Stephen Frank Kukura. The youth was killed when struck by a car while cycling on a street.

INVESTIGATION—The Marine Corps plans an "official" investigation into the case of Col. Frank H. Schwable (above) who "confessed" under Communist torture to conducting "germ warfare" in Korea. The inquiry may go far toward determining the overall military attitude toward men who broke under Red brutality.

Plan Safeguards In Japanese Trade Pact

OTTAWA (CP)—Negotiations toward development of a new Japanese-Canadian trade pact are continuing, despite mounting protests from Canadian industries, federal officials said Tuesday.

However, several "safeguards" are to be developed along with the tariff-lowering pact, which, officials said, will prevent a recurrence of the 1930s when Japan poured goods into Canada at rock-bottom prices, forcing some Canadian manufacturers out of business.

One of these safeguards likely will be an exchange of notes between the two countries under which Japan will agree to discontinue sales in Canada of any goods which cause "acute distress" to Canadian manufacturers.

NOTES EXCHANGED

Indications are that the notes will be exchanged at the time the agreement is signed, probably early in 1954. Under the pact, Canada will cut tariffs on Japanese goods, giving Japan the same kind of tariff treatment as Canada gives to member countries of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Another proposal now under discussion is the tightening up of Canada's dumping laws to prevent large-scale disposal of surplus goods in Canada at fire-sale prices.

Sentenced For Theft

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Ronald Laporte, arrested last week a few minutes after he broke into a jewelry store at nearby Lasalle, Tuesday was sentenced to two years less one day after pleading guilty to a charge of breaking, entering and theft. He also was sentenced to three months concurrent after being found guilty of theft of an auto radio.

LIKES RAW WHALE MEAT—Five-year-old Augusta Omarlik, a Labrador Eskimo in a Montreal hospital, finally gets what she wants most—raw whale meat. A restaurant specializing in sea food sent along the "delicacy" when it was announced the youngster, suffering from a digestive tract ailment, ar[illegible]rived as the little Eskimo was enjoying a Hallowe'en party.

Two Pickets Under Arrest

WELLAND (CP)—Two pickets were arrested Tuesday as violence erupted on the picket lines at the General Tire and Rubbr Company plant.

Howard E. Holt, 32, and Gerald Sullivan, 28, were charged with wilful damage to property after stones and pieces of concrete were thrown at two loaded trucks leaving the plant gate. Windshields and cab windows were smashed but the drivers escaped injury.

Holt and Sullivan were remanded until Friday.

The plant has been on strike since Friday when some 500 employees, members of the United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America (CIO-CCL) walked off their jobs because 18 women had been suspended. The union said the women were given a week's suspension because thy attended a union meeting during working hours.

Belleville Man Heads Radio Broadcasters

Also elected at closing sessions of the association's two-day convention was W. T. Cruickshank of CKNX Wingham as a vice-president.

Mayoralty Candidate

STRATFORD (CP) — Alderman C. H. Meier, president of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Stratford Indians, said Tuesday he will be a candidate for mayor in the December municipal elections. He will oppose Mayor Lawrence Feick, elected by acclamation last year.

Maritime Provinces Concerned About Tariff Competition

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tariffs are arousing concern among important phases of Maritime provinces industry.

Candy and textile manufacturers fear competition of imports. Fishermen fear possible increased United States tariffs on Canadian fillets.

Canada's candy-making industry is "just getting by," said R. W. Ganong, general manager of Ganong Bros., Ltd. The tax on imported candy is less than that on the domestic product.

Candy imports had climbed to 22,000,000 pounds a year, mostly from Britain and some from the United States and The Netherlands.

The Ganong plant at St. Stephen, N.B., employs 450 men and women throughout the year and 100 more in the fall. The Maritimes have another big candy producer—Moirs at Halifax.

BELOW CAPACITY

Textile Sales, Ltd., operates the Milltown plant, employing 750 men and women at top production. The Marysville mill is owned by Canadian Cottons, Ltd.

Higher tariffs on fresh and frozen fillets are being sought by the Massachusetts Fisheries Association. About 90 per cent of the fillets produced in the Yarmouth area of Nova Scotia are exported to the U.S.

Robert Boutilier, president of the Yarmouth Board of Trade, said approval of the application would be a "severe blow" to his province and Canada's economy as a whole.

Imports also have been a factor in the coal-mining ailments of Nova Scotia, where shrinking markets and rising costs have led to mine closings and layoffs in five colliery towns, affecting nearly 2,000 miners. Ontario consumers can buy U.S. coal cheaper than Nova Scotia's.

Canadian Soldiers Proud Of Street Dress in Germany

FRIENDLY WITH GERMANS—Cordiality between soldiers of the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade and the people of Hannover, Germany, seems genuine and mutual, observers say. The band of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, with the brigade, made friends with children at a German orphanage near Hohne. Band Bdr. E. L. Sherrard (left), of Ottawa, and WO2 A. North, of Winnipeg, hold two of the youngsters. —(CP from National Defence).

When Bill Boss visited the 27th Canadian Brigade in Germany last winter he found that the actions of a few soldiers had given the whole formation a bad name. In this report on his second visit, one of a series of three stories, he tells of a big improvement in Canadian deportment. Tomorrow: Canadians ready to move to new West German quarters.

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HANNOVER, Germany (CP)—Hannover says it is sorry to lose its Canadian Army visitors even their deportment during the last two years often was more exuberant than correct.

The barracks the Canadians vacate this month will be turned over to the German border police, which lends a certain point to cabaret quips that the Canadians are "pulling back to the Rhine and leaving the Germans to hold the front line."

The 27th Canadian Brigade, part of the NATO forces in Western Europe, is moving from Hannover to the Soest area. And while it developed slowly, the cordiality between soldiers of the brigade and the people of Hannover seems genuine and mutual.

REGULATIONS EASED

German municipal authorities say relaxation some months ago of restrictive Canadian regulations eased tension they had noted earlier among the soldiers and contributed to a better association.

Brigade officers say the Germans may be right and agree the atmosphere has improved vastly.

Last May Brig. John Pangman of Toronto, the Canadian commander, allowed soldiers in good standing to wear civilian clothes off duty.

He also permitted overnight passes, and said soldiers could break down one of the year's three 14-day leaves into seven long week-ends if they wished.

Last February and March when I last visited the brigade, the Canadian uniform was disgraced nightly on downtown streets and in night spots by a minority of toughs who gave the force such a bad name that decent soldiers could not associate with good German families.

This time I met only one soldier in uniform whose conduct in a public place was objectionable.

Soldiers now take pride in their dress and many wear their uniforms in bars and cabarets. Most, however, wear civilian clothes and pass unrecognized unless they come up for a chat.

PLEASED AT PROGRESS

Says Oberburgermeister Wilhelm Weber:

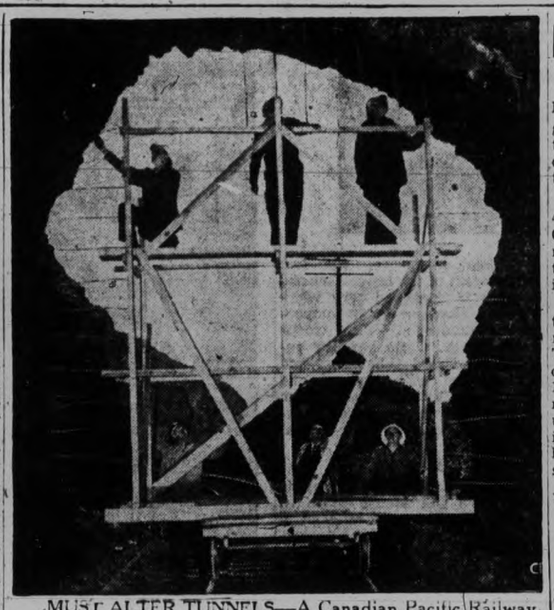
"Many citizens have told me recently about making friends with Canadian soldiers. I think it was a good idea to let them wear civilian clothes. It gave them more opportunity to meet us. Germans have no special sympathy these days for uniforms, even those of the Allies.

"Maybe, too, your men now are used to drinking German beer."

Co-operation between the Canadian Provost Corps and civilian police always has been good. Weber said Canadian Army drivers have earned special appreciation from Hannover police by observing traffic regulations.

"We've not been so lucky with the Americans. American soldiers behind the wheel behave like kings. They make it rough for the rest of us."

Police president John Westphal said the number of incidents between Germans and Canadians has dropped sharply.



"Alcohol and girls are the principal causes of the occasional disturbances," he said. "We can't very well banish either."

Even the usually hostile Norddeutsche Zeitung, a Hannover newspaper, seems to have caught the new spirit.

After reporting that a group of Canadians allegedly beat some German civilians and police with their web belts in mid-September, the newspaper added:

"The reason why such incidents are so very deplorable is that the relationship between the people of Hannover and the Canadians had greatly improved during the last few months, and troublesome incidents, which used to be so frequent some time ago, had abated considerably."

Brigade headquarters officers assert that military crime figures also reflect improvement.

MUST ALTER TUNNELS—A Canadian Pacific Railway crew works on a curving tunnel west of Kamloops, B.C., altering it to accommodate new trains the railway will start using next year on its transcontinental service. There are 44 tunnels through the mountains in British Columbia that will need enlarging to handle the "scenic dome" cars.

B. C. Tunnels Groomed For New Flyers

VANCOUVER (CP)—Tunnels in British Columbia are being groomed in preparation for the introduction of streamlined, "view dome" trains by the CPR in its transcontinental service next year.

Work has started on the first of 44 tunnels in the CPR's British Columbia district for the accommodation of the stainless steel trains which will embody the latest in coach construction.

Minor stoping, or rock excavation, will be necessary in some regional mountain underpasses. The five-mile Connaught tunnel under Mount Macdonald, opened in 1916, and the famous spiral tunnels east of Field, B.C., are also undergoing inspection, but no modifications are anticipated for the handling of the new "blister" observation and lounge cars.

MAXIMUM ROOM

Explaining the work, T. W. Creighton, CPR district engineer here, said:

"It isn't that we cannot handle these trains with present tunnel clearances, but the cars will be so equipped with modern springs for the last word in riding comfort, that we are following through to provide maximum room for expected spring action, particularly on curves."

First excavation work was begun in a 200-foot tunnel near Cherry Creek, 14 miles west of Kamloops, B.C.

A template, or contour pattern of required tunnel dimensions, was first passed through, and rock projections which exceeded newly-specified heights and widths are being blasted and chipped away.

The 44 tunnels involved include a 4,579-foot line under downtown Vancouver from station to storage yards; the 1,459-foot "long tun" near Spuzzum, and the 101-foot "Cariboo Joe" near Ades, both in the cascades; and the 584-foot "Black canyon" near Basque in Thompson subdivision.

Native Workers

CAPETOWN (CP)—The South African government has endorsed the principle of employing native drivers and conductors in buses serving native areas. The minister for native affairs, Dr. W. W. M. Eiselen, said "natives should gradually be encouraged and trained to build up self-respecting and progressive communities."

Roseneath WA Sponsors Travelogue

ROSENEATH (ENS)—An illustrated travelogue of England and Scotland, concluding with slides of Roseneath Fair, 1953, was sponsored by St. James' Anglican WA.

The travelogue was presented by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. C. Trustram, Toronto, who own a summer home near Roseneath and are active members of St. James' Anglican Church. This summer they spent their holidays in the British Isles, and their former homes in England. With color photography they were able to show their Roseneath friends the many interesting and historical places they visited.

The Rev. A. J. Patstone was chairman. Extra numbers on the program were: a vocal solo by Mrs. Douglas Coyle with Miss Linda Arthur piano accompanist; Mrs. Jack Webb gave a humorous reading; a piano solo by Miss Doreen Nichol. Mrs. James L. Timlin was pianist for community singing.

Mrs. Ray McCracken, president of the WA, voiced her appreciation, on behalf of the society, to Mr. and Mrs. Trustram.

THE WAR MEMOIRS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

PARIS—COUNTER-STROKE IN THE ARDENNES

As our armies moved eastwards and southwards it became increasingly urgent to set up a unified and broadly representative Administration in France. We were anxious not to impose a ready-made Committee from abroad, and we tried first to guage the feelings of the people themselves as the liberation progressed.

We watched the rallying of the Maquis and of public opinion to General de Gaulle's National Committee. Hitherto, by force of circumstances, it could not be a body representative of France as a whole, but by the end of September (1944) progress had been made.

The welcome which the Maquis gave to the Committee seemed to me to be a decisive point in favour of its more formal recognition. I therefore telegraphed to the President.

The President replied:

President Roosevelt to Prime Minister:

20 Oct. 44

I think until the French set up a real zone of interior that we should make no move towards recognising them as a Provisional Government. The enlargement of the Consultative Assembly, which has already been extended and made more representative, is almost as important, and I should be inclined to hang recognition on the effective completion of both these acts. I would not be satisfied with de Gaulle merely saying that he was going to do it. . . .

Our discussions proceeded on these lines. The French Assembly was strengthened and enlarged by members of the Resistance organisations and the old Parliamentary group.

On October 20 it was announced that, with the agreement of the Allied High Command, an interior zone comprising the larger part of France, including Paris, had been set up. The Committee of National Liberation was thus finally transformed into a Provisional Government of France.

I was now prepared to recommend, in concert with our Allies, the official acceptance of this body as the Government of Liberated France. After last-minute hesitations by the State Department the public announcement was made during my visit to Moscow, where I discussed the final stages of formal recognition with the Russians.

It was thought fitting that my first visit to Paris should be on Armistice Day, and this was publicly announced. There were many reports that collaborators would make attempts on my life and extreme precautions were taken. On the afternoon of November 10 I landed at Orly airfield, where de Gaulle received me with a guard of honour, and we drove together through the outskirts of Paris and into the city itself until we reached the Quai d'Orsay, where my wife and Mary and I were entertained in state. The building had long been occupied by the Germans, and I was assured I should sleep in the same bed and use the same bathroom as had Goering. Everything was mounted and serviced magnificently, and inside the palace it was difficiult to believe that my last meeting there, described in a previous volume, with Reynaud's Government and General Gamelin in May 1940 was anything but a bad dream. At eleven o'clock in the morning of November 11 de Gaulle conducted me in an open car across the Seine and through the Place de la Concorde, with a splendid escort of Gardes Municipales in full uniform with all their breastplates. They were several hundred strong, and provided a brilliant spectacle, on which the sun shone brightly. The whole of the famous avenue of the Champs Elysees was crowded with Parisians and lined with troops. Every window was filled with spectators and decorated with flags. We proceeded through wildly cheering multitudes to the Arc de Triomphe, where we both laid wreaths upon the tomb of the Unknown Warrior. After this ceremony was over the General and I walked together, followed by a concourse of the leading figures of French public life, for half a mile down the highway I knew so well. We then took our places on a dais, and there was a splendid march past of French and British troops. Our Guards detachment was magnificent. When this was over I laid a wreath beneath the statue of Clemenceau, who was much in my thoughts on this moving occasion.

De Gaulle entertained me at a large luncheon at the Ministry of War, and made a most flattering speech about my war services. But many problems had still to be settled.

✧ ✧ ✧

On my return to London I sent the President a lengthy telegram. A copy was also passed to Stalin.

Prime Minister to President Roosevelt:

15 Nov. 44

. . . I sympathise with the French wish to take over more of the line, to have the best share they can in the fighting or what is left of it—and there may be plenty—and not to have to go into Germany as a so-called conqueror who has not fought. I remarked that this was a sentimental point which ought nevertheless to receive consideration. The important thing for France was to have an Army prepared for the task which it would actually have to discharge, namely, their obligation first to maintain a peaceful and orderly country behind the front of our armies, and secondly to assist in the holding down of parts of Germany later on.

On this second point the French pressed very strongly to have a share in the occupation of Germany, not merely as subparticipation under British or American command, but as a French command. I expressed my sympathy with this, knowing well that there will be a time not many years distant when the American armies will go home and when the British will have great difficulty in maintaining large forces overseas, so contrary to our mode of life and disproportionate to our resources. . . .

✧ ✧ ✧

On November 20 Stalin sent a friendly reply to my telegram of November 15.

Marshal Stalin to Prime Minister:

20 Nov. 44

Thank you for your information about your conversations with de Gaulle. I have acquainted myself with your communication with interest. . . .

General de Gaulle expressed recently his wish to come to Moscow to establish contact with the leaders of the Soviet Government. We replied agreeing to this. The French are expected to arrive in Moscow towards the end of this month. . . .

This raised the whole issue of the future organisation of Europe. There had been many rumours in the Press and elsewhere about forming a Western bloc when the war was over.

General de Gaulle had meanwhile arrived in Moscow and conversations with the Russians had begun. Stalin lost no time in informing me of the general points.

Marshal Stalin to Prime Minister:

3 Dec. 44

The meeting with General de Gaulle has provided an opportunity for a friendly exchange of views on questions of Franco-Soviet relations. During the conversations General de Gaulle persisted, as I had expected, with two main questions: the frontier of France on the Rhine and the conclusion of a Franco-Soviet Pact of Mutual Assistance of the type of the Anglo-Soviet Treaty. . . .

In sending you this information I shall be grateful for a reply from you and for your comments on these questions.

I have conveyed the same message to the President.

I send you my best wishes.

Prime Minister to Marshal Stalin:

5 Dec. 44

Your telegram about de Gaulle's visit and the two questions he will raise. We have no objection whatever to a Frnco-Soviet Pact of Mutual Assistance similar to the Anglo-Soviet Pact. On the contrary, His Majesty's Government consider it desirable and an additional link between us all. Indeed, it also occurs to us that it might be best of all if we were to conclude a tripartite treaty between the three of us which would embody our existing Anglo-Soviet Treaty, with any improvements. In this way the obligations of each one of us would be identical and linked together. Please let me know if this idea appeals to you, as I hope it may. We should both of course tell the United States.

2. The question of changing the eastern frontier of France to the left bank of the Rhine, or alternatively of forming a Rhenish-Westphalian province under international control, together with other alternatives, ought to await settlement at the peace table. There is however no reason why when three heads of Governments meet we should not come much closer to conclusions about all this than we have done so far. . . . Mr. Roosevelt also kept in close touch with me.

President Roosevelt to Prime Minister:

6 Dec. 44

. . . I fully appreciate the advantages which you see in a possible tripartite Anglo-Franco-Soviet Pact. I am somewhat dubious, however, as to the effect of such an arrangement on the question of an international Security Organisation, to which, as you know, I attach the very highest importance. I fear that a tripartite pact might be interpreted by public opinion here as a competitor to a future World Organisation, whereas a bilateral arrangement between France and the Soviet Union similar to the Soviet-British Pact would be more understandable. I realise however that this is a subject which is of primary concern to the three countries involved.

The French were determined for domestic reasons to come away from Moscow with a strictly Franco-Soviet pact. This was signed on December 10.

✧ ✧ ✧

There had meanwhile been much preparation on the Western Front for the advance on the Rhine. The November rains were the worst for many years, flooding the rivers and streams, and making quagmires through which the infantry had to struggle.

I sent my comments to Smuts.

Prime Minister to Field-Marshal Smuts:

3 Dec. 44

. . . In spite of Metz and Strasbourg and other successes, Eisenhower has of course sustained a strategic reverse on the Western Front. Before this offensive was launched we placed on record our view that it was a mistake to attack against the whole front and that a far greater mass should have been gathered at the point of desired penetration. Montgomery's comments and predictions beforehand have in every way been borne out. I imagine some readjustments will be made giving back to Montgomery some of the scope taken from him after the victory he gained in Normandy. You must remember however that our Armies are only about one-half the size of the American and will soon be little more than one-third. All is friendly and loyal in the military sphere in spite of the disappointment sustained. We must now regroup and reinforce the Armies for a spring offensive. . . .

Three days later I addressed myself to the President. Though sympathetic, Mr. Roosevelt did not appear to share my anxieties.

President Roosevelt to Prime Minister:

10 Dec. 44

. . . Perhaps I am not close enough to the picture to feel as disappointed about the war situation as you are, and perhaps also because six months ago I was not as optimistic as you were on the time element.

On the European front I always felt that the occupation of Germany up to the left bank of the Rhine would be a very stiff job. Because in the old days I bicycled over most of the Rhine terrain, I have never been as optimistic as to the ease of getting across the Rhine with our joint armies as many of the commanding officers have been. . . .

A heavy blow now impended. Within six days a crisis burst upon us. The Allied decision to strike hard from Aachen in the north as well as through Alsace in the south had left his centre very weak. In the Ardennes sector a single corps, the VIIIth American, of four divisions, held a front of seventy-five miles. The risk was foreseen and deliberately accepted, but the consequences were grave and might have been graver. By a remarkable feat the enemy gathered about seventy divisions on their Western Front, of which fifteen were armoured. Many were under strength and needed rest and re-equipment, but one formation, the Sixth Panzer Army, was known to be strong and in good fettle. This potential spearhead had been carefully watched while it lay in reserve east of Aachen. When the fighting on that front died down in early December it vanished for a while from the ken of our Intelligence, and bad flying weather hindered our efforts to trace it. Eisenhower suspected that something was afoot, though its scope and violence came as a surprise.

The Germans had indeed a major plan. Rundstedt assembled two Panzer armies, the Fifth and Sixth, and the Seventh Army, a total of ten Panzer and fourteen infantry divisions. This great force, led by its armour, was intended to break through our weak centre in the Ardennes to the river Meuse, swing north and north-west, cut the Allied line in two, seize the port of Antwerp, and sever the life-line of our northern armies. This bold bid was planned by Hitler, who would brook no changes in it on the part of his doubting generals. In its support the remnants of the German Air Force were assembled for a final effort, while paratroops, saboteurs, and agents in Allied uniforms were all given parts to play.

The attack began on December 16 under a heavy artillery barrage. At its northern flank the Sixth Panzer Army ran into the right of the First U. S. Army in the act of advancing towards the Roer dams. After a swaying battle the enemy were held. Farther south the Germans broke through on a narrow front, but the determined defence of St. Vith, where the the U.S. Armoured Division specially distinguished itself, hindered them for several critical days. The Sixth Panzer Army launched a new spearhead to strike west and then northwards at the Meuse above Liege. The Fifth Panzer Army meanwhile drove through the centre of the VIIIth U.S. Corps, by-passed St. Vith and Bastogne, and penetrated deeply to Marche and towards the Meuse at Dinant.

Although the time and weight of the attack surprised the Allied High Command its importance and purpose were quickly recognized. They resolved to strengthen the "shoulders" of the break-through, hold the Meuse crossings both east and south of Namur, and mass mobile troops to crush the salient from north and south. Eisenhower acted speedily. He stopped all Allied attacks in progress and brought up four American divisions from reserve, and six more from the south. Two airborne divisions, one of them the 6th British, came from England. North of the salient the British XXXth Corps, of four divisions, which had just come out of the line on the river Roer, was concentrated between Liege and Louvain behind the American First and Ninth Armies. These latter threw in all their reserves to extend a defensive flank westwards from Malmedy.

By severing the front of General Bradley's Twelfth Army Group the Germans had made it impossible for him to exercise effective command from his headquarters in Luxembourg over his two armies north of the bulge. General Eisenhower therefore very wisely placed Montgomery in temporary command of all Allied troops in the north, while Bradley retained the Third U.S. Army and was charged with holding and counter-attacking the enemy from the south. Corresponding arrangements were made for the tactical air forces.

Three of our reinforcing divisions lined the Meuse south of Namur. Bradley concentrated a corps at Arlon and sent the American 101st Airborne Division to secure the important road junctions at Bastogne. The German armour swung north of Bastogne and sought to break their way northwestwards, leaving their infantry to capture the town. The 101st, with some armoured units, were isolated and for a week beat off all attacks.

The wheel of the Fifth and Sixth Panzer Armies produced bitter fighting around Marche which lasted till December 26. By then the Germans were exhausted, although at one time they were only four miles from the Meuse and had penetrated over sixty miles. Bad weather and low ground fogs had kept our air forces out of the first week of the battle; but on December 23 flying conditions got better and they intervened with tremendous effect. Heavy bombers attacked railways and centres of movement behind the enemy lines, and tactical air forces played havoc in his forward areas, starving him of reinforcements, fuel, food, and ammunition. Strategic raids on German refineries helped to deny him petrol and slacken the advance.

Balked of their foremost objective, the Meuse, the Panzers turned savagely on Bastogne. The American 101st Division had been reinforced on December 26 by part of the 5th U.S. Armoured Division, and though vastly outnumbered held the town grimly for another week. Before the end of December the German High Command must have realised, however unwillingly, that the battle was lost, for Patton's counter-offensive from Arlon, which started on the 22nd, was steadily if slowly progressing over the snow-choked countryside towards Houffalize. The enemy made one last bid, this time in the air. On January 1 they made a violent low-level surprise attack on all our forward airfields. Our losses were heavy, though promptly replaced, but the Luftwaffe lost more than they could afford in their final massed attack of the war.

On January 3 Montgomery also launched his northern counter-offensive against Houffalize to join Patton's attack from the south. I visited the front at this time and telegraphed to the President:

PRIME MINISTER TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

6 Jan. 45

C.I.G.S. and I have passed the last two days with Eisenhower and Montgomery, and they both feel the battle very heavy, but are confident of success. I hope that you understand that, in case any troubles should arise in the Press, His Majesty's Government have complete confidence in General Eisenhower and feel acutely any attacks made on him.

2. He and Montgomery are very closely knit, and also Bradley and Patton, and it would be disaster which broke up this combination, which has in 1944 yielded us results beyond the dreams of military avarice. Montgomery said to me to-day that the breakthrough would have been most serious to the whole front but for the solidarity of the Anglo-American Army.

✧ ✧ ✧

At this time Eisenhower and his staff were of course acutely anxious to know whether the Russians could do anything from their side to take off some of the pressure against us in the West. All efforts through liaison officers in Moscow had failed to obtain any reply from their opposite numbers. As soon as I heard of this I said to Eisenhower, "You may find many delays on the staff level, but I expect Stalin would tell me if I asked him. Shall I try?" He asked me to do so, and I therefore sent the following message:

PRIME MINISTER TO MARSHAL STALIN

6 Jan. 45

The battle in the west is very heavy and at any time large decisions may be called for from the Supreme Command. You know yourself from your own experience how very anxious the position is when a very broad front has to be defended after the temporary loss of the initiative. It is Eisenhower's great desire and need to know in outline what you plan to do, as this obviously affects all his and our major decisions.

I shall be grateful if you can tell me whether we can count on a major Russian offensive on the Vistula front, or elsewhere during January, with any other points you may care to mention.

When one considers how serious was the decision asked for and how many people involved, it is remarkable that the answer should have been sent to me the very next day.

MARSHAL STALIN TO PRIME MINISTER

7 Jan. 45

I received your message of January 6, 1945, on the evening of January 7.

It is most important that we should be able to take advantage of our supremacy over the Germans in artillery and in the air. This demands clear flying weather and an absence of low mists, which hinder aimed artillery fire. We are preparing an offensive, but the weather is at present unfavorable. Nevertheless, taking into account the position of our Allies on the Western Front, G.H.Q. of the Supreme Command has decided to accelerate the completion of our preparation, and, regardless of the weather to commence large-scale offensive operations against the Germans along the whole Central Front not later than the second half of January. You may rest assured that we shall do everything possible to render assistance to the glorious forces of our Allies.

PRIME MINISTER TO MARSHAL STALIN

9 Jan. 45

I am most grateful to you for your thrilling message. I have sent it over to General Eisenhower for his eyes only. May all good fortune rest upon your noble venture.

I quote this interchange as a good example of the speed at which business could be done at the summit of the Alliance, and also because it was a fine deed of the Russians and their chief to hasten their vast offensive, no doubt at a heavy cost in life.

From the north two American corps, with XXXth British on their western flank, pressed down upon the enemy. On January 8 they crossed the Laroche-Vielsalm road, an important escape route for the Germans. Struggling through snowstorms, the two wings of the Allied attack slowly drew closer, until they met at Houffalize on January 16. The Germans were forced steadily eastwards and harassed continually from the air, until by the end of the month, they were back behind their frontier, with nothing to show for their supreme effort except ruinous losses of material and casualties amounting to a hundred and twenty thousand men.

This was the enemy's final offensive of the war. At the time it caused us no little anxiety. Our own advance had to be postponed, but we benefited in the end. The Germans could not replace their losses, and our subsequent battles on the Rhine, though severe, were undoubtedly eased. The German High Command, and even Hitler, must have been disillusioned. Taken by surprise, Eisenhower and his commanders acted swiftly but they will agree that the major credit lies elsewhere. In Montgomery's words, "The Battle of the Ardennes was won primarily by the staunch fighting qualities of the American soldier."

QUEEN MOTHER ELIZABETH (between small tables at centre), is acclaimed by robed civic dignitaries of London during a ceremony in the Guildhall bestowing on her the Freedom of the City for service "to country and Empire." The declaration read at the traditional and colorful ceremony described the Queen Mother as a "woman of good name and fame" and she promised to be "good and true" to her daughter, Queen Elizabeth, and "obedient" to the Lord Mayor of London. Princess Margaret accompanied her mother to the Guildhall.

District Schools, Groups Hold Hallowe'en Parties

HALL'S GLEN (ENS) — Hall's Glen Women's Institute sponsored a Hallowe'en party Saturday at the Orange Hall. A large number attended in costume. Prizes were given to Mrs. Goldie Drain, Allan Oliver, Marina Puffer, Daid Watson, Nancy and Molly Carveth and Carolyn Hamilton. Games and stunts and dancing were enjoyed during the evening. WARKWORTH (ENS) — A Hallowe'en dance was held in the town hall Friday evening under the auspices of the Warkworth High School.

The attendance was large and a great number were in costume which added to the merriment of the evening. The hall was decorated with Hallowe'en festoons, witches, ghosts, black cats. Music for dancing was supplied by Russell's orchestra. Judges: Jack Russell, Bruce Elmhirst, Clayton Cole and Arlene Greenly decided on the following winners:

MILLBROOK (ENS) — Annual Hallowe'en party for the children of the district, sponsored by the Lions Club, on Saturday night, in the Armouries, was well attended. There were dart games, bowling, wheel-spining games with apples, oranges and bags of candy for prizes. After the grand parade, with prizes for the best costumes, the children were shown movies, and each child was given a bottle of pop.

Perhaps the most original costume of the evening was the one worn by Peter Stuart, representing "Tea for Two." On his shoulders he wore a lace-covered square with settings for two. Flowers on his head, through the centre of the square, made the table centre bouquet. The three Butler children, Michael, Eric and Alison, were dressed as Peter Pan, Captain Hook and Tinker Bell. Bernard Ingham was in the costume of a gentleman of the 16th century with plumed hat, lace ruffles, silver buckles, sword and cape. For the under six group, Anne Penney made an attractive little Negress, Joan Agnew a black cat, Judy Yarr and Paul Gyatt and Patsy Woodward and Ricky Guthrie were miniature pairs of brides and grooms. Akela first collected coins which they had been saving for the UN Children's Fund, as a Hallowe'en good deed. He showed some pictures and explained how this money would help send food, milk and medical supplies to needy children in other parts of the world.

Nobel Peace Prize Winner Man of Many Great Talents

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Albert Schweitzer, winner of the Nobel peace prize for 1952, is a Christian philosopher whose personal life is the living embodiment of his ethical principles.

Nearing 79, when most men seek comfort, he still is laboring in his jungle hospital near the town of Lambarene, one degree south of the equator in French Equatorial Africa.

When Schweitzer sailed for that steaming jungle with his wife 40 years ago, he left in Europe four distinct careers, any one of which would have crowded the lifetime of a less versatile and prolific mind.

Musicians knew him as perhaps the greatest living organist and the author of works which revolutionized interpretation of Bach's music.

ERUDITE WRITER

Philosophers knew him as an authority on Kant, as a writer of immense erudition who cast a penetrating eye on contemporary society.

Theologians knew him as an able preacher and a profound religious thinker whose studies of the lives of Jesus and St. Paul were a new approach in Christian scholarship.

Organ-builders knew him as a world authority on that almost occult subject where art and science emerge.

In beginning the study of medicine at 30 he renounced some of the profits and comforts he might have gained from all these careers, but he renounced none of the interests themselves. He still plays the organ when he has the chance. His interest in theology is as keen as ever and in many respects is inseparable from the body of his philosophical thought. He still will travel many miles to discuss mechanics with an organ-builder. And history doubtless will judge him as a great, perhaps the greatest, Christian philospher of the century.

BUILT HOSPITAL

For when Schweitzer took up the curing of sick natives along the treacherous Ogowe river, he did not lay down the pen. The man who turned back the jungle and built a hospital with his hands by day was deeply preoccupied by night with writing.

He has written books in Lambarene, though not as many as he would like. His sense of responsibility to others is too great to give him time. He still ministers to the sick and has recently expanded his hospital to a leprosarium caring for 350 lepers. But he tries to find an hour or two each day to work on the third volume of his Philosophy of Civilization, now 400,000 words in his fine, round hand.

Friends agree that the word describing Schweitzer is big—big of heart and mind and stature. He is not tall, but his thick, strong body is durable as rock. His grey hair and drooping moustache are untamed, as if he had humorously abandoned them to the elements. Deep lines seem to have carved his face into a perpetual smile. But the most noticeable characteristic is his hands, big and curved, with thick, strong fingers which love to dig the earth.

The hands, so powerful and yet so sensitive, are but one of the seeming incongruities of Albert Schweitzer's life. Born in Alsace and speaking French and German, he does not speak English. Yet it is in the English-speaking world that Schweitzer first became a figure of wide public interest.

REVERES LIFE

Like most of today's greatest thinkers he is concerned by what he calls the "suicide of civilization," by the controls of modern civilization passing from the individual mind into irresponsible forces of mass thinking. He believes that modern civilization's hope lies in a renascence of what occurred in the 18th century when religion and rationalism combined to produce the great era of Goethe and Burke and Jefferson.

He says that man must stop blaming all his troubles on his environment and learn to exercise his personal will. He makes ethics the basis of civilization. Modern man's failure to ask of every human endeavor, "is it right or wrong?" has led, he believes, to modern society's loss of direction. In seeking only progress society actually has lost it.

So, after many years, he concluded that the basic principle of ethics is "reverence for life." This is the way he applies it to mankind today:

HOW IT APPLIES

"To everyone, in whatever state of life, he finds himself, the ethics of reverence for life do this: They force him without cessation to be concerned at heart with all the human destinies which are going through their life course around him, and to give himself, as man, to the man who needs a fellow man. . . .

"They demand from all that they devote a portion of this life to their fellows, and what way and to what extent this is prescribed for him, the individual must gather from the thoughts which arise in him and from the destinies among which his life moves."

U.S. VISIT

When Schweitzer came to the United States in 1949 to address the Goethe Festival at Aspen, Colo., he was engulfed by demands on his time. In Chicago's union station, when the temperature soared into the 90s, Schweitzer noticed a woman struggling with a bag. Dropping his own luggage, he carried the woman's bag onto a train.

One evening in Aspen, as he sat down to dinner with important associates, a man representing himself as a reporter pulled up a chair to the table uninvited and demanded an interview. Schweitzer was courteous while his dinner grew cold. Five times the man asked him to explain the meaning of "reverence for life." Five times Schweitzer explained it. The man asked the sixth time. His eyes twinkling, Schweitzer said:

"Reverence for life means reverence for all life. Now I am a life. Perhaps you could put it into practice now."

Director Ends 30-Year Studio Service

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Next March 1 director Robert Leonard comes to the end of a 30-year association with one studio. That's something of a record in this business.

I had a chat with Pop, as he is affectionately called. I even managed to get him to name the actresses with the most sex appeal of all those he has directed. They are Greta Garbo, Joan Crawford, Lana Turner, Elizabeth Taylor and Greer Garson.

He went on to explain: "I directed Garbo's first test when she came here from Sweden and could not even speak the language. I also directed her in 'The Rise and Fall of Susan Lennox' with Clark Gable. She had an appeal that was unmistakable. She was a great gal with the crew, too; that shyness was strictly for publicity then.

TWO "BIT PLAYERS"

"Joan Crawford certainly had sex appeal and still has it. I directed her in 'Dancing Lady,' which had a couple of bit players named Fred Astaire and Nelson Eddy.

"Lana, whom I directed in 'Ziegfield Girl,' has plenty of sex on the screen and so does Elizabeth Taylor. Liz had it even as a young girl when she did a picture called 'Cynthia' with me.

"Some may be surprised that I put Greer Garson on the list, but I think she definitely exudes sex. But then sex appeal like movies, is largely a matter of opinion. What appeals to one man may not appeal to another. I even met a service man the other day who said he didn't go for Marilyn Monroe!"

The March 1 date marks the maturity of the MGM pension plan, and he obviously qualifies for its benefits.

"I could stay on longer," said Pop, "but I think it would be fun to make my own pictures for a change and perhaps even get into TV."

To Table Report On Anti-Freeze

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott said Tuesday that a report on the price spread of anti-freeze will be tabled in the Commons soon after the opening of Parliament Nov. 12.

The inquiry into the spread between production and selling prices was made last spring by the tariff board at Mr. Abbott's request.

However, since that time the price of permanent-type anti-freeze has dropped.

Some officials here feel, however, that the drop may not have been caused so much by a reduction in the price spread as a decline in the price of raw materials.

Seek 2 Men As $40,000 Gem Thieves

Police Find Method Used To Open Auto Door, Trunk

The search for two men who engineered a $40,000 jewelry theft Monday night has shifted from Peterborough. Continuing investigations into the theft, Inspector William Clarke and Sergeant Gordon Puffer left the city for an undisclosed destination this morning.

Meanwhile. Police here think they know how the alarm-equipped car was stolen without detection from its downtown parking spot, less than a hundred yards from where its owner. Clifford Phillips of Toronto, was eating dinner.

According to Detective Douglas Farthing, a witness noticed a man kneeling in front of the vehicle while another man stood by its front door. Neither could be identified.

The detective theorized one man could have slipped a knife under the hood, held down the alarm button and released the hood while the second man tore the alarm wires out.

WIRES RIPPED OUT

When the car was found by police in North Monaghan township Tuesday morning, the alarm wires had been ripped out but no signs were evident that either doors or trunk had been forced.

In the trunk were two suitcases and a large trunk containing the watches, rings and gems.

T. W. Mullin, manager of Lorie, Ltd., Toronto, was uncertain the jewels were covered by insurance. "We expect they are," he said, however.

Mr. Mullin declined to verify reports that Phillips had been victim of a prior theft of $8,000 worth of samples in Pembroke. That time, in April, 1952, Phillips was having breakfast when the theft took place.

Since that time the salesman has had his car equipped with a burglar alarm.

Approve $175,000 School Addition At Cobourg

COBOURG—(ENS)—Council approved in principel Tuesday proposal of the Cobourg District Collegiate Board to erect a $175,000 addition to the present school in order to relieve overcrowding. The counties council will be asked to issue the debentures and failing this the Cobourg town council will start the debentures, in order to accelerate matters.

Breakdown of the cost is as follows: total cast, $175,000; Department of Education's share, (50 per cent), $87,500; school district's share of $87,000 to be apportioned among the municipalities concerned on the basis of Cobourg, $40,950 ;Township of Hamilton, $25,375; Township of Haldimand, $15,837.50 and Township of Alnwick, $5,337.50.

A deputation to the town council was made up of Earl Drope, chairman of the Collegiate board; A. R. Willmott, QC, vice-chairman; H. O. Taylor, Maurice Daignault and R. N. McKenzie, secretary-treasurer of the board.

Major Drope told council that what was desired from the council was tentative approval of an addition to the collegiate. It has been "full and overflowing" for a number of years. Two classrooms were located in another building as well as classes in both gymnasiams. The present accommodation, including the addition erected in 1939, was designed for 376 pupils. Present enrolment was 544 and next year there would be 36 new pupils from the ordnance depot alone. The new addition would provide eight more classrooms.

SITUATION BETTER

Mr. Willmott pointed out that the situation in regard to cost to the town of Cobourg was better than when the 1939 addition was built, even allowing for vastly-increased building costs of the present time. The board had seen Alnwick township council who were waiting to see what the other

Cranford Succeeds Vernor As Western Clock Manager

John H. Vernor, executive vice-president and general managed of the Western Clock Co. Ltd., will retire at the end of the year and will be succeeded by Herbert T. Cranford, assistant general manager. Mr. Vernor joined the parent company in the United States 43 years ago and, after travelling for them to countries around the globe, he came to Peterborough in 1920 to start production at the infant Western Clock Co. plant.

Mr. Cranford was born in Newfoundland and came to Peterborough while still in his twenties. In 1921, a year after the Western Clock Co. started up, he was employed as a clerk in the accounting department.

Successively, he became office manager in 1923, superintendent in 1929, secretary and a director in 1939, a vice president in 1946, and assistant general manager in 1948. He will take over as general manager of the company—one of Peterborough's four largest industries, employing 700 people—at the beginning of 1954.

The policy at Westclox is for a person to retire on the 1st of January following his 65th birthday.

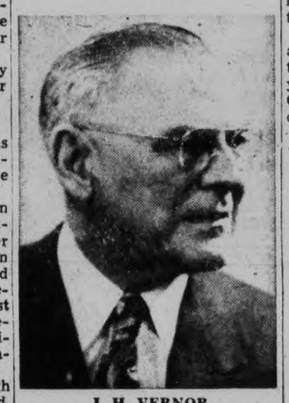
"I am now in my 65th year," Mr. Vernor said, "and instead of carrying on for another year I have asked our board of directors for earlier retirement.

"The board has acceded to my request, effective at the end of our fiscal year, Dec. 26, 1953."

STAYS AS ADVISOR

Mr. Vernor will be retained as an advisor on call, and will continue to be a member of the board of directors.

He was born in Michigan and in 1910 he joined the parent company in LaSalle, Ill. As a traveller for the firm he spent a year in South Africa, and he went around the globe staying for varying periods of time in Portugese East Africa, India, the Strait Settlements, China, Japan, the Phillipines, and Australia and New Zealand for two and a half years.



Before coming to Peterborough in 1920 he was a year in England.

STARTED ON GEORGE ST.

Westclox manufacturing operations got underway here, supervised by Mr. Vernor, in the chicle factory on George St. S., later sold to the Canadian Crayon Co. Since then the old building has been used by the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co.

Two Homes Sell For Reported Total Of $70,000

Two of the outstanding residential properties at the west end of Weller St. have recently been reported in realty news of transfers in the city.

Gossip among realty companies has it that the total of the three sale prices would be nearly $70,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley C. Elliott, 570 Bethune St. will move into the Haig Kelly house at Weller St. and Wallis Drive around the first of next June. News of this sale has been confirmed, with the further information that Mr. Kelly is building another residence on the opposite side of the Drive for occupation next summer.

James F. Dunn has sold his house on Weller St. to Dr. George A. Lewis of Peterborough Clinic. Transfer of ownership and occupancy has been effected.

Hugh M. Campbell confirms another report that he is considering terms for the sale of his house on Gordon Ave. Nothing definite has developed yet at that attractive section of the west end.

The Kelly residence is a highly attractive property situated on the height of what used to be, years ago, the south end of the Captain Wallis property fronting on the extension of Parkhill Road.

BUCK GETS MAN

The average hunter, in this district at least, goes in search of his deer, and, according to reports this year, is having difficulty locating one. Not so with Mel McDougall, 230 Park St. The deer are after him, and with the same murderous intent as the average hunter has for the deer. Returning recently from a vacation in New York state, he and his wife were the object of an attack from an infuriated buck. On their way between Catskill and Revina, the buck broke from cover and charged their car, doing about $50 damage to the right hand door. Needless to say, the car got the best of the deal, and the deer was last seen limping into the bush on the other side of the road.

Claire Stuart Appointed New Postmaster; Harry E. White Retires

New Post Office Head Started Career As Stamper-Sorter; Commanded Rangers for Four Years

After 46 years as a member of the Peterborough post office, Harry White leaves the office for the last time tonight. The popular postmaster will be succeeded by Claire Stuart, assistant postmaster. After three weeks of annual leave, Mr. White will officially retire November 25 when Mr. Stuart will assume his new position.

The new postmaster takes over with a background of 40 years in the Peterborough office which includes almost eight years service in both world wars.

Mr. White joined the post office staff as a sorter and stamper in 1906. He left after a year and returned in 1908 to serve continuously as a postal clerk and senior postal clerk until he became assistant postmaster on January 1, 1925.

He remained in that capacity until his appointment in February, 1950, as postmaster.

During his career, he served under five postmasters: Col. H. C. Rogers, A. H. Stratton, James Edgar, John Corkery, Sr., and Charles Lacheur.

A resident of Murray St., Mr. White is married and has one stepson.

STARTED AS SORTER

Mr. Stuart, born and educated in Peterborough, first came to the post office in August, 1913, also beginning his career as a stamper and sorter. He became a senior postal clerk in October, 1920, and a Grade 2 postal supervisor in April, 1946.

One month after Mr. White became postmaster, Mr. Stuart succeeded him as assistant.

His army career began in the First World War when he served three and a half years with the Royal Canadian Artillery. He was discharged as a corporal in 1919.

COMMANDED REGIMENT

As a lieutenant he joined the non-permanent active militia with the Prince of Wales Rangers. He rose to command the regiment from 1932 to 1936 as a lieutenant-colonel.

Until August, 1941, he served in the Prince of Wales reserve unit and then joined the active army, finally retiring in January, 1946. Throughout the war, he was stationed in Kingston with No. 3 Military District headquarters.

Married, the new postmaster is the father of two children and grandfather of two more.

Welland Hunter Shot In Shoulder

LINDSAY (ENS)—The condition of a Welland hunter, Ross Henderson, is reported as fair today after he was brought to the hospital Tuesday at noon suffering from a bullet wound in the left shoulder.

According to officials of the OPP at Haliburton, Henderson was accidentally shot when his gun discharged as he was climbing into a boat on Drag Lake late Tuesday morning. He was taken to the Red Cross hospital in Haliburton where he was treated by Dr. Lou Carroll, and then rushed by ambulance to the Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay, where Dr. C. S. M. Service took charge of the case.

He was reported suffering from loss of blood and shock. Henderson, who owns a summer cottage on Drag Lake, was hunting in that area with three Haliburton men, Lloyd Baker, Al Blanchard and Joe Iles. They had been hunting at Spruce Lake, and had a race from the bush to the lake shore.

Would Blow Up Lift Lock Restore Beauty Of Otonabee

Whenever he returns to Peterborough now, Professor G. H. Needler feels inclined to get some sticks of dynamite "and blow up your Lift Lock". Dr. Needler, 87, scholar, linguist, canoeist, author, and professor emeritus in University College, Toronto, has a long memory of the Otonabee and remembers it best as "flashing waters running fast" which is what the Indian word Otonabee means. Before the Trent Canal was built between Lakefield and Peterborough the upper Otonabee was nine wonderful miles of "romping rapids". Because of the Lift Lock canal, and the dams the river now has almost no rapids and has lost the fierce and splendid beauty which so impressed the literary pioneers of this district.

Professor Needler is the author of "Otonabee Pioneers", just published, an historical and critical account of the Stewarts, Stricklands, Traills and Moodies who settled in this district and wrote about it more than a century ago. Professor Needler's offhand castigation of the Lift Lock was made in the course of an address to the Historical Society of Peterborough city and county, Tuesday evening at the Public Library.

Dr. Needler began his remarks with references to the contentious question of the route which Champlain—"first white man on the Otonabee"—took in 1615. He said that his own researches left no doubt at all that Champlain and his war party of Huron Indians followed the main channel of the Kawarthas from Sturgeon Lake to Rice Lake and the Trent, with a portage from Lakefield to Peterborough.

The audience were told that the Otonabee—broadly conceived as the waterway from the head of the Kawarthas through Rice Lake and the Trent to the Bay of Quinte—was the greatest and most important river in Ontario, apart from the Ottawa and the St. Lawrence. It is more interesting than either because of its variety.

The speaker touched on various facts of the lives and careers of the four chief writing pioneers in his book, and also on the Langtons and Thomas Need. He told of some remarkable contacts maintained with the great outside world—with John Galt, with Governor Maitland, with William Lyon Mackenzie.

The speaker was introduced by T. J. Allen and thanked by Miss Mary Medd, whose family roots, like Dr. Needler's own, are in Cavan, Millbrook and the Otonabee valley. In the audience were other direct descendants of Lakefield, Peterborough, Millbrook and Otonabee township pioneers who were the subject of Dr. Needler's talk. John D. Londerville, president of the society, was in the chair.

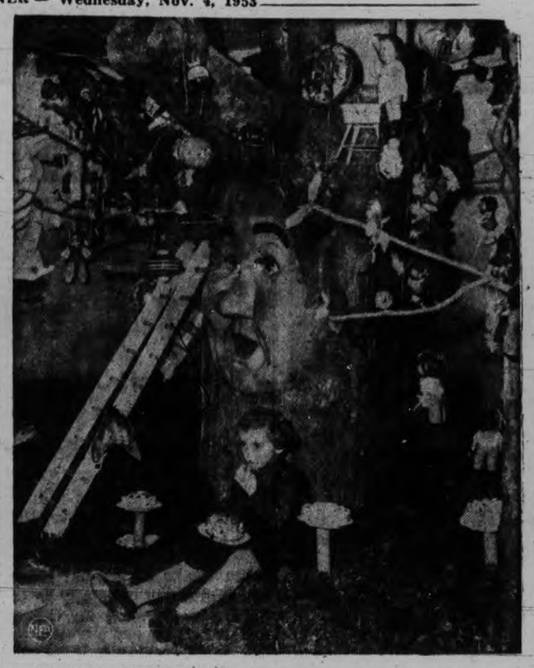
Labor Group Asks Frost For Meeting

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Labor today asked Premier Frost for a chance to meet with him to discuss the gold mine strike situation in the Timmins area.

In a letter, text of which it released today, it criticized Mr. Frost's stand that the matter is one for the striking United Steelworkers of America (CIO) and the mine operators to settle by negotiation.



It said that, while the operators say they cannot afford wage increases, the 11 companies whose cases were heard by boards of conciliation had 1952 net profits of $4,779,958, an average net return of $1,566 a worker.

DEPRESSED INDUSTRY

The premier had said in a letter to C. H. Millard, national director of the union, that gold mining is a depressed industry.

"The position you take in this regard exactly parallels the position of the operators before boards of conciliation," the federation said. "The boards, in almost every instance, rejected the plea of inability to pay and recommended wage increases ranging between seven and 10 cents an hour."

Upwards of 6,000 men are idle at Timmins in a series of strikes called by the union since July.

Mothers Entertained At Hallowe'en Party

FAIRVIEW (ENS)—Miss Marie Drain, teacher of S.S. No. 11, Smith, and her pupils entertained their mothers and friends at a Hallowe'en party in the schoolhouse, which was decorated in Hallowe'en colours.

The guests were given paper hats made by the children and asked to sign the guest book by Christine Newton.

Prizes of books and candy were given. Judges were Mrs. Elmer Milburn, Mrs. Robert Cockburn and Mrs. Nelson Trude.

Ethel Langley explained how to use school work in preparing for a party. Bettie Black introduced the following program. Hallowe'en poetry, by Christine Newton, Bettie Black, Lewis Black, Philip Olver, Shirley Nichols Sharon Van Allen Terry Newton, Ernest Langley, Patsy Dupuis; sailor's hornpipe dance Jean Lewis; tap dance, Ethel Langley; piano solos, Ethel Langley, Jean Lewis Ruth Oliver; songs group of grades 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, group of girls in grade 5; duet Billie Jackson and Victor Woodford.

There were games for the children, including drawing tails on cats, biting apples from a string, drawing hats on witches and a kiss candy scramble outside.

While the children were playing their games the ladies had contests including a bean and straw contest and drawing a cat blindfolded.

Lunch was served cafeteria style.

McGill Head Says Gov't Has Right To Subsidize Universities

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT

MONTREAL (CP)—McGill University today told a Quebec royal commission on constitutional problems the federal government has every right to subsidize higher education and expressed disapproval of the Quebec government's move to block federal grants to universities.

In a brief prepared for delivery before the commission, the 140-year-old institution maintained:

1. "Every university in Canada is of national, rather than local, significance."

2. "Quality of university work in Quebec must progressively fall behind the level prevailing throughout the rest of Canada during each year in which Quebec universities do not receive federal grants paid to all comparable institutions in other provinces."

SHOULDN'T BE PENALIZED

3. It would seem contrary to the interests of Quebec and Canada to "penalize" Quebec institutions while the Quebec government discusses and negotiates reallocation of tax sources with the federal government — A discussion that may last for years.

4. "Any policy that makes it impossible for a university to accept monies that are freely offered, with no strings, must inevitably diminish its freedom and the quality of its work."

5. "There is no evidence that federal grants to universities infringe in any way upon the autonomy of the provinces in which these universities are situated."

POSITION UNTENABLE

The Quebec commission, which opened public sittings Tuesday was suggested in a brief of the Quebec province Chamber of Commerce that claimed the federal government is making the financial situation of the provinces untenable by invading fields of direct taxation.

Although the commission's work will mostly deal with the taxation problem, it touches also municipal and school finances as well as constitutional questions in general.

The McGill brief comes at a time when the Quebec government is blocking federal grants to Quebec universities on the ground they encroach on provincial autonomy in matters of education.

The McGill brief argued:

"History indeed, records that, far from objecting to financial aid for higher education from outside the province, provincial governments have themselves made grants to universities outside their borders. . . .

OUTRIGHT GIFTS

"The government of Quebec has in recent years made grants to colleges and universities in Ontario, New Brunswick and Manitoba. . . ."

McGill said outright gifts of crown monies are independent of legislative jurisdiction and cited family allowances, old-age pensions grants to municipalities, unemployment relief and housing assistance as examples.

Military training and atomic research were federal matters and the work of universities in these fields was of federal concern.

"If Ottawa were not to provide the universities with funds to carry on these activities, each of them of vital significance to Canada as a whole, it would be failing in its constitutional duties."

Body Found

LIVINGSTONE, Northern Rhodesia (Reuters)—A body believed to be that of Mrs. Phyllis Leroy of Washington was recovered Tuesday from a ledge 200 feet down from the lip of the Devil's Cataract, part of Victoria falls, the world's highest. A former United States state department employee, she came to central Africa in May on a scholarship from the Social Science Research Council of New York.

Marie Dionne Spends First Day In Convent

QUEBEC (CP)—A young girl who with her four sisters has been in the public eye all her life today spent her first day in silent work and prayer behind the cloistered walls of a Roman Catholic religious order.

Marie Dionne, 19-year-old quintuplet from Callander, Ont., Tuesday turned her back on the world to enter the order of Les Servantes du Tres Saint-Sacrament (Servants of the Blessed Sacrament) at their convent here.

As a postulant, or beginner, she will be exempted from some of the more arduous tasks of the order. Nevertheless, she will be expected to adjust herself quickly to a life of prayer, work and adoration of the blessed sacrament.

The life is severe. During the night, members of the order rise and leave their small cells for an hour of prayer in the chapel.

During the day they devote their time to community work, prayer and the making of vestments for priests.

Silence is maintained in the convent at all times, except for brief periods of recreation after dinner and supper.

Marie will be a postulant for six months. Then for two years she will be in the noviciate, after which she will have for three years an annual profession of vows—poverty, chastity and obedience. She may then take perpetual vows by which she would swear to devote the rest of her life to the order.

On her entrance into the convent of New Thabor, Marie leaves her sisters to follow different vocations. Three—Emilie, Annette and Cecile—are studying household science at a convent in Nicolet, near Trois-Rivieres, P.Q. Yvonne is a fine-arts pupil at Montreal.

Annette, Cecile and Yvonne came to the convent with Marie Tuesday. Their mother, Mrs. Oliva Dionne, and two other sisters, Pauline and Mrs. Maurice Girouard, were also there.

They saw Marie in her severe garb—black with a long white veil that shields the sides of the face—and, after tearful good-byes, watched her step behind a grill to go to chapel for benediction of the blessed sacrament and the start of a new life.

HELD IN SLAYING — Fred West III (right) is being held at Chatham, N.J., on charges in the slaying of the father of his girl friend during an argument. Authorities report the trouble began with a discussion between the youth and Charles Bevilacque (left) over permission to take the girl, Lola Ann Bevilacque (centre) to the movies. In the charging the 17-year-old boy with atrocious assault, police reported that the girl's mother and brother, a cerebral palsy victim, were wounded in the shooting but are in good condition.

Must Avoid Too-Early Specialization

EDINBURGH (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh said today that schools below university level should prevent their pupils from falling into the trap of too-early specialization.

In a speech following his installation as chancellor of the University of Edinburgh, the duke stated:

"The necessities of a successful professional career are a broad mind and wide interests. Their foundations must be laid in school. If narrowness begins in school it cannot be cured at the university or anywhere else."

The problem is somewhat different for universities, the duke said "with the growing complexity of modern life, an ever-increasing degree of specialization is becoming a professional necessity. The universities may decry the necessity . . . but specialization is here to stay. The real problem is to see that specialization does not become exclusive."

Editor Believes Newspapers Do Better Job

CHICAGO (AP) — Norman E. Isaacs, president of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association, today said "newspaper know-how, objectivity, fairness and responsibility have increased steadily."

Isaacs, managing editor of the Louisville Times, made the statement in his report to the organization of editors of AP newspapers.

He recalled that since his election to the APME presidency a year ago he had travelled to various parts of the United States and had "pleaded everywhere for a high ethical concept of jour alism." He added:

"We all know that newspapering faces new challenges. Radio, television and news magazines, the service magazines—all these are but repeated challenges.

"Newspaper know-how, objectivity, fairness and responsibility have increased steadily through our time. All of us are better newspaper men today than we were 10 years ago. APME alone has contributed tremendously to our education.

URGES NEW SPIRIT

"But we are not yet good enough."

"For further improvement, the newspaper profession must adopt a professionalism of the spirit."

"We have to approach our calling with the devotion of the minister, the skill of the doctor, the thoroughness of the scientist.

"Put them all together. You will have a fine, understanding, objective and responsible public servant.

"None of us can ask for any higher calling. Let us give our newspapers the love, the devoted attention and the high skill they need to flourish and grow."

Accident Victim's Funeral Thursday

HAVELOCK (ENS) — Funeral arrangements have been completed for the late Joseph Lewis, 78, of Havelock, who was killed Monday night while hitch-hiking on Highway 7, near Marmora.

The service will be 2 p.m. Thursday in the Curtis funeral parlors, Havelock, the Rev. R. D. Duncanson of Knox Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial will be in the Protestant cemetery, Marmora.

Mr. Lewis was walking along the highway trying to get a car ride to his daughter's home in Marmora when he was struck by an eastbound car and tossed 75 feet. He died almost instantly of a fractured skull, broken neck and a crushed chest.

BOY SCOUT PAPER DRIVE

TUESDAY NOV. 10

To facilitate handling we urge everybody to securely tie the papers in bundles of not more than 15 lbs. and have them set out on the front verandah by 5 p.m.

WITH QUEBEC PROVINCIAL POLICE in hot pursuit, this stolen panel truck driven by a 14-year-old boy crashed through a wooden hydro pole in east-end Montreal and rolled over three times. Police found the youth in the rear of the truck, suffering only a cut leg. Part of the splintered pole jackknifed into the front part of the truck frame. Impact of the crash sent a transformer toppling to the ground from its pole-top perch.

Ottawa Government May Introduce Law For Union Dues Checkoff In Labor Pact

By JOHN LeBLANC

OTTAWA (CP) — Government backing for legislation to write the union dues checkoff into labor contracts is regarded as a likelihood for the coming session of Parliament.

The ministers' attitude, however, is understood to depend largely on the outcome of the Ontario-Quebec metal-mines strikes, in which the checkoff is the most controversial issue.

Parliamentary approval of the checkoff would mean that in industry under federal jurisdiction in labor relations, it would be mandatory on employers to deduct union dues at the request of the employee. It would apply to 375,000 workers in such industries as railways, communications and shipping that reach across provincial boundaries.

OPPOSED ATTEMPTS

For several years, the government has opposed successive attempts by some Commons members to get checkoff legislation adopted. The Commons late in the last session, however, recommended the government study the question.

Now, according to informants, government policy-makers take a favorable view of such legislation in the federal field.

LINE OF ACTION

Federal authorities are hesitant about moving under the present circumstances, because they do not want either to embarrass the Ontario and Quebec governments or to appear to be suggesting a line of action for a strike settlement.

Ontario and Quebec are among four provinces that do not have general checkoff legislation. It exists in various forms in Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. New Brunswick has it in its Coal Mines Act.

Under any federal legislation, the checkoff likely would be of the "voluntary revocable" type, under which an individual worker must authorize it and may withdraw it at any time.

Stanley Knowles, CCF member of the Commons for Winnipeg North Centre, plans to reintroduce a bill to this effect which he has tried to get through the Commons several times. He has announced he will withdraw it if the government makes a similar proposal.

Any such legislation would be an amendment to the federal labor code, which is expected to be opened up for review this year at the end of its first five years of operation.

Police Battle Drug Suspect

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three police officers battled a suspected narcotics "pusher" into unconsciousness Tuesday in an ambush laid in a police station washroom.

The suspect, unnamed by police said charges were pending, had been released on bail from Oakalla prison farm in suburban Burnaby where he had been taken on a previous charge of drugs possession.

Police said the man took exactly 24 minutes to get from Oakalla, 10 miles east of here, to the main Vancouver police station.

Detectives Angus McDonald and Frank Hill, with RCMP constable Steve Bunyk, jumped the man as he picked up a package containing 10 capsules which had been hidden on a washroom ledge. In the struggle, the suspect attempted to swallow the parcel, but was grabbed around the throat.

The struggle ended when the suspect became unconscious. It took inhalator crews 35 minutes to dislodge the package from his throat.

Pulp Unions Continue Talks

TORONTO (CP) — Wage talks between representatives of 12 pulp and paper companies and of nine unions continued today.

There was no announcement of the direction of the discussions Tuesday or whether any progress had been made toward settling the dispute which threatens to paralyze Ontario's pulp and paper industry.

Spokesmen for the unions, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, said the unions agreed Monday to stand pat on their demands for a five-per-cent wage increase and other benefits. Basic rate in the 19 mills in Ontario, one in Manitoba and one in Quebec is $1.41 an hour.

The 15,000 pulp and paper workers involved have sanctioned strike action if necessary to enforce their demands.

Cerebral Injuries Killed John Petrie

WOODSTOCK (CP)—A post mortem examination revealed Tuesday that John W. Petrie, 37, of Stratford, father of four children, died of severe cerebral injuries after a car plunged into Mud creek near here Monday night.

The driver, William Latky, 21, and William Kotyk, 23, both of Stratford, were injured in the crash. They were reported in fair condition.

Petrie, well-known district orchestra leader, died en route to hospital after the car plunged through the guard rails four miles north of here on No. 19 highway, turned end over end and landed on its side in the water.

James Thorn

MILLBROOK — (ENS) — The funeral service for James Thorne, 89, who died Thursday at his home, was held on Monday from the G. T. MacPherson funeral home.

Still In Coma

Tearful Lillian Gish Returns To Broadway

NEW YORK (AP)—Ever the tearful heroine, Lillian Gish returned to the Broadway stage Tuesday night impersonating one of the most melancholy characters she has ever portrayed in her long career on screen, in the theatre and on television.

At the Henry Miller Theatre she played an unwelcome mother-in-law in Horton Foote's drama, "The Trip to Bountiful," and the best that can be said about the play is that Miss Gish's tender, patient performance had even the hardened first-nighters weeping.

The play has been splendidly produced, and performances by Miss Gish, Jo Van Fleet, Gene Lyons and Eva Marie Saint make it an actors' holiday.

ProposeEstablishment Of New Reformatory

WHITBY (CP)—Ontario county council Tuesday proposed establishment of a protestant reform institution for wayward women.

At present, the only place to send women aged 16 to 35 found leading idle or dissolute lives is Mercer Reformatory in Toronto, it said in a resolution submitted to the legislature's reform institutions committee.

The county council cited the case of a 32-year-old woman who has had six illegitimate children by five different fathers. She now is in Mercer Reformatory.

Allow Convict Go To Wife's Funeral

KINGSTON (CP)—Thomas Jillings of Toronto, serving 3½ years in Kingston penitentiary, left the prison under escort Tuesday to attend the funeral of his wife and two-year-old son who were killed in a car crash.

Jillings was dressed in civilian clothes and provided with an escort.

Justice department officials said Jillings was being allowed to go to the funeral because of the "peculiarly tragic circumstances" involved. They said no other such release was on record.

Conviction Appeal Granted By Judge

STRATFORD (CP)—An appeal by Arthur Kendall of nearby St. Mary's against a conviction for cutting trees of less than 14 inches in diameter was granted here Tuesday by Judge Harold D. Lang.

Kendall was convicted April 16 of violating a Perth county by-law which prohibits the cutting of trees less than 14 inches in diameter for sale purposes. Woodlots were to be two acres or more.

Judge Lang ordered a $50 fine and $18 costs returned to Kendall as well as the $50 bond posted upon entering the appeal.

Judge Lang ruled evidence showed the woodlot as less than two acres in size.

Says British Press Coverage Now Poor

LONDON (AP) — Major John Jacob Astor, whose family controls one of Britain's leading newspapers, told the House of Commons Tuesday that the British press and radio is falling down on its coverage of American news.

He complained of what he called the "complete inadequacy with which the British press and the BBC deal with American news."

American newspapers, he said, serve their public "a great deal better in this respect than the British press serve the public here."

Astor, a Conservative MP, said he believed Anglo-American relations are "getting worse and not better."

Judge Helped Get Law For Kidnapping

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Federal judge Albert Reeves, who will hear the Greenlease kidnappers' trial, was instrumental more than half a century ago in pushing through a Missouri state law that provides the death penalty for abductors.

The trial of 34-year-old Carl Austin Hall and his 41-year-old woman friend, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, has been set for Nov. 16. Both pleaded guilty at their arraignment Tuesday.

They earlier had confessed the kidnapping and slaying of six-year-old Bobby Greenlease, son of the wealthy automobile dealer, Robert C. Greenlease.

INSPIRED BY CUDAHY CASE

As a young state representative back in 1901, Reeves was co-sponsor of legislation providing the death penalty for kidnappers in Missouri. The bill came shortly after the abduction of 16-year-old Edward A. Cudahy Jr., son of an Omaha, Neb., packing company executive. Cudahy, held two days, was released after payment of a ransom of $25,000 in gold.

This law, however, applies only to state charges. The jury trial before the 79-year-old Judge Reeves will be held under the federal kidnapping law.

Only a jury can recommend the maximum penalty of death under the federal statute. If the jury rejects the death penalty, Judge Reeves will determine the prison sentences to be given.

Sees Uranium Find In Algoma District

BLIND RIVER (CP) — Mines Minister Kelly says there is "a strong possibility" the Algoma area might soon become the scene of a third great Canadian uranium discovery.

He said Tueday night that only time and future developments would prove him right or wrong.

Mr. Kelly was speaking at Uranium Day celebrations in this town midway between Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie. The day was aimed at drawing attention to development work on uranium mining claims in the district, marking a new phase in its economic development.

Hold Last Rites For Former Postmaster

MILLBROOK (ENS)—The funeral service for T. Howard Collins, who died Friday in Peterborough hospital, was conducted Monday from St. Thomas' Anglican Church by the Rev. L. R. Jailed For Cowardice Soldier Released

LONDON (Reuters)—Pte. Patrick Lydon, 25, sentenced to a year's imprisonment as the only British soldier in Korea to be court martialled for cowardice, walked out of his cell a free man Tuesday.

Senior army authorities confirmed his guilt and dishonorable discharge but decided to remit the prison term.

At his court martial two weeks ago, Lydon was said to have cringed in fear at the bottom of a foxhole as 6,000 Chinese troops attacked his sector of the Korean front in November, 1951.

Since his convictions, the public has been hotly debating whether he should have been sent to prison. Scores of readers wrote to newspapers on the issue, most of them sympathizing with the soldier, a volunteer for Korea, whose mental age was said to be 12.

German Firm Building Plant At Stratford

STRATFORD (CP)—A German ball bearing manufacturing company will build a $250,000 plant at the outskirts of Stratford to house what Stratford industrial commission spokesmen describe as the largest industry to locate here since railway shops moved to the city many years ago.

Alderman Wilfred P. Gregory, the industrial commission's chairman of the industrial prospects committee, announced at a commission meeting Tuesday night that the Fischer Bearings Manufacturing Limited had decided to locate in Stratford.

The Canadian company will be a subsidiary of the West German ball bearing firm of Kugelfischer Georg Schafter and Company, which has a plant at Schweinfurt, Germany, employing more than 10,000 persons.

When the plant starts operations, probably not for six or seven months, it will initially employ about 175 skilled workers, three quarters of whom will be men.

Travelogues Features Of Cal. Country

PCVS auditorium was crowded Tuesday night when Stan Midgley presented a film travelogue of his native state, California, sponsored by Peterborough Kiwanis Club. With two films, one of the northern and the other of the southern section of the state, the program covered most of the points of interest in about an hour and a half.

In addition, Mr. Midgely presented a short feature covering the 1952 tournament of roses parade in Pasedena.

One of the high points of the film were some shots of the California desert and the "moving rocks." These rocks, weighing as much as 700 pounds, have left deep impressions in the hard mud which formerly were basins for long evaporated lakes. What moved these rocks is not known, but the popular theory is that at some time terrific winds actually skidded them across the mud floor. Evidence indicates that at the time of the rock movement, the ground surface was still moist.

Another view was the shallow lakes of Race Track valley, located on the western fringe of the desert. These lakes are less than a foot deep and the land on which they lie is so flat, that the winds will move the water from one area to another. The result is a continually changing landscape.

Midgley's excellent films were accentuated by his humorous nature, which infected not only his running commentary, but at times, the film itself.

In shots taken of hill streets in San Francisco, the occasional dipping of the camera gave the illusion of vehicles moving vertically and gravity-defying pedestrians in the background.

One of the famous features of California is the abrupt changes of climate and atmosphere which can be encountered within a few miles of each other. Pacific currents and mountain winds are continually mingling to create unnatural atmospheric conditions. One result of this is the Los Angeles smog. Within five miles of certain Pacific bathing beaches, year round snow fields exist in the higher reaches of the Sierra mountain range.

A section of the film dealt with the Yosemite valley, which is specially noted for its numerous cataracts and water falls, is the these, the Yosemite falls, is the second highest in the world and the highest in America, measuring 1,430 feet from top to bottom.

The next travel film to be shown under the auspices of the Peterborough Kiwanians, will be "Rhine Journey," presented by Curtis Nagel, November 24.

Editors Want To Drop Sports Cliches

CHICAGO (AP)—Newspaper editors today took a fresh look at some old, familiar expressions.

A panel discussion at the annual meeting of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association dealt with "sports cliches."

The background: The APME committee on sports has set its sights on elimination of cliches from sports copy.

But what is a cliche anyway?

Ted Smits, general sports editor of The AP, offered an answer in a report submitted to the pane. Here it is:

"Here's as good a rule of thumb as we have found: If you use the word or words naturally in ordinary speech, they belong in the realm of common usage, such as triple, homer. If you don't, they are cliches, such as circuit clout, gonfalon, inking a pact."

Smits said it would be virtually impossible to cull out all cliches. He added:

"Some are very bad. Others are still serviceable. It is their misuse or over-use that we must guard against. What is needed is common-sense application of the principles of good English."

The report listed the 10 most disliked cliches as selected in a poll of AP member-paper sports editors. Here, in the order of their detestation, they are:

Mentor, inked pact, pay dirt, circuit clout, gonfalon, roaring back from behind, outclassed but game, clobber, gridders, cage or cagers.

JOCKEY TONY DeSPIRITO nearly gets crowded out at his own wedding as singer Nelson Eddy moves in to kiss the bride, the former Doris DeChristoforo. The 17-year-old rider from Lawrence, Mass., who last year set a record of 390 wins that has since been broken, Saturday responded to wedding bells instead of the starter's bell at St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church.

Soviet Note Denounces EDC Agreement

PARIS (AP)—The Soviet Union has told the Western powers in its latest note that creation of the proposed European Defence Community and a separate peace treaty between the Bonn government and the West would make re-establishment of a united Germany impossible.

French foreign ministry sources reported today that this Russian declaration its note, delivered in Moscow Tuesday, was followed by a statement that the EDC also would make any Big Four foreign ministers' conference on Germany, such as the Western powers are demanding, a pointless one.

It said the United States, Britain and France would come into such meeting having already concluded separate agreements with the Adenauer government "to drag Western Germany into the North Atlantic bloc and create an army of revenge in Western Germany," the sources reported.

Communist parties in Western Europe already are campaigning vigorously to prevent ratification of the EDC treaties by parliaments of the six participating countries —West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

But the Soviet note was one of the strongest statements that the Russians have made against the creation of an European army, according to the French sources.

COURT ACTION MOOTED

QUEBEC (CP)—The possibility of a court battle between two Quebec Junior Hockey clubs was indicated Tuesday in their dispute over claims to 18-year-old goalie Jacques Marcotte.

Hon. Gerald Martineau, member of the provincial legislative council and honorary president of Quebec Frontenacs, said the club "is satisfied we should go to the courts of justice to defend our rights."

"Since Marcotte has shown his wish to play with our club, we shall defend his right to do so."

Marcotte signed with Frontenacs, new entry in the Quebec Junior Hockey League, with approval of the executive of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association. Last season he played with Quebec Citadelles, who were ousted by the QAHA and now are playing in the junior division of the Ontario Hockey Association, with QAHA approval.

Citadelles took the matter to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, which last week ruled in Citadelles' favor.

Martineau indicated Frontenacs will adhere to the JAHA decision, which okayed Frontenacs' acquisition of Marcotte. Martineau said he doesn't know if the QAHA can reverse its decision.

SACRIFICE FLY OKAYED

NEW YORK (AP)—The sacrifice fly has returned to baseball after an absence of more than a dozen years as the national playing rules committee decided to give credit to a batsman who hits a long ball to bring in a run.

The restoration of the sacrifice fly, restored once for a one-year period in 1939 and then dropped again, was the principal action taken Tuesday at a two-day meeting of the laying rules committee, representing the major and minor leagues.

Other actions authorized the use of laminated wood bats for the 1954 season, required players to take their gloves and other equipment off the playing field between innings and rejected a suggestion to bring back the spitball.

CANADIAN WINS

NEW YORK (CP)—Shirley Thomas of the Canadian equestrian team Tuesday night won the International Goodwill Challenge Trophy at the opening of the 65th National Horse Show.

The blonde 18-year-old Ottawa debutante guided her Revlon's Princess Midas over the 10-obstacle course for a faultless performance, then repeated her sparkling ride in the jump-off for first place with England's Patricia Smythe to win the event for Canada.

The other two Canadian team members—Lt.-Col. Charles Baker and W. R. Ballard, team captain—tied for third place with England's Lt.-Col. Harry Llewellyn. Each made four faults.

The United States team placed fourth. The Republic of Ireland Army team was not ranked.

TOP MONEY WINNER

The outstanding three-year-old filly has won a total of $101,386 in less than two years of racing. She passed the previous record held by Kingarvie when she earned $5,000 for finishing second in the first division of the Comeley Handicap for fillies and mares at Jamaica Tuesday.

2 Ex-Queens Have Tax Troubles

CAIRO (Reuters) — Ex-king Farouk's two former wives are in trouble with the Egyptian tax collector.

Mrs. Safinaz Zulficar, better known as ex-queen Farida, is disputing a government claim of £6,720 Egyptian (about $13,000) for income tax on her allowance between 1939 and 1949 while she was queen.

Her lawyer said earned-income tax rules do not apply to royal allowances, but the taxation court will deliver its judgment Dec. 22.

The taxation department is also claiming £212 Egyptian income tax on ex-queen Narriman's allowances up to 1952. Her mother, Mrs. Assila Kamel, told the taxation court that Narriman had never received the allowances in question.

The case has been adjourned until Nov. 24.

Farouk's mother and sisters are also fighting claims by the taxation department.

Kitchener Edges Quebec 7-6 As Irish, Galt Tie 5-5

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec City fans are loyal to their Citadelles no matter where they are in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings.

Tuesday night 4,450 of them watched the eighth-place Citadelles take a 7-6 loss from Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts. The Kitchener victory halted a three-game, home-ice winning streak for the Cits.

In the only other game Galt Black Hawks fought back a three-goal deficit on home ice to earn a 5-5 overtime draw with Toronto St. Michael's.

Gaston Pelletier and Rookie Stan Maxwell netted two each for Citadelles. Gilles Thibault and Richard Bouchard notched the others.

Greig Hicks and Bruce Jones fired two each for the Greenshirts, whose victory hoisted them into a two-way tie for second place with Galt. Doug Vaughn, Graham Joyce and Beryl Klinck rounded out the total.

LATE SURGE

Cellar-dwelling St. Mikes appeared to be heading for their third victory in nine games as they carried a 4-2 lead into the final period. But the Hawks outscored the Irish 3-1 in the last 20 minutes to send the game into overtime.

Bill Colvin, Ken Gribbons, Jack Caffery, Les Duff and Paul Knox shared the scoring for the Collegians. Ron Halstead rapped in two for the Hawks. John Sleaver, Pete Kowalchuk and John Muckler were the other Galt snipers.

Toronto Marlboros meet the Flyers in Barrie tonight.

Suggest 'Secret Weapon' Used By Grey Cup Contenders

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (CP)—Here's a tip for Canada's Grey Cup contenders, courtesy of the University of Maryland football team:

A "secret weapon" soups up the players with ultrasonic rays that travel 1,083 feet a second.

The apparatus is the latest addition to the Maryland athletic clinic of trainer Duke Wyre. He believes he is the first college trainer in the United States to use the machine to keep athletes in shape.

The fascinating machine is the result, he says, of experiments during the last war by the Germans on British prisoners.

MANY APPLICATIONS

Its theory—that electric energy fed into a quartz crystal will emit mechanical energy in the form of vibrations—has many applications. The one applied to medicine is a new science known as piezo-therapy, explains the erudite trainer.

These vibrations are transmitted to the human skin by holding a cup-like attachment against it. The molecules in the tissues then start jumping around as they are agitated from 20,000 to 1,000,000 times a second.

The vibrations occur so rapidly that they can't be heard by the human ear, hence the ultrasonic description of the machine which technically is called "medi-sonar."

USED IN INDUSTRY

Industry has found use of the same theory to detect flaws in equipment. The U.S. Navy uses the same idea to track down submarines.

Duke just wants it to speed up the healing of damaged tissues. He's had an enviable record in that respect during his seven years of training Maryland football players.

No regular has ever had to miss a game because of injury. Some have been hurt, and rather badly. But Duke always has them ready by game time.

TRAINER SUSPENDED

The horse, owned by Mrs. Ippolito, returned $9.40 to win. The stewards referred the case to the Illinois racing board for further investigation.

Hear Convention Report

St. Peter's sub-division of the CWL met Tuesday evening at the social centre on Brock Street. President Mrs. F. Guilfoyle presided. A lengthy report on the recent Provincial convention, theme of which was "A spiritual rejuvenation of marriage, parenthood and family life", was read. It stated the national president is urging more interest in the spiritual side of the work as she feels the financial has been rather over-emphasized in some subdivisions. Plans were completed for a Grand Ball to be held in the Knights of Columbus Hall on Friday evening, November 13th. Those wishing to play cards for the evening may do so as extra rooms are being arranged for. Many prizes have already been donated. It was decided to hold a pot luck supper for the members some time in December. Discussions of ways and means to increase subscriptions of the CWL magazine took place. The treasurer's report showed a substantial balance.

OLD DAYS RECALLED—Peterborough in 1903 was brought back briefly Tuesday when a quilt cover, designed by R. C. Braund and worked by Mrs. H. Greene was on display at the Salvation Army. Mrs. Mary Dalladay (left) and Bill Parsons (right) read a few of the names worked on the quilt. People such as aldermen H. Rush, B. Shortly, R. Clinkscale, D. O'Connell and J. Batten, as well as many others, contributed funds for having their names on the quilt. It has been preserved throughout the years by Mrs. Braund. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Talk On India By Mr. Graff At Mission Circle

Mr. W. L. Graff, Chief librarian and a member of the United Nations Society of Peterborough, was guest speaker Tuesday evening at the meeting of the Mary Nichols Mission Circle in Murray Street Baptist church parlour.

His topic was India and he spoke of the part Canada plays in the Colombo Plan, World Health Organization, contributing $25,000,000 to India, Ceylon and Pakistan, to prevent famine, promote good health, modernize the industrial set-up, buy modern equipment, chemical fertilizer, etc. Mr. Graff said he hoped Canada's contribution will be doubled at the coming parliamentary session.

A film titled "Somewhere in India," dealing with malaria control was then presented by Mr. Graff. It explained that malaria is brought on by the sting from an onopholys mosquito. Through organization, all homes are being sprayed each year with disenfectant and the natives tested for malaria and treated if necessary. Through this the number of cases was cut to 3 per cent in 1951 from 77 per cent in 1950.

When the natives are well and free from malaria, more land can be tilled and more food supplied, Mr. Graff explained. Thus, their standard of living can be raised.

He remarked on his own experience when wounded in Italy during the last war. He was treated by Indian doctors and nurses and found them most gentle, but he observed they could be treacherous and clever foes. Mr. Graff added that there are many highly educated and cultured people in India whom Canadians should treat with respect. India has the third largest full length film production in the world, he remarked.

Mrs. A. Haddow expressed thanks to the speaker.

In the devotional period, Mrs. H. Frise read scriptures and offered prayer.

Reminder was given that a box of clothing is to be packed in December for the Indian Reserve at Southwold.

Decorated Rooms Viewed By WA At Meeting & Tea

The Women's Association of George Street United Church met Tuesday evening in the coronation room at the church. This room has been re-decorated by the WA, under conversship of Miss Mary Elliott, in the coronation colors and prominently displays pictures of Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

Following the meeting, the ladies were entertained by Mrs. Arnold Mathews for tea in the main room of the parsonage, which they have also been responsible for re-decorating recently. Mrs. E. W. Rowland poured the tea for them and Mrs. Mathews was assisted by Mrs. Archie Townsend and other women members of the executive of the Mr. and Mrs. Club.

The WA meeting was in charge of President Mrs. W. H. Frise. Mrs. George Munro's group was in charge of devotions with Mrs. H. G. McGinness reading the scripture and Mrs. J. M. Fanning offering prayer.

A delightful solo was contributed by Mrs. N. Hughes, with Miss Phyllis Kidd as her accompanist. These guests from the Knox congregation were thanked by Mrs. S. Wildman.

Special thoughts from the conference held in Lindsay past week were presented by Mrs. Fred Horton, Mrs. W. H. Morton and Mrs. Frise.

After the closing theme song and benediction, a film called "Beautiful New Zealand," was shown by Mrs. Quirt McKinney.

Beaver Coat Prices May Go Down

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—Milady can look forward to a slight drop in the price of beaver coats.

It's all due to the spread of a little-known disease among Canada's beaver population, particularly in northern Saskatchewan.

The Saskatchewan conservation board—in an attempt to stamp out the malady—has decided to put conservation into reverse and allow trappers to take extra-heavy quotas of beaver this season.

There will be no indiscriminate killing, however. Trappers councils which represent those working the traplines in the various conservation blocks in the north, will set the number of beaver which can be taken.

A total of 23,000 beaver pelts were taken last season and this winter's trapping will take many more. The effect of the move on beaver pelt prices is not known, but the experts predict it will force a drop in prices.

It's not expected the move will make itself felt at the retail level until 1955 at the earliest.

CORONATION SCHOOL

Announcement was made of the Home and School Council meeting November 11 and also the first euchre party to be held in the school on November 28th. Mr. A. McLeod, senior grades won the attendance prize.

Reports on the rural workshop held at Collins Bay and the region conference here were given by Mrs. N. Andrew, Mrs. W. Amos and Mrs. M. Northey.

Mrs. W. Muir introduced the guest speaker Miss Phyllis Moore, primary supervisor in the city schools, who spoke on "How children learn to read." She said reading can be in a form of a hobby, fact finding, escape, literary enjoyment, and the capacity to which one enjoys these will depend on how well they learned to read.

Children can be helped to open the door to reading by association of words with simple experiences in daily living by interpreting what that word means to them," she said. "When reading you have to bring something to the page to get something back from it. Each child is different; varying physically, emotionally and socially, and so they vary academically in the way they picked out and learn to use words. Help them to read with meaning instead of just words," she urged. "Reading is taught today by pictures associated with woods and used of the phonics lates.'

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. L. Welch.

A delightful half hour followed during which refreshments were served uner convenership of Mrs. J. Trennum and Mrs. J. Sutherland.

HAVELOCK

HAVELOCK (ENS) — "Home Education" was the subject of an address given by Mrs. Frank McKay, a former member of the Havelock Home and School Association, at a meeting of that organization in the public school Monday evening.

The general aim in the home should be "better parents" she said, because better parents make better children and a better nation. In order to help children become better children the parents must study their emotions and mental and physical growth. Their physical needs are rather obvious. They need an adequate and balanced diet, rest and sleep, fresh air and exercise. One of the main duties toward children is to make them feel that they are wanted.

Mental health is closely tied up, she said, with the degree to which the child finds social ways of meeting his personality needs.

Mrs. McKay quoted Dr. Laycock, Dean of Education in the University of Saskatchewan who said: "a child should be taught to work. He should be taught good habits of work and that he should approach life with the idea that work is man's greatest blessing and one of his greatest opportunities. Teaching a child that work is to be avoided and disliked is like teaching him to dislike certain wholesome foods. Teaching him to work for cash prizes can be crippling. Both attitudes are likely to cripple him for life."

All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy so the child must have recreation, Mrs. McKay continued. Play is the child's response to life. Teach him to play fair, and to be a good looser rather than a good winner. Through play the child learns skills, physical, dramatic, artistic, social, emotional and intellectual. He should be taught the Christian philosophy that no one can find happiness in life unless he freely and voluntarily serves others; that kindly acts of personal service is God's way. Respect for their leaders was another point she particularly stressed.

In closing, Mrs. McKay said that parents of teen-agers should with truth and frankness both in speech and in their family life, show their children that their marriage and family life has been a high and satisfying experience; that happiness does not just happen without a tremendous effort on the part of both husband and wife; that faith in each other and God is a foundation for security.

Mrs. D. Kirk, led a period of community singing with Mrs. J. Beatty as accompanist.

Mrs. W. Nobes, Sr., the health convener, gave as her topic "Three steps to personal peace." Two solos were sung by Mrs. J. Beatty with Mrs. Kirk at the piano.

The attendance shield and prize of $1 was won by Miss Ames room.

A communication was read in connection with the campaign to raise funds to purchase a building for national headquarters, which asked for a donation of 25 cents from each member.

The president, Mrs. J. Calnan, explained that a wishing well had been placed at the door for the purpose of receiving donations. These would be taken out after each meeting and placed in a miniature house and these forwarded at regular intervals to headquarters. The treasurer reported $161.63 in the bank.

Give Marriage A Chance, Settle Differences

DEAR MISS DIX: Why do you so often advise unhappy brides of two or three months to seek a solution of their dificulties within their marriages? Don't you think that a marriage which has only just begun, and which is already causing unhappiness, is better dissolved? Surely, the sooner the couple involved go their separate ways the better for all concerned. I feel that a marriage which fails to give joy when it is new is doomed to deeper and deeper pain while it continues. P. L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Our divorce rate is already appallingly high. Can you picture what it would be if every couple rushed to court at the first moment of unhappiness? No one expects every marriage to be blissful. It is, however, in working out dissensions, resolving incompatibilities and realizing the joy and mutual consideration that happy marriages are achieved—and all this takes time, not weeks, not months, but years. Marital joy isn't guaranteed at the altar. In fact, the trials and tribulations of wedded life are quite thoroughly brought to the attention of the young couple. Heaven's warnings are not sent to break a marriage, but to give the partners spiritual strength.

EARLY DISCORD MAY HELP

Factors that do make a marriage ultimately unbearable to man or wife do not suddenly appear within a few months after the ceremony. Such things as physical abuse, nonsupport, flagrant philandering, or chronic alcoholism almost undoubtedly have shown up as minor defects during courting; they were then overlooked by an indulgent, lovestruck sweetheart who was sure her young man would reform. Usually he doesn't, but the full force of a weakness doesn't strike for many months, or years. The usual run of unhappiness, dissatisfaction or incompatibility that shows up soon after the wedding bells cease to peal can be overcome by two intelligent, considerate people who are truly in love with each other. Why, then, should the first breath of discord lead to separation? The early difficulties of marriage are strengthening, rather than weakening, factors.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Although I'm 16, my mother still thinks I'm too young to know the facts of life. She says she didn't learn these things unti lshe was married, and there's no need for me to be enlightened.

Gracie

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your mother seems to be still living in the dark ages, as far as teensters are concerned. You have undoubtedly managed to pick up quite a bit of information by this time, anyway, but it should have come from your parents. However, I don't think there's much you can do about Mom since you seem unable to talk to her. Mothers who close their ears to their children's confidences, and the youthful need for personal knowledge, are doing wrong to themselves, as well as to their children. Someone else will impart the knowledge, and someone else will win the the confidence; then mother will regret the opportunity she lost to be emotionally close to her children.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: How can I win the interest of a lady I love? She's the sister of my late wife, and I have never spoken of my feeling.

Bert L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Don't sweep her off her feet with a declaration of love until a reasonable period of courting has indicated her feeling. If she accepts your gifts, is pleased to see you when you call and seems to enjoy going out with you, I'd say you had a chance.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Mrs. Dan Gerber (Mother of 5)

Gone are the so-called "good old days" when mothers overdressed or made fashion plates of babies. And it's a good thing that petticoats and party frills are a thing of the past. The needs of today's happy baby are few. We prefer our angels to be comfortable and free to move at will. A few ways to insure this:

1. Make sure baby's clothes are large enough for easy dressing, plenty of wiggle room.
2. Forget frills (except on special occasions). Shirt and diaper a wee one. Use non-ironing overalls for the creeper.
3. Keep clothes down to a reasonable minimum. Healthy babies need less covering than adults.
4. Don't hamper baby with shoes or socks too soon. Socks get wet, shoes do no good 'til he's actively creeping.

• • •

Soup's on! Nothing more heartening or mouth-watering on these brisk November days than Gerber's Strained Meat-Soups. So nourishing because they contain 3 important food groups: cereal, vegetables and meats. So appetizing because these delightful combinations add a variety of flavor and color to baby's meals. All are made with the extra care your most important little person deserves, of course.

• • •

Mother, send for this special offer! Something mighty handy! Three of these attractive Refrigerator Can Covers to snap on the opened can of Gerber's before popping it in the 'frig . . . send only 10 cents plus 3 labels from Gerber's Strained Foods or Junior Foods or one box-top from a package of Gerber's Cereals to Mrs. Dan Gerber, Box 17, Toronto 18, Canada.

Roast Rolled Barbecued Beef Special Menu

French Onion Soup with Cheese Balls
Roast Rolled Barbecued Beef
Broccoli with Mock Hollandaise
Garlic Rolls
Tossed October Salad
Ginger Cream Pumpkin Pie
Cafe Noir.

I am not pretending that this meal takes no time or, that when your guests have arrived and you are chatting with them in the living-room it will, under its own power, appear on your dining-room table.

What I am claiming is that it is a meal any cook could be proud of, but she must be a good manager and organizer. The last thing she does before that doorbell rings is make the cheese balls and keep them hot in the warming oven with the door open.

FRENCH ONION SOUP

Slice 3 medium sized or 2 large mild Spanish onions in thin slices. Pour boiling water over them, let them stand 5 minutes, then drain thoroughly. Melt 2 tablespoons butter gently in frying pan and gently saute for 3 or 4 minutes. Add 4 cups beef stock (or consomme or bouillo canned and diluted as directed on tin) or 3 bouillon cubes and 4 cups boiling water. Season if you want to with more salt and pepper. Serve piping hot, and pass the hot Cheese Balls to be dropped into the soup by your guests. (Another and better known method is to toast crustless round slices of bread, float one on each bowl and sprinkle with old grated cheese, preferably Parmesan.)

CHEESE BALLS

Mix together thoroughly ¼ cup softened butter, ½ cup grated cheddar cheese, ½ cup dry fine breadcrumbs and the beaten yolk of 1 egg. Butter your palms and form these into little ¾-inch balls, roll in breadcrumbs and fry in deep fat at 375 deg. Fahr.

BARBECUED BEEF ROAST

Unroll a rolled roast, and spread the inside of the roll with Barbecue Sauce with Onion: Mix together ½ cup catsup, 1½ teaspoons tabasco sauce, ⅛ teaspoon chili powder, 1 cup water, ½ teaspoon mustard, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1 tablespoon grated onion. Any that is leftover use for basting roast. Roast at 325 deg. Fahr. A medium done roast weighing 5 lbs. requires 2 or 2¼ hours.

Quick cook broccoli with lid on and enough water to half cover,—12 to 15 minutes is plenty of time. Serve with Pour over 2 beaten egg yolks and pour over hot broccoli in serving dish and serve at once.

6—In Memoriam

HENRY—In loving memory of a dear mother, Mabel Henry, who passed away one year ago, November 5, 1952.
How dear, how near, her memory,
How close, how sweet it stays,
To watch above her loved ones
And guide them through the days.
How perfect, too, each thought of her
How comforting to know
Her own dear love is with us still,
To bless the way we go.

40 Workers Cross Welland Picket Line

WELLAND (CP)—About 40 employees of the General Tire and Rubber Company, Stokes division, crossed picket lines to go into work today. There were no incidents.

Two pickets, charged Tuesday with wilful damage after windshields and side windows of two trucks of a district trucking firm were smashed as they were leaving the plant, were released on $1,000 bail each. Charged were Howard Holt, 32, and Gerald Sullivan, 28.

municipalities concerned would do. A favourable response was expected from Hamilton township but Haldimand township did not meet until next week. As Cobourg was the largest municipality, it was felt that this town should make the initial step by way of approval so that the Municipal Board could be approached. If action was taken soon, it might be possible to get plans ready this year and perhaps the town council might apply for this municipality's debentures issue. He said that Cobourg might be able to get things started sooner than if they waited until counties council met.

GREAT RELIEF

R. N. McKenzie, who retired this year as principal of the collegiate, said that it was a great relief in 1939 to move the pupils out of the outside accomodations to the new wing. However, since that year there has been a big increase in attendance until now they were holding classes in both gyms, the Orange all and crowding all vailable space. There were smart pupils in the collegiate but they were working under difficulty in view of the crowded school, Mr. McKenzie said.

Mayor J. D. Burnet asked if the new wing would meet the situation and Major Drope replied that it would leave them two extra classrooms to meet future expansion. Major Drope said he was very pleased to hear the Hon. Brooke Claxton tell the crowd at the cornerstone laying at the ordnance depot last week that the government would make a capital grant to the collegiate because of the extra burden the ordnance depot personnel would place on the school's educational facilities.

"We'll certainly hold him to that promise," said the Mayor.

Seek 2 Men

FOILED ATTEMPT

Later that same year, he found a man searching his hotel room during a trip to Timmins and foiled that attempted theft.

After the alarm system was put out of commission the thieves opened the door with a key, police think. A key was also used in the ignition and on the trunk.

When police found the car, the trunk was locked and they had to make entrance through the back seat which delayed their discovery that the jewels were missing by four hours. On the model car stolen, the trunk lid is self-locking.

Before it was determined the valuables had been taken, detectives thought that a youth or group of youths had taken the car for a joyride without realizing the value of the trunk's contents.

They feel now, though, that the car was taken by someone who fully realized what it contained.

C. I. Archibald New Manager Of Bank Of N.S.

Charles I. Archibald, newly-appointed manager of the Peterborough branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, brings to this city 27 years of experience in bank branches throughout Canada and the U.S.A.

C. I. ARCHIBALD

He succeeds R. E. MacDonald who has been manager here for the past five years. Mr. MacDonald has received an appointment to head office in Toronto.

Born at Truro, Nova Scotia, Mr. Archibald joined the bank there and served at several branches before joining the inspection department in 1939. After serving with the Canadian Army from 1942-46, he resumed banking activities at the Hamilton branch. Before his appointment here, he served as assistant supervisor in the investment and credit department branches.

With his wife and two children, aged three years and six months, Mr. Archibald will take up residence at 195 O'Carroll Ave.

His predecessor, Mr. MacDonald, has been an active citizen in Peterborough. He has held the post of treasurer in the Peterborough Cancer Association and recreation commission, and was a member of Peterborough Kiwanis, Peterborough Curling Club, and Peterborough Golf and Country Club.

Born in St. Peter's, P.E.I., he first joined the bank branch in Charlottetown. From 1940-46 he served as accountant at the Peterborough branch, and then moved to St. Anderws-by-the-Sea for a two-year appointment. After some service in the Toronto head office, he returned to Peterborough where he has been manager for five years.

Mr. MacDonald expects to leave for Toronto the first part of next week and will be followed shortly by his wife and 17-year-old son Robert.

Paratroopers Dropped

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Indian paratroopers have been dropped into the forest wilderness of Assam to protect Indians from bloodthirsty assaults from Dafla tribesmen, the government announced today.

Two weeks ago more than 500 Daflas made a treacherous attack on a 70-man mountain expeditionary party.

They killed all 70 with daggers and poisoned arrows, it was reported from Gauhati—and hacked off the victims' heads for trophies.

Many of those killed were members of a rival tribe, the Galongs, who under Indian supervision were carrying badly-needed salt, cloth and medicine to tribesmen in the northeast frontier wilderness.

The paratroopers were dropped in the Abor hills to reinforce the Indian garrison at Qusar.

An Indian spokesman here said the Daflas were warned that "stern measures" will be taken against them if they fail to surrender hostages and prisoners before a deadline this week.

ted in 1922 and since then, 10 additions have been made. The staff is now 700.

It became the first successful alarm clock factory in the British Commonwealth.

Mr. Vernor is a former president of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association of Ontario. He has no particular plans on what he will do when he finally steps down, but he expects to live on in Peterborough.

Deny U.S. Plans To Store Bombs In Spain

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two top administration officials have denied that the United States has plans to store atomic weapons in Spain—and Air Secretary Harold Talbott contends he didn't say the U. S. had any such plans.

The denials came Tuesday in quick succession, and in the wake of widely-published stories quoting Talbott as saying in Madrid Monday that there were such plans.

Until Talbott comes home about mid-month and gives his official version, the government apparently intends to ride along on the basis of:

1. The pronouncement of State Secretary Dulles, concurred in by Defence Secretary Wilson, that, "We have no plans for storing atomic weapons in Spain" and that if and when such plans materialize, "We shall not announce them publicly to the world and to our potential enemy." Wilson is Talbott's immediate superior.

2. Talbott's insistence Tuesday on arriving in Greece that he had said nothing about storing bombs in Spain "nor will I ever make statements about atomic weapons." He had been quoted by various correspondents for American and British newspapers and news services as saying there were such plans, subject to approval by Spain.

Expensive Party

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A jury has awarded a hotel detective $187,000 damages for injuries sustained during a melee which he said started when two wealthy wholesale grocers tossed ice cubes at band leader Xavier Cugat. The judgment was won Tuesday by William Howard Tobin Sr., 58, from Alfonso and Victor de Cassus, brothers' Detectives Tobin's suit charged the brawl climaxed a football celebration. Tobin says he still is partly paralyzed from a kick in the groin.

Nobel Award

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda today took a dim view of the awarding of a peace prize to Gen. George Marshall by the Nobel prize committee. In a cartoon it lampooned the former United State secretary of state as a wolf in sheep's clothing. The official Communist newspaper said: "This decision is so absurd that even the American reactionary newspaper Chicago Tribune called it a bad joke."

Believe Moscow Desires Stalemate

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—State department officials describe Russia's latest note on a German conference as fresh evidence that Moscow desires a kind of diplomatic stalemate—at least for the time being.

There was no immediate comment today by the department on the Russian response to a Western bid for a foreign ministers' conference on Germany and Austria. But privately, officials used such words as "evasive . . . a severe disappointment" in speaking of it.

The note, delivered Tuesday, was a reply to the invitation which the United States, Britain and France issued Oct. 18 to the Russians to attend a conference on Germany and Austria at Lugano, Switzerland, Nov. 9.

Officially, the state department said only that the full text "will be studied at the highest levels"—presumably by State Secretary Dulles and his advisers.

EASE TENSION

The gist of the note clearly appeared to be contained in a reassertion of these two points which the Russians had insisted upon in a message to the Western governments in September:

1. A five-power foreign ministers' conference, including Red China, which would seek to ease tension all over the world—apparently a free-ranging negotiation putting many problems on one table.

2. As a kind of second half of the big meeting, a conference of the foreign ministers of Russia and the three big Western powers, without Red China, to discuss the German question. The Russians contend that work on an Austrian peace treaty should go through normal diplomatic channels.

The general feeling at the state department here is that the Russians know they cannot "ram Red China down our throats," as one authority expressed it. Therefore, the Kremlin probably realizes that in proposing a conference with Red China it is setting an impossible condition while giving the appearance of willingness to negotiate.

CONCRETE PROBLEMS

The central idea in the Russian attitude is said to be that the Communists are plagued by a variety of internal problems which make it undesirable for them to deal now with the Western powers on concrete problems.

Another consideration which may actually be of the highest importance, but which officials here seldom mention, is this:

Russia has made steady progress in developing atomic weapons. In a few years the Soviet Union may be possessed of enough atomic weapons to do terrible damage to the Western powers. In such a situation, the Soviet government would be able to negotiate in a power position more nearly equal. Soviet officials may prefer to wait for that time.

Prisoners Hunt And Fish At Wide-Open N.S. Jail

SYDNEY, N. S. (CP) — The county jail here is a place where cells have no locks, prisoners hunt for deer, fish for gaspereaux, sleep in the guard's room and make errands to town.

It's not a model prison nor an unique experiment in penology. Supreme Court judges say it's just a dilapidated old clink, a "disgrace" that should have been torn down decades ago.

A guard told the Supreme Court Tuesday that on one hunting trip he and two prisoners visited several "bootleg joints" at nearby Reserve, Glace Bay and New Waterford.

Thomas Wells, 55, who lost his job and is charged with allowing prisoners to be at liberty, said he took John Mackie, 32, and John Wilson, 28, hunting for deer to satisfy prisoners' demands for a diet change.

HELD 150 PRISONERS

Wilson and Mackie were convicted of being at large while serving jail terms and were remanded for sentence.

The Cape Breton county jail has held nearly 150 prisoners although built to accommodate 44. Prisoners at one time were forced to sleep in shifts. There's often a waiting list.

Its most frequent critic is Mr. Justice W. L. Hall, who last month said provincial jails are in "very bad" condition. The municipalities, under whose jurisdiction the jails generally fall, say they haven't the money to build new jails.

Wells said prisoners could crawl out a back window. He often remained awake at night to unlock corridor doors so they could return after being out on the town.

JAILER CO-OPERATES

Jailer Angus MacLeod said he permitted the prisoners to go fishing for gaspereaux, a herring-like fish, to meet continued requests for fresh fish. He denied giving the guard permission to take the men hunting.

Wells also said that Wilson acted as "store man" for fellow prisoners. He was at liberty on occasions to do errands for jail mates. One night Wilson and Mackie were driven back to jail in a taxi. Wells opened the door.

Board Asked Certification

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Local 543, Windsor Municipal Office Employees Federal Union, (TLC), has applied to the Ontario labor relations board for certification as bargaining agent for City of Windsor salaried employees.

Board of control turned down an application for certification several weeks ago when N. T. Bradd, local TLC organizer, said he had "approximately 100" signatures from the 148 persons who would be covered by the union.

City treasurer E. J. Langlois said, however, that 210 employees would be involved and the 100 signatures did not represent the necessary 55 per cent. The board told Mr. Bradd to investigate the situation and return when he was sure he had the majority of workers signed up.

Instead of returning to the board, officials applied directly to the labor relations board for certification. A hearing of the application will be held in Toronto Nov. 10.

Rains Birds

PESCARA, Italy (AP)—It didn't rain cats and dogs here today, but it did rain birds. Several flights of migrating partridges were knocked out of the sky during a storm. Observers said the birds were stunned by the heavy rain.

Down Payment Cut Will Increase Building

TORONTO (CP)—R. K. Fraser, chairman of the legislation committee of the National Home Builders' Association, said Tuesday night he believes the federal government's proposal to reduce down payments on low-cost homes will increase house construction to 125,000 units a year, compared with the present 80,000 to 90,000.

The government recently announced it plans legislation to bring about lower down payments. It also plans to encourage banks to make money available for mortgages.

Addressing the Society of Residential Appraisers, Mr. Fraser said young couples who have saved $1,000 to $1,500 will be able to buy new homes without saddling themselves with exorbitant carrying charges.

Rare Buck

PIERCE POND TOWNSHIP, Me. (AP) A deer hunter returned Tuesday, with the body of a buck with 23 points on its antlers. Fish and game officials said Spencer Gage's kill was a rarity. Most bucks shot in Maine have 10 or 12 point antlers at the most.

Eisenhower Clears Way For St. Lawrence Project

THE LAW IS DOING ALMOST AS WELL as the hunters when sneak road-checking stations are set up. The time-worn explanation that hunters "forgot to snap on the license game seal" falls on deaf ears as far as conservation officers are concerned. (What could be simpler than getting away to the locker on one trip and going up country to shoot another deer?) In the above photo officer Gordon Buie of Lindsay apprehends two forgetful huntsmen at Young's Point. The two deer will be given to some institution.

Take Action Against U.S. Airlines

December 15 Deadline To Show Cause Services Continued

OTTAWA (CP)—Two United States air lines, Pan American and Colonial, have been asked by the Canadian air transport board to show cause by next Dec. 15 why they should not discontinue certain operational practices on U.S.-Canadian routes.

The services involved are Colonial's trans-border routes on the Atlantic seaboard and Pan American's west coast service to Alaska.

J. R. Baldwin, chairman of the board, said today the discontinuance of the practices referred to would not necessarily mean interruption of the services.

The situation arises from the recent restrictions placed on Trans-Canada Air Lines by U. S. civil aviation authorities, interfering with their proposal to operate a Canada-to-Mexico city service using a single aircraft for each flight.

ONE-PLANE PLAN BLOCKED

The U. S. civil aviation authority blocked TCA plans because of the proposal to use a single aircraft to operate two services, in spite of the fact that there was no pick-up of passengers in Tampa for the Mexico city flight.

When this action was taken the transport department announced it would review some of the existing operations of U.S. air lines flying into Canada.

The "show cause" order involves similar single aircraft operations carried out by the two air lines into and through Canada.

APPOINTED TO SENATE—Mrs. Nancy Hodges, former speaker in the British Columbia Legislature has been appointed to the Senate.

Mrs. N. Hodges Appointed To Senate

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today that Mrs. Nancy Hodges, former Speaker in the British Columbia legislature, has been appointed to the Senate.

The appointment of the 65-year-old Victoria, B. C., journalist brings to five the number of women senators. The strength of the Senate now stands at 81 Liberals and eight Conservatives, with 13 vacancies.

Mrs. Hodges, a native of London, England, was Speaker of the British Columbia legislature from Dec. 13, 1949, until June, 1952. She was the first woman in Commonwealth history to be named Speaker of a legislature.

Mrs. Hodges was defeated in the British Columbia provincial election last June, in which she was a Liberal candidate.

The four other women members of the Senate are Senators Cairine Wilson, 68; Iva C. Fallis, 70; Margareta B. Jodoin, 71, and Muriel McQueen Fergusson, 54.

Mrs. Hodges is well-known in British Columbia as a columnist for the Victoria Daily Times.

N.Y. State Appointed As Partner

Also Sets Up U.S. Section Of Engineering Board

WASHINGTON (CP)— President Eisenhower today took a step toward hastening construction of the St. Lawrence river power project by the state of New York and the province of Ontario.

The president signed an executive order designating the power authority of New York state as the United States partner in construction of the project.

The Canadian government already has designated the hydro-elecrtic power commission of Ontario as it agency.

SETS UP U.S. BOARD

Eisenhower also set up, under today's order, the U.S. section of the St. Lawrenre river joint board of engineers. He named Army Secretary Robert Stevens and the chairman of the federal power commission as the American members.

"This order completes the executive action needed to go ahead with this project," presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty told newspaper men.

Hagerty described the order as "the last green light needed" to permit construction of the power project at the International rapids area of the St. Lawrence.

However, action is still pending in U. S. Courts to block construction of the project. Owners of prop-

Won't Allow U.S. Talk To Gouzenko, Hasn't Information

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has informed the United States there is no reason for Igor Gouzenko, the Russian who disclosed a war-time Red spy ring in this country, to give information to a U.S. congressional committee, an external affairs department spokesman said today. Gouzenko has informed Canadian authorities, the spokesman said, that he has no information not contained in the 1946 report of a royal commission that investigated Red espionage.

The Canadian government attitude was made known to the U. S. after the American state department had transmitted a request that Gouzenko, now living in seclusion and under RCMP protective guard, be interviewed by a representative of the U. S. Senate internal security sub-committee.

CAN'T BELIEVE IT

NEW YORK (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy said today it is "inconceivable" that Canada would refuse to let a congressional committee question Igor Gouzenko in its hunt for Communist conspiracy in the United States.

McCarthy's comment came after Canada informally rejected a request by the state department to interview Gouzenko.

"It is inconceivable that any friendly government would turn down a request for a U. S. congressional committee to hear testimony of men who might give information that would help crack Communist conspiracy in the United States," McCarthy said.

Sarnia Reports 7 Inches In First Snowfall

TORONTO (CP) — Solid signs of winter hit most of eastern Canada today as snow fell in some sections of Ontario and temperatures hovered in the 30s from Winnipeg to the Atlantic. However, the West continued to enjoy mild weather.

Up to seven inches of snow fell in the Sarnia region during the night after weeks of mild weather. Port Huron, Mich., across the St. Clair river, reported a 12-inch fall.

The snow started falling shortly after midnight and halted shipping in lower Lake Huron and the St. Clair river. Fog signals were sounded all night.

The heavy snow fell within a 10-mile radius of Sarnia. Courtright, 10 miles to the south, got six inches and Camlachie, nine miles northeast, was hit by five. Three inches of snow fell at Sombra, 17 miles south, and an inch at Forest, 20 miles to the east.

Low temperature here during the night was 28 above zero.

Up to an inch was reported from the London region. There were light flurries in the Toronto area. Newfoundland got scattered snow.

The Dominion weather bureau

TEMPERATURES DROP

said temperatures skidded to the low 20s during the night in most sections of the East with Port Arthur the coldest spot at eight above. Prairie points failed to hit freezing and highs of 55 degrees were forecast for Alberta and most of Saskatchewan today.

Light rain fell in British Columbia today and the mercury hovered in the low 50s.

There were clear skies in eastern Canada. Weather officials said they expect most of the snow to melt by nightfall.

CGE Resigns Managership

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. is resigning as operator-manager of the government's big jet engine repair and overhaul plant in suburban Toronto and the government is negotiating with de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd. to take over the plant Jan. 1. The defence production department today announced Canadian General Electric's decision arising from government policy to concentrate on production of the all-Canadian Orenda jet engine and use them to power Canadian jet aircraft. Canadian General Electric was principally interested in the J-47 jet power unit, produced by its parent company, General Electric, in the United States.

This was the engine that Canada imported at the start of its post-war defence build-up to power the Sabre jet fighter built at the Canadair Ltd. plant at Montreal.

"With the decision, however, to power the Sabre jet with the Orenada engine made by A. V. Roe of Canada Ltd. and as a result of the government's gift of a large number of J-47 powered Sabres to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the number of J-47's in RCAF service will diminish rapidly," the department said.

MOSTLY REPAIR WORK

"Consequently it now is planned to use the Downsview plant principally for the repair and overhaul of Orendas."

Canadian General Electric now has stated it is "not anxious" to continue management of the plant

2 Tower Guards Being Jailed

LONDON (Reuters)—Two guards of the Tower of London, centuries-old fortress where the crown jewels are stored, were jailed Wednesday for dereliction of duty.

The men are members of two elite regiments — the Grenadier Guards and Royal Fusiliers—which maintain strict watch over the tower every night while the Tudor-garbed Yeoman Guards are off duty.

They were convicted on separate charges at two courts martial.

Fusilier Donald Crosby was sentenced to six months' imprisonment and had his pay stopped until he repaid $20 for uniforms he lost while absent without leave.

The other, Guardsman John Francis Marshall, was sentenced to 84 days' detention for falling asleep on sentry duty.

8 Passenger Cars Derailed On Flyer

CACHE BAY, Ont. (CP)—Eight passenger cars on a Canadian Pacific Railway train were derailed here today, blocking the CPR's main transcontinental line. No one was hurt.

The cars, on the rear of the No. 1 Montreal-to-Vancouver train, left the tracks at a switch as the train was pulling from the station in this community 20 miles west of North Bay.

All the cars remained upright but only the locomotive and the baggage cars were left on the tracks.

Rescues 10 Boys From Flames

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Ten boys ranging in age from seven to 13 years were rescued Wednesday by police after they became trapped by flames which roared through a section of Yawkey bush, a wooded area near west-end Windsor.

While directing traffic along the nearby highway which was covered with heavy, black smoke, Constable James Rowley heard voices coming from the fire area.

He made his way through the burning bush to find the 10 boys huddled in a group and ringed by flames. Because of heavy smoke they were unable to make their way out of the woods.

Rowley organized the group and led them to safety.

The boys said they had been playing in the bush and were trapped when they attempted to put out the fire. None of the boys was injured.

Liberal Statesman's Attack Against Vice Startles U.K.

LONDON (Reuters)—Viscount Camuel, 83, Liberal statesman and philosopher, crashed the front page of most British newspapers today with an attack against a vice wave he says is undermining the country's morals. The famed Liberal startled his fellow peers Wednesday night by launching into his "clean up Britain" campaign in the middle of the throne speech debate. He declared: "The vices of Sodom and Gomorrah are rife amongst us.

"If that becomes common, then the retribution will not be found in earthquake and conflagration. The retribution will be found in something much more deadly—the insidious poisoning of the moral sense."

PUBLIC OUTCRY

His speech coincided with public outcry over the disclosure two weeks ago by a London magistrate that in his court alone he dealt with 600 morals cases a year involving males.

Lord Samuel said in the House of Lords that the moral state of the nation, the character of the people, is something more important than all political, economic, financial and even international questions.

"In these days there is, among many careful watchers, a deep anxiety," he said. He applauded the public virtues of patriotism and courage evident in Britain, but added:

"Where we are at fault is in the individual characteristics of a section of the population, not a very large section but large enough not to be negligible."

CRIME INCREASING

Violent crime had greatly increased, and there were cruel and ruthless murders which "in an age of education and enlightenment are a disgrace to us all."

"Further, there is no question that sexual laxity is much more than it has been in earlier generations.

"Adultery is regarded as a jest, and divorce is a mere unimportant incident."

Moral law had weakened partly because the old dogmas of heaven and hell no longer gripped and controlled conduct, partly because science taught strange new doctrines in physiology and psychology."

U.K. Continues Seek Russ Talks

LONDON (CP)—Foreign Secretary Eden said today Britain will continue to press for talks with the Soviet Union "at any level."

"Despite the disappointments, our broad purpose remains unchanged," Eden said in the Commons debate on the throne speech. "If others choose to slam their doors and barricade them, ours will remain open. Talks at any level remain our objective for our work is a work for peace which we shall not abandon."

Eden said the Big Three Western powers are still willing to discuss the future of Germany and Austria with the Soviet Union "at any time and any place and without any prior conditions at all."

He said the latest Soviet note ignoring a Western invitation to Request Judge Be Banned

Steelworkers Disapprove Robinson's Actions

TORONTO (CP) — The United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) today asked the Ontario government to ban Judge John J. Robinson from conciliating any disputes in which the steelworkers are involved.

The union made the request to Labor Minister Daley after it said the judge added his criticism of union procedure to a conciliation board majority report. The union said the addition was made public without consulting other board members.

Eamon Park, an international representative of the union, said in a letter to Mr. Daley, "it would probably be best for the effectiveness of conciliation machinery and for the union's approach to conciliation procedures" if Judge Robinson were not again named to conciliation boards involving the steelworkers.

The judge has been serving as chairman of conciliation boards in connection with gold mines disputes in the Porcupine area.

Mr. Park criticized the judge's issue of an addendum to the majority report issued recently in a Macassa mine dispute. In the addendum, Judge Robinson criticized the union's release to the press of the minority report of Miller Stewart, union nominee, in which Mr. Stewart had said that the judge by-passed traditional rules of British justice by considering in his majority report rumors and hearsay which had not appeared in evidence before the board.

Reporter's Russian Proves Trap

Find Sign Language Brings Surprises

(Editor's Note: Gerald Clark, staff writer with Weekend Picture Magazine and the Examiner's Saturday magazine section, is the first Canadian newspaperman to receive a working visa to the Soviet Union since 1946. This series of six daily despatches from Moscow will be followed by other articles from Clark on Soviet Union in early issues of WEEKEND).

Moscow, Nov. 5—Take it from me, don't ever come into a foreign country like Russia unless you savvy the language. My first morning here I managed to order breakfast by drawing a picture of fried eggs. The waitress said something that I took to mean "How many?" Since sign language is universal, I confidently held up two fingers. She brought me a platter of six eggs.

As I later discovered, the standard order in the Soviet Union is three eggs. My gal hadn't thought it strange that a man should want a double order.

Anyway, I'm much more learned now and I can even say "chetire," which I mumble to the operator of my hotel elevator when I want her to let me off at the fourth floor. If I get there on first try I become more confident and I say "Spaseebo"—thanks.

Credit for this fresh knowledge must go to a little pocket book with which I armed myself before leaving Canada. It's called "What to Say in Russian"—a collection of stanadrd phrases in Russian, with the Phonetic Version beside it. Apart from such sentences as "What time does the first train leave for Barcelona", it does contain much useful material.

NOT MUCH VARIETY

Under the heading of "At a Dining Room," for instance, you can decide what to eat and drink. At first I tried to pronounce the phonetic translation, but it came out a cross between Hindi and Swedish. Now I simply point to the Russian words and leave the rest up to the waitress. The trouble is that the booklet has only a few dishes, and I'm getting awfully tired of "otbeevnaya kotleta"—a plain chop.

Of course, in really involved matters I'm accompanied by a westerner who speaks Russian and knows the customs. Since I'm not on a conducted tour, I'm free to move about as I please. Often I just wander off by myself, looking at the sights and getting lost. I find the people very friendly, at least to the point of a warm smile and quick assistance. Yesterday, I forgot my sense of direction after turning from Gorki street onto a side street. I stopped a man and woman, and they joined in thumbing through my little book, but I couldn't locate the right phrases.

Meanwhile, there was much amused shrugging of shoulders and laughter which sounds the same in any language. Eventually the man hailed a couple of young girls who were carrying books and might have been college students. One of the girls disappeared for a moment, and reappeared from a shop with a woman who had a smattering of English. She started me on my way.

Yesterday, too, I bravely invaded a barber shop for a hair cut. Barber shops here are much like those of other European countries — with stiff-backed wooden chairs that face a row of wash basins. A small table holds the barber's implements. The only difference is that my barber was a woman of about 50, buxom and very methodical. She read the passage in my booklet that said "trim only", chuckled her approval, and tucked a towel under my chin. After she was through with the clippers she held my face in her hands to get the proper perspective on my sideburns. Then she gave my moustache a military clean-up.

THAT RUSSIAN LOOK

When I saw myself in the mirror I couldn't decide whether I looked like a Russian or a Prussian. One good feature, however, is that a haircut in Moscow costs only two rubles (50 cents), an inexpensive service when you remember that it costs 16 rubles ($4) to have a suit pressed. The other good point is that there's no wasted effort at idle chatter.

Not knowing the language can sometimes get you into unexpected and interesting situations. The other day I had a noon appointment to meet an official at the press section of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. I made my way all right to the Ministry's huge new building and walked up to the main door, there to be greeted by a uniformed security guard who apparently had been instructed to be on the lookout for a foreigner. He saluted me, and motioned to a girl who was waiting inside the marbled lobby. Though there was no exchange of words she obviously was going to guide me to the press office. On the way up she smiled sympathetically while I struggled through "dobriey den"'—good afternoon.

SLIGHT MISUNDERSTANDING

I was ushered into a large, well-furnished office where two men quickly rose, came over and shook my hand. One of the men started the conversation in French. This was a break. At least my French is better than my Russian. We all sat down, swapped Soviet and Canadian cigarettes, chatted a few minutes about the weather (it's very nice, by the way—like a mild fall at home), and how was I enjoying my stay in Moscow? Then I decided we'd better get down to business. I pulled from my pocket two passport photos and said, "I believe I'll need these for my press cards."

"Your press card?" the men said in unison.

There'd been a slight mix-up. These foreign office men had nothing to do with the press—they were awaiting a newly-arrived French diplomat. I was promptly shown to the correct office, at the other end of the building.

Scores Injured In Trieste Brawl

TRIESTE (AP)—Police opened fire on rioting pro-Italian students in this disputed Adriatic port city today. Unofficial reports said one student was killed and four or five others wounded.

It was the second day of rioting here by pro-Italian demonstrators. Before resorting to gunfire the motorized police used tear gas and clubs to break up the rioting. The students hurled bricks. There were many injured among both police and students.

At one point, police went after students who had sought refuge in the Church of St. Anthony, in downtown Trieste, beating them and driving them out of the church and causing panic among persons praying there.

First reports said several scores were injured, including police and students, and taken to hospitals for treatment.

Mossadegh's Trial To Begin Wednesday

TEHRAN (AP)—Mirror Hall in Saltanatabad prison will be the scene next Wednesday of the treason trial of former premier Mohammed Mossadegh. Conviction can bring the death sentence.

This was disclosed Wednesday night by a high government official who said preparations for the military trial include seating for 50 Iranian and foreign reporters to cover the proceedings. The room will hold 200 persons in addition to the judges and other officials.

Mirror Hall is in the prison's Colafarangi building. The court room adjoins a six-storey hexagonal brick tower whose hat-shaped red roof gives the building its name. Colafarangi means "European sun hat."

Mine Blast Kills 8

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—A gas pocket exploded today in the St Helena gold mine, Orange Free State, killing at least eight persons and injuring more than 30.

Judge Evicted From Arena

BARRIE (CP)—Police said today the goal judge for a visiting hockey team was ejected from the arena here "for his own protection" Wednesday night when he got into an argument with heckling fans.

Bob Duncan, an injured defenceman with Toronto Marlboros, acting as goal judge, was escorted by police from the rink after the argument during the third period of a game between two bitter rivals—Barrie Flyers and the Marlboros—in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league. Marlboros won 10-3.

Duncan was barred from re-entering the building. Police said they took him to the station to "cool down." He was not held or charged.

Stafford Smythe, Marlboros manager, charged in Toronto that Duncan was taken to jail in handcuffs.

Police denied that Duncan was handcuffed.

End Meat Rationing In U.K.

Will Denationalize Industry Next Summer

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's government announced today it will restore Britain's vast meat industry to private traders next summer and simultaneously end rationing and price control of meat and bacon.

Control over the meat industry—including buying and selling—was imposed as a wartime measure. But it was continued by the post-war Labor government whose leaders claimed the government could do the job more efficiently and economically than private dealers.

Churchill's Conservative party consistently opposed this idea. Announcing its future plans, a government white paper stated

"The ministry of food will continue for some time to come to import bacon, but will not trade in meat; 1954 will thus see the end of rationing."

By that time, too, every item in the British housewife's larder will be freed from government control, according to present plans.

The white paper said the annual turnover of the meat industry is more than £300,000,000 home produced and more than £200,000,000 imported:

"Under any rationing and allocation system it is impossible in a trade of this size and complexity to study individual consumer demand to the extent that the large number of private traders did before the war."

Railmen Plan To Take Strike Vote

Talks With Companies "Unproductive" Union Declares

MONTREAL (CP)—An official of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen (Ind) says a strike vote will be taken among 6,000 members employed by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways.

W. E. Gamble, vice-president of the union, said a meeting Wednesday between union and company officials was "unproductive."

It would probably be about two weeks before results of the voting were known.

The long-standing dispute stems from a representation clause in the union's contract. Until 1946, the union handled personal grievances of members and former members.

UNION CHANGES

In 1946, the railways said they would deal only with the union to which the employee belonged. That meant a fireman promoted to an engineer would be under the jurisdiction of another union and could no longer deal with the brotherhood.

The railways have described the dispute as a jurisdictional one for the brotherhoods to settle between themselves.

Fire Destroys Seymour Barn

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A barn fire, the glow of which could be seen for many miles destroyed a large barn on the farm of Carl Owens on the tenth concession of Seymour township about eight miles north of here Wednesday night.

Campbellford's fire department responded to the call, but were unable to do anything to check the flames, which had almost destroyed the frame structure before the firemen arrived.

Firemen stood by to check the spread of the flames, but due to the fact the house was located some distance from the barn, they had little to do.

The barn was not used to house any cattle or grain, and had been used only as a storage shed for a number of years. Neighbors said Owens had moved all his farm equipment, except his tractor and plough, into the building shortly before dark. Everything in the building was lost. Damage has not yet been estimated.

Canada May Price Herself Out Of Market

WINNIPEG (CP)—The president of a major Canadian farm equipment company said Wednesday Canada must be careful not to price herself out of export markets.

C. Gordon Cockshutt told the Manitoba and Lakehead Farm equipment Retailers' Association it would not be healthy for Canada if her domestic production costs were out of line with world prices.

"No matter how much we desire to maintain the price of our grain, I trust our western farmers will not experience the result of holding grains which can be more cheaply purchased in other large producing markets."

He said in future Canada should be more dependent on selling agricultural products and manufactured articles at home. This would only come about through rapid population growth.

Report Not All Of Platinum Has Been Recovered In $250,000 Metal Robbery

HAMILTON (CP)—R. C. McQuire, head of the International Silver plant at Port Colborne, said today that all of the $250,000 worth of platinum concentrate stolen from the CNR express office Tuesday, had not been recovered. "When the kegs were hidden under the culvert, one of them sprung open, and a considerable quantity of the concentrate was spilled out and lost," he stated. "Our men are trying to determine now just how much is gone."

Mr. McQuire said the seven-keg shipment had been insured by his firm at $922,000.

"In addition, the express company insured it for $46,000."

Earlier police placed its value at about $13,000.

Harboway is in hospital with a broken neck police say he suffered when an automobile crashed out of control on a roadway 11 miles south of here.

A farmer brought Harboway and another occupant of the car to hospital Tuesday night. Harboway was admitted but his companion, who apparently suffered minor cuts and bruises, disappeared.

SPECIAL TRIP

Ralston laid the theft charge after a special trip from Port Colborne to Harboway's hospital bedside late Wednesday.

He said the kegs were part of a large shipment being made by the International Nickel Company.

Seven drums of the concentrates —containing platinum, gold, silver and palladium—were to be shipped to Copper Cliff for further refining.

Plant officials at Port Colborne said the concentrates were useless to the average person.

"It looks as though someone told the thieves the stuff was valuable, but they'd have a tough time making any money on it," they said. "It had to be refined."

Other Places Colder Than Here

Take heart, says the weatherman, there are colder places than Peterborough.

For example, Dawson in the Yukon was nipped by 10-degree-below temperature overnight, and the highest there Wednesday was 9, 10 degrees colder than the low of 19 for the city overnight. Temperature at 9 a.m. was 24, and at noon 31.

Dawson, of course, is only a hoot and a holler (200 miles) from the Arctic Circle, which puts this city practically in the banana belt.

In Port Arthur, eight above was the low, with 30 the high. Other minimums across the country ranged from 44 in Victoria to 19 in three separate places in Ontario. Maximums varied from 54 in Halifax down to the chilly 9 of Dawson and 53 in Victoria.

Begin Talks On Iranian Oil

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain and the United States today began top-level diplomatic and technical discussions of problems connected with the return of Iranian oil to world markets.

Foreign Secretary Eden and American ambassador Winthrop Aldrich met at the foreign office with Herbert Hoover Jr., the U. S. state department oil consultant, who flew here Wednesday after a two-week survey visit to Tehran.

They discussed diplomatic issues involved in the repair of the two-year breach between Britain and Iran, precipitated when the government of ex-premier Mohammed Mossadegh ousted the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company and seized its big Abadan refinery.

Also present were technical experts from the British ministry of fuel and power and the treasury.

Find Prices Mixed In Active Trading

TORONTO (CP)—Prices were mixed in active early afternoon stock market trading today.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,715,000 shares.

Industrials were up as steels, refining oils, utilities and liquors gained. Banks were mixed and others traded lightly.

Golds were only slightly higher. Seniors gained, juniors mixed and holding companies weakened.

Base metals were more than a half-point higher with Steep Rock, Normetal, Sherritt-Gordon, Waite Amulet and Barvue leading the widespread small gains.

Uraniums continued lower as both strength and activity lagged. New Bidlamaque, New Delhi, New Norozne, Parbec, New Mylamaque and Marbenor were pennies down with volume ranging to New Delhi's 115,000 shares. Landover was up a fraction with a volume of more than 125,000. Chimo and Gunnar were up.

Western oils were almost unchanged. Losses ranged to Peace River's 25 cents as Calgary-and-Edmonton and Scurry dropped. Merrill, General and Anglo-Canadian were higher.

Accuse Bishop Of Slander

UPPSALA, Sweden (Reuters)—A 57-year-old Protestant bishop went on trial here today, accused of slandering a rival candidate in a church election in anonymous letters to the clergy in his diocese.

The defendant in the case, called the biggest sensation of the century in the Swedish state church, is Bishop Dick Adolf Victor Helander.

He was elected bishop of the diocese of Straengnaes, central Sweden, in October last year. He was previously a theology professor at Uppsala University.

Shortly before the election, clergy in the diocese began receiving anonymous letters exhorting them to vote for Helander and attacking a rival candidate, Prof. Hjalmar Lindroth, and an Uppsala clergyman, the Rev. Erik Segelberg, plaintiffs in the present case.

Bishop Helander declared in a written statement: "I swear on my honor as a bishop and a Christian that I have had nothing to do with the anonymous letters.

Cut 19 Letters Off Epitaph In Cemetery

LEEDS, England (Reuters) — A plain white gravestone in a local cemetery will be pulled up this week so that its simple epitaph can be altered.

The epitaph has 59 letters. But the city council decided Wednesday that 19 letters must be chopped out because Leeds cemetery regulations stipulate that epitaphs should have no more than 40 letters.

Now the relatives of the deceased person who lies beneath the disputed stone are pondering how to change the epitaph, which reads: "In loving memory of a dear wife and mother. Died 26 July, 1953. Aged 75 years."

Alderman Mrs. Mary Pearce, chairman of the parks and cemeteries committee, said the decision was taken because "We are trying to avoid ostentation in the cemetery."

Labor Party Opposes Food Policy

LONDON (CP)—The Labor party Wednesday night declared its opposition to Prime Minister Churchill's policy on food prices and moved a want-of-confidence motion against the government.

In the traditional amendment to the reply to the throne speech, Opposition Leader Clement Attlee expressed regret that the speech contained "no reference to or provision for dealing with the high cost of food, which is bearing so heavily on householders with small incomes, and particularly on the old-age pensioners."

A second Labor amendment dealing with farm policy is expected to be moved later and others are likely to follow.

IN GENERAL TERMS

The throne speech dealt with proposed government legislation only in general terms. Details will be provided in a series of white papers on government bills which will be submitted to the Commons.

The first white paper, dealing with housing, was presented and drew immediate fire from the Labor benches. It described the new "operation rescue" which eases Britain's 15-year freeze on rents to permit necessary repairs by landlords and providing for sweeping new slum clearance.

Left-winger Aneurin Bevan said that the Conservatives had brought "havoc" to Britain's housing program. He denounced the government's new housing proposals as "just wind" and said amid Labor cheers, "not only slum clearances and reconditioning but all rent restricted houses must eventually become the property of local authorities."

Bible Colleges Dedicate Chapel

The new chapel of the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College was dedicated in a special service today by the Rev. W. H. Found, president of the college.

The chapel, formerly the laundry building of the old Civic hospital, was recently renovated by students and faculty members of the college. About 160 students and faculty members and wives attended the service.

Faculty members and ministers attending the Pentecostal conference at the Dublin St. church assisted in the dedication.

Coldwell Describes Malan As Dictator

SASKATOON (CP)—CCF leader M. J. Coldwell described prime minister Daniel Malan of South Africa Wednesday night as "a Fascist dictator" whose policies in his own country are "bringing disrespect for the white race all over the world."

The Socialist leader, a member of Canada's delegation to the United Nations General Assembly, came here from New York to attend the three-day annual convention of the CCF's Saskatchewan branch.

In a speech at a convention banquet, he criticized UN delegates for "not saying publicly what they say privately" about Malan.

The CCF leader, who spoke in praise of socialism, said "the greatest act of history performed in the last half century was the decision, by a Labor government, to give India her independence of Britain."

Order Radio Station Ignore Censorship

VIENNA (AP) — The Austrian government has instructed Vienna's main radio station, RAVAG, to ignore Soviet censorship in future, a government spokesman said today.

Since beginning of the occupation in 1945 the state-run radio station, located in Vienna's Soviet sector, had been forced to submit its entire program to Soviet censors before its transmission. In repeated cases the Russians curtailed the program or delayed broadcasts without explanation.

The government has instructed the management of RAVAG to stop submitting manuscripts to the censors of the Soviet information office. The Russians thus far have not taken any steps to enforce their original instructions.

Blames Jewish Vote For Failure

YORK, England (AP) — The Archbishop of York today said "the Jewish vote in New York has had a paralyzing effect on the United Nations in dealing with Palestine."

The Anglican archbishop, Most Rev. Cyril Garbett, said in an address prepared for the York diocesan conference:

"Unless some strong line is taken, the tension which exists will snap and the Middle East will be ablaze.

"As long as the future of Jerusalem remains uncertain and there are tens of thousands of embittered Arab refugees on the other side of the frontier, there can be no real peace."

URGES STRONGER PATROLS

"The failure of the United Nations in Palestine will affect its prestige throughout the world.

"An immediate step there should be stronger neutral patrols on the frontiers, but it is far more important that another attempt should be made to negotiate an agreement between the Arab states and Israel."

He did not enlarge upon his remarks about effect of the New York Jewish vote on the situation.

discuss Germany and Austria at Lugano, Switzerland, Nov. 9, laid down "extensive and unacceptable conditions."

The Soviet note, in effect, asked the Western powers to scrap the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the European Defence Community before Russia would enter discussions on Germany.

"If we accepted those conditions it would undermine our security and make it impossible for Germany to regain her unity in freedom," Eden said.

It was through EDC, "with its many safeguards and collective machinery, that Germany could most acceptably contribute to the defence of Europe."

Eden said: "It is hard to find any sign that the Soviet government has modified its fundamental hostility to the Western nations."

Eden declared:

"We shall, of course, continue to hope and to watch for a change of heart and for any opportunity to relax the tension. Meanwhile, we have no option but to persevere with our defensive arrangements upon which our very life depends."

EARLIER STATEMENT

Earlier, Eden said there had been some relaxation of tension between the Soviet Union and the Western world.

"We know that under Stalin Soviet effort was largely concentrated on preparedness for war. Has the position changed and, if so, how has it changed?

"Perhaps the new rulers of Russia have realized that Stalin drove the Soviet people too hard, perhaps they believe that higher standards of living will give better results in production.

"We know there is a new program for the development of agriculture and for production of more consumer goods. This is a promise of better conditions for the Soviet people and we hope it will be fulfilled."

erty along the U. S. shore of Lake Ontario oppose the power development because they fear it will cause "grave increases in the water levels."

Although this action is still to be heard, New York state has indicated it will go ahead with engineering planning on the power project.

SEAWAY FORERUNNER

The $600,000,000 power project will produce more than 12,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of power a year from the rapids which are located between Massena, N. Y., and Cornwall, Ont.

The power project and the proposed St. Lawrence seaway—which would provide access to the Great Lakes for ocean-going ships—are two separate developments. However, without the power project the seaway construction would not be practicable. Thus, clearance for the power development also has the effect of making possible the seaway.

Canada has declared it intends to build the seaway by itself if the U. S. continues its refusal to participate.

and the department is negotiating with de Havilland to take over the facility on Jan. 1, managing it on payment of an unspecified government fee.

The engine repair plant, which opened operations about a year ago, is located in Downsview, in Toronto's northern suburbs. The $2,500,000 defence development, employing between 600 and 700 workers, is considered as one of the most modern and completely equipped of its type in the world, the announcement said.

The department added that it has been assured by both companies that the "interests of all employees at Downsview would be protected as fully as possible" by the changeover.

PoW Explanations Stalled

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Communist efforts to coax home anti-Red Chinese and Korean war prisoners ground almost to a halt today as stalling Red "persuaders" dregged out interviews and walked out during even minor disputes. Only 136 prisoners were interviewed all day. And only two of the 136 elected to return to Communism. This was the smallest number of PoWs to appear before Red explainers in any one day and was only a fraction of the 492 prisoners the Communists asked to see. There was growing speculation here that the Reds might be preparing to call off explanations which have won back only a handful of balky prisoners.

It was the second straight day of slow-down tactics by Communist teams trying to change the minds of prisoners who have rejected repatriation.

POOR SCORE

And even though interviews average about one hour and 20 minutes each, the Reds chalked up their poorest score in seven days of explanations. Less than 1.5 per cent of the prisoners said they would go back to their Red-ruled homelands.

Only 61 of 2,020 prisoners interviewed to date have agreed to go back.

Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the neutral nations repatriation commission, broke up some long interviews with prisoners who obviously were anti-Red.

CLOSED SESSIONS

Meanwhile United States envoy Arthur Dean suggested today that top Allied and Communist diplomats abandon temporarily efforts to arrange a Korean peace conference and turn over to sub-committees disputes which have stalled the preliminary talks.

The Communists promptly said "no," then agreed to think about it overnight.

Dean, noting that the high-level negotiators have got nowhere, told reporters he felt staff advisers could have a "freer exchange of ideas." They presumably would meet in closed sessions.

Dean said the top delegates now "sit like bumps on a log" and have "no give and take" in their deliberations.

Will End Term As Chairman

NEW YORK (AP)—Directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Company of the United States Wednesday night announced that Thomas I. Parkinson, involved in a controversy with state insurance authorities, will end his term as a board chairman next February.

Alfred H. Bohlinger, New York state superintendent of insurance, has accused the 71-year-old Parkinson of "nepotism" in guiding $950,920 worth of the firm's advertising to an agency controlled by his son.

The directors met in a special session that dragged on for 12 hours. The meeting was called by Bohlinger after Parkinson refused to resign his $100,000-a-year job. Bohlinger did not question the financial soundness of the company.

Parkinson has served as chairman of the board and a director of the company for 26 years. The directors' announcement said under his direction "the society has grown to third place in the life insurance field."

Chairman Resigns From Labor Party

NEW YORK (CP)—Vito Marcantonio, state chairman of the left-wing American Labor party and former member of the House of Representatives, announced his resignation from the party Wednesday.

Marcantonio blamed "an inherent division" within the party which he said has reduced it from an independent political force to a "pressure group." The dispute had prevented the party from putting up an effective fight in Tuesday's New York City elections.

The American Labor party has been labelled for years as a tool of the Communist party.

Discusses Plans For Air Bases

ATHENS (CP)—United States Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, U. S. Air Force chief of staff, left for Turkey today after discussing a master plan for American air bases in Greece.

Greece on Oct. 12 signed an agreement allowing U. S. forces to use Greek air and naval bases. Talbott said before leaving that it will be three or four months before the air base plan can be implemented, but that American experts now are in Greece to work out the details.

Twining said the U. S. will supply advanced types of jet aircraft to Allied countries under the mutual defence assistance program "just as soon as they are available."

There were plans in Washington to begin replacing the F-84 Thunderjets, now being provided uropean countries, with "more advanced aircraft."

Second Meeting Fails To Bring Agreement

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A second meeting, called by Mayor Arthur J. Reaume, failed to bring about any agreement between major construction firms and carpenters who have been on strike for the last eight days, it was announced Wednesday.

Work on 85 jobs in the Windsor area has been halted since the Carpenters, members of Local 494, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (AFL) went on strike to back wage demands. Meanwhile more than 5,000 other building trades workers also are idle, having refused to cross picket lines set up by the carpenters.

The carpenters, who now get $2 an hour, are seeking an 18-cent hourly boost to be granted gradually between now and July 1. The construction firms have offered a 15-cent hourly increase.

Foiled Nazi Plan, Naval Officer Dies

HALIFAX (CP)—Cmdr. R. Barkhouse, 59, the naval officer who foiled a German wartime attempt to bottle up the busy port of Halifax, died Wednesday.

Nazi submarines mined the approaches to the harbor, rendezvous for convoys to Britain, in June, 1943. Canadian and British navy mine-sweepers under Barkhouse's command swept them up without a fatality.

He later went to England, where he supervised Canadian mine-sweeping exercises in preparation for the invasion of France.

Build New Church

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Construction of the new Free Methodist church on Ranney St. is well under way.

The building is almost wholly closed in and a slate roof is on. Church officials hope to be able to hold Sunday school classes in the basement within a few weeks.

The former church building was destroyed in a fire, along with a warehouse, last fall.

Too many Cats

WORTHING, England (Reuters) A retired naval commander admitted in court here Wednesday that he tried to spank his wife with a walking stick, but claimed he had a reason, she kept 14 cats in the house. Cmdr. Hugh Smith Pugh said his wife behaved like a spoiled child, so he decided to treat her like one. The judge fined him £5.

CGE Generators For St. Maurice

Two huge generators will be built at the Peterborough works of the CGE for installation along the St Maurice river near Trois Rivieres, Quebec.

One 53,000 KVA generator will be installed in the Trenche station, and the other, 40,000 KVA, at the La Tuque station. Both will be operating by 1955.

Five GE generators are already operating in each of these stations, being installed between 1939 and 1943. The Shawinigan Water and Power Co., which made the order, is one of the largest of its kind in the world feeding homes, industries and farms in Quebec. Capital expenditure from 1946-51, totalled $93.4 millions and further planned expenditure to the end of 1953 is about $38.5 millions.

Russia's Master Spy Jailed For 1 Year

LUCERNE, Switzerland (AP)—Rudolf Roessler, Russia's wartime master spy, was sentenced today to one year for reviving his espionage service for Red Czechoslovakia after the war.

A Swiss federal court also handed his contact man, Dr. Xavier Schnieper, a nine-month term. The eight months both men have been jailed awaiting trial are to be deducted from their sentences.

Roessler, a 56-year-old German exile, and Schnieper, a Swiss who served mainly as his messenger, were convicted of spying on Atlantic pact defence measures in Germany and elsewhere in Western Europe. They operated from 1947 until they were arrested by Swiss police last March.

Both worked for the Swiss intelligence service during the war; Roessler also worked for the Russians.

Four-Lane Road May Knock Subdivision Plans For Loop

COBOURG (ENS) — Although there has been no official word from the Department of Highways to the council, it was revealed at the regular meeting of the town council that the new four-lane highway, 401 would be going through the Benedict subdivision. This knocks for a loop a local improvement by-law to supply water via a main to that subdivision. Council was advised by the owner that he had just been informed by the department that the highway would need all the land which he had laid out for a housing subdivision.

Council had previously sent to the Municipal Board for approval, three bylaws, one for water service out on Ontario street one for Burnham St. and the third one to the Benedict property. The Public Utilities Commission had planned to order the necessary pipe for all three water main extensions. With the Benedict property out of the picture, there might not be enough householders to make up the necessary percentage for a local improvement bylaw, the town clerk told the council.

Mayor Jack Burnet said that so far the only word had been through Mr. Benedict and nothing official from the department, as far as the council was concerned. Council was anxious to get the Division St. bylaw through but their hands were tied until they heard something from the province.

After some discussion, a resolution was passed authorizing the the go-ahead signal on Burnham and Ontario Sts., as soon as the bylaws were approved, the Division St. extension to be left until more was known about it.

A letter from W. E. Cooper asked for some action to prevent any more instances of water backing up from the creek that runs through the business section. He said it has flooded his cellar on a number of occasions. The matter was referred to the town engineer.

The dangerous intersection at University and Division Sts., the latter being Highway 45, was the subject of considerable discussion, following a letter from St. Michael's Parent Teacher Association. The letter reminded council that a traffic light had been promised there and pointed out that if action was not taken, some school child might be killed, in view of the proximity of the school to that corner. Councillor Lilian Richards and Reeve Jack Erskine both agreed something had to be done.

Councillor Jeff Relph, chairman of the police committee, said that he didn't think a traffic light was the answer. He said that he understood that the Department of Highways had to approve such installation and he was not aware just who should be contacted. He suggested that a traffic supervisor was the answer to the problem. The traffic there was not heavy enough to warrant a traffic light as there should be a 50-50 traffic movement from the two streets forming the intersection. He declared that in his opinion it was the school's responsibility to appoint a traffic supervisor. Furthermore the traffic rush at that intersection was only during part of the day.

Mayor Burnet commented that he had been in touch with an official of the highways department and was informed how to go about applying for a traffic light and he said that he was informed also that the department would welcome an application, after which they would investigate the situation and prescribe whatever remedy was most effective.

"We must take some definite steps. It would be a terrible thing if a child were killed at that intersection," Mayor Burnet declared.

On motion it was decided to get in touch with the department and also advise the PTA of the fact that the council was contacting the department and to suggest to the PTA that a traffic supervisor be considered.

D'Arcy St., which leads to the main gates of the new ordnance depot has a dangerous level crossing. Traffic on this road is getting heavier all the time and due to a ridge along the CPR line it was impossible for a motorist to get a clear view until he is almost on the tracks. Council will approach the CPR with the view of getting the ridge levelled off.

The Young Can't Win

It is a terrible thing to be young—not quite a crime, but near to it. We have known this for years, but it was impressed upon us again by the newspaper condemnation of some Victoria College students at the University of Toronto, who burned Senator McCarthy in effigy on Hallowe'en. These students, according to one of their critics, are gnawing at the foundations of U.S.-Canadian friendship; another writer complains that they carried out this joke while dressed in Ku Klux Klan outfits, thereby allying themselves with a notably reactionary force; a third condemns their action as "ill-mannered bad taste." No doubt there is something in what the critics say. Still, we think that the students should be given credit for an attempt to liven things up.

* * *

It is not many weeks since Dr. Sidney Smith, the principal of their university, was urging young Canadians to be characters—to break away from commonplace patterns of thought and behaviour. The students at Victoria dressed up in bedsheets and burned an effigy of a man whose principles they dislike; this is not a brilliantly imaginative stroke, but it is something. Rome was not built in a day, and characters are not created by a single prank. Perhaps next time the students will go farther; perhaps they will do something funnier, or of more striking political import. We implore their critics to give them a chance.

* * *

Our national attitude toward young people is a contradictory one. Our progressive system of education is designed, ostensibly, to teach the young to think for themselves, and to free them from some of the constraints which afflicted their more strictly educated fathers. Yet it appears that as soon as boys and girls are dismissed from school, at the age of seventeen or eighteen, we want them to behave with the wisdom and restraint of Roman Senators. We do not want them to be young, if youth implies any conduct which is not completely orderly, well-considered and politically sound.

* * *

The young can't win. If they are even a little bit wild, we slap them down. If they are sober, orderly and colourless, we nag them about their lack of adventurousness. It looks as though the best thing a young Canadian can do is to grow old as fast as he can. Then he will be perfect in the eyes of his fellow citizens.

Change In U.S. NATO Strategy

There appeared to be some confusion last week about the strategy of the United States with regard to N.A.T.O. forces. Defence Secretary Wilson, at a press conference, hinted at the possibility that there might be a reduction in the U. S. forces for the Atlantic Alliance, and newspaper headlines appeared to that effect. Then, at another press conference the next day, Secretary of State Dulles told reporters that "I am quite sure there is no plan to reduce the N.A.T.O. forces."

It seemed at first a case of which secretary to believe, but inquiries revealed that both were probably right. One was talking about prospects considerably distant in the future, the other about the immediate future. Certain military planners in the U. S. are trying to convince the President that the nation's defence plan should consist of forces armed mostly with atomic weapons These forces, so armed, could be considerably smaller than the U. S. forces now with N.A.T.O.

That, however, will be fairly far in the future. For the present, there will be no lowering of U. S. forces with N.A.T.O., unless there is a radical change of policy. Aside from the fact that N.A.T.O. forces as a whole are still regarded as too weak, the psychological effect of withdrawal on allies of the U. S. would be very bad. And even when the new strategy is fully worked out, it appears unlikely that there will be any reduction in the present strength of U. S. forces until other nations, especially West Germany and Japan, are able to replace the troops that would be withdrawn.

There will be reassurance for allies of the U. S. in this clarification of the temporary confusion of last week. Had it not been for explanation of both the secretarial statements, the shipment of atomic cannon to Europe last week might have been regarded as the beginning of the new strategy. It now appears simply as a progressive defence measure which may in time be linked with the strategy.

Whitby's Medieval Jail

We anticipate with lively interest the full published report which the Ontario Legislature's Select Committee on Reform Institutions will eventually make —and its recommendations. It is an important committee, making a survey and analysis long overdue. Press reports indicate that it has already found much to dismay the people of the Province and to stir legislative action.

Early this week the Select Committee visited Whitby, Ontario county town. The county's only jail is in Whitby, and the members of the Committee were relieved when their tour was completed and they could step out into fresh air and elbow-room. "It's like stepping back to the Middle Ages again," one member is reported to have said. We have never been back to the Middle Ages, in or out of jail, nor in Whitby jail, so we cannot vouch for the accuracy of the comparison. It seems, however, that Ontario County is trying to get along with a jail built a century ago when the area's population was a fraction of what it now is, and the number of jail birds was much smaller. We shall hear more of Whitby's jail.

During its visit to Whitby the Select Committee on Reform Institutions received a resolution from Ontario County Council suggesting that a Protestant reform institution for wayward women be established. At present such women are sent to the Mercer Reformatory in Toronto, which takes only dissolute women aged between sixteen and thirty-five, the Ontario County Council brief recalled. Ontario County Council wants something to take care of women who go beyond thirty-five years. It seems the County has a case on its hands.

The woman is thirty-two; in three years time she will be thirty-five. Then what will Ontario County do with her? There seems little likelihood of her mending her ways, judging from the pessimistic tone of the County Council's communication to the Select Committee. "Her only crime is promiscuity." She has had six illegitimate children by five different fathers. Attempts have been made to have her certified mentally deficient and committed to an asylum, but her IQ is between 80 and 90. She is now at Mercer. The report we have read says that "Every time she gets out of hospital or reformatory, she heads back to a bootlegger's house in Uxbridge."

Has it occurred to Ontario County Council which wants a new reformatory built to house such women, or to the local police, that a simple expedient which might work some improvement in the woman's behaviour would be to get rid of the bootlegger and his joint?

No Impediments To Romance?

Recently we read a complaint by a modern novelist that romance is too easy nowadays; social distinctions and family feuds, which used to keep loving couples apart and provide novelists with plots, are extremely uncommon, and the novelists hardly know where to look for something which will keep boy from getting girl.

We do not think that the situation is as bad as that. We read, for instance, of the case of Thomas Flynn, a British sailor, and Jean Kawahkib, an Iraqui slave girl, who have just been married at Middlesborough, in England. They met in Basra, loved, and wanted to get married. They could not get permission to do so from local authorities. So Flynn smuggled the girl to England, keeping her hidden for 44 days in his cabin. When he got her to England they were both arrested, she for illegal entry into the country, and he for abetting her entry. Though they have been married, they are both out of prison on bail, and will have to stand trial.

Surely the most demanding novelist will not say that this romance was easy. And who took the leading role in making it hard? The governments of Iraqui and Britain!

Everything is passing under government control nowadays. Even the ungrateful, but apparently necessary, task of making the path of true love rough and thorny has been undertaken by government officials. The novelists need not worry. As long as there is a civil service there is no danger that life will become too simple.

NOTES AND COMMENT

We read that "An Eskimo seldom commits suicide." Well, for most of us, once is enough.

In Hungary they are now making boots from turkey skin. And what, may we ask, are they serving in the boarding houses?

A McGill university professor deplores the remark "I didn't bring no lunch" which he overheard when it was made by a student. And well he might! That sort of improvidence should have been checked in public school.

Discussion rages in Ottawa as to what tune shall be played on the carillon when President Eisenhower visits on November 13. Why not create an international incident with "I Don't Want To Play In Your Yard," or possibly "Anything You Can Do, I Can Do Better."

LATIN-AMERICAN ROUND-UP

Besetting Sin Of Laughing

By J. HALCRO FERGUSON

THE SITUATION in British Guiana continues to preoccupy Governments, if not peoples, in Latin America. The Argentine Government, with its claim to the British colony of the Falkland, is naturally the most interested.

Argentina's Ambassador to Venezuela, a country contiguous to British Guiana has told the local Press that Argentina will undoubtedly bring up the question of colonialism at the forthcoming Inter-American Congress in Caracas, the Venezuelan capital. His further remarks about the living conditions of people in British colonies are not however, likely to impress Venezuelans, most of whom live in no better conditions themselves.

The Argentine official radio, also, by implication claimed United States support for such moves. In connection with President Eisenhower's speech at the opening of the Falcon Dam—a U.S-Mexican project—it stressed the President's "declaration against imperialism and in favour of a policy of non-intervention in the affairs of other nations."

✧ ✧ ✧

REPERCUSSIONS of the Argentine-Chilean economic agreement, signed earlier this year by Presidents Peron and Ibanez, continue, and it becomes ever more evident that the Argentines see the agreement as the first step to integrating the economies, and possibly the foreign policies, of all the Latin American republics. President Eisenhower's speech at the Falcon Dam inauguration, where he met President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines of Mexico and reiterated the United States' interest in its neighbours; and his brother, Milton Eisenhower's continental tour; are cited as proof that the United States favours increased co-operation between the Latin countries.

In Barcelona the new Argentine Ambassador to Spain, Senor Oscar Salas Letelier, after routine compliments to General Franco (who is also being nice to the Americans these days), went so far as to say that the meeting between Peron and Ibanez might lead to a union of all the Latin republics adding the now customary tribute to the success of Dr. Milton Eisenhower's tour.

✧ ✧ ✧

NICARAGUA'S Dictator-President, Anastasio Somoza (Who has also said his say on British Guiana) returned to his small central American country after signing an economic agreement with Argentina in Buenos Aires. Before leaving he accompanied President Peron when the latter made a speech outlining the "ten points" of his agreement with Paraguay, which is similar to that concluded with Chile. President Chaves of Paraguay sent a message pledging his "full support" to the principles of the agreement, which allows for the possible future inclusion of other countries.

✧ ✧ ✧

RELATIONSHIP between Peron and his neighbours, however are not entirely rosy. The Chileans, whatever agreements may be signed on their behalf, have never particularly loved or trusted the Argentines, and Chile's Chamber of Deputies (Lower House) frequently questions Ministers about Argentine's behaviour in regard to their own country. Two such queries cropped up during the last two weeks.

On October 20, thirty Deputies from several Parties asked for a special session of Congress to consider the arrests in Argentina of Chilean journalists, students and trades unionists, members of a delegation on their way back from Europe. The Foreign Minister, Senor Oscar Fenner, investigated the complaint, and reported that, according to the Argentine Ambassador, the arrests had been made "without the knowledge of the Government," which was very sorry, and would explain later.

✧ ✧ ✧

A MORE SERIOUS charge against Argentina was subsequently levelled in the Chamber by Deputy Raul Morales. He alleged that in the previous few days, detachments of the Argentine Navy had occupied several islands in the Chilean Antarctic; and, furthermore, that Argentine naval charts and official maps showed these islands as Argentine territory. He asked for a secret session of Congress at which the Ministers of Defence and Foreign Affairs could be interrogated on this point.

Before the suggestion could be followed up, the Deputy's allegation was denied as "fantastic" by the Commander-in-chief of the Chilean Navy, Rear-Admiral Enrique Lagreze, who said his ships were there at the time and had not seen anybody. This message was passed on the Congress by the Foreign Minister.

✧ ✧ ✧

DESPITE this prompt denial, the important Peronista Argentina evening newspaper "La Epoca" let forth an angry blast not at Deputy Morales but at the Chilean Press for reporting the matter. The non-Argentine Press in general was accused of "systematic slander, rumour-mongering, and tendentious reporting" of Argentine affairs and the Chilean Press ("criers of stinking fish" among other things) of "inter-American defeatism."

This outburst seems hardly justified by the fact of Chilean newspapers reporting the proceedings of their own Parliament, but becomes intelligible in the light of the closing sentences of the article. The Chileans, it appears, should be conjuring up a British bogey, not an Argentine one, in the Antarctic.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT IS NOT ONLY the Chilean Press which has made the Argentines angry. The Brazilian millionaire owner of radio and television networks and newspaper chains, Senator Assis Chateaubriand, has evoked a vigorous attack from the influential Buenos Aires paper "La Critica."

"If" declares La Critica, " a prize were awarded to the most sinister and unscrupulous person in the world, Assis Chateaubriand would be a unanimous choice." The Senator's crime is having attacked, in his newspapers, Argentina's recent economic agreements with Chile and Paraguay, and having accused Peron of trying to resuscitate the old (Spanish) Viceroyalty of the River Plate (Argentina, Paraguay and Uruguay).

Some substance was given to the Senator's second charge by a curious incident on October 17, which is celebrated in Argentina as "Loyalty Day," being the anniversary of Peron's triumphant transference from prison to power in 1945.

On that date an unidentified aircraft circled over a residential area in Uruguay, dropping leaflets inviting the citizens to attend a ceremony in Buenos Aires to pledge loyalty to "the Leader"—Peron. The Montevideo radio reported that "considerable surprise and amused comment" had been caused among the inhabitants. The Uruguayans have, in Argentine eyes, a besetting sin: they think Argentines funny.

An American Opinion: FACE-LIFTING

Echoes From The Sound Barrier

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

DR. O. M. SOLANDT, chairman of Canada's Defence Research Board, says that supersonic flight will soon be commonplace as the jet engine is perfected. Such a development is to be expected, when it is recalled that jets, in some eight years, already have multiplied their power four or five times.

The effect of the communities surrounding jet bases, however, is growing at the same pace. The noise of jets is already proving a major problem and supersonic jets will add something even more disturbing than the noise.

When the U.S. Air Force demonstrated its new supersonic fighter the other day in California, the sonic "bangs" produced by the craft shattered several windows in the airport administration building, including panes of plate glass. The pilot explained that he had miscalculated where the sound waves would hit; he had expected them to hit at the end of the runway, a saft distance past the administration building. At 750 miles an hour, however, it is a very simple matter to make a miscalculation of a mile.

Squadron Leader Neville Duke, who recenly held the air speed record for Britin, published an article concerning sonic "bangs" in The Times' annual Aviation Supplement. In it, he declares that the shock waves produced when an aircraft exceeds the speed of sound in a dive can be aimed, but he also agrees that a pilot is usually too busy doing other things to devote his attention to aiming them.

"This problem will be increased tremendously when the new (supersonic) fighters are in squadron service," says Duke.

The most optimistic factor in Duke's article is that these supersonic fighters will normally fly at altitudes about 20,000 feet, at which height it is believed the bangs they produce will not be heard or felt on the ground. But in actual or simulated combat supersonic dives to lower altitudes will undoubtedly occur.

"No one can expect the pilots to dive on their target, or dive away when attacked, only in such a direction that those on the ground will not be disturbed . . ."

Aviation industry spokesmen point out that every major problem that has arisen in the 50 years of powerful flights has eventually been solved, so this one will be solved, too. But they have no idea how, just yet.

Poetry and The Empire

(MANCHESTER GUARDIAN)

DR. Tsiang Ting-fu, the Kuomintang Delegate to the United Nations, has been quoting poetry in the Assembly. The poem from whose works he read is the Kuomintang's great adversary, Mao Tse-tung. He translated one of his poems written, he said, just after the surrender of Japen in 1945.

There spreads the land in winter's northern light,
For thousands of ice-bound miles the whirling dance
Of snowy mist holds it as in a trance.
Behold, beyond the Great Wall a blanket of white,
Of raging torrents, the choppy rugged plains,
And the snow-clad mountains' silvery manes—
How they heave and arch to reach the heaven's height!
These lands, these rivers, their bewitching charm
Inspired the conqueror-emperors of Chin and Han,
Tang and Sung, in splendor striving to expand.
Alas! All short of stature! And Genghis Khan
Knew only how to shoot a hawk for play.

For the towering figures watch the scene today.

It might be interesting to compare this translation with the Chinese original. Chinese poems are not usually translated into the sonnet form. Perhaps Mao's poem was not as bad as it sounds. That he should write poetry is engaging. There have been royal poets in the past, but they have usually been harassed monarchs—like James I. of Scotland or the last Moghul Emperor—not conquerors on the upgrade. Dr. Tsiang, however, does not at all approve of Mao writing such things. He admits reluctantly that the expansionist sentiments expressed by Mao have been found before in Chinese history. But in the past poetry has not been profaned by them.

> In all China's literature (he says) there is not a single poem or philosophic essay approving of imperialism. On the contrary, Chinese writers have stressed the misery which conquest involved.

Certainly it would be nicer if Mao used his poetical gifts for strictly pacific purposes instead of for drawing attention to his own "towering figure." But it is a good thing when dictators turn to poetry for self-expression. This must be agreed by anybody who had to read "Mein Kampf" or the writings of Stalin. Dictators' poems are very much shorter than dictators' prose.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now we beseech you, brethren, by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and by our gathering together unto him, that ye be not soon shaken in mind, or be troubled, neither by spirit, nor by word, nor by letter as from us, as that the day of Christ is at hand . . .

For the mystery of iniquity doth already work: only he who now letteth will let, until he be taken out of the way. And then shall that Wicked be revealed, whom the Lord Lord shall consume with the spirit of his mouth, and shall destroy with the brightness of his coming. (II Thess. 2:1,2,7,8.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And I saw heaven opened, and behold a white horse; and he that sat upon him was called Faithful and True, and in righteousness he doth judge and make war. His eyes were as a flame of fire, and on his head were many crowns; and he had a name written, that no man knew, but he himself. And he was clothed with a vesture dipped in blood: and his name is called The Word of God.

And the armies which were in heaven followed him upon white horses, clothed in fine linen, white and clean. And out of his mouth goeth a sharp sword, that with it he should smite the nations: and he shall rule them with a rod of iron: and he treadeth the winepress of the fierceness and wrath of Almighty God. And he hath on his vesture and on his thigh a name written, KING OF KINGS, AND LORD OF LORDS. (Rev. 19: 11-16.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Shall mortal man be more just than God? shall a man be more pure than his make?

Behold, he put no trust in his servants; and his angels he charged with folly: how much less in them that dwell in houses of clay, whose foundation is in the dust, which are crushed before the moth? They are destroyed from morning to evening: they perish for ever without any regarding it. (Job 4:17-20.)

Letter To The Editor

WHY A CROOKED SEWER?

SIR: November 2nd, 1953, an article "New Trunk Sewer Being Laid Along Westside" was published, in which the location of the sewer was given.

It would be interesting to know why that sewer is laid so that it cannot serve one single home.

If its main aim is to serve the Westbrook Subdivision, (Westmount Gardens), why not build it as started, along the highway with the natural slope; straight line, lower expense. By doing so the city would save the cost of 500 ft. of sewer, work and time. This would more than pay for the 10-inch sewer along Dobbin St. (which exists only on paper).

In my estimation, however, the owners of the property along Dobbin St., like other big housing schemers should build the sewers at their own expense, and not at the expense of the taxpayers, and not at the expense of the city planning.

The sewer as planned starts from the intersection of Clonsilla and Third Sts., runs away from it in a curve, serves nobody, and having made about 800 ft., comes back 100 ft. short of Clonsilla at Sherbrooke and turns north along Dobbin St. to Charlotte, turns west about 250 ft., then north to Westmount Gardens.

A parallel to this crooked line can not be found in America.

Sincerely yours,
D. INTERESTED.

New Barracks Almost Ready For Canadians In Germany

Editors Note:
Canadian forces in Germany are moving to new quarters near the Rhine. In this story, last of a series of three, Bill Boss describes the new barracks and amenities for the troops at Soest.

SOEST, Germany (CP)—The new $25,000,000 barracks for Canada's NATO force in Germany are almost ready for arrival of the new brigade this month.

Advance parties have come from Canada to take over the camps, built at no cost to Canada near the Ruhr towns of Soest, Werel and Iserlohn. All are within easy motoring or cycling distance of scenic Lake Mohne.

New units in the 27th Canadian Brigade will move directly into the camps on arrival from Canada. Units returning to Canada will start home from Hannover where the brigade has been based until now.

Of cream stuccoed concrete with green concrete roofs, the new barracks blocks are designed like modern bungalows.

MODERN FACILITIES

The grounds have still to be landscaped but each camp has paved and lighted roads and sidewalks. Each building has hot and cold water, central heating and electricity. The administration buildings, barrack blocks and messes are finished and a gymnasium and movie theatre for each camp will be completed in December.

The official opening Nov. 9 will be attended by Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, chief of the Canadian general staff.

Moving barracks stores—3,000 truckloads of beds, bedding, lockers, desks, mess tables and so on—from Hannover to Soest has been carried out progressively as soldiers of the retiring 27th brigade left for Canada. Some British Army transport was used.

Each Canadian infantry section will have its own dormitory, its NCO in an adjoining private room. Col. H. A. Phillips of Victoria, in charge of the project from the start, said this arrangement will make it easier for NCOs to control their men and keep the quarters clean.

CAMP LOCATIONS

Two camps are near Soest. One, four miles south, has a view of Lake Mohne, a popular summer resort, and will house brigade headquarters and the 2nd battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment. Just southeast of Soest in a rather bleak, treeless area will be brigade service units including the army service and ordnance corps.

In wooded country a few miles west, near the town of Werel, will be the Royal 22nd Regiment. This area was chosen for the Van Doos because their neighbors will be French-speaking units of the Belgian forces of occupation. Flemish-speaking Belgian elements are in Soest.

In an equally pretty area southwest of Soest, near Iserlohn, will be the 2nd Patricias and the 2nd regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

Each unit's lines, including its canteens, garages and vehicle parks, will be self-contained.

Transportation is by bus. The operators have promised to make sure the troops can get to and from the towns when off duty, but entertainment will be a problem. None of the towns has night life of the sort likely to appeal to soldiers. Cafes and restaurants close at 8 p.m.

RENT TWO HOTELS

To help meet the situation, the army has rented two small hotels near Lake Mohne, one for other ranks, one for sergeants. Each has a main room with dance floor and tables for dining and wine service, a snack-bar and soda fountain, and reading and writing rooms.

The army also is renting clubs in Soest and Werel, where there are no suitable facilities for Canadians. In Iserlohn, British clubs can be used.

Each club will have an orchestra. Ottawa plans to keep Canadian Army bands in the brigade area on six-month tours of duty.

Married quarters, planned as suburbs of the neighboring towns, are projected for each camp.

Besides bringing Canadian wives closer to shopping and other town facilities, the communities are intended to reduce the German housing shortages if NATO forces can be moved out later.

APARTMENT BLOCKS

Most housing will be in 12-apartment buildings, the first 708 suites ready in May, another 694 in October. There will be a limited number of semi-detached and detached homes for senior officers. The houses will be let furnished.

Families may be moved immediately to Germany at government expense if soldiers can satisfy authorities here that they have suitable accommodation on the continent or in the United Kingdom.

Residents of Soest seem friendlier toward Canadians than were the Hannoverians. The Soest newspaper Beobachter an der Haar, emphasized in an article:

"The Canadians are not occupation troops maintained out of occupation costs, but are supplied and maintained by the Canadian government. Most of them, however, also purchase extensively on the German market."

MOVE CANADIAN TROOPS — Canadian troops in Germany are being moved from Hannover to Soest where they will have new barracks. Meanwhile, they are kept in fighting trim by field manoeuvres. Sgt. Norbert Messier (right), of Montreal, and CSM Arthur Leblanc, Quebec City, of the Fusiliers Mont Royal of the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade, check field rations. —(CP from National Defence).

Privy Council Hears Outline

By ARCH MacKENZIE

LONDON (CP) — The background of a Canadian transport dispute was outlined Wednesday to five lords of the judicial committee of the Privy Council.

At stake is the question of whether the provinces or the federal government control highway traffic crossing provincial and international boundaries.

Three provinces — Ontario, Alberta and Prince Edward Island—have appealed a Supreme Court of Canada decision handed down in October, 1951. The decision upheld the principle of federal control. A second appeal, consolidated with the first, has been brought by a Maine Bus Company, the Canadian Pacific Railway and Canadian National Railways Company and the federal government.

Nova Scotia wants both appeals dismissed.

Legal arguments by 11 Queen's Counsel is expected to last two weeks or so.

Priests Claim Snowman's Scalp

BOMBAY (Reuters) — Buddhist priests in a Himalayan temple have shown Indian mountaineers a scalp claimed to be that of an "Abominable Snowman," the mysterious creature said to inhabit the region.

An expedition, now returned to Bombay after an unsuccessful assault on 23,190-foot Mt. Pumori, described the scalp as "very thick" and covered all over with "red-dish-brown hair."

The "Snowman" has been variously described as a giant monster, halfway between man and ape, a mountain bear—and purely legend. But the Sherpas, who inhabit the region, regard the "Snowman" with awe.

The priests, whose temple is 14,000 feet up in the mountains, refused to sell the scalp, but Russi Gandhy, expedition leader, said that a number of photographs were taken of it and the expedition brought away several hairs.

Geohagen Takes Huge Lee In Two Straight Falls Of Main Bout Of Mat Card

Timothy Geohagen downed Hi Lee in two straight falls at the Brock Arena last night to take the main bout of the pro wrestling card. The 233-pound Irishman was awarded the first fall in 24 minutes, though hanging upside down in the ropes at the time, when Referee Bert Maxwell was knocked down by the infuriated Lee as Bert tried to break the illegal hold. The second fall was earned all the way by Tim in just six minutes as he applied a prolonged "sleeper" hold to render huge Hi, who scales 292 pounds, unconscious. It was a popular fall with the fans, and even Maxwell (who feuded throughout with Lee) looked happy at the finish.

ILLEGAL TACTICS

The towering Lee was rough almost from the start and dished up a big assortment of illegal mat tactics, despite frequent warnings from Maxwell. He even slugged Bert once and another time pushed him around, but the ref evened that up by yanking Lee's long locks from behind and setting him up for a sold smash from Timothy. Though Tim took a bad beating, his strength kept him going and he weathered several severe storms to pound his shaggy-maned opponent around. Geohagen did apply his "Irish sleeper" unconscious neck hold once but the powerful Lee withstood the grip and revived to roar defiance. He finally tied Tim upside down in the corner ropes and was working on him when the ref interfered, the latter then being knocked down, but returning to disqualify Lee.

Hi started it rough again in the next round with punches, eye rasps, chokes and using the feet. He threw the Irisher into the turnbuckles but again Tim came back fast and lugged Lee across the ring where he threw the big fellow hard into the buckles. Lee wobbled out to the ring centre where he was a setup for the workmanlike Tim, who promptly applied his "sleeper" grip to the sides of the neck. Hi was hard to finish but finally succumbed and went limp, Maxwell awarding the fall to Geohagen, as the fans cheered. Tim even gave Lee a short, brick massage to help revive him.

GOES TO DRAW

The semi-final went to a draw with Johnny Harmon, 225, and the 241-pound Firpo Zybsko both counted out of the ring. Firpo had been getting away with much nasty work when the angry Harmon chased him out of the ring and tore out after him, both swapping blows while the count went on, and neither getting back in time. Harmon was extra fast and smart in ring work to more than hold his own against the villainous Pole, who was bald atop but sported a big mustache. When Firpo persisted in pulling Johnny's hair, Harmon retaliated twice by jerking on the Pole's mustache to throw him for body slams. Firpo got in plenty of knees, fists, choke holds, eye rasps and the rest, but couldn't match the smooth Georgian in smart grabbling. The latter made a hit with the cash customers.

The prelim saw Bill Stack, scaling 241, and the 246-pound Herb Larson go to a time-limit draw, and mix it briefly after the bell. It was speedy in spots and with some good grips shown, especially a punishing wristlock by Stack. Larson frequently went to the ropes to escape and he used the ropes, as well as other unethical methods, to go the distance. They threw fists at times and Stack staged a fine display of drop-kicking to draw applause with Herb ending outside the hempen strands. Stack had an edge toward the finish but they were hard at it when the gong sounded.

Filchock Back With '54 Riders

REGINA (CP)—Frankie Filchock will be back with Saskatchewan Roughriders in the Western Interprovincial Football Union's 1954 season.

Rider officials announced Wednesday the 37-year-old Filchock has his playing-coach job waiting when he returns to Regina from a trip to his home in the United States.

Terms were not announced. No papers were signed.

"I just told him he has a job—the same as I told him last year," said club president Bob Kramer.

Filchock has been one of Regina's favorite sons since he slipped ties with Edmonton Eskimos last winter.

He and the Riders departed from the 1953 WIFU scene last Saturday after losing the two-game, total-point semi-final 60-23 to Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Chatham Edges Sarnia In 4-3 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There were no easy pickings in Ontario senior hockey Wednesday night. Of five games in the two Senior A leagues the difference between the opposing teams exceeded two goals in only one.

That was the 4-0 shutout Owen Sound Mercurys handed Niagara Falls Cataracts in their Ontario Hockey Association meeting in Owen Sound.

The OHA league also had its first tie since the season started 26 games ago. Stratford Indians scored a second-period goal in Sarnia to carry them to a 1-1 overtime deadlock with the Sailors.

In the other game of the big-eight circuit Chatham Maroons drew a 4-3 home decision over Hamilton Tigers to pull into a three-way first-place tie with the Tigers and the Mercurys.

IN SOLE POSSESSION

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds took over sole possession of first place by dropping Sudbury Wolves 4-3 in Sault Ste. Marie. Pembroke Lumber Kings defeated Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 5-3 in Pembroke.

Bill McComb, Buck Forslund, Jerry Reid and Roy Leckie fired the Mercurys to their shutout.

Pat O'Leary scored for the Sailors midway through the first period of their clash with Stratford. But Billy Flick came back for the Indians in the second session with a goal that knotted the count 1-1.

Chatham slammed in two third-period goals to win the squeeker over Hamilton. Carl Liscombe, Joe Carveth, Ed Didone and Bill Lee shared scoring for the Maroons. Jack Taylor bagged all three for Hamilton.

NETS TWO GOALS

Nobby Clarke netted two goals for Pembroke. Bruce Giesebrecht, Jim Maxwell and Lionel Barber ran out the string. Gordie McBride, Lloyd Hinchberger and Danny O'Connor clicked for the Indians.

Defenceman Don Johnston's goal in the last period gave the Sault Greyhounds the victory. Eddie Mulligan, Hec Pozzo and Matt Mesich bagged the others for Sault Ste. Marie. Gordie Heale fired two for Sudbury with Mauno Kauppi netting the other.

Both leagues take a breather tonight before Pembroke is at Sudbury Friday night. Stratford goes to Hamilton and Sarnia is at Chatham in the OHA loop Friday.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

An American football coach has come up with a radically new system of figuring statistics in a game. Archie Sherar maintains that the standard system used by scorekeepers doesn't give an exact picture of what takes place on the gridiron. Says statistics don't include yardage gained on kicks, returned punts, runs with intercepted passes, and so on. About all the present rules do is show first downs for a team, approximate distance of kicks, passes attempted, passes completed, interceptions, fumbles, fumbles recovered, and points scored. That still leaves much to be desired for a true picture of the complete game. Sherar's system has 19 columns in a binder with a scorekeeper (poor guy) listing assets on one side, liabilities on the other, like a bookkeeper.

* * * * * * *

He says: "Every inch of ground is accounted for by the final gun. These figured assets make the system different. Two quick kicks in a game are yardage gained in the book. So are touchdown runs. Every time the ball changes hands, you chalk up a first down to the credit of the team taking over. By keeping the opposition from scoring a first down the defensive team has prevented an advance and should be credited in the statistics. Even a stumbling quarterback whose pass is intercepted gets some credit. If the pass is for 40 yards, then intercepted and returned 10, the thrower and his team get credit for 40 yards gained, and the other club 10." Hm, quite a system, eh? But pity the poor scorekeeper and his staff of assistants.

Real Figure Filberts

Out in the Winnipeg press box last November watching Orfuns in the Canadian final, we noted how thorough western scribes are on grid statistics. Of course they use two or three writers from each gazette to keep tab on the teams in action. But they had a regular box score figured out at game's end just like a baseball box. Even there, full credit can't be given to all the players, especially the blocking and tackling linemen. The game is so deceptive, employing so many men in motion at once, that fans and scribes do well to follow the course of the ball in play. A great game but one needs about four eyes to see properly what is going on out there. Don't you agree, fans?

The big football fray Saturday at Morrow Park starts at two o'clock. Orfuns hold a 13-point lead over Oakville Black Knights in the return match of the Ontario intermediate "A" finals. The Knights will take desperate chances to cut down that margin and might just click on long passes to make it mighty interesting, though we think the classy Kotowski crew should take the series. It ought to be a great game between the top intermediate clubs of the province, and we expect a record crowd out, including many Cobourg and Oshawa fans. Winner of the set goes to Montreal the following weekend for the Eastern Canada final. A week later it'll be the east-west final.

Our Suburban Entry

While the Petes are away in senior "B" puck action this Friday, there'll be a game that night at Civic Arena. Its Cobourg Comets vs. Lakefield Indians to open the OHA intermediate "A" season up this way and fans of Greater Peterborough will get a kick out of this lakeshore puck competition. Al Burns and Sixty Coombs—former Legionaires—are with Lindsay in this loop, and Ned Vitarelli has a trio of Peterborough players on the Port Hope team. Lakefield lineup includes w.k. hockey names like Richlark, Rock Wilson, Cam and Dean Wasson, Dave Quigley, Tom Birch, Doug Hunter, Ace Reid, Dick McCracken, Kenny Floyd, Ab Caravaggie, Mark Donoghue, Len Lonsberry and several more.

Pro grabbler Hi Lee is a fearsome spectacle in a ring. About six-six in height, he bumps the beam at 292 pounds, and is a most muscular man. Wears long, shaggy hair, scrowls ferociously as he waves those big tattooed arms around, and emits a bull roar from time to time. But he didn't scare smaller Tim Geohagen any in the main mat bout at the Brock last p.m. Nope, the Irisher defeated him in two straight falls. Of course, Hi contributed to the first fall by smacking Ref Bert Maxwell, who was trying to break an illegal grip. The rotund Royal York Hotel cop—a mat ref when off duty—didn't take kindly to such treatment at all, and promptly disqualified Lee. Then Tim came back to apply his "sleeper" hold on Hi for the second fall. Johnny Harmon and Firpo Zbysko were both counted out of the ring in the semi-final, while the prelim saw Bill Stack and Herb Larson go to a draw.

Converted Touchdown Gives Stirling Win

MARMORA (ENS)—Taking advantage of a Marmora fumble, Hadley, of Stirling High School team, got a touchdown in the first quarter of the game at Deloro on Wednesday afternoon.

The convert by Ray gave Stirling the extra point to defeat Marmora by the score of 6-5.

It was in the fourth quarter that Marmora got their touchdown through Marvin Walker. But they failed to get the tying point.

The game was evenly contested and each team got breaks in turn.

The large crowd included two busloads of Stirling fans.

The regular schedule of the league ends next Tuesday afternoon as Marmora visits Madoc and Tweed receives Stirling.

RALEIGH NAMED CAPTAIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Don (Bones) Raleigh was named captain of New York Rangers Wednesday by coach Frank Boucher. Raleigh succeeds defenceman Allan Stanley, sent to Vancouver of the Western Hockey League.

ROCKY ROAD—After hitting the deck five times during the bout, Danny Giovanelli grabbed ahold of Rocky Casillo's legs after going down for the third time in the 10th round and seemed to be trying to make up his mind whether or not to get up for more while the Chicago welterweight hovered over him. Casillo was awarded a TKO victory at New York's Eastern Parkway Arena.

Rules 124 Clubs Eligible For Curling

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Curling Association has announced that its grouping for this year's competitions enables 124 clubs to be eligible for the four main events — two doubles and two singles.

Thirty-seven bonspiels are on tap for the coming season, including the Galt Early Bird, which opens the season next week and the Midland mixed 'spiel which ends 1953-54 action March 29-31.

The four main events are the Tankard and Governor-General's Trophy bonspiels—both double-rink competitions — and the Ontario championships and Colts Trophy tournaments, both singles play.

DEADLINE GIVEN

The 16 group winners in the double-rink competitions must be decided by Jan. 22 and the four group-winners' playdowns by Jan. 28. The four semi-finalists of the Tankard, Governor-General's, Burden and Globe and Mail trophies will play off in Toronto Jan. 29.

The Ontario championships and Colts will be played in eight divisions. The division winners in the Ontario playdown, who must be decided by Feb. 5, will meet in a round-robin at Orillia Feb. 10-12, the winner to represent Ontario in the Canadian finals at Edmonton March 1-5. The eight division winners in the Colts must be decided by Feb. 26. The finals will be played in Toronto March 11.

NARULA RETIRED

LONDON (AP)—Nearula, winner of the Two Thousand Guineas horse race this season, will be retired to stud, owner William Humble said Wednesday. The three-year-old bay colt will be syndicated for $280,000.

JOHNSON IS MVP

WINNIPEG (CP) — John Henry Johnson, hard-plunging halfback of Calgary Stampeders, has been awarded the Jeff Nicklin Memorial Trophy as the most valuable player to his team in the Western Interprovincial Football Union for 1953.

The 210-pound, six-foot two-inch Johnson scored 45 points on nine touchdowns for the tail-end Stampeders this season, his first in Canada, to rank seventh in the individual scoring.

JOOST NEW MANAGER

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Shortstop Eddie Joost was named playing manager of Philadelphia Athletics Wednesday to succeed Jimmy Dykes who hadn't been informed of the switch.

Roy Mack, vice-president of the Athletics, said Dykes was summoned for a morning conference with the club owners—but failed to appear. He still hadn't shown up when the announcement of Joost's appointment was released.

Joost, however, told a press conference he had been notified of his appointment Monday and had agreed to a one-year contract. Terms were not disclosed but it was believed he will get more than $25,000.

Dykes reached at Norristown, Pa., where he was scheduled to address a meeting, said:

"I knew absolutely nothing about the switch. It came as a complete surprise."

Joost, 37, is the third man ever to be named to manage the A's. Connie mack was field boss for 50 years, and was succeeded by Dykes in 1951.

Roy Mack said he felt it was important to make the change after the A's showing last season. Philadelphia finished seventh in the American League.

✦ ✦ ✦

BALK RULE CHANGED

NEW YORK (AP)—The hitters got another break from the baseball rules committee when the balk rule was changed.

Under the new rule, the offensive team will have an option of taking the balk called on the pitcher or the result of the batter's swing—possibly a home run.

Often a pitcher continues his delivery and throws to the plate, even when an umpire has yelled, "Balk."

In the past, it was possible for a batter to hit a home run, under such circumstances, and have the hit nullified by the umpire's call. It was mandatory that the base runners advance one base and the batter resume his place at the plate.

GONZALES TOP SEEDED

LONDON (AP) — Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles was top-seeded Wednesday for the London professional international tennis championship at Wembley Stadium Nov. 16-20.

The London promoters made Australian Frank Sedgman, 1952 Wimbledon champion, second seeded. That means Gonzales, three-time winner of the tournament, and Sedgman, may meet in a professional final for the first time.

Equestrian Team In Fourth Place

NEW YORK (CP) — Canada's equestrian team could do no better than tie for fourth place in the international military jumping event at the National Horse Show Wednesday night which was won by Col. Harry Llewellyn of Britain.

Llewellyn guided Foxhunter, a high-stepping bay gelding, perfectly around the eight-obstacle course in the jump-off against his teammate, Pat Smythe, to win the event, the third big international at the show.

The United States team got a share of third place when Arthur McCashin and Mrs. Carol Durand tied with Britain's William Hanson.

Two of Canada's riders, Shirley Thomas of Ottawa and W. R. Ballard of Toronto, shared the tie for fourth place with Capt. Colm O'Shea of the Irish Army team.

JOHNNY BOWER, playing his first year in the cage for the New York Rangers, is expected to turn in a good season. Lorne Worsley, who starred in the nets for the Broadway Blueshirts last season and won the "rookie award" for his performance, was sent down to the minor league. This season Bower hasn't much chance of capturing the award as the league has two great goal-scoring stars in Detroit's Reibel and the Montreal Canadiens' Beliveau.

Watson Aids Leafs Polish Off Chicago Hawks 3-1

By ED SIMON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Perhaps Harry Watson was born 25 years too late. When Nels Stewart was known as "Old Poison" in National Hockey League circles in the 1920s nobody complained about his lack of speed. The old Montreal Maroon, first man in NHL history to score 300 goals, got most of them by cruising at a leisurely pace until he saw an opportunity, then driving in before the opposing netminder knew what had happened. Watson, who scored the winning goal in Toronto Maple Leafs' 3-1 victory over Chicago Black Hawks Wednesday night, might be a lot closer to Stewart's 324-goal total if he could play the same style of hockey today. But every time he forgets to backcheck, Toronto hockey writers start mentioning him as a candidate for the minors.

EARNED NOD

The big, good-natured left-winger currently shares the league lead in goal-scoring with Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens at six apiece. In his 10th season in the big time, with a couple of years out for war service, he needs only 16 more tallies to become a 200-goal man.

But Watson never has earned a nod from the all-star selectors and his critics forget his flawlessly-executed scoring plays as they wonder why a 207-pounder on a club not noted for gentlemanly tactics has never drawn more than 18 minutes in penalties over a full season.

Actually, Watson's goal Wednesday night was not one of his more stylish efforts. At 14:02 of the second period, he picked up a short pass from Tod Sloan a few feet from the Chicago goal and slapped it home.

THREE POINTS BEHIND

Earlier, Watson already had made life miserable for Al Rollins by setting up George Armstrong for the first-period goal that ended the Chicago goalie's streak of scoreless hockey at 160 minutes and 20 seconds. Ted Kennedy fired the insurance tally late in the second frame. Veteran Bill Mosienko scored the only Chicago goal less than a minute after Armstrong's marker.

The victory moved the third-place Leafs within striking distance of the top, just three points behind the Canadiens, who entertain New York Rangers tonight, and one point behind second-place Detroit Red Wings.

The Hawks, tied with the Rangers for last place, move to Boston tonight. The Bruins need a victory to regain their third-place tie with Toronto.

Marlboros Crush Barrie 10-3, Tempers Flare

BARRIE (CP) — A third-period scoring outburst Wednesday night gave Toronto Marlboros a 10-3 victory over Barrie Flyers in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game.

The win moved the Marlboros into sole possession of second place two points behind the league-leading St. Catharines TeePees. Barrie is in seventh spot.

The Dukes spotted Barrie the opening goal in 26 seconds of the first period and then took command, leading 2-1 at the end of the first and 5-2 at the end of the second before slamming in five goals in the third.

Late in the third, tempers flared and Jim Robertson and Barry Purdon of the Flyers and Wally Maxwell and Dave Reid of the Dukes tangled in a furious verbal session that resulted in 10-minute misconduct penalties.

Charlie Burns paced the Dukes with three goals, Al Larose scored two and Jack Bionda, Reid, Maxwell, Tom McCarthy and Billy Harris counted the rest.

Arnold Smith, Robertson and Bob White tallied for the Flyers.

Bisons Trample Providence 6-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears vaulted over the idle Cleveland Barons to the No. 2 spot in the American Hockey League Wednesday night, as Buffalo Bisons thundered further ahead of the pack.

The Herd overwhelmed Providence Reds 6-1 while the Bears edged the luckless Syracuse Warriors 4-3.

The Bisons scored three times in the first period, added one in the second, and fired home two more tallies in the last stanza. A goal by veteran winger Paul Gladu at 15:22 of the third saved the Reds from a shutout.

At Syracuse, the Bears pumped home three unanswered markers in the opening period and staved off the Warriors the rest of the way. The win left Hershey six points behind the league-leading Bisons.

Western Oil Slump Brings Rash Of Financial Casualties

CALGARY (CP) — The stock market slump that recently sent western oils tumbling to a low point has brought a rash of financial casualties to small Canadian independents and produced the consequent rumors of mergers and amalgamation.

The slump began eight months ago with a downward trend in world stocks and bonds, caused by the fear of a possible business recession due to lower demands.

Western oils began to slide until forced selling, mainly from marginal accounts, took hold and plunged prices to their depths of about a month ago.

The Calgary stock exchange, which has faithfully registered the changing fortunes of the oil industry for almost 40 years, has entered the doldrums.

RESTORATIVE POWER

Its members contend that a decision by the Alberta government on the export of natural gas might end the situation. But some say that the long delay and uncertainty surrounding the problem has robbed any decision of the restorative power it might have had a year ago.

First hit in the western decline were the fringe organizations. A cut in exploration that resulted from the slump placed oil-well supply companies, drilling contractors and geophysical firms at a greater disadvantage than the exploration and production firms themselves.

At least three geophysical companies have closed so far, and four small independent drilling contractors have become bankrupt.

With the exception of a few larger firms, all operators of rigs for contract drilling have felt, in varying degrees, the cut in drilling operations.

Last year, a number of small operators began buying equipment on time, thus causing a surplus of rigs. When the sledding became tough this spring, they began cutting prices, and soon competition was too keen for some of the smaller firms.

INCREASINGLY RARE

Larger drillers escaped this by purchasing Crown reserves from the provincial government and drilling them with their own idle rigs. But this required working capital—a commodity which was becoming increasingly rare in all branches of the industry.

On Sept. 29 this year 150 geophysical parties were operating in the West compared with 183 on the same date last year. On Oct. 15 203 drilling rigs were operating, compared with 240 on the same date of 1952.

Drilling activity for the first nine months of 1953 showed a slight increase over the corresponding period of 1952 with 1,623 completions compared with 1,510 last year.

Fined On Driving Charge

FORT ERIE (CP)—Joseph D'Ettore, 22, of Brantford was convicted of careless driving Wednesday and ordered to pay a fine and costs totalling $30.50. The charge arose from a recent accident in which D'Ettore's automobile skidded into a ditch, struck a culvert and overturned.

Legion Council To Meet November 8

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian legion's national executive council will meet here from Nov. 8 to Nov. 11, it was announced today.

Legion headquarters said the top item on the council's agenda will be an examination of war veterans' allowances with a view to requesting that "the government revise its current legislation to bring the allowances in line with the high cost of living."

Inspector Doubtful 2 Cases Connected

TORONTO (CP)—Inspector of Detectives Archie McCathie says it is doubtful that there is any connection between the fatal shooting last week of Fred Cameron and the beating Tuesday of racetrack constable Percy Glitero.

Earlier it was reported four youths taken into custody Tuesday night in a raid on a downtown rooming house were being questioned on both cases.

Glitero, 40-year-old special constable employed at Dufferin racetrack, told police he was driven to nearby Dixie by three men in a new car, then beaten and robbed of $45. He said one of the men spoke of knowing Cameron, 57-year-old investment firm messenger whose bullet-pierced body was found in a ditch 50 miles north of here.

Eight Killed

PLATTE CITY, Mo. (AP)—Eight persons were killed Wednesday night in a head-on collision of two automobiles three miles southeast of here. Killed in one car were six Kansas City residents, all in their 'teens or early 20s. The victims in the second auto were a young married couple from nearby Nashua. Platte City is about 20 miles north of Kansas City.

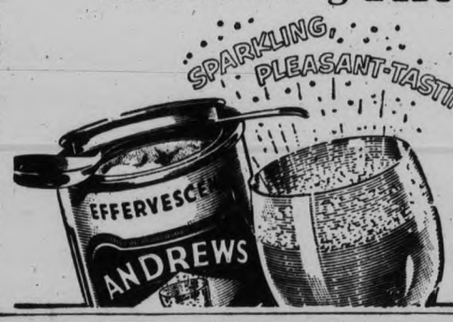
Book Gives Outline For Charities

TORONTO (CP)—What should a company give to charitable causes, and to whom should it give?

A group of Canadian business men has just come out of an 18-month huddle on the double-barrelled question.

They don't give a specific answer, but they do give, in book form, information intended to help innividual firms arrive at their own answers; and they do seem to favor one united appeal for funds, rather than the many approaches now made.

The information indicates that some give little, and that the majority give in a haphazard fashion, although there is a move towards careful planning.



The book, to appear shortly, is entitled "Corporate Giving in Canada." A committee of 15 industrial and financial executives supervised its preparation; 105 corporations contributed to its cost; and 878 corporations and 27 voluntary health, welfare, education and recreational bodies gave information to it.

George M. Black, Jr., of Toronto was committee chairman. A speech of his in November, 1951, sparked the discussions among business men that set off the study. In that speech he said his company (Canadian Breweries, Ltd., of which Mr. Black is president) had in one year made 1,411 separate contributions to charitable appeals.

Turn Down Pubs

TORONTO (CP)—Residents of North Grimsby township, south of Hamilton, Wednesday voted down liquor licences, the Ontario Temperance Federation announced here. Dining room licences were voted down 502 to 423 and dining lounge licences were defeated 515 to 420.

BRITISH INTERVENTION IN GREECE — CHRISTMAS AT ATHENS

Before leaving Italy at the end of August (1944) I had asked the Chief of the Imperial General Staff to work out the details of a British expedition to Greece in case the Germans there collapsed.

We gave it the code-name "Manna." Its planning was complicated by our strained resources and the uncertainty of Germany's strategic position in the Balkans, but I directed that our forces should be ready to act by September 11, and that the Greek Prime Minister and representatives of the Greek Government in Italy should be prepared to enter Athens without delay. By the end of the first week of September they were installed in a villa near Caserta. Here Papandreou set to work with his new E.A.M. colleagues. It was essential that there should be no political vacuum in Greece. As I minuted on August 29, "It is most desirable to strike out of the blue without any preliminary crisis. It is the best way to forestall the E.A.M."

The tardy German withdrawal from Athens enabled us to consolidate the direction of Greek affairs on the eve of the decisive stroke. I was glad that the Greek Government was now at hand in Italy. At the end of September General Wilson summoned Saraphis, the E.L.A.S. general, and his Nationalist rival Zervas to meet Papandreou at Caserta. (E.A.M., the Greek National Liberation front, and E.L.A.S., the Greek People's National Army of Liberation, were both Communist-controlled.) Mr. Macmillan, as Minister Resident in the Mediterranean, together with Mr. Leeper, our Ambasador to the Greek Government, were present to advise and direct the political side of this important conference, which had to create a unified command of all Greek forces available in Italy and inside Greece, together with the British forces now poised for the landing.

A comprehensive agreement was signed on September 26. It laid down that all guerrilla forces in the country should place themselves under the orders of the Greek Government, who in their turn put them under the command of (British) General Scobie. This document, known as the Caserta Agreement, governed our future action.

The liberation did not begin until October. On October 12 General Wilson learnt that the Germans were evacuating Athens, and next day British parachutists landed on the Megara airfield, about eight miles west of the capital. On the 15th the rest of the paratroopers arrived, and occupied the city on the heels of the German withdrawal.

The testing time for our arrangements had now come. At the Moscow Conference I had obtained Russian abstention at a heavy price. We were pledged to support Papandreou's Provisional Administration, in which E.A.M. were fully represented. All parties were bound by the Caserta Agreement, and we wished to hand over authority to a stable Greek Government without loss of time. But Greece was in ruins. E.L.A.S. armed bands filled the gap left by the departing invaders, and their central command made little effort to enforce the solemn promises which had been given.

The Government in Athens had not enough troops to control the country and compel E.L.A.S. to observe the Caserta Agreement. Disorder grew and spread.

A revolt by E.A.M. was imminent, and on November 15 General Scobie was directed to make counter-preparations. Athens was to be declared a military area, and authority was given to order all E.L.A.S. troops to leave it.

A draft decree for the demobilization of the guerrillas, drawn up at M. Papandreou's request by the E.A.M. Ministers themselves, was presented to the distracted Cabinet. The regular Greek Mountain Brigade and the Sacred Squadron were to remain. E.L.A.S. were to keep a brigade of their own, and. E.D.E.S. (the Greek National Democratic Army) were to be given a small force. But at the last moment the E.A.M. Ministers went back on their own proposals, on which they had wasted a precious week, and demanded that the Mountain Brigade should be disbanded. The Communist tactic was now in full swing. On December 1 the six Ministers associated with E.A.M. resigned, and a general strike in Athens was proclaimed for the following day. The rest of the Cabinet passed a decree dissolving the guerrillas, and the Communist Party moved its headquarters from the capital.

On Sunday, December 3, Communist supporters, engaging in a banned demonstration, collided wth the police and civil war began. The next day General Scobie ordered E.L.A.S. to evacuate Athens and the Piraeus forthwith. Instead their troops and armed civilians tried to seize the capital by force.

At this moment I took a more direct control of the affair. On learning that the Communists had already captured all the police stations in Athens, murdering the bulk of their occupants not already pledged to their attack, and were within half a mile of the Government offices, I ordered General Scobie and his 5,000 British troops, who ten days before had been received with rapture as deliverers by the population, to intervene and fire upon the treacherous aggressors. It is no use doing things like this by halves. The mob violence by which the Communists sought to conquer the city and present themselves to the world as the Government demanded by the Greek people could only be met by firearms. There was no time for the Cabinet to be called.

Anthony and I were together till about two o'clock, and were entirely agreed that we must open fire. Seeing how tired he was, I said to him, "If you like to go to bed, leave it to me." He did, and at about 3 a.m. I drafted the following telegram:

Prime Minister to General Scobie (Athens)

Repeated to General Wilson (Italy). 5 Dec. 44

* * * You are responsible for maintaining order in Athens and for neutralizing or destroying all E.A.M.-E.L.A.S. bands approaching the city. You may make any regulations you like for the strict control of the streets or for the rounding up of any number of truculent persons. Naturally E.L.A.S. will try to put women and children in the van where shooting may occur. You must be clever about this and avoid mistakes. But do not hesitate to fire at any armed male in Athens who assails the British authority or Greek authority with which we are working. It would be well of course if your command were reinforced by the authority of some Greek Government, and Papandreou is being told by Leeper to stop and help. Do not however hesitate to act as if you were in a conquered city where a local rebellion is in progress. * * * (Author's subsequent italics).

This telegram was dispatched at 4.50 a.m. on the 5th. I must admit that it was somewhat strident in tone. I felt it so necessary to give a strong lead to the military commander that I intentionally worded it in the sharpest terms.

I had in my mind Arthur Balfour's celebrated telegram in the eighties to the British authorities in Ireland: "Don't hesitate to shoot." This was sent through the open telegraph office. There was a furious storm about it in the House of Commons of those days, but it certainly prevented any loss of life. It was one of the key stepping-stones by which Balfour advanced to power and control.

Now that the free world has learnt so much more than was then understood about the Communist movement in Greece and elsewhere, many readers will be astonished at the vehement attacks to which His Majesty's Government, and I in particular at its head, were subjected. The vast majority of the American Press violently condemned our action, which they declared falsified the cause for which they had gone to war. If the editors of all these well-meaning organs will look back at what they wrote then and compare it with what they think now they will, I am sure, be surprised. The State Department, in the charge of Mr. Stettinius, issued a markedly critical pronouncement, which they in their turn were to regret, or at least reverse, in after-years. In England there was much perturbation. The Times and the Manchester Guardian pronounced their censures upon what they considered our reactionary policy. Stalin however adhered strictly and faithfully to our agreement of October, and during all the lonk weeks of fighting the Communists in the streets of Athens not one word of reproach came from Pravda or Isvestia.

In the House of Commons there was a great stir. Any Government which had rested on a less solid foundation than the National Coalition might well have been shaken to pieces. But the War Cabinet stood like a rock against which all the waves and winds might beat in vain.

When we recall what has happened to Poland, to Hungary, and Czechoslovakia in these later years we may be grateful to Fortune for giving us at this critical moment the calm, united strength of determined leaders of all parties. Space does not allow me to quote more than a few extracts from the speech I made on December 8 against the amendment to the Vote of Confidence which we had demanded.

Let me present to the House the charge which is made against us. It is that we are using His Majesty's forces to disarm the friends of democracy in Greece and in other parts of Europe and to suppress those popular movements which have valorously assisted in the defeat of the enemy.

The question  arises, and one may be permitted to dwell on it for a moment, who are the friends of democracy, and also how is the word "democracy" to be interpreted? My idea of it is that the plain, humble, common man, just the ordinary man who keeps a wife and family, who goes off to fight for his country when it is in trouble, goes to the poll at the appropriate time, and puts his cross on the ballot-paper showing the candidate he wishes to be elected to Parliament—that he is the foundation of democracy. And it is also essential to this foundation that this man or woman should do this without fear, and without any form of intimidation or victimisation. He marks his ballot-paper in strict secrecy, and then elected representatives meet and together decide what Government, or even, in times of stress, what form of government, they wish to have for their country. If that is democracy I salute it. I espouse it. I would work for it  I stand upon the foundation of free elections based on universal suffrage, and that is what we consider the foundation of democracy. But I feel quite differently about a swindle democracy, a democracy which calls itself democracy because it is Left Wing. It takes all sorts to make democracy, not only Left Wing, or even Communist.  I do not accept a party as necessarily representing democracy because it becomes more violent as it becomes less numerous.

One must have some respect for democracy, and not use the word too lightly.

I say that the last thing that represents democracy is mob law and the attempt to introduce a totalitarian regime which clamours to shoot everyone who is politically inconvenient as part of a purge of those who are said to have collaborated with the Germans during the occupation.

Democracy is not based on violence or terrorism, but on reason, on fair play, on freedom, on respecting the rights of other people. Democracy is no harlot to be picked up in the street by a man with a tommy gun. I trust the people, the mass of the people, in almost any country, but I like to make sure that it is the people and not a gang of bandits who think that by violence they can overturn constituted authority, in some cases ancient Parliaments, Governments, and States.

Only thirty members faced us in the division lobby. Nearly three hundred voted confidence. Here again was a moment in which the House of Commons showed its enduring strength and authority.

British troops were still fighting hard in the centre of Athens, hemmed in and outnumbered. We were engaged in house-to-house combat with an enemy at least four-fifths of whom were in plain clothes. Unlike many of the Allied newspaper correspondents in Athens, our troops had no difficulty in understanding the issues involved.

Papandreou and his remaining Ministers had lost all authority. Previous proposals to set up a Regency under the Archbishop Damaskinos had been rejected by the King, but on December 10 Mr. Leeper revived the idea. King George (of Greece) however was against it, and we were reluctant at the time to press him.

On December 12 the War Cabinet gave Alexander a free hand in all military measures.

✧ ✧ ✧

I had meanwhile received a most kindly worded telegram from the President.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO PRIME MINISTER

13 Dec. 44

I have been as deeply concerned as you have yourself in regard to the tragic difficulties you have encountered in Greece. I appreciate to the full the anxious and difficult alternatives with which you have been faced. I regard my role in this matter as that of a loyal friend and an ally whose one desire is to be of any help possible in the circumstances.

As anxious as I am to be of the greatest help to you in this trying situation, there are limitations, imposed in part by the traditional policies of the United States and in part by the mounting adverse reaction of public opinion in this country. No one will understand better than yourself that I, both personally and as Head of State, am necessarily responsive to the state of public feeling. It is for these reasons that it has not been possible for this Government to take a stand along with you in the present course of events in Greece.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mr. Mackenzie King in Canada felt the unfavourable reactions to our Greek policy which had been so volubly expressed in the United States. He revealed his embarrassments in several telegrams.

PRIME MINISTER TO PRIME MINISTER OF CANADA

15 Dec. 44

In the House I have done my best to clarify our position. To my mind the essential point is that, having obtained the written assent of all parties, including E.A.M., the Greek Prime Minister invited British troops to enter Greece to keep order and safeguard supplies. We accepted this invitation, and must still do our best to carry it out. The task is ungrateful, but we could not in honour shirk our responsibilities. With tempers inflamed on both sides in Athens, the situation is inevitably difficult. But the visit of Alexander was most valuable, and on the whole latest reports are more encouraging.

I also sent Mr. Mackenzie King telegrams which I had exchanged with the President in August, and drew his attention to the Caserta Agreement, which by now had been made public. I told him that I had the verbal approval of Stalin to our entering Greece and liberating Athens. "Although," I concluded, "Communists are at the root of the business, Stalin has not so far made any public reflection on our action."

In deference to these facts, arguments, and appeals, Mr. Mackenzie King refrained from any public act of dissociation.

It is odd, looking back on these events, now that some years have passed, to see how completely the policy for which I and my colleagues fought so stubbornly has been justified by events. Myself, I never had any doubts about it, for I saw quite plainly that Communism would be the peril civilisation would have to face after the defeat of Nazism and Fascism. I little thought however at the end of 1944 that the State Department, supported by overwhelming American opinion, would not only adopt and carry on the course we had opened, but would make vehement and costly exertions, even of a military character, to bring it to fruition. If Greece has escaped the fate of Czechoslovakia and survives today as one of the free nations, it is due not only to British action in 1944, but to the steadfast efforts of what was presently to become the united strength of the English-speaking world.

In Athens the street-fighting swayed to and fro on an enlarging scale. On December 5 Field-Marshal Alexander warned me that it was most important to get settlement quickly, and the best chance was through the Archbishop.

I resolved to go and see for myself.

It was December 24, and we had a family and children's party for Christmas Eve. We had a Christmas tree—one sent from the President—and were all looking forward to a pleasant evening, the brighter perhaps because surrounded by dark shadows. But when I had finished reading my telegrams I felt sure I ought to fly to Athens, see the situation on the spot, and especially make the acquaintance of the Archbishop, around whom so much was turning. I therefore set the telephone working and arranged for an aeroplane to be ready at Northolt that night. I also spoilt Mr. Eden's Christmas by the proposal, which he immediately accepted, that he should come too. After having been much reproached by the family for deserting the party, I motored to meet Eden at Northolt, where the Skymaster which General Arnold had recently sent me waited, attentive and efficient. We slept soundly until eight o'clock, when we landed to refuel at Naples. Here were several generals, and we all had breakfast together or at adjoining tables. Breakfast is not my best hour of the day, and the news we had both from the Italian front and from Athens was bleak. In an hour we were off again, and in perfect weather flew over the Peloponnese and the Straits of Corinth. Athens and the Pireaus unfolded like a map beneath us on a gigantic scale, and we gazed down upon it wondering who held what.

At about noon we landed at the Kalamaki airfield, which was guarded by about two thousand British airmen, all well armed and active. Here were Field-Marshal Alexander, Mr. Leeper and Mr. Macmillan. They came on board the plane, and we spent nearly three hours in hard discussion of the whole position, military and political. We were, I think, in complete agreement at the end, and about the immediate steps to be taken.

I and my party were to sleep on board the Ajax, anchored off the Piraeus, the famous light cruiser of the Plate River battle, which now seemed a long time ago. The road was reported clear, and with an escort of several armoured cars we traversed the few miles without incident. We boarded the Ajax before darkness fell, and I realised for the first time that it was Christmas Day. All preparations had been made by the ship's company for a jolly evening, and we certainly disturbed them as little as possible.

The sailors had a plan for a dozen of them to be dressed up in every kind of costume and disguise, as Chinese, negroes, Red Indians, Cockneys, clowns—all to serenade the officers and warrant officers, and generally inaugurate revels suitable to the occasion. The Archbishop and his attendants arrived—an enormous tall figure in the robes and high hat of a dignitary of the Greek Church. The two parties met. The sailors thought he was part of their show of which they had not been told, and danced around him enthusiastically. The Archbishop thought this motley gang was a premeditated insult, and might well have departed to the shore but for the timely arrival of the captain who, after some embarrassment, explained matters satisfactorily. Meanwhile I waited, wondering what had happened. But all ended happily.

✧ ✧ ✧

I sent an account of our various discussions to the War Cabinet.

PRIME MINISTER (ATHENS) TO DEPUTY PRIME MINISTER AND OTHERS

26 Dec. 44

* * * Mr. Macmillan and Mr. Leeper informed us they had been conhidering the summoning of a conference of all the political leaders, which ELAS would be invited to attend. We felt that the convening of such a conference, with the declared object of putting an end to fratricide strife in Greece, would, even of ELAS refused the invitation, ensure that our intentions would have been made clear to the world. We also agreed it would be a good move that the Archbishop should be chairman of the conference * * *

The conference is fixed for 4 p.m. on December 26. * * *

New Wage Offer May Avert Pulp Strike

TORONTO (CP)—A wage offer by the pulp and paper industry has brightened hopes of staving off a strike of 15,000 Ontario workers.

Talks were scheduled to continue today between representatives of 11 companies and nine unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. They started Tuesday.

The offer of an increase of three cents an hour was announced late Wednesday, along with proposals of concessions on overtime and welfare provisions. Present basic rate is $1.41 an hour and the union has been seeking a general increase of five per cent, along with other benefits.

Earlier this week the unions said they planned to stand pat on their demands. They have already voted in favor of a strike if they consider one necessary.

PARALYZE ECONOMY

Such a strike would further paralyze the economy of Northern Ontario, already hard hit by goldmine strikes. Upwards of 6,000 men have been made idle by the strikes called by the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) to enforce demands for wage increases and the check-off of union dues.

Some woods operations in the north have already been curtailed as a result of the mining dispute. Mines closed by the strike are not buying their usual supplies of mine timbers and woods workers are not called upon to cut them.

Declines To Eat Frozen Dessert In Court Case

OSHAWA (CP)—Magistrate F. S. Ebbs looked at but declined to eat two dishes of frozen dessert Wednesday and then reserved judgment on whether Geoffrey Schilling of Whitby violated the Ontario Edible Oils Act by selling his brand of imitation ice cream.

The magistrate turned down the invitation to compare the real thing with Schilling's "Avon ice" and said he will make his decision on the case Nov. 16.

Schilling, 33, who brought a frozen dessert recipe from England last year, is charged with selling an edible oil product other than margarine, manufactured so that it resembles ice cream. The crown said it regarded it as a test case for the new Edible Oils Act passed earlier this year.

A food analyst told the court Avon ice was nine per cent fat which was mostly coconut oil. Another analyst said it resembled ice cream in flavor, body, texture, color and melting propensity.

CLAIMED PERMISSION

Schilling, who distributed the product in the Oshawa-Whitby area said he stopped making and selling Avon ice Oct. 15. He said he was given permission to sell the product before that.

Schilling said he had never received an official deadline date. He told the court:

"The inspector who laid the charge against me visited our plant repeatedly after the act was passed, and today in the witness box admits we were told 'carry on, the minister hasn't given the deadline yet.'"

Turn Down Consulate

TORONTO (CP)—Board of control Wednesday turned down a plea from the department of external affairs that a city zoning by-law be waived to allow construction of a Yugoslav consulate in a residential zone. Members of the board said the combined office and home would be contrary to the zoning laws. They said they were willing to discuss other sites.

Ice Box Law In Force

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The city's "ice box" law, under which it is an offence to leave an unattended ice box or similar container where it could endanger the lives of children, went into effect Wednesday.

The law provides a minimum fine of $50 or six months in jail. The by-law was proposed after two four-year-old boys died here Sept. 30 after being trapped inside an abandoned ice box.

Ask Revision

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Property Owners' Association Wednesday asked that a royal commission be appointed to revise the Ontario Municipal Act and the Ontario Assessment Act. The association's resolution termed the acts "out of date" and "out of keeping with modern communities."

Bus-Truck Collide

GUELPH (CP)—A bus carrying 29 Erin district school children collided with a dump truck near here Wednesday. No one was severely injured. Police say Nelson Eagles of Erin has been charged with not giving the right of way to the bus. Witnesses said the truck careered 30 feet before overturning.

Two Scientists Win Awards

STOCKHOLM (AP)—A German chemist who did spadework for the plastics industry and a Dutch physicist who invented a microscope that opens new views in the study of living matter were awarded the 1953 nobel prizes in chemistry and physics Wednesday.

Dr. Hermann Staudinger, 72, of Freiburg, West Germany, whose research in giant molecules paved the way for industrial production of such synthetic commodities as nylon, plastic, and artificial rubber, won the $33,840 prize in chemistry.

Professor Frits Zernike, 65, of Groningen, The Netherlands, won the $33,840 physics prize for his development of a "phase contrast" microscope that—without the application of coloring substances—gives scientists a closer view of minute particles of living matter than they have ever had before.

Not Shirking Duties—Ottawa

TORONTO (CP)—E. E. Sparrow, chairman of the Ontario workmen's compensation board, has denied an accusation that the board is shirking its duties regarding accident prevention.

C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO), criticized the board in a speech before the Ontario Federation of Labor last week-end saying the province's industrial accident and death rates are increasing at an alarming and inexcusable rate.

"The board cannot accept Mr. Millard's criticism," said Mr. Sparrow Wednesday. "The situation on industrial accident prevention in Ontario is not critical and the official statistical record for the last 38 years speaks for itself in denying these charges."

Two Senators Oppose Any Censorship

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two members of the United States Senate armed services committee spoke out today against any censorship, othed than that required for security reasons, on post-armistice news from Korea.

Senators Ralph Flanders (Rep. Vt.) and Lester Hunt (Dem. Wyo.) commented, in separate interviews, on a dispatch by John Randolph, Associated Press correspondent in Korea, reporting that he termed a growing trend toward "double" censorship of news there. Randolph wrote that this included refusal to pass some items for "political" reasons.

"There certainly should be but one censorship," Flanders said, "and that strictly for security reasons. Yet the censoring of news dispatches there seems to be on two levels, and that would seem highly improper."

Hunt said: "The 8th Army officers in Korea wouldn't be doing that unless they were directed to do it."

"The place to start inquiries would be at the White House, where the commander - in - chief (President Eisenhower) can speak out and put a stop to it instantly."

Somebody in high authority should act swiftly, because "freedom of the press is a precious thing, and no censorship should exceed the bounds of precautions necessary for security reasons."

Deny Facilities Too Congested

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto harbor commission denies that the city's facilities were congested and in danger of being by-passed by booming overseas and Great Lakes trade.

Chairman W. H. Bosley said Wednesday the commission "refused to be stampeded" by complaints of agents for foreign shipping firms that Toronto is badly lacking in facilities for the fast handling of cargo.

The agents had charged that delays were occurring because of lack of transit-shed space and ships were being held up waiting for space to discharge cargoes.

'Impossible' Task Done Car Plant Operates Again

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors Corp. has just accomplished what many industrial experts considered a virtually impossible task.

Twelve weeks after fire destroyed its huge hydro-matic transmission plant in nearby Livonia, Mich., it has begun manufacturing and assembling the units in rented space at Willow Run, west of here.

Announcement that the automatic transmissions have begun to roll from Willow Run was made late Wednesday by Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors. He said "recovery from the fire has been due largely to the extraordinary team work within the General Motors organization and the generous co-operation extended to us by suppliers and other manufacturers."

FULL-SCALE NEXT MONTH

Curtice said only limited volume has been attained at Willow Run, but "we expect to increase output gradually until we achieve full-scale production early in December."

To achieve production at Willow Run in only slightly more than two months, 2,300 machines from the Livonia plant were rebuilt. They were sent to some 356 machine-tool builders and 18 other GM divisions. A large number of new machines also were built to supplement the salvaged equipment.

Some hydro-matics were assembled at the transmission division's Rioelle street plant in Detroit beginning Oct. 19. However this plant is strictly for assembly, using components manufactured elsewhere.

At Willow Run both manufacturing and assembly operations are carried out.

General Motors has not yet announced definite plans for rebuilding the Livonia plant. Neither has it confirmed nor denied rumors that it might purchase the entire Willow Run plant, now owned by the Henry J. Kaiser interests.

Editors Vary On Handling News Stories

CHICAGO (AP)—Like many people who read their newspapers, American editors have widely varying opinions on handling the news.

This was demonstrated Wednesday when news executives attending the annual meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association discussed news coverage of Senator Joseph McCarthy's activities and the Kinsey report on "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female."

The evaluation of the Kinsey report ranged from a page one news story to a publicity plant not worth newspaper space.

DEMAGOGUE OR HERO?

McCarthy was described as a "cheap demagogue" by one editor, while another said the Wisconsin Republican has made significant revelations which all newspapers have not fully treated.

Sam H. Day, of the New York Journal-American, said his newspaper played the Kinsey report on page one to give the public the news. He said the reaction to readers was evenly divided.

But some editors didn't print news stories on the report, while others said they carried only brief stories on inside pages without complaints from their readers.

Arch W. Jarrell, of the Grand Island (Neb.) Independent said his newspaper didn't use a Kinsey story because "it seemed to me on the verge of free advertising."

Bomb Outrages

TUNIS (Reuters)—Two Tunisians were sentenced to death by the Tunis military tribunal Wednesday for taking part in bomb outrages. Five other men accused of terorist activities were given hard labor for life, two 20 years hard labor and two 10 years hard labor.

More Arson

VIENNA (Reuters)—Sabotage by arson is on the upgrade in Czechoslovakia, according to a copy of the Communist newspaper Straz Miru, published at Olomouc in central Czechoslovakia, that reached here Wednesday. It said the Olomouc district alone suffered 104 fires in the first five months of this year.

ENTERS CONVENT—Marie Dionne, one of the famed quintuplets, smiles and talks to her mother as she enters the cloistered convent of the Servants of the Blessed Sacrament at Quebec City. She wears the habit of a novice in the Roman Catholic order founded in 1858 and whose members devote their time to adoration of the Blessed Sacrament and prayer.

Power Fight Short Sighted

NEW YORK (CP)—The New York Times says today in an editorial that private organizations fighting the New York-Ontario power project in the St. Lawrence river are "mistaking their own long-range interests."

Three days ago the New York state power authority was granted a licence from the United States Federal Power Commission to go ahead with the power project in the International rapids section of the river, in co-operation with the Ontario Hydro-electric Power Commission.

"Yet even now three private organizations are prepared to institute court fights to delay the project," The Times editorial says.

The private organizations were "fighting for their own interests. They are entirely within their rights in so doing. But in our opinion they are mistaking their own long-range interests and they certainly are delaying something that is for the public and national good," the editorial adds.

Ontario was "just about desperate" for extra power, and "even with the extra 1,100,000 horsepower that the St. Lawrence plan will develop, the need for power here and in Canada will not be satisfied."

College Opposes Interference From Ottawa

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT

MONTREAL (CP)—A Montreal college today claimed before a Quebec royal commission on constitutional problems that the Quebec government "must oppose and resist any direct or indirect interference of the federal authority in matters of education and teaching."

In a brief College Mont St. Louis said the provincial government should assist with grants all colleges which contribute to education in the province.

Founded in 1888 by the Christian Brothers, the college offers science, commerce and art courses.

The brief was one of six scheduled to be heard today by the commission, set up last March by the Quebec government.

WILL TRAVEL

The Automotive Transport Association of Quebec Province, the College of Optometrists and Opticians, the Quebec Real Estate Board, the Federation of English-speaking Catholic Teachers and the Seminary of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate were also to present briefs.

Following adjournment today, the commission will travel to northwestern Quebec where it will begin Tuesday a two-month tour of the province.

Mont St. Louis made no reference in its brief to federal grants to universities and institutions of higher learning, cut off from Quebec universities and colleges this year by the Quebec government.

The grants are a subject of controversy in Quebec where the government has claimed they constitute an encroachment on provincial autonomy as far as education is concerned.

The college brief said it believes the Canadian constitution accorded the provinces exclusive rights in matters of education and teaching.

The brief claimed the Quebec government should have the revenues needed to exercise its power, right and duty to assist those who contribute to education in the province.

Dulles, Eisenhower Despair Of Negotiating With Soviet Soon

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles apparently have despaired of negotiating major world problems with Russia any time soon on a basis acceptable to them.

The Soviet Union two days ago rebuffed the latest invitation from the United States, Britain and France to attend a foreign ministers' meeting on Germany and Austria.

The Western powers were due to consult today on their next move. Informed sources said it was questionable whether any further bid would be sent to the Kremlin.

The Western governments are far more concerned about the impact of Moscow's latest message on opinion in France and elsewhere in Western Europe than they are about Russia's behavior in the present circumstances. The U.S. in particular has been pressing for early approval of the projected Europe Defence Community.

ANOTHER MESSAGE

If, for reasons of Western European politics, there is pressure to send another message to Moscow, it likely will be sent. But if, as officials here hope, Russian opposition to negotiation about Germany or anything else on terms acceptable to the West now is sufficiently established to promote EDC ratification, then the long series of East-West exchanges will be dropped.

President Eisenhower, in an extraordinary statement issued Wednesday at his press conference, accused the Soviet Union of blocking attempts by the U.S. and its allies to "get to grips with the Soviet" on major world problems.

The president said the Russians showed no sign of wanting to get together with the Western powers but, on the contrary, disclosed "an intention to create as many difficulties as possible."

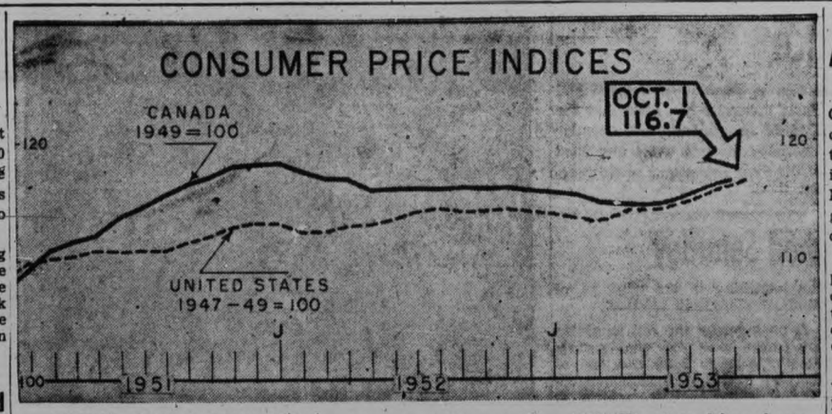
The position of the U.S., Britain and France is that Russia should agree to unification of Germany without killing DC because, they argue, the defence organization would strengthen European stability and peace.

At Bonn, Germany, the Christian Democratic party of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer declared the latest Russian note "shows that Moscow is not interested in discussing the German problem."

"The note is intended to encourage those elements in Europe which are unsympathetic to the Community."

Diplomats here regard the note as indicating the Russians want no part of EDC or the rest of the Western defence system—a natural enough reaction since it is being built up to block possible Russian expansion in Europe.

The result seems likely to be a continuing diplomatic stalemate.



Want Parks Board To Acquire Land

TORONTO (CP)—Establishment of a parks board to acquire 5,000 acres of green belt lands in the Toronto metropolitan area was recommended Wednesday night to the metropolitan planning board.

Tracy leMay, Toronto planning director, said acquisition of the Don valley in the east and the Humber valley in the west for park purposes should come under the jurisdiction of the metropolitan council.

Housing Project Started

BRANTFORD (CP) — The first sod was turned here Wednesday for the start of an $80,000 low-rental housing project for old age pensioners. Eight duplex bungalows are to be built, providing homes for 16 old age pension couples. The rent is expected to be about $25 a month.

LIVING COSTS RISE—The consumer price index, a barometer of living costs, rose by one-half point during September to 116.7 from 116.2, the Bureau of Statistics reports. It was the fifth consecutive monthly jump, powered by higher food costs and price jumps for rent. The peak of 118.2 was reached in December, 1951, with 1949 prices equalling 100. The dotted line shows the United States consumer index which advanced to a record of 115.2 in mid-September of the 1947-49 average. These indices measure percentage changes in each country but should not be used to compare actual levels of prices between the two countries.

Ad Annoys Board Manager

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ottawa Civil Servants Association has accepted advertising from Watertown, N.Y., in the publication of its recreation association, the R.A. News, and L. G. Jamison, manager of the Ottawa Board of Trade, doesn't like it.

"It's hardly a fair, ethical deal," he said in an interview Wednesday night, for an Ottawa publication to accept advertising from other cities, "especially in another country."

Mr. Jamison said the Watertown Chamber of Commerce apparently organized a group of its merchants to buy space in the R.A. News with the intention of sponsoring shopping trips of Ottawa civil servants to Watertown, about 150 miles south of Ottawa.

"A lot of people here are going to be gullible enough to fall for it" in hope of getting bargains unavailable in Ottawa.

With the possible exception of tools and cotton yards goods, Mr. Jamison said, prices in the American city were comparable to those here, and in some cases, particularly for "quality" suits, were even higher.

Decides Time Not Ripe For Conference

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Current cold winds in the international climate have convinced India's delegate V. K. Krishna Menon the time is not ripe for his idea of a United Nations Assembly call for a top-level Big Four conference.

Menon told the Assembly last September that he might propose a resolution in which the 60-member organization would appeal to the chiefs of state of the United States, Russia, Britain and France to get together personally in an attempt to solve present world tensions.

Now, however, sources familiar with his views say he has decided to wait for more favorable conditions.

The sources said he has no desire to push his suggestion in the face of the present U.S. opposition and the stand-off attitude of some other powers. The sources said Menon would prefer to be assured of unanimous passage of any such proposal in the assembly.

WORSE DEADLOCK

As of today, Menon was represented as being pessimistic about convening a conference. But he still believes it would be helpful. He noted with interest Prime Minister Churchill's statement to the House of Commons Tuesday that a Big Four conference might be "useful" but that there was a risk it might end "in a still-worse deadlock than at present."

Indian sources said Menon has not consulted the American delegation but that he has learned the views of the U.S. through other delegations and the press.

President Eisenhower has stated several times he does not believe a top-level conference would be worth while until the Russians prove their good faith with concrete actions to end world tension.

The three Western allies already have invited Russia to a conference of Big Four foreign ministers to discuss the future of Germany and Austria. The Soviet Union snubbed that invitation in notes delivered in Moscow Tuesday. Reaction in Washington, London and Paris generally has been that the Kremlin is stalling, and Premier Malenkov doesn't want any kind of Big Four conference at the present time.

Largest Freighter Launched Saturday

MIDLAND (CP) — The 715-foot freighter T. R. McLagan, largest ship ever built on the Great Lakes, will be launched at this Georgian Bay port Saturday.

The Canada Steamship Lines vessel will carry more than 800,000 bushels of grain a trip at a standard operating speed of 17 knots. If carrying coal or iron ore, she can handle a cargo of 25,000 tons.

The new lake queen bears the name of the CSL president. Mrs. McLagan will sponsor the ship at the launching in the slipways of Midland Shipyards Limited.

A passageway the full length of the cargo holds will enable crew members to go from one end of the ship to the other without stepping outside. Another comfort is television in two recreation rooms.

LATE STARTER

H. C. Oersted, noted Danish physicist who died in 1851, was 22 years old before he earned his higher school certificate.

"SEEING" THE PRESIDENT—Blind Helen Keller runs her sensitive fingers over President Eisenhower's face during a visit to the White House. The 73-year-old Miss Keller, a pioneer in aiding the handicapped, has been blind, deaf and virtually mute since infancy. She told a friend, by means of a manual sign language, that the President had "courage" and "a gentle smile."

College Editor Resigns Job

TORONTO (CP) — Paul Bacon, news editor of The Varsity, University of Toronto undergraduate daily newspaper, has resigned.

Bacon said Wednesday night his resignation was caused by the anti-American and socialistic policies of his fellow editors. A second-year student at Trinity College, Bacon resigned after the Varsity carried an editorial supporting demonstrations against Joseph McCarthy, Republican senator from Wisconsin. The demonstrations included the burning of an effigy of McCarthy on the University Campus last Saturday.

Bacon said other editors frown on the methods used by McCarthy in fighting communism but he felt any measures aimed at the destruction of communism are fair.

Reduction Of Rates Encourages Building

TORONTO (CP)—Young Liberals of Toronto and York ridings said Wednesday night in an association resolution a reduction of interest rates on National Housing Act loans would encourage construction and enable easier purchase of homes.

It has been reported the rates might go up.

DANIELS VERSUS TURPIN — British middleweight fighter Randy Turpin (right) has been charged with assault by Adele Daniels (left). Miss Daniels, in a New York City court, charged that Turpin beat her in her Riverside Drive apartment. Turpin is in the United States after his vain attempt to win the middelweight championship of the world.

Seeking Agent To Kill Cells

TORONTO (CP) — Researchers are looking for a chemical agent that will strike at cancerous cells.

Dr. W. G. Cosbie, assistant professor of obstetrics and gynaecology at the University of Toronto, at a Canadian Cancer Society meeting Wednesday quoted British expert Alexander Haddow as saying the use of such an agent may be more than a method of treatment.

Dr. Cosbie said he did not wish to leave the impression that science is on the threshold of a great discovery.

"There is much to be done in this field."

Dr. O. H. Warwick, executive director of the society, said the main emphasis in the Canadian cancer research program has been upon support of fundamental research and the training of young research scientists.

Poor Man's Atom-Smasher Being Built In California University

By RENNIE TAYLOR

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A poor man's atom-smasher, called a swindletron because it seems to get something for nothing, is being built at University of California.

This relatively small instrument will produce a beam of atomic particles bearing charges of 1,000,000 volts each, even though it uses only a 500,000-volt power source.

It is intended to do work now done by larger and more expensive apparatus.

A full-sized 4,000,000-volt swindletron can be built for $10,000 to $50,000 while the other machines of that calibre cost $100,000 to $200,000, said Dr. John R. Woodyard. The 1,000,000-volt pilot model is being built under his supervision.

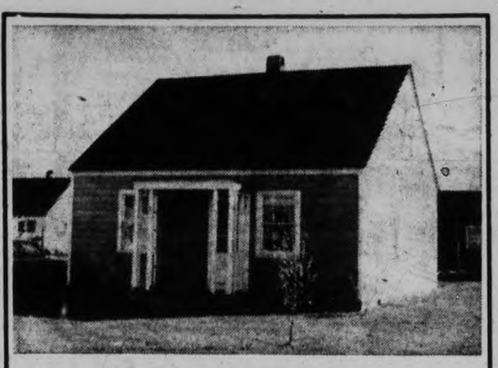
The pilot model consists mainly of a tube six feet long with a few gadgets surrounding it.

It uses hydrogen atoms for ammunition. A hydrogen atom is composed of a positively-charged nucleus, called a proton, and a single negatively-charged electron. This makes the normal atom electrically neutral.

At the starting end of the tube the electron is burned off the atom with heat. The resulting positively-charged proton is started through the tuge with a modest 30,000-volt jolt of electricity.

First the proton passes through a thin sheet of aluminum, from which it picks up two negative electrons and thus becomes negatively charged.

Further down the tube is a second sheet of aluminum bearing a 500,000-volt positive charge. The negative particle is attracted to this positive surface with a 500,000-volt burst of speed.



As it goes through the second aluminum sheet it is robbed of its two electrons and becomes positive again. Because the second aluminum sheet and the particle now are both positive, the particle is repelled. Already travelling at a 500,000-volt clip, it picks up another 500,000 volts of energy because of the repusion. Then it bangs into a target at the tube outlet with a total energy of around 1,000,000 volts.

Technically called a charge-exchange accelerator, the new gadget already has shown its builders some new things about electrical circuits and has pointed the way toward new uses for plastics in electrical insulation, Dr. Woodyard said.

SMOKE, BUT NO FIRE

Called to a Dennistoun Avenue home today by a housewife who reported smoke filling her basement, firemen found smoke had backed up from an overloaded wood stove. No damage was done.

BARN BURNS

Damage has been set at $200 in a fire Tuesday that destroyed a small barn on the farm of Joe O'Leary, R.R. 2, Indian River. Cause of the fire is unknown. OPP Constable John Cawood is investigating.

TO MARK CENTENNIAL

Kitchener will celebrate its centennial with a week-long celebration from June 27 to July 3 next year. An old boys' re-union will form an essential part of the occasion along with religious, historical and other features.

GRAND "MUMS"

There is a grand show of chrysanthemums at the home of Mr.and Mrs. Roy Beeler, Monaghan Road and Lundy's Lane. Bloom is abundant and the range of color is most attractive. This is the corner home where the climbing roses were a local beauty spot last July.

CHURCH PARADE

Annual church parade of the Canadian Legion will be Sunday afternoon to St. Peter's Cathedral. All veterans, whether members of the Legion or not, are requested to fall in at 2:30 p.m. at the Legion Hall. Service at the church will be at 3 p.m.

ROSARIAN RAVE

Among the new roses that will be on the market in 1954 but not in quantity is one named Miami. It is described thus: "a brilliant gold, orange and flamingo hybrid tea." It was devoloped by Francis Meilhand, the French hybridizer, considered a genius in his sphere, who produced that great rose Peace, an All-American as is Miami.

GLOVE COMPARTMENTS? That's ironic. There wasn't a glove among them. For what they did contain, however, consult the picture above. L. M. Richardson of Bridgenorth carried 16 different types of items which can be seen with him (left). English cars are no pikers, either, when it comes to glove compartments. George Penhall carried 11 items with him. Alex Stewart of 504 Water St. had lots of room in his compartment but kept the contents down to small items like lightbulbs and washers. That big item seen with Mrs. Rae Williams of Havelock turned out to be a roll of tissue paper and right beside it is a rather sensible item compared to men's bottle openers, a first-aid kit.

Regent Theatre Sold For $40,000

The Regent Theatre building has been purchased for $40,000 it was learned today.

Buyer is James Keating, Ashburnham hardware merchant. Mr. Keating said he had no immediate plans for the building, but expected to do "some renovation." He would not indicate whether the building would be continued in use as a theatre.

The Regent closed its doors in 1948, after about 30 years of operation. It was opened in 1918 by Frank and George Schneider whose family controlled it until its recent sale to Mr. Keating.

On its site, in the late 1800s, was a newspaper, operated by William Robertson. The paper, the Daily Morning Times, has long since ceased to publish.

Fire Hazard High In Hunting Season

Last year the largest fires of the season occurred during the deer hunting season while dry weather conditions were identical with the current season.

This information is supplied by the district office of the Lands and Forests Department to warn hunters this year to use every caution with smoking material and building fires on runways to keep warm.

The official fire season for this year closed on October 31 and records show that there were 57 forest fires in the district that burned over 638 acres. Foresters hope hunters will exercise the same care with fires as they do in handling firearms.

Car Glove Compartments Divulge Secrets To Camera

Why call them glove compartments? The world may never know.

There's a good theory behind the name, though. If your hands ever get cold while driving, you should be able to just reach over, open the compartment and extract a pair of gloves. In theory.

Several Peterboroughians volunteered to reach over and extract what they could for the Peterborough Examiner camera one day last week, and came up with everything from sandpaper to soft drink powder.

Example: L. M. Richardson of Bridgenorth. In his compartment, to the surprise of all, including Mr. Richardson, was found:

A cheque book, personal papers, a hair brush, a thermostat, matches, a bus schedule, a golf ball, five pencils, a comb, a car-owner's manual, receipts, letters, a bottle opener, a motor league membership, a drive-in program and a four-cent stamp.

A FIND

Mr. Richardson pocketed the stamp.

Few could match the Bridgenorth man's collection of odds and ends in quantity but many could in variety.

Bill Dunford of 220½ Brock St. showed two maps, a screwdriver, chamois, sandpaper, doorlatch, car fuses, tire valves, a comb, suntan lotion, and a bottle opener.

A resident of 137 Lock St., D. Lazure showed his glove compartment to contain a big box of matches, two pair of sun glasses, a flashlight, a razor scraper, car draw ticket, outboard motor spark plugs, a small camera, bottle opener, flashlight batteries, a comb, elastics, tape, fuses and a map.

TRY AGAIN

Not had enough? Okay.

Alex Stewart, 504 Water St. had pliers, a screwdriver, lightbulbs, fuses, a red-headed flashlight, wing bolts, gas receipts, washers, screws and a used stamp.

To get the woman's angle on glove compartments, Mrs. Rae Williams of Havelock was asked to pose with her compartment's contents. Even to the inexperienced eye, the yield certainly showed the woman's touch.

She brought out gum, candies, soft drink powder, the car's ownership permit, tissue paper, a first-aid kit, an owner's manual and a duster.

Notice anything missing? Something that none of the compartments contained?

Here's a hint. Why call them glove compartments?

Three Members Will Run For Board Of Education

Three sitting members of the board of education whose terms expire at the end of this year have announced that they intend to seek re-election. They are Mrs. Paige Rowell, G. Wilson Craw and Arthur Pitchford. A fourth, Charles Huffman, whose term also expires this year, was away on the deer-hunt today.

Chairman S. R. Adamson has announced that he will not run again this year. Of the other members, Mrs. J. B. Bell, W. B. Gordon, Clarence Porter and Dr. Donald Whyte are serving the first year of their two-year terms.

SEVENTH TERM

G. Wilson Craw the senior member of the board of education, this year is completing his seventh term, having first been elected in the 1938 municipal election. He served as chairman in 1944.

As chairman of the accommodation committee since it was first organized in 1945, Mr. Craw has been chiefly responsible for assessing the needs of Peterborough's growing student population for class-room space and selecting sites for new school buildings. In the 14 years he has been a board member, public school attendance has increased from 2,700 to 5,200.

The committee has initiated construction of Kenner collegiate and Armour Heights and Cameron St schools, the Prince of Wales school annex and additions to Queen Mary, Confederation, Grove and Parkhill schools. City council has approved a debenture issue to cover the cost of an addition to Queen Elizabeth school and an addition to Grove school is on the drawing boards.

When all these projects have been completed, it will mean a total of more than $2 million spent in school building since the end of the Second World War. Moreover a new site has been purchased adjoining the Westbrook subdivision and another on the Stenson property, immediately north of St. Alphonsus school near the southwest corner of the city.

SECOND TERM

Mrs. Rowell, who is vice-chairman of the board of education this years, is completing her second two-year term as a member. She has been chairman of the supervision committe for two years and is spending her first year on the accommodation committee this year.

When asked if she intended to run again she replied with a question of her own:

"Are there any other women running? I'd like to spend a few evenings at home if anyone wants to take my place. But I think there should be a woman candi-

Union, Raybestos Agree On 8-Cent Raise

Management of the Canadian Raybestos Co. Ltd. and Local 527 of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (Indep.) have reached a collective bargaining agreement granting the 130 production workers a wage increase of eight cents an hour and a reduction in working hours.

The new contract, substantially the same as a conciliation board recommendation handed down last Friday, will give the workers back pay of four cents an hour, retroactive to Sept. 20.

Signing of the 1953-54 contract will likely take place next week. The management, without waiting for the reaction of the union, put the conciliation board's report into effect on Monday. Local 527 agreed at a membership meeting Tuesday night to accept the offer and the company was informed Wednesday noon.

MAIN CHANGES

Following are the main changes in the contract:

1. A wage increase of eight cents an hour;

2. The work week reduced from 43¾ to 42½ hours with no loss of take-home pay. (This amount, which is four cents of the eight cents increase, is retroactive to Sept. 20.);

3. An improvement in the present health and welfare plan whereby the company pays an extra 1½ cents an hour;

4. No change in union security: voluntary irrevocable checkoff remains;

5. Improvement in vacations: two weeks after three years, and three weeks after 15 years; formerly two weeks after four years, and three weeks after 20 years.

Last July the company offered seven cents and a 42½-hour week with the improvement in the health and welfare plan and three weeks vacation after 15 years. Negotiations between the union and the company began last March. The contract ended May 14.

Minimum labor rates at Raybestos are now $1.32 for men and $1.21 for women.

Members of the conciliation board were Judge F. J. MacRae of Whitby, chairman, and E. Macaulay Dillon and Drummond Wren.

SPECIAL MENTION

James Fraser, manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, received honorable mention for doing an "A-1 public relations job for his city" in the Field Service News bulletin. Don Kingdon, who served his apprenticeship under Mr. Fraser and is now secretary of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, was among the 11 men given honorable mention.

Natural Ice

Skidding drivers gazed unhappily at patches of ice on downtown streets today, and may have wondered why city employees used the water wagon. A candidate for municipal office wondered why as well, and suggested the city might not need a memorial centre after all. "There's enough ice on the streets for the kids' skating right now," he said. The ice lasted long enough to catch even workers with banker's hours. Low for the night was 19 above; at 9 a.m. it was 24.

Two Break-ins Cobourg Homes

COBOURG (ENS) — Two overnight break - ins brought this town's total to three within the past 10 days. Two houses were entered sometime before midnight, but nothing was stolen.

About 10:30 p.m., Mrs. H. M. Holman, Albert St., heard a noise in the downstairs of her home. She was in bed and believed it was her daughter. Soon after, the noises were in the upstairs and a flashlight was shone into her bedroom.

Still thinking it was her daughter, she called out. The person went downstairs. She followed, and found the front door locked and the key gone.

A box containing business papers had been disturbed and an attempt made to force it, but nothing was missing.

Between 10 p.m. and midnight, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fisher, Durham St., was entered and ransacked, but nothing was taken. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher discovered the house had been entered by a rear window.

A week ago Saturday, the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Barnett, Henry St., was entered via a rear window. The break-in was discovered by OPP Constable Ralph Tremill, who boards there. He lost his service revolver and $2 in cash.

Find Trunk Believed Stolen In Jewelry Car

An empty wooden trunk found in Cavan Wednesday is awaiting identification in connection with the $40,000 theft of jewels from a Toronto car Monday. A schoolboy Earl Armitage, of Cavan Station, discovered the trunk hidden beneath leaves in a roadside wood.

The boy was bicycling to school Wednesday morning when he first noticed the glint of sun off studs on the box. He dismounted, went into the woods, which are about 25 yards north of Highway 7A and 75 yards west of the CPR tracks, thinking the object to be a saddle.

Instead, he found the square box partially covered with leaves.

Returning from school later that day with a chum, John Traynor of Cavan Station, he loaded the trunk onto his bicycle and took it home with it.

His mother, Mrs. Armitage, who had also noticed the box the previous night, phoned city police, thinking it was connected with the theft.

City Police Sergeant of Detectives John Stevenson and Detective Douglas Farthing brought it back to Peterborough where it will remain pending identification by the owners, Lorie, Ltd. of Toronto.

Staples through hasps, fastening the box were broken, police discovered, and it was empty.

Detectives Stevenson and Farthing are returning to the site where the box was found today in hope of recovering two suitcases which were also stolen from the car of Clifford Phillips, 26-year-old Toronto jewelry salesman.

Inspector William Clarke and Sergeant Gordon Puffer returned from Toronto late Wednesday after further investigations into the theft.

Though he declined to discuss details of his investigations, Inspector Clarke complained of a "lack of co-operation" with officials of Lorie, Ltd.

Two Houses Ransacked By Thieves

Money, Clothing, Food Taken While Owners Absent

Home appliances, food, clothing and about $200 was stolen from two Peterborough homes while residents were away Tuesday and Wednesday. Victims of the break-ins, the authors of which police suspect are the same, were Mr. and Mrs. Rae McWilliams of Chemong Rd., and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Norman, 435 Hillcrest St.

When Mr. and Mrs. McWilliams were away three days deer hunting, a thief or thieves entered and ransacked their home.

Entry was gained by ripping the screen on the back door, breaking window glass and undoing the latch from the inside.

An incomplete list of missing articles include a fur coat, a loaded automatic, a radio, toaster, movie projector, camera, suitcase, 24 pairs of socks, an electric blanket, dinner ring and two coin banks containing $200 worth of quarters.

THROUGH GARAGE

Mr. and Mrs. Norman left for Toronto at seven o'clock Monday night and when they returned nine o'clock Wednesday night, found their garage door forced, and the kitchen window broken through the garage.

Thieves who entred by reaching through the broken kitchen window and unlocking the door, took an electric heater, an electric blanket, a radio, toaster, club bag, three white shirts, a chest of linen, cheese and butter from the refrigerator, two silver plates and a cup and saucer.

As a precaution, the housebreakers tore out the telephone wires leading from the phone.

Detectives Douglas Farthing and PC Eldon McDonald are investigating the thefts.

Because of the similarity of articles taken, Detective Farthing believes the same man or men are responsible for both entries.

Duke's Clothes Cause Sensation

LONDON (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh, notoriously conservative in his dress, caused a minor flurry in sartorial circles today by turning out in a white tie with striped pants and a cutaway coat.

"Most unusual," was the restrained comment of George White, assistant editor of the Tailor and Cutter magazine. "Hardly to be taken seriously.

"Anyone who believes he can dress up like that for Ascot or a garden party has another think coming.

"The grey silk tie will continue to be worn."

A Buckingham Palace spokesman later straightened things out by explaining the Queen's husband was merely conforming to a local custom for a visit to Edinburgh University.

"I must admit it looks a little odd," he said, "but up at the varsities they do the most frightful things.

"I can assure you it's only for today. The duke is not attempting to set a new fashion."

F. Richardson Resigns School Board

HAVELOCK (ENS)—Trustee F. Richardson's resignation, effective October 31, has been accepted with regret by the Norwood District High School board, who wished him a speedy recovery.

Principal J. H. Caskey reported Monday night that 245 pupils attended the International plowing match at Cobourg last month.

Mr. Caskey gave the enrollment for the school as follows: Grade 9—113; Grade 10—87; Grade 11—40; Grade 12—16; Grade 13—13; total—269. The school was open 21 days. Buses were on time and it has been arranged for all buses to arrive between 8:40 and 9 a.m. One fire drill was held.

Enrollment for night classes is as follows: Home economics—23; shop—21; commercial—31. Mr. Caskey regretted that all applicants could not be received and was allowing the first 20 in shop and home economics and first 25 in commercial to register. Commencement exercises will be held November 19 and 20.

A request was made for a special door holder at the front entrance to keep the door open when the students are going to buses.

CAFE STATEMENT

The cafe statement for October was as follows: Cash on hand October 1—169.42; purchases—$271.09; total cost—$440.51; inventory October 30—$164.12; gross profit—$89.31; goods sold—$276.39; bank service $1; net profit $88.31; amount deposited in bank for locks——$12.25; dispenser—$10.53; balance in cafe account—$78.09.

The matter of the door holder was referred to the property committee. It was decided that half of the front door be unlocked while the school is in session.

The department grant now on hand to be applied on the debenture was authorized paid by the secretary-treasurer to the district according to assessment percentages.

Walter Bitten of Norwood spoke for a representative of the evangelical mission and requested that the Rev. Gerald Gregson be given permission to sepak to the high school students for 20 minutes at a time convenient to the principal. Mr. Gregson would speak on his work as chaplain in the RAF. There would be nothing said that might be contraversial to pupils of different faiths.

TO HEAR SPEAKER

The Board granted the request. The time will be arranged between Principal Caskey and Mr. Gregson.

Trustee D. H. Walsh informed the board that a new thermostat had been ordered to replace the one in the dryer in the home economics room.

It was decided that the work of putting top soil and fertilizer on part of the school lot and covering the disposal bed be started this fall and paid for in January 1954.

Accounts passed included B. Bell, coal, $636.69; R. Gordon, bus, $411.60; J. R. Thompson, bus, $588; two buses for Cobourg trip, C. W. Chard, $52.50; J. R. Thompson, $26.25; R. Nevins, $22.75; R. Gordon, $24.50; projector, $172.20; miscellaneous, $206.64.

Draft Changes In Atomic Energy Pact

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times today says the United States atomic energy commission is drafting a series of important amendments to the Atomic Energy Act.

A Washington dispatch to The Times by James Reston said the amendments are designed to increase the participation of private industry in the program at home and to liberalize the exchange of atomic information among the Allies.

(In Washington, the AEC had no comment on the reported draft legislation.)

FOUR OBJECTIVES

The amendments would do these things, the story said:

1. Enable private industry to own or rent fissionable material and to own and operate power reactors under proper controls. They cannot do either at present.

2. Give the commission greater discretion in the exchange of atomic and themonuclear information. This is strictly limited by the act, though it is subject to various interpretations.

3. Liberalize the rigid patent system that now governs all developments in this field so that private industry will have greater incentives to put its dollars, manpower and brains into these projects.

4. Revise the security system so that it is not necessary to get or evade the high clearance for laborers on atomic energy projects.

Return Cotton Trading To Private Hands

LONDON (Reuters)—The government took another big step toward private enterprise Wednesday by presenting plans in Parliament for returning cotton trading to private hands.

A bill introduced frees the government's raw cotton commission from its obligation to buy, import and sell all materials required by Britain's huge cotton spinning industry. It also provides for eventual dissolution of the commission, which was established in 1947 as the Labor government's first experiment in state buying as a permanent policy.

Rail Express Strike Will Be Extended

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit spokesman for the AFL Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, said Wednesday that strikes against the Railway Express Agency here and at Milwaukee and Pittsburgh will be expanded to 15 other American cities unless union pay demands are met.

A strike was called here 14 days ago to enforce demands for an immediate 30-cent hourly increase. Approximately 900 drivers, clerks and warehousemen are out.

Richard J. Kowalski, chairman of the protective committee of lodge 2075 of the union, said a 30-day notice of intent to strike was served on the company Oct. 22 in the 15 cities.

Eight Die In Crash Car Doing 83 MPH

PLATTE CITY, Mo. (AP)—Two automobiles collided head-on on a highway near here Wednesday night, killing eight young people including Dick Reinking, former college and professional football player.

Reinking, 27, and his wife, Camille, 25, were in one car. Six young men were in the other.

Authorities blamed excessive speed for the crash. They said the speedometer of the car in which the six men were riding was stuck at 83 miles an hour.

Production Curtailed

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The introduction of new models and the attendant changes in tooling and schedules will necessitate a curtailment of operations at General Motors Diesel Limited, it was announced Wednesday. About 475 production and service employees are affected. Plans call for operating three days a week during the remainder of November, pending earlier delivery of parts and materials.

Says Municipality Runs Cemetery Better

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Stuart Watt, city finance commissioner, said Wednesday a municipality can run a cemetery better than a private company can.

"The municipality operating a cemetery assumes the responsibility, financial or otherwise, for periods into the future which cannot be reckoned or foreseen," he told the legislature's cemeteries committee.

He said Victoria Lawn Cemetery in St. Catharines has been operated by the municipality for 97 years.

Churchill's Memoirs

On the morning of the 26th, "Boxing Day," I set out for the Embassy. I remember that three or four shells from the fighting which was going on a mile away on our left raised a spout of water fairly near the Ajax as we were about to go ashore. Here an armoured car and military escort awaited us. I said to my Private Secretary, Jock Colville, "Where is your pistol?" and when he said that he had not got one I scolded him, for I certainly had my own. In a few moments while we were crowding into our steel box, he said, "I have got a Tommy-gun." "Where did you get it from?" I asked. "I borrowed it from the driver," he replied. "What is he going to do?" I asked. "He will be busy driving." "But there will be no trouble unless we are stopped," I answered, "and what is he going to do then?" Jock had no reply. A black mark! We rumbled along the road to the Embassy without any trouble.

There I again met the Archbishop, on whom we were about to stake so much. He agreed to all that was proposed. We planned the procedure at the conference to be held in the afternoon. I was already convinced that he was the outstanding figure in the Greek turmoil. Among other things, I had learned that he had been a champion wrestler before he entered the Oxthodox Church.

About six o'clock that evening, December 26, the conference opened in the Greek Foreign Office. We took our seats in a large bleak room after darkness fell. The winter is cold in Athens. There was no heating, and a few hurricane lamps cast a dim light upon the scene. I sat on the Archbishop's right, with Mr. Eden, and General Alexander was on his left. Mr. MacVeagh, the American Ambassador, M. Baelen, the French Minister, and the Soviet military representative had all accepted our invitation. The three Communist leaders were late. It was not their fault. There had been prolonged bickering at the outposts. After half an hour we began our work and I was already speaking when they entered the room. They were presentable figures in British battle dress.

Once we had broken the ice and got the Greeks who had done such terrible injuries to each other to parley round the table under the presidency of the Archbishop, and the formal speeches had been made, the British members of the conference withdrew.

✧ ✧ ✧

Bitter and animated discussions between the Greek parties occupied all the following day. At 5:30 that evening I had a final discussion with the Archbishop. As the result of his conversations with the ELAS delegates it was agreed I should ask the King of Greece to make him Regent. He would set about forming a new Government without any Communist members. We undertook to carry on the fighting in full vigour until either ELAS accepted a truce or the Athens area was clear of them.

On the following morning, December 28, Mr. Eden and I left by air for Naples and London.

On December 29 we arrived back in London, and I telegraphed to President Roosevelt.

PRIME MINISTER TO PRESIDENT ROSEVELT

30 Dec. 44.

Anthony and I sat up with the King of Greece until 4:30 this morning, at the end of which time His Majesty agreed to * * * announcements (appointing the Archbishop as Regent.) * * *

This has been a very painful task to me. I had to tell the King that if he did not agree the matter would be settled without him and that we should recognize the new Government instead of him.

* * *

The Archbishop replied to the King accepting his mandate as Regent. There was a new and living Greek Government.

The continuous fighting in Athens during December at last drove the insurgents from the capital, and by mid-January British troops controlled all Attica. The Communists could do nothing against our men in open country, and a truce was signed on January 11.

Thus ended the six weeks' struggle for Athens, and, as it ultimately proved, for the freedom of Greece from Communist subjugation. When three million men were fighting on either side on the Western Front, and vast American forces were deployed against Japan in the Pacific the spasms of Greece may seem petty, but nevertheless they stood at the nerve-centre of power and freedom in the Western world.

$7,200,000 Trade Deficit Reported During July

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's imports again outpaced exports in July, resulting in a $7,200,000 trade deficit — the sixth monthly deficit for 1953.

This brought the total seven-month adverse balance for 1953 to $204,000,000, a reversal from the $203,400,000 surplus in the similar 1952 period, the bureau of statistics reported Wednesday.

Imports during July rose to $405,400,000 from $343,200,000 last year, bringing the seven-month total to a record $2,622,000,000, a gain from $2,293,500,000 in 1952.

Exports also edged ahead, but not to the same extent, increasing to $398,300,000 in July from $375,100,000. However the seven-month total dropped to $2,418,000,000 from $2,467,100,000.

INCREASES BUYING

Canada increased her 1953 buying heavily in the United States market, with the deficit in U.S. trade rising to the highest level in six years.

Imports from the U.S. rose in July to $268,500,000—a $40,000,000 jump from $246,500,000 last year. The rise pushed Canada's total purchases from the U.S. to a peak $1,958,900,000 for the seven-month period—a $250,000,000 increase from $1,704,400,00 a year ago.

Canada managed to sell a little more in the American market, but her exports fell far behind imports. In July shipments to the U.S. rose to $212,700,000 from $190,600,000, bringing the seven-month total to $1,422,300,000, up from $1,322,70,000.

The big surge in imports widened Canada's seven-month adverse trade gap with the U.S. to $536,700,000 from $381,600,000 last year for the biggest deficit since 1947.

Imports from Britain increased and exports also rose. Canada's surplus in U.K. trade dropped in July to $34,200,000 from $36,100,000 last year, paring the seven-month total to $130,400,000 from $277,900,000.

Drew Asks Early Candidate Selection

HALIFAX (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, Wednesday called for early selection of election candidates.

"A third or fourth choice candidate with two or three years work behind him has a better chance at the polls than a perfect choice with only weeks," he said at the annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Progressive Conservative Association.

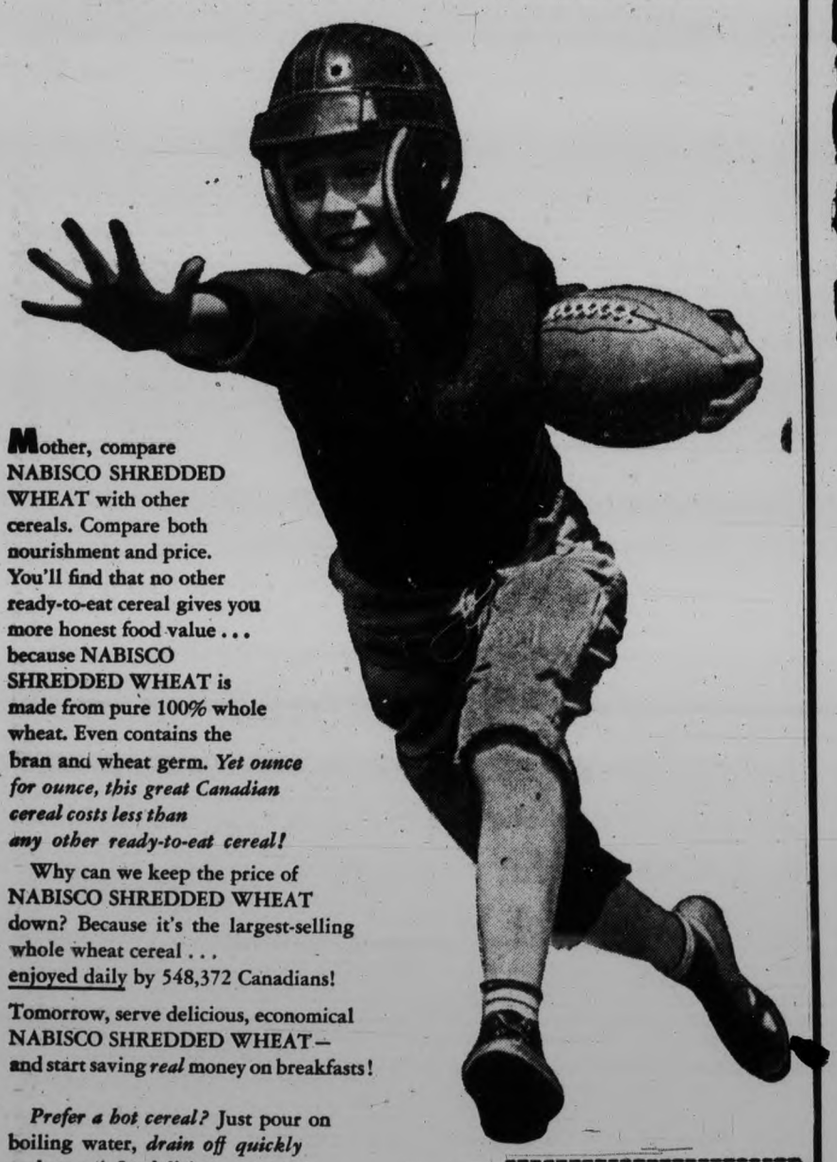
Hero's Welcome For Coward

MIDDLESBOROUGH, Eng. (CP) A 25-year-old soldier whose conviction for cowardice in battle set all England arguing, got a hero's welcome on his belated return home from Korea Wednesday night.

Huge crowds turned out to cheer Fusilier Patrick Lydon, who volunteered for Korea three years ago and then cowered helplessly at the bottom of a trench as his buddies fought desperately to repel a heavy Chinese attack.

Police reinforcements had to be called out to control townspeople as they shouted that it is "no crime to be afraid."

Lydon was arrested in September on the troopship bringing him home from 18 months in an enemy prison camp.



Townspeople hastily organized a reception after receiving word of the soldier's release. The army Tuesday had confirmed his dishonorable discharge but remitted a one-year prison sentence and sent him home.

Record Plantings

MONTREAL (CP)—Autumn tree planting in Montreal will bring the city's plantings for 1953 to a record 5,300, including the 2,800 trees planted last spring. The net gain is 3,700, since 1,600 have been felled during the year.

Lindsay Muskies Whip Barons 6-0

LINDSAY (ENS)—The Regent Muskies got off to a flying start in defence of their Lakeshore league title here Wednesday night, turning in a 6-0 shutout victory over the revamped Bowmanville Barons in the league opener.

The Muskies controlled play throughout the game but failed to open up in the scoring until the last two periods and but for the work of Bob Burkhart in the nets, for the Barons, would have had an even larger total. The Hicks-Lewis-Corley line was in mid-season form while the defence corps was its solid self, giving Mucker O'Connell great support in his shutout bid.

Lewis opened the scoring in first period tallying two seconds before the end, with the Barons at a man disadvantage. In the second, Hicks from Green, Corley from Hicks and Lewis, and Crawford from Parker added to the total. Green scoring unassisted, and Davis from Parker, added the final markers in the third.

Referee Maurice Walsh called the game closely handing out 20 penalties, including two majors. Muskies had 10 minors and one of the five-minute sentences.

Hoping To Develop Anti-Polio Toxoid

TORONTO (CP)—Gamma Globulin has helped in the fight against poliomyelitis this year but researchers hope eventually to develop an anti-polio toxoid, Health Minister Phillips said Tuesday.

Such a toxoid, which could be administered in the same way as children are given toxoid to protect them against whooping cough, is expected to be available in the United States within two years, he said in an address to the central Ontario area Women's Institutes.

"But our scientists say it will be from two to five years before we have it here."

Arrest 27 For Theft At U.S. Army Depot

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation today announced the arrest of 27 men in connection with the thefts of government property from the United States army depot at Schenectady, N. Y. All were civilian employees of the army.

D. K. Brown, special agent in charge of the Albany office of the FBI, said investigation had disclosed thefts of property valued at $7,803.07.

Agents recovered government property valued at $5,430.08, Brown said. In addition, $591.25 worth of government property was returned to the depot by unknown persons.

Jury Disagrees Case Set Over

LINDSAY (ENS) — The trial of Arthur Fairfield, on a charge of rape, came to a sudden end here Wednesday, when the jury, after four and a half hours deliberation failed to come to verdict. The accused was remanded for a new trial at the next court, probably the spring assizes.

In charging the jury, Mr. Justice Treleaven, asked them to bring in verdict of either "guilty" or "not guilty." He commented then that he "would hesitate to convict on this evidence" and warned of the danger of convicting on uncorroborated evidence of the complainant, a 19-year-old girl.

After two and a half hours, the jury returned to the courtroom and asked for instructions on the lesser charges. Two hours later, Mr. Justice Treleaven brought the jury back to the courtroom and asked if there was any hope in sight of their reaching a verdict.

A few minutes later the jury returned and the foreman told the court they could not agree. Mr. Justice Treleaven commented "This, I believe, indicates the serious approach you have taken to your work."

Faulty Steering Suspected Cause Of Fatal Plunge

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Something might have gone wrong with the steering of his car, Alvin Hollings said today in explanation of the accident that claimed the life of 53-year-old Harry Smith, Campbellford, lockmaster at Healey Falls.

Hollings, who is 32, said he wasn't sure what happened. He only knew that as the car started into a curve two miles north of here, the car failed to answer to the steering wheel.

Hollings has been charged with motor manslaughter, and was released today on $5,000 property bail put up by his parents. He spent Tuesday night under guard in Campbellford hospital, and Wednesday night in jail at Hastings. It was reported earlier that he had been sent to the counties jail at Cobourg.

INTO THE CANAL

When the car didn't respond, it careened across a lawn, and plunged into the Trent Canal. Hollings escaped with shock and bruises, and Smith although thrown clear of the car, drowned.

Hollings said he was driving Smith from Campbellford to Healey Falls, and noticed two friends sitting on the verandah of the house at Lock 13, where the accident occurred. He blew the horn, then started into the curve. He remembered nothing after the car started across the lawn until he found himself climbing from the cold water up the canal bank.

Hollings immediately ran for help. Dragging operations located Simth's body, and artificial respiration was attempteld with no results.

Reason for the trip to Campbellford from Healey Falls was that Smith, a veteran, needed repairs made to an artificial leg. He and Hollings were given permission to leave their jobs at the locks and drive to town so that Smith could ship his false leg to Kingston.

Date for preliminary hearing of the charge has not been set. A post mortem done on Smith's body was completed Wednesday, but provincial pathologist Dr. Hans Lucke has made no public statement of his findings.

Canada's Vastness Impresses Wife Of Swiss Minister

ENVOY'S WIFE—Mrs. Victor Nef is the wife of the Swiss minister to Canada. Mrs. Nef comes from the lace-manufacturing town of St. Gallen in northeastern Switzerland. For 25 years her husband was with the consulate in New York. She finds the Canadian mode of life a compromise between European conservatism and American exuberance.—(CP Photo).

By DON HAWORTH

OTTAWA (CP) — When Mrs. Marie Nef, wife of the Swiss minister, Dr. Victor Nef, first came to Canada five years ago she visited western Canada and the Yukon.

Since then Canada has meant vastness. She had never before seen earth that went on so far and so flat and so unchangingly as the western Prairie.

Her own mountainous country is about the area of Newfoundland. Five million persons live there in small cities and villages.

Mrs. Nef, a middle-aged woman with two grown children, comes from the lace-manufacturing town of St. Gallen in northeastern Switzerland, but for 25 years her husband was with the consulate in New York and she sees Canada from an American as well as from a European background.

QUIETER IN CANADA

In the Canadian mode of life she finds a compromise between European conservatism and American ebullience.

Here, she says, people take things a little easier than in the United States; they are less excitable, more conservative in their tastes. Life here seems to be more leisurely and spacious — though Mrs. Nef thinks the difference between bustling New York and Ottawa—"where you get to know everyone"—exaggerates the difference between the two countries generally.

On the other hand, she says, Canadians join more clubs and do more organizing for the enjoyment of their leisure than in Switzerland where a close family and community life persists.

She thinks that women work harder here—partly because it is still possible to get domestic help in Europe. She notices the Canadian preference, especially in the West, for a small family house instead of an apartment.

YEAR-ROUND TREAT

Mrs. Nef says it is wonderful to be able to buy fresh vegetables all the year round. In the Canadian menu there is only one thing she misses—the Bundner fleish specialty of eastern Switzerland.

The specialty is filet of beef which is dried until it hardens and goes a deep red color. It is then cut like a ham, almost paper thin and eaten without further cooking. At one time it was dried by sunlight in the hard, dry Swiss air, but now it is usually smoked.

Mrs. Nef was married in the United States and both her children were born there. Irene, 23, a graduate in journalism of Columbia University, is married to Henry Schulte who also studied journalism at Columbia and now works in Minneapolis. Edward, 20, is at Harvard.

Mrs. Nef herself was educated at Lausanne and Berne.

Fashion Note: Balenciaga's suits this season are all curve, curved shoulder, curved open collar, curved jacket line. He designs a classic in grey mouchete tweed, perfectly simple, with somehow the look of 1954 about it.

DOROTHY DIX

In-laws Object To Wife Caring For Ailing Parents

DEAR MISS DIX: My father recently retired because of ill health, and my mother is ill, too. They have a small income and have gotten along very well in their own place, but now I feel they are in no condition to be alone. We have room for them at our house, my husband is perfectly willing to take them and my children are thrilled over the prospect of having beloved grandparents here. The trouble, however, comes from my husband's people, and I feel their interference in a matter that scarcely concerns them is unwarranted.

Mollie R.

NO COMMENT NEEDED

ANSWER: The opinion of your in-laws certainly should have no bearing whatsoever on your decision. The problem concerns you, your husband, and your parents; no outsiders should venture more than a passing comment. The matter boils down to a simple case of petty jealousy. An added aggravation may be present if your husband's brothers and sisters fail to show their parents the devotion that you give yours. It would be a pity, indeed, if your mother and father were deprived of needed care for such superficial reasons.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a high-school freshman. My English teacher and I don't get along and, although I've been to the office to see if I could have my class changed, nothing can be done. Even though I work harder than the other students, she gives me lower marks.

G. G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It rarely is accorded every student to like all of his teachers; usually there's one instructor, if not more, who just doesn't click. Generally it's because the pupil doesn't care too much for the subject taught by that particular teacher. If you continue to do your work well, show attention and interest in class and, above all, don't go to the office with complaints, the mutual difficulties should be settled.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband is almost insanely jealous. He accuses me of the most outrageous things, such as seeing old boy friends, when I haven't even heard from them in years. If I go out with my girl-friends, all married and raising families, he says someone saw us in a tavern with men. This is so ridiculous that I'm at wits end over it.

M. T.

ANSWER: Your husband sounds like a case for a psychiatrist. Talk to your doctor, and see if he can influence your husband to seek an examination, asserting, if necessary, that his behavior is breaking up his home.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My family has lived in the same house for about twenty years, with absolutely no trouble over neighbours. Now, a woman has moved into a home a few doors from us, and she seems to take the keenest delight in passing sarcastic remarks about me and the other teen-agers on the block. We do our best to be pleasant to her, but her response is always a nasty dig. How can one get along with people like that?

Miss L. O.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Greet her pleasantly in passing, don't get into prolonged conversation, and ignore the disagreeable cracks. She is sour on people, perhaps on young folks in particular, possibly on most persons.

Oxford University Bans Slacks For Undergraduates

OXFORD, England (Reuters)—An official notice posted in one of the leading women's colleges of Oxford University today sent cold shivers up and down the spines of girl undergraduates who read it.

The notice—ominously labelled "Important"—informed students of Somerville College that from now on they are banned from wearing slacks with their caps and gowns.

It pointed out that girls who are "improperly dressed, academically speaking" when they go to lectures, are breaking college rules.

Thus did the edict from university directors nip in the bud an American-type fashion craze which has swept Somerville this fall.

The girls took to wearing slacks—drain-pipe velvet and corduroys were most popular—and denim jeans under their sober academic gowns as soon as the first frosty autumn mornings warned them that winter was not far off.

"We suffered something awful from the cold in past winters," explained Jackie Self, third-year history student. "So this year we figured slacks would be the answer."

"They're just right for cold libraries and lecture rooms and draughty corridors. They're also much better for cycling than skirts."

"But," she added with a sigh, "now all our dreams of comfort are shattered."

BANCROFT

BANCROFT (ENS)—Findings of various discussion groups relating to controversial subjects connected with child upbringing made interesting listening at Friday's regular meeting of the Home and School held at the school with president Mrs. A. Hewitt in the chair.

A group led by Mrs. J. Brown through that children should receive a regular spending allowance beginning at school age and increasing gradually, the amount to be decided in relation to the state of family finances. The spending of this allowance should be supervised by parents.

The group thought also that teenagers should receive payment for work which would otherwise have to be paid for. The function of parents in child training was discussed by a group led by Mrs. G. Fresque which considered that, while the mother must play the primary role in child discipline, parental agreement on this subject was very important and that family conferences were ideal solutions.

Sleeping routine was stressed by Mrs. A. Smith's group. Children should retire at their regular time regardless of other family affairs. Variations of bedtime should not be used as a threat of punishment or promise of reward.

The part of adults in children's companionship was discussed by a group led by Mrs. E. Goodkey. Parents should guide their children in their selection of playmates but should not criticize. Children should be encouraged to bring friends home and to join organized groups.

School principal Gordon Fresque asked that a committee be formed to supervise skating at the school rink on three evenings per week when lights and music will be available. The following volunteered to serve on this commitete: Mrs. A. Weiss, Mrs. M. Ray, Mrs. A. Hewitt, and Mrs. Robinson.

Treasurer Mrs. W. Delyea reported a balance of $239.40.

CENTRAL SCHOOL

"Father's night," at Central School was on Monday in the kindergarten room. President, Mrs. J. Callaghan welcomed especially the fathers in attendance. Business items on the agenda included a financial report showing the fine success of the recent harvest tea.

Attendance prizes were given to Miss Palmer's and Miss Stout's rooms.

Mr. Les Reid was the chairman for the remainder of the meeting. He first introduced Master Brian Dunford who, accompaneid by Mrs. H. Hartle at the piano, sang "Bless This House," and "The Shepherd."

Mr. V. Harrington gave a short devotional reading. Principal, Mr. Donald Crawford added to the entertainment side of the program with the reading of three selections from the works of Robert W. Service "Home and Love," "I'm Scared of it All," and "Lucille."

Guest speaker, Mr. John R. Twigg was introduced by Mr. Roy Irwin. Mr. Twigg, probation officer for the County of Peterborough considered as his topic "Investments yielding unusual returns."

First he considered the history of the juvenile court, 100 years old, and cited the case of a ten-year-old girl then being sentenced to the penalty of seven year's imprisonment for the theft of one shawl. This extreme and probably highly inprofitable type of punishment was compared with today's efforts to rectify similiar wrong doings, through the work of juvenile courts and probation officers.

Mr. Twigg clarified his explanations by differentiating between the condition of parole as compared with probation. This newest form of disposition by a court was termed a pre-sentence procedure in which the offender is released conditionally under definite supervision. "It is not to be interpreted as a court having been swayed emotionally or being merely lenient," he said, "our Probation Act came into effect in 1937 and in 1950 Ontario's population of 4,500,000 included 30,000 persons with prison records. In comparison, the courts of England and Wales have had probation officers for 50 years and the 36,825 persons sentenced to imprisonment there in 1950 were drawn from a total population of 34,000,000! Several disadvantages of prison were given where it was shown that a Probationary period would be of greater advantage, and Mr. Twiggs prophesied the growth of this system in this country.

The thanks of the audience was conveyed to the speaker by Mr. Stanley Hayman.

Those serving the refreshments were Messrs. R. Boate, M. Fowler, L. Rapar, C. Sargenson, R. Irwin, and S. Rowe.

Excelsior Bible Class Holds Pleasant Tea At St. James

Excelsior Bible Class members had a lovely tea on Wednesday afternoon in the tea room at St. James' United Church. They enjoyed most pleasant, sunshiny, November weather and a large crowd which seemed to appreciate their early opening hour of two-thirty.

Decorations featured the most prominent of the fall colors, gold and bronze, and were carried out in streamers and in flowers throughout the room.

On the tea table was a beautiful hand-crocheted lace cloth in the Star Wheel pattern, done by Mrs. George Rowe who was one of the tea pourers with Mrs. William Mantell, Miss Jessie Martin, the class teacher, and Mrs. Lloyd Shorten, the new minister's wife.

Bronze and yellow 'mums in a cut crystal bowl centred the table and crystal candelabra held yellow tapers. The small serving tables were each centred with a rose bowl filled with 'mums.

Mrs. Albert Sanders was tea room convener and the table hostesses were Mrs. Clarence Porter, Mrs. N. Sullivan, Mrs. Peter Mayhew, Mrs. Roy Heard, Mrs. Newton Brown, Mrs. Roy Messervey, Mrs. Ainslie Phillips, Mrs. M. J. Burns and Mrs. Elmore Williamson. The replenishing of plates and tea pots was done by Mrs. W. M. Thompson, Mrs. Rita Keating, Mrs. Harry Winterbottom and Mrs. W. H. Post and Mrs. M. Robinson made the tea.

Bazaar tables had attractive offerings and a "fish pond" where fishing done by hand was popular.

The home baking table was in charge of Mrs. G. Cuffe, Mrs. G. English and Mrs. Emily Draper, and Mrs. Harold Fife sold candy bags. Aprons were sold by Mrs. H. C. Palmer and Mrs. Jack Simmons and children's wear and novelties by Mrs. Roy Armour and Mrs. Walter Fortlock. The fish pond was attended by Mrs. Russell Bell and Mrs. J. G. Curtain.

The class puts all profit from the tea into purchases for the Sunday school and can proudly point to the fine metal chairs in use in the tea room as evidence of their work. They also do sewing for the church welfare and missions.

President this year is Mrs. Q. Dantzer and she received the guests. Mrs. C. Davis was at the treasurer's table.

Woman Of Interest Speaking Here

The Women's Art Association is presenting an interesting speaker for the first studio meeting this season on Friday afternoon at the YWCA. It is Miss Freda James of Toronto who has made interior decorating her business and has achieved a Canada-wide reputation.

Proving ground for her ideas are her two homes— one a Toronto apartment, the other on a 120-acre farm, 32 miles from the city, called Mulberry Hill after some great mulberry trees that have been there longer than the memory of man.

She can now show some striking pictures of a recent major project on the campus of the University of Toronto, and during her 18-year career she has planned interiors, from basic outline to final detail, including yachts, millionaire homes, small houses, offices and institutions.

She is also a dog lover and raises championship English cocker spaniels on her farm. She also likes to putter in the kitchen, preserving the mulberries and making mulberry pies.

Women Not Significant In Life Of Country: Sanders

TORONTO — "Despite women's ability to play a great and symbolic role such as is being taken by them in cancer welfare work today, the part women play in the life of the country isn't even significant," Byrne Hope Sanders told her audience under the title, "Who Thinks Like a Woman," Wednesday night at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto. She was guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the Ontario Women's Service Committee of the Canadian Cancer Society which is holding a two-day Trend Workshop Conference to study all phases of the society's work and objectives.

Miss Sanders, a partner in Sanders' Marketing Research, Canadian Institute of Public Opinion, giving her opinion why women don't assume responsibility, said: "Women have no sense of being personally involved, no program for using their own genius to further understanding of what a woman's role in national life should be and no sense of partnership with men in regard to national, provincial or even community affairs."

Claiming that women had learned to believe in women, to support and trust them, she cited the progress made in women's volunteer work against man's deadliest enemy, cancer, and how these women had learned to work closely with men in partnership.

In conclusion, Miss Sanders added, "If more women would put the same interest and energy into national life and really care about women's potential role in contributing to the welfare of the Commonwealth, the nation and the community, the same degree of progress can be made by them in public life."

Mrs. Hugh Walker, of the Cancer Memorial Hospital, New York, addressed the Cancer Society representatives at the luncheon Wednesday on the role of the volunteer. She stressed the importance of their "thinking big and planning long," and the need of good will in people working together whether in hospital, community, country or continent. "Good will can move mountains," she said.

Other speakers of the day were: E. S. Welch, president of the Ontario Division of the society, who brought breetings to the group, and Drs. T. C. Routley and O. H. Warkick who talked of the relationships and functions of The Canadian Cancer Society, The Royal Institute of Research, and the Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation. Mrs. Egmont Frankel, president of the Toronto branch of the society is chairman during the conference.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Green Tomatoes Given Their Turn

After I visited my farmer friends I realized why I was receiving so many letters for green tomato recipes.

From Barb's small farm garden she had gathered something like four bushels of green tomatoes. Other baskets were in varying stages of ripening.

When I asked her how she would ever use them all up she airily said "Oh, I'll make mincemeat and pickles and fry 'em. Maybe I can save some and ripen them for Christmas dinner."

Help with recipes for all of those things are what you are asking me for in your letters, so here they are, with my blessing. Personally, as soon as this is typed, I'm going off to a football game.

GREEN TOMATO MINCEMEAT

About 15 lbs. (a generous 6 quarts) green tomatoes, washed, cored and chopped, 3 lbs. brown sugar, 2 lbs. raisins, 1 cup finely chopped suet, 2 tablespoons salt, 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon, ½ cup water, 1 teaspoon cloves, (ground), 2 teaspoons nutmeg, chopped apples, pulp and juice of 3 lemons or ⅓ cup vinegar. Sprinkle salt over chopped or sliced tomatoes and let stand for 1 hour. Drain and discard the juice. Cover with cold water, bring to boil and boil 5 minutes. Drain off liquid. Now add the suet and ½ cup water, and simmer 20 minutes. Stir in sugar until dissolved. Add all remaining ingredients and boil rapidly until thick—about 20 minutes, stirring almost constantly. Pack into sterile jars and seal. When this is used for mincemeat pies some cooks add 1 cup of fresh chopped apples to enough filling for each pie.

GREEN TOMATO PICKLES

About 15 lbs. (a generous 6 quarts) green tomatoes washed, and sliced, 1 oz. coarsely ground black pepper, 4 cups sugar, 1 oz. whole allspice, ¼ oz. ground mustard 1 dozen medium sliced onions, 1 oz. whole cloves, 1 oz. mustard seed, 8 cups vinegar, ¾ cup salt. Mix the tomatoes in layers with ½ cup salt. In another container layer the onions with ¼ cup salt. Let these stand overnight, then drain them well. Put them together and add the vinegar and sugar and mustard seeds, and the spices all tied in a bag, bring to boiling and let simmer—after boiling point is reached—for 20 minutes. Pack into hot sterile jars and seal.

FRIED TOMATOES—GREEN OR RED—IN CREAMY GRAVY

In frying pan melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine. Mix together 4 tablespoons flour, 1 or 2 tablespoons sugar, 1½ teaspoons salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Dip slices of tomato—unpeeled—in this flour mixture then fry in fat until golden. Do not overcook or tomatoes will break. Carefully transfer to hot platter. To the residue in pan add about 2 cups milk and stir until thick, (Any flour mixture that is leftover should have been added to pan before milk is stirred in.) If necessary add a little salt to this cream gravy. Pour over or around the tomatoes and serve hot.

QUESTION—I would like a recipe for grape wine. I have put 3 baskets of grapes in water a couple of weeks ago in a covered crock and I don't know where to go from there . . . Mrs. H. B.

ANSWER—I am a weak reed when it comes to wine-making. The best help I can give is a formula that is a method similar to the one you have started on:

GRAPE WINE

Put 20 lbs. of ripe grapes into a stone jar and pour on 6 qts. boiling water, when cooled sufficiently squeeze by hand but do not break seeds. Cover with cloth. let stand 3 days, then press out juice. Add 10 lbs. sugar. After standing 1 week, skim off scum, strain through double cloth, and bottle corking loosely. When fermentation is complete strain again and bottle, corking tightly. Age on side in cool place.

Oaks Heights Church Marks 62nd Anniversary

WARKWORTH (ENS)—Sixty-second anniversary services were held at Oak Heights United church on the Warkworth charge on Sunday with good attendances at both morning and evening services.

The church was decorated with ferns and chrysanthemums.

Visitors from many of the surrounding communities were present for both services and were guests at various home during the day.

The Rev. J. R. Wheeler, of Roseneath, was guest speaker at both services. In the morning his sermon was based on the text: "Let us not be weary in well doing."

The Marsden mixed quartet from Alderville supplied the morning music and led in the hymns. They sang three anthems.

The Rev. A. L. Sisco, pastor, was also present at the evening service. The sermon chosen by the Rev. J. R. Wheeler was based on the topic: "Going Away and Coming Home."

The local choir of young people led the singing in the evening and sang an anthem with Mrs. L. Tucker, church organist and director, presiding at the piano. Misses Ferne Killingbeck and Eleanor McMurdo sang a duet and Miss Eleanor McMurdo a solo with Miss Frene Killingbeck piano accompanist.

Fraserville News

Owing to anniversary services at Bailieboro, November 8 and Bensfort, November 15, services at Franserville United Church will be cancelled for the next two Sundays.

The Young People's Society met at the home of Mr. H. Cardwell, Wallace Point, Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray McIlroy and Mrs. W. Cunningham visited the latter's brother and sister-in-law and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. Roseberry, Niagara Falls, on Sunday.

BABY'S COLDS

Help Nature To Fight Them Off

Medical Science denies there is any such thing as a cure for colds — only Nature herself can do it. So when baby's sniffles, or stuffy breathing warn you of a cold's presence—cooperate at once with Nature.

See that baby is kept warm, gets plenty of sleep and take extra care that the bowels are thoroughly cleared of harmful wastes. To do this without upsetting baby's whole system and further weakening it, try Baby's Own Tablets. Mild, yet act promptly in getting rid of irritating materials that make baby restless and feverish.

One Nova Scotia Mother says: "My baby of 26 months caught a nasty cold so I tried Baby's Own Tablets and she threw this cold off quicker than ever before. I certainly am for Baby's Own Tablets from now on." Equally good for restlessness and peevishness resulting from irregularity at teething time, for constipation, digestive upsets and other minor infant troubles. Get a package today at drugstores.

6—In Memoriam

HENRY—In fond and loving memory of my mother, Mrs. Mabel Henry, who passed away one year ago today, November 5th, 1952.
She has not died, who left us,
For the better land of day
She would not so bereave us
She's only just away
And right behind life's curtain
Beyond all grief, and pain,
There'll be a happy dawning
When we shall meet again.
—Sadly missed, but always remembered by Helen and granddaughter, Deborah.

HENRY—In memory of Mrs. Mabel Henry who passed away one year ago today.
We watched her suffer day by day
It caused us bitter grief to see her slowly fade away
And could not give relief
Her weary hours and days of pain
Her troubled nights are past
And in our aching hearts we know
She has found sweet rest at last
Tis sweet to know we'll meet again
Where parting is no more
And our dear mother we loved so well
Has only gone before,
God knows how much we miss her
He counts the tears we shed
And whispers "Hush she only sleeps"
Your mother is not dead
Someday, sometime her hand will clasp
And never say "farewell."
Sadly missed by son Kenneth, daughter Alma and family.

date; so I guess I'll let my name stand."

Arthur Pitchford is completing his sixth year as a member of the board, in addition to two years as an appointed member of the advisory committee. His length of service is exceeded only by that of Mr. Craw among sitting members. He was vice-chairman in 1949.

He was first elected in December 1945 but was defeated in the 1949 election. He was a successful candidate in 1951 and is now chairman of the advisory and vocational committee. He has served on every committee of the board.

Mr. Pitchford, who heads the cost department of the Quaker Oats Co. Ltd. in Peterborough, told The Examiner today that if he were nominated he would probably seek re-election in December.

Plan Council To Improve Development

TORONTO (CP)—Fred G. Gardiner, chairman of the Metropolitan Council of Toronto which looks after planning and services for 1,250,000 persons, said today the council was created to end "40 years of unsound municipal development."

He said in a speech prepared for delivery at the Empire Club that the Ontario government set up the council last spring to straighten out the mounting problems caused by the rapid growth of the city and the 12 suburban municipalities.

"The council comprises a chairman and 24 members from Toronto and the 12 suburban municipalities, to look after overall planning and six essential services in the Greater Toronto area."

Mr. Gardiner said that for 40 years before the act, the 13 municipalities attacked their water, sewage, housing, education, road, parks and welfare problems in 13 different ways "with no sound overall plan for providing those services which are metropolitan in nature on a metropolitan basis."

Creation of the council did not mean amalgamation; municipalities still have their officers, elected by voters of each municipality.

NOT AMALGAMATION

"But the way is left open for eventual amalgamation of the municipalities if that is considered the best course. On the other hand, if the metropolitan government operates successfully there may never be the necessity for actual amalgamation."

Fast-growing populations in the municipalities overloaded sewage, water and other services to the point where overall planning is imperative, Mr. Gardiner said.

Lake Ontario was the logical place for the Greater Toronto area to get water and get rid of sewage. But six municipalities were cut off from the lake by Toronto. The city supplied water and handled sewage for the municipalities but growing populations made an overall plan necessary.

"The act established a plan unique in North America," Mr. Gardiner said. "The closest approximation is the London County Council in England, composed of 150 members from 28 boroughs, which provides metropolitan services for 3,500,000 people."

Police Arrest Bishop

BERLIN (AP)—Polish security police have arrested the Roman Catholic bishop of Ermland (Warmia) in East Prussia and taken him away in handcuffs, the Catholic diocese of Berlin reported today.

Butchers Arrested

TEHRAN (AP) — Twenty-eight Iranian butchers have been arrested in the last two days in the government's new drive against price gougers, a government spokesman said Wednesday.

Bear Perched In Tree Startles Residents

ORILLIA (CP) — Early risers were startled today when they saw a bear perched in a tree in front of the town hall.

However, bruin was dead and held in place by ropes.

Constable Bob Flintoff shot the bear on a hunting trip. He said practical jokers took it from his garage and hoisted it into the tree. Orillia is 60 miles north of Toronto.

Orillia Paper Becomes Daily

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP)—The Orillia Packet and Times, with a history dating back to 1867, today began publication as a daily newspaper.

The paper which serves the Lake Simcoe [illegible] of central Ontario, came out with two sections totalling 30 pages. The regular news section contained 14 pages and a special section 16.

The weekly Expositor, launched in Confederation year, was one forerunner of the Packet and Times. Another was the weekly Northern Light. A third was The Times, published briefly as a daily in the 1890s.

With a daily publication, the Packet and Times — owned by the Thomson Newspapers — now is a member of The Canadian Press, brings the number of CP member newspapers across Canada to 92.

Indian Chief Warns Reds To Speed Up

Says PoW Interviews Dragged Out Without Reason

PANMUNJOM —(AP)— The Indian chief of the Korean war-prisoner commission indirectly—but pointedly—warned the Communists today to speed up their dragging interviews with anti-red PoWs or "I may have to throw up my hands."

The warning by Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya came as the Reds appeared ready to call the whole program quits. Thimayya indicated he may use Indian troops to conduct the interviews if the present tottering procedure breaks down.

He called the recent dragged-out interviews with anti-Red prisoners "inhuman," and added: "I can't stand any longer to go into the tents and look at it myself. As long as India is responsible I cannot permit this to grow."

He spoke after a last-minute Communist demand resulted in cancellation of the day's scheduled explanations.

HEAR COMPLAINTS

Earlier Thimayya had visited the camp holding the 22 Americans and one Briton who have refused repatriation to the United Nations side, and he reported the 23 had held the Indian commission for more than four hours to hear complaints against the UN Command and the Indian custodial force.

The Allied PoWs handed Thimayya a long, typewritten protest denouncing delivery of mail, newspapers and magazines from the United States which the PoWs considered counter-propaganda to "intimidate, slander, coerce and bribe" them to come home.

The protests were signed by an American who appeared to have written his name Richard Cordon; the British prisoner, Andrew Condron, and a South Korean.

The main demand, Thimayya said, was that the neutral nations repatriation commission "censor such mail" to filter out all material urging them to return.

NOT TOO CLEAR

"I asked them what we should do in the case of a letter from a man's wife who writes 'oh darling, please come home to me' and they seemed a little unclear on that point," said Thimayya.

"We may work out some arrangement to read off the names

U.K. Hymn-Singing Students Turn Court Into Bedlam

LONDON (AP)—Shouting, hymn-singing university students turned famed Bow Street Court into a bedlam today when hearings began on mass arrests resulting from one of the most riotous Guy Fawkes nights in London history. Singing "Onward Christian Soldiers", they marched through the packed and littered Covent garden market area, strewing exploding firecrackers in their wake, and tried to rush the doors of the court when they were thrown open. Policemen, standing shoulder to shoulder, barred their way. Police finally managed to clear a space, and the more than 200 students arrested Thursday night were ushered into the court, all charged with "wantonly discharging a firework in the street."

PLEAD GUILTY

Most of the students pleaded guilty and paid small fines.

But ushers repeatedly had to call for silence when the students related their side of the story.

Some snarled proceedings by insisting on calling witnesses from the shouting, jeering throng outside—an almost-impossible job.

The hearings were the aftermath of a wild outburst Thursday night in London's west end, climaxed by a march of 10,000 university students and other young people on the Houses of Parliament.

In Picadilly Circus 65 Bobbies stood shoulder-to-shoulder against assaults on the famous statue of Eros which dominates the traffic circle.

The annual celebration — in honor of the 17th-century plotter who tried to blow up the Houses of Parliament—started off calmly with millions of Britons dancing around bonfires, burning effigies of "the Guy" and drinking ale.

Brittle Economy Worries Canada

NEW YORK (CP)—A Canadian cabinet minister said Thursday night that Canada is "genuinely concerned" with the "thin and rather brittle" economic base on which the North Atlantic countries have founded their political and military co-operation.

Finance Minister Abbott called for bolder and speedier steps to expand world trade and strengthen this economic base to greatly improve "our whole defensive position."

"We all recognize the key position of the U. S.," he said in a speech before the Academy of Political Science. "We expect you, as we expect other countries, to pursue policies that accord with your enlightened self-interest. . . . If you really do this, we shall not be disappointed."

While Canada is impressed with progress in political and military spheres under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, "frankly we in Canada are genuinely concerned about the thin and rather brittle economic base on which this political and military co-operation has been built," Mr. Abbott said.

"We are convinced that the political and military security of the free world must have a more solid economic base, for I am enough of an economic determinist to believe that if the economic base cracks again, it will be extremely difficult to maintain the measure of political understanding and military co-operation which now exists."

India Intends Keep Neutrality

NEW DELHI (AP)—India, staking its international prestige on the success of its mission in Korea, shows no sign of budging from its official idea of neutrality despite the recent Communist harrassment of its prisoner-guardian forces.

A survey of informed opinion here shows also that the Communist failure to win more than a handful of repatriates in two weeks of explanations has not seriously shaken the official Indian belief that most of the prisoners would elect to return home if given a free choice.

Officials who will discuss the situation still contend that threats of violence by South Korean and UN "agents" within the prison compounds and pre-armistice coaching, are halting the flow of ex-Communist troops back to the northern lines.

Indian officials still are convinced the bulk of these prisoners have no political loyalty, therefore the question of pro-Communist or anti-Communist does not arise.

4 Men Dodge Red Bullets, Reach W. Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Under fire from Communist police, four men raced across the Soviet sector border into West Berlin today in two automobiles.

The shooting occurred at Potsdamer platz, where the British, U.S. and Soviet sectors meet. The four were unhurt. They were taken to West Berlin police headquarters for questioning.

The anti-Communist West Berlin free jurists committee said it has reports of fresh outbreaks of violence in the Soviet zone. It said East German police opened fire on suspected partisans along the Polish border but succeeded only in wounding four of their fellow policemen. Police arrested 18 persons on charges of aiding partisans to flee from Poland toward the west.

WILL BE TRIED

Soviet zone authorities announced yesterday that two Czechs who fought a series of gun battles with East Berlin police in an unsuccessful attempt to reach the west, are to be tried for the murder of four policemen.

The two are Cybynek Janata and Vaclav Svajta, both 30. Three other Czechs who started with them reached the safety of West Berlin Sunday night. They reported they killed possibly eight German policemen in five gun fights as they fled across the Soviet occupation zone.

Call Troops In To Help Police Forces

General Strike Grips Stormy City, Death Toll Rising

TRIESTE —(AP)— Savage rioting flared again today in this disputed Adriatic port city. Police fired into the ranks of pro-Italian demonstrators and the death toll in two days of bloody clashes mounted to eight, with six slain today.

Late today British and American troops with fixed bayonets marched into the trouble area and restored order.

At least 60 persons, mostly students, were in hospitals with police-inflicted bullet wounds. The Italian-Slav territorial police suffered injuries when a hand grenade was tossed in their midst from today's milling mob of at least 10,000. Three or more police were wounded. Unconfirmed reports said one or more had died.

FIRST USE OF GIs

It was the first time American troops had been called in to help quell the bitter demonstrations. British and American forces, which occupy this city, had previously been posted merely as guards around buildings where their personnel were working.

Police first opened fire today after they were outnumbered in a clash near the waterfront and were forced to give ground.

Rioting here followed Thursday's bloody events in which the British-trained territorial police fired on demonstrators, killing two and wounding another 18. Scores were injured by club swinging police.

The Trieste riots were followed by similar outbreaks in other Italian cities—notably industrial Milan and Rome.

In the Italian capital, thousands of demonstrating students began mildly. Then, their emotions whipped up, they stoned the British consulate in downtown Rome.

Plant Owner Gets $46,540 From City

TORONTO (CP)—John F. Elder of Kingston has been awarded $46,540 from the City of Kingston as a result of a fire which destroyed his soft drink factory.

In a judgment released here Thursday, Mr. Justice J. M. King said a fire in a city dump July 8, 1952, spread to Mr. Elder's adjacent factory and destroyed it. The judgment said evidence showed city employees were responsible.

The case was heard at Kingston. The city said the building could have been burned down as a result of children making fires or a passer-by throwing a cigarette butt.

Cobourg Company Loaned Million For Housing Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—A Cobourg company has been granted a $1,012,999 federal loan to build a low-rent housing project for the Canadian Army. The public works department said the loan was awarded to Cobourg Rental Homes Ltd., for the erection of a 132-unit project for the recently opened Army Ordnance Corps depot in Cobourg. Rentals will be $54, $57, and $60 for two, three and four-bedroom units respectively.

The department said the project will include 16 two-bedroom houses, 106 three-bedroom and 10 four-bedroom units. Construction is to begin immediately.

The term of the loan is 40 years and the interest rate is three and three-quarters per cent.

Charge Truman Kept Spy On

CHICAGO (AP) — Attorney-General Herbert Brownell said today that Harry Dexter White, assistant secretary of the treasury in the Truman administration, was a Russian spy, but was kept in the government even after the Federal Bureau of Investigation reported this to the White House.

The attorney-general charged that "in the face of this information" President Truman advanced White to the important position of executive director for the United States in the international monetary fund.

Brownell described Truman's actions in the matter as "incredible."

(In Kansas City, Truman said "I don't recall that such a thing happened. As soon as we found out that White was wrong we fired him."

(Truman went on to say that the Eisenhower administration is making a "desperate effort" to offset the recent Republican election defeats in New York and New Jersey. "They'll stop at nothing, lies or anything else, to accomplish their purpose. They're scared. They're desperate.")

Severe Storms Damage Areas Across Greece

ATHENS (AP)—Torrential rains and thunderstorms of unprecedented violence which have swept Greece during the last two days have caused immeasurable damage to agriculture, roads and bridges.

Thousands of acres of cultivable land in central Greece, particularly in the Larissa area, are flooded. Several villages have been isolated, many houses destroyed and thousands of trees uprooted. Road traffic between Athens and Salonika has been suspended because large sections of road have been torn away.

Three small vessels were sunk at Port Lixouri on the island of Kefallinia when heavy seas wrecked the breakwater weakened by last August's earthquakes. There was no loss of life.

Second Of Quads Dies In Lansing

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The second of Lansing's Van Alstine quadruplets died today.

Donald Ray, first of the quadruplets born Oct. 26 to Mrs. June Trollman van Alstine, had lived in an incubator since birth. Death was attributed to cardio-respiratory failure.

The fourth-born of the quads, another boy, died a day after his birth.

The mother of the quadruplets has been home for two days. The hospital said the two remaining babies are in good condition.

Mrs. June Trollman, who was divorced in 1944, married George van Alstine, a Lansing auto salesman, three days after the birth of the quadruplets.

Canada Gives $227,000,000 To UN Agencies

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has poured more than $227,000,000 into the United Nations and its agencies and plans to contribute more millions next year, finance officials said today.

Since the 1945-46 fiscal year, Canada has contributed $206,250,000 to the UN in emergency relief, reconstruction and technical assistance, $19,547,000 for administration and $1,817,000 for international navigation facilities, including cost of running a weather ship.

Besides this, Canada has loaned $625,000,000 to the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and the International Monetary Fund.

In the 1954-55 fiscal year, officials said, Canada will contribute some $3,000,000 toward running the UN and its agencies, roughly the same as in each of the last two years.

The sum to be contributed to relief, reconstruction and technical assistance has not yet been determined.

OUTRANK U.S.

For running the UN itself, Canada will put up about $1,400,000 next year, or around 3.3 per cent of the total UN administration budget of $41,000,000. This is about the same percentage as in previous years.

Canada will outrank the United States in per-capita contributions to UN administration next year—approximately 10 cents to 8½ cents—although the U.S. has the highest per-capita income in the world. Canada has argued that no country should have to make a higher per-capita contribution than the U.S.

Canada ranks seventh among contributing nations, behind the U.S., Russia, Britain, France, China and India, in that order. The U.S. contribution has been lowered from 38.89 per cent in 1946 to 33.33 per cent next year and Russia's has been increased from the original 6.62 to 16.53 per cent.

Help To Buy Cancer Bombs

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Martin said today the federal government has approved financial assistance towards the purchase of two cobalt 60 beam cancer therapy bombs for installation in Hamilton and Windsor.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the official opening of the Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation's cobalt 60 beam therapy bomb clinic here, Mr. Martin said the bombs will be sent to Hamilton and Windsor by next spring.

"The province's two remaining university centres, Ottawa and Kingston, may be expected to complete construction arrangements for the receipt of cobalt 60 bombs soon after," he added.

The first cobalt bomb was installed two years ago at London, Ont. The unit unveiled here today is Canada's fifth. Others are at Vancouver, Winnipeg and Saskatoon.

Mr. Martin said the atomic energy commission is building more powerful reactors "which will increase substantially "the supply of cobalt available for bombs. He added:

"It is expected that beginning in December of next year, it will be possible to step up production to two units each month.

New Information For Canadians

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Great Soviet Encyclopedia, in a 16-page section of Canada, says the rights of Canadian citizens are "grossly broken by police repression directed mainly against workers and progressives."

The latest volume of the encyclopedia, 19th of a 60-volume series, contains this description:

"Included in the British Empire, Canada is in fact in considerably greater dependence on the monopolists of the United States. The system of government reproduces the most reactionary features of the state order of the United States and England.

"The Canadian Senate is a most reactionary institution consisting of representatives of big capital. Election rights are based on racial, religious and property discrimination.

"Very often most important state decisions are taken by the Canadian prime minister and cabinet without prior consultation with the House of Commons, which later gives them formal sanction."

Farm Business Good

BRAMPTON (CP)—A sign of the industrial boom: A 200-acre farm near Brampton, 12 miles northwest of Toronto, was reported today to have been sold by farmer Rankin Kellam to an electronics firm for $110,000. Kellam bought it eight years ago for $7,000. He would not disclose the name of the company.

Enthusiastic Fans

Football, Ballet Russian Obsessions

(Editor's Note: Gerald Clark, staff writer with Weekend Picture Magazine and the Examiner's Saturday magazine section, is the first Canadian newspaperman to receive a working visa to the Soviet Union since 1946. This series of six daily despatches from Moscow will be followed by other articles from Clark on Soviet Union in early issues of WEEKEND).

MOSCOW, Nov. 6—The three great national obsessions here are chess, football and ballet. You can see people playing chess, hour on hour, in pavilions in the parks. They act like chess players anywhere else—studious and reserved. But it's another story when it comes to the other two pastimes. I don't think hockey fans at home are any more rabid than Muscovite football fans. As for ballet, the teen-agers swarm about their stars the way bobby-soxers take to Perry Como.

Look at English soccer, or football as it's known here. Ninety thousand spectators jam into Dynamo Stadium several nights a and I, with foolhardiness, joined them one night. Getting to the stadium is an adventure in itself. You're squeezed into a subway train like so many sardeenkee, or Russian sardines, and then you merely relax and let the crowd push you toward the escalators leading to the exit. The station has five huge escalators. Before game time, four escalators go up only.

Outside, you're confronted by near-hysterical men and women who ask if maybe, by small miracle, you've a spare ticket. Some seats are alloted to factory workers as reward for higher production, others go to visiting delegations. But the bulk are put on open sale. The demand is so heavy that fans line up two days before a game.

TREMENDOUS OVAL

Dynamo Stadium is a tremendous oval, with wooden bleachers and a few reserved sections for high government officials. Games are played only after working hours, and now that it gets dark early the field is illuminated by multifold batteries of lights. Once you're seated, and the excitement starts to build up, you imagine you're in an arena in Canada—until you catch a glimpse of the portraits of Stalin and Lenin towering high over the stands. Nearby flutters a banner with the words "Mir Miru"—peace to the world.

Sitting around you are working men, in rough clothes, and women with shawls covering their heads, and smartly turned-out Red Army officers. All around, too, is the characteristic odor that lingers from Soviet soap, a kind of boiled fat odor. Vendors walk down the aisles carrying trays and crying "morochonoeye." If hot dogs aren't the vogue, at least ice cream bars are.

A whistle blows, the crowd roars. It's starting time. Tonight the Moscow Torpedoes are meeting a visiting team from Vienna. The Torpedoes are classed as amateurs, as, in theory, are all sportsmen in the Soviet Union. They work for the Stalin auto plant, but they're entitled to special bonuses and time off for practice. In the spring they go south, to train in the Crimea.

Now the teams troop onto the field, and the crowd applauds. Every member, from both sides, carries a bouquet of fresh flowers. He exchanges it with his opposite number. There's a speech of welcome and a mention of "peace" from the captain of the Soviet team; the Viennese captain replies, and the teams troop out. A minute later they're back and play begins. The Russians play a close, fast game. The Austrians, more in English style, play a wide-open game.

EXPRESS REACTION

Every time there's a good move the crowd applauds or whistles its approval. If a Russian fumbles they shout "sapozhnik," which means "shoemaker." No one throws paper or pop bottles on the field. That's considered hooliganism. When a goal is being threatened you can hear 90,000 throats sucking in breath en masse. At half time, the fans move down toward the dozens of stands that serve drinks and sandwiches. Dynamo Stadium is probably the only stadium in the world where you can buy champagne and a slab of bread with caviar.

The game ends in a 4-0 victory for the Russians and, in a way, the fans are disappointed. The Viennese had been highly touted, and they expected a better showing. But they announce general approval by prolonged applause.

Meanwhile, at a ballet theatre the applause is hardly less subdued. I've been to a couple of theatres so far, including the famous and grandiose Bolshoi. Though they may disagree with Russians on many matters, westerners here say flatly that Bolshoi Theatre ballet is the world's best. I saw a superb production of "Romeo and Juliet," with Galina Ulanova as the prima ballerina. Unlike the west, where only a portion of ballet is presented, here it's done in its entirety.

There are 37 theatres in Moscow, offering everything from unadulterated Aida and Carmen to propaganda plays. Some of the theatres are easy to get into, but for the Bolshoi you have to book weeks in advance, unless you're a high official or a visitor with privileges. The theatre is immediately opposite my room, facing Sverdlov Square, and right now I can see a block-long lineup. Tickets range in price from six rubles ($1.50) to 34 rubles ($8.50).

At the Bolshoi, the audience is elite and fairly dignified. But when you enter a lesser theatre you feel a different atmosphere. Between the acts, students rush down the aisles, scream and clap their hands madly, and hold their stars to several curtain calls. The nearest thing to a bobby-sox cult, they hover around stage doors and approach their ballet heroes with glazed eyes.

A campaign is now under way to end such practice. The newspaper Pravda recently frowned on it as "uncultured."

Easy Mark For Saboteurs

Say Boston Waterfront Not Carefully Checked

BOSTON (AP)—A United States coast guard admiral thinks the Boston waterfront is an easy mark for prospective saboteurs.

Rear-Admiral Raymond J. Mauerman said Thursday: "There is nothing to compel importers to advise the coast guard or any other agency except customs as to the nature of cargoes in the holds of vessels coming into Boston harbor."

Mauerman, who heads a board of inquiry investigating last week's fatal explosion aboard the Norwegian freighter Black Falcon, added, however: "We are generally advised of the nature of cargoes now—but only through the voluntary co-operation of the importers."

Longshoreman William Keating, a survivor of the below-decks Falcon blast that claimed the lives of seven fellow workers, said the men did not know the dangerous nature of the cargo they were handling.

The Monday explosion is believed to have originated in drums of sodium peroxide which came in contact with water.

In the aftermath of another Boston harbor disaster, a navy board of inquiry Thursday absolved the skipper of the aircraft carrier Leyte of any blame in the Oct. 16 explosion and fire which killed 37 and injured 39.

The port catapult machinery was believed to be the source of the blast through a leak of hydraulic fluid.

Platypus Little Racketeer

Faked Motherhood To Get Special Delicacies

NEW YORK (AP)—Penelope the platypus has been labelled a little racketeer who faked approaching motherhood just to get delicacies and tender treatment.

Bronx Zoo officials, certain she was expecting, provided the duck-billed, beaver-tailed native of Australia with special rations and also eucalyptus leaves to build a little nest for the anticipated newcomer. Then she produced—nothing.

Zoo workers learned this Thursday after they gingerly shovelled for hours through an earthen bank the 18-inch long animal had tunnelled into.

"Penelope really had a racket," said William Bridges, the zoo's curator of publications. "The whole staff was taken in. She's a very smart animal."

Gossip about Penelope spread after she was courted last June by her mate, Cecil.

Zoologists were excited because only one platypus ever has been born in captivity, and none in United States.

Wheat Crisis Facing Canadians

Coldwell Declares 800,000,000 Bus. During 1953-54

SASKATOON (CP)— M. J. Coldwell, national CCF leader, said Thursday night Canada is facing a "wheat crisis," and will have almost 800,000,000 bushels to dispose of during 1953-54.

Addressing a public meeting in conjunction with the annual convention of the Saskatchewan section of the CCF, he quoted the latest figures on the current wheat crop and said he had checked all possible figures with the federal departments of agriculture and trade and commerce. He said the figures "belie the optimistic statements coming from the government in its attempt to play down the oncoming crisis."

SURPLUSSES ARE HUGE

Both Canada and the United States had large carryovers from last year coupled with bountiful harvests this year, resulting in surpluses far in excess of export market requirements—the first time since the early 1930's that the world wheat surplus "has assumed such tremendous proportions," he said.

Canada's 1953 crop now was estimated at 594,000,000 bushels, second only to last year's record crop and 40 per cent above the 10-year average.

The carryover from last year was 362,700,000 making the total wheat supply nearly 1,000,000,000 bushels. Estimated domestic requirements were 160,000,000 bushels.

British Troops Raid 240 Homes

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP) — British troops and state security police raided 240 homes in a British Guiana sugar village during the night, day-lighting the streets with flare-bombs as they moved cautiously from door to door.

They seized more than a dozen guns, ammunition and other weapons. The village is about 84 miles from Georgetown.

The raids, lasting several hours, followed the attempted holdup of Mrs. N. D. Otman, wife of an engineer at Port Mourant sugar factory.

Snow, Sleet Hit Areas Across U.S.

CHICAGO (AP)—Snow, sleet and gusty winds hit areas in the United States today as the fall season's coldest weather spread from the Rockies to the Atlantic coast.

The chilly air extended as far south as the Gulf of Mexico, with temperatures near freezing in some southern states. Snowflurries hit sections of Virginia and North Carolina. It was near zero in some midwest cities.

But the most severe weather was from Wyoming and Colorado eastward through South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas. Snow, sleet and rain were general throughout the storm belt.

RIOTING ERUPTS

The rioting erupted, student spokesmen claimed, after police had refused them a permit for a big procession through London streets and a bonfire. A police spokesman denied such permission had been withheld, and said the only restriction was an old one forbidding proeessions or meetings within a mile of Parliament while the House is in session.

As police fought off student attacks on the Eros statue, the mob surged out of Piccadilly Circus with the cry:

"On to Parliament." The students fought their way through a mile of streets to the locked gates of Parliament Yard.

TOSS FIRECRACKERS

Some marchers detoured en route into Downing street and tossed firecrackers against the windows of No. 10, Prime Minister Churchill's official residence.

Unable to penetrate the police cordon at the Parliament Buildings, the crowd then tried to march to Buckingham Palace. But mounted policemen gradually restored order—seven hours" after the outburst began.

Two Men Fined After Fight In Minden Street

LINDSAY (ENS)—The arrival of police Thursday night at a main street brawl in Minden in the nick of time prevented a mob of 50 persons from becoming involved in a fight. As a result two Lindsay men were convicted of creating a public disturbance in court here today.

James Montemiglio, 21, and Fred Lindsay, 22, were fined $25 and $2.50 costs each by Magistrate E. A. Gee, after pleading guilty to the charges.

Const. A. Hardie, of the Minden OPP, told the court that he had investigated a commotion on the street in Minden Thursday in which the two accused and two other Lindsay men, Lyle and Walter Minor, were also involved. According to the officer, one man had been struck in the fight, which broke up when he arrived.

STAYED IN TOWN

Later that night, he said, it became apparent that the trouble was not ended, and he went to a Minden hotel, where he found the Lindsayites drinking. He warned them, he said, to get out of town, but an hour later came into the main street and found a mob of some 50 people in the midst of whom the four were again fighting, this time with a larger group of Mindenites.

According to Const. Hardie, the trouble stemmed from a 15 year old agreement between Minor brothers and some Haliburton county residents. Two of the latter were injured in the fight, one suffering a cut above one eye, two blackened eyes, a broken tooth and a swollen face. The other received a cut beneath his left eye.

The Minor brothers of whom only Lyle appeared in court, have been charged with assault occasioning bodily harm. Lyle was remanded to Minden court on Nov. 6th for trial, on bail of $100.

The four said after the trial that they had been on their way home when they were accosted by the other parties in the dispute. Rather than run to their car, they said, they stood and fought.

They had originally come to Minden, they said, to seek veterinary treatment for their dog which had been mauled by a bear as they were deer hunting at Bark Lake.

Most Prices Lower On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP) — Most prices were lower in light early afternoon stock market trading today. The sole exception was industrials.

Industrials' strength was mostly in foods, agricultures and textiles. Papers, steels and utilities were mixed. Retail stores and manufacturers were lower.

Base metals were down with senior losses ranging to Noranda's 75-cent drop. In juniors, losses outnumbered gains but the plus side had a few strong changes.

Uraniums and Bathurst-area base metals continued lower.

Western oils slipped in light trading.

Golds were quiet in seniors, and holding companies, but showed a fair amount of activity in juniors.

Call Federal Gov't "Worst Employer"

TORONTO (CP) — The federal government was described Thursday night as "the worst employer in the country" by the president of the Toronto branch of the Canadian Postal Employees' Association.

Les Hood told the Toronto District Labor Council (AFL-TLC) that while the federal government has approved of overtime pay for postal employees after a normal week of 48 hours, an employee is not given credit for a 48-hour week for overtime purposes when a statutory holiday falls in the work week.

The strike, tightly enforced in Trieste, threatened to spread throughout Italy as tempers seethed over the bloody outcome of two days of pro-Italian demonstrations.

The Trieste general strike was called in protest against the killing of two persons by police in Thursday's riots.

Solemnly, the citizens of this largely Italian-inhabited city put out flags at half-staff at dawn.

Italian newspapers bitterly blamed British Gen. Sir John Winterton for the order to fire which turned the flag-waving and later stone-hurling demonstration in Trieste into a national crisis.

The shooting was done by Trieste's territorial riot police consisting of Italians and Slavs. British and American occupation troops did not move against the rioters.

TAKE SERIOUS VIEW

LONDON (AP)—The foreign office today took a "serious" view of the rioting in Trieste.

A spokesman said "the implications" will be studied in relation to the Anglo-American evacuation of zone A of the free territory—the area due to be handed over to Italy.

While expressing "grave regret" for the flare-ups, which have caused several deaths, the spokesman carefully sidestepped pinning direct responsibility until receiving full reports from the British commander in Trieste and the British charge d'affaires in Rome, where disorders also occurred today.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains dipped slightly in rather quiet dealings at the opening on the board of trade today.

The market lacked commercial support and in its absence mild hedging pressure sufficed to send the prices lower.

More moisture was received in parts of the winter wheat belt overnight.

Wheat started ⅛-c lower, Dec. $1.47⅜-½ and oats were ¼ lower to ⅛ higher, Dec. 78-77⅞. Soybeans were unchanged to one cent lower, Nov. $2.76½.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trading continued dull early today on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Prices held to a narrow range under limited demand. Best showing was in flax, where further export interest indicated some sales may have been made to the Continent.

Oats and barley trade was domestic, while rye was local.

11 a.m. prices:

Oats: Dec. ¼ lower 70½-B; May ⅛ lower 70⅜B; Jly unch 69⅜.

Barley: Dec. unch 98½; May unch 98⅞B; Jly unch 97¼A.

Rye: Dec. ⅜ higher 1.12⅜; May ⅛ higher to unch 1.15⅛; Jly not open.

Flax: Dec. ¾ lower 2.63¼A; May ¾-⅞ lower 2.65¾A; Jly not open.

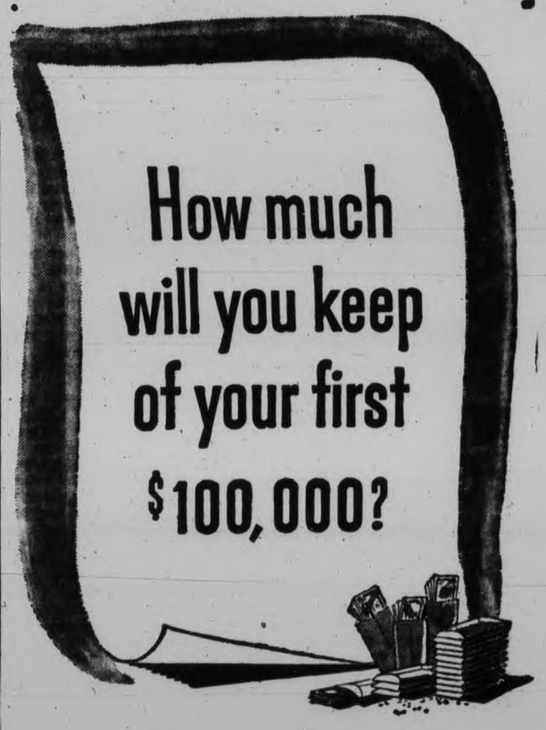
PROPAGANDA LOSS

In his warning statement, Thimayya did not name the Communists, but there was no question whom he meant.

The Red interviews have dragged from the start. Almost halfway through the set 90-day period, they have talked to only 2,020 of the 22,400 Chinese and Korean PoWs.

Only 61 of the anti-Red PoWs interviewed have consented to return home, a propaganda loss so galling to the Reds that it has caused increasing speculation that they will quit the talks in an uproar to stop it.

Thimayya laid down a sharp condition for continuing the interviews —that the Reds handle a compound of 500 prisoners a day beginning Monday or agree to forget those who don't meet the Red explainers.



Coldwell Suggests Grain Payment

SASKATOON (CP) — M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the CCF party, has urged payment of a $1 a bushel to farmers for farm-stored grain.

An estimated 500,000,000 bushels of wheat now are held on western Canada farms.

Addressing a public meeting in conjunction with the annual convention of the Saskatchewan CCF party here Thursday night, Mr. Coldwell said, "This would be a good gamble for the government and of tremendous benefit to the farmers and the Canadian economy."

How much will you keep of your first $100,000?

Believe it or not, you'll likely earn more than that during your working years.

So the big question is:
How much of this will still be yours when you retire?

You owe it to yourself to make sure you keep enough.

Pilot Ditches Plane In Lake

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A young pilot, killed Thursday night after he stuck with his crippled Sabre jet aircraft until he maneuvered it away from a densely populated district of Detroit, was identified today as 2nd Lieut. David E. Axthelm, 22, of Fairfield, Ia.

The body of the United States Air Force pilot was found near Belle island about a mile from the spot where the rocket-laden craft plunged into 20 feet of water in the Canadian section of Lake St. Clair about three miles east of here.

A spokesman at Selfridge Field, a U. S. Air Force base several miles north of Detroit, said the pilot's parachute was partly open when the body was found.

Axthelm was returning from a training flight shortly before dusk when he radioed that his engine went dead.

Selfridge officers said they thought Axthelm overshot the base and found himself over Detroit's east side when he came down.

He then apparently maneuvered the crippled plane out over the Detroit river and stayed with it until the last minute to make sure it would crash into the lake near the mouth of the river.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

A BIT WARMER!

"Did you read where Sarnia had seven inches of snow?" the bus customer asked of somebody. "And snow around Rochester? We haven't much to kick about." News from the west mentions a slightly warmer trend, which may reach the east over the weekend, if no cross currents interfere.

When the next leaves fall on the lawns of St. John's Church, Dick Ford, sexton, may not start a bonfire as has been his custom of years. He has a power mower, and he says he intends to run it through the leaves, chopping them up fine for a mulch to settle into the sward during the winter.

Senator Blasts U.S. Censorship

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator George A. Smathers (Dem. Fla.) protested bitterly today to defence headquarters against what he termed "intolerable interference" by the United States army with correspondents' efforts to report the news from Korea.

He wrote Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson, urging a swift crackdown on "putrefying" news censorship by the military, and suggested that some censors are "more officious than efficient."

There was no immediate comment in reply.

Smathers said in an interview that his protest stemmed from dispatches earlier this week by John Randolph, Associated Press correspondent in Korea.

Randolph reported increasing "political" censorship of the news and said some facts not related to security had been suppressed. Among other things, Randolph said the military has refused to clear the true story of an Allied plane which bombed and strafed U. S. soldiers in the field last January, killing 14 men.

Cobourg Picks Nov. 27 As Nomination Day

COBOURG (ENS)—Novembe 27 will be nomination day for mayor, council, public utilities and school trustees and voters will go to the polls on December 7. Nominations on November 27 will be from 7.30 p.m. to 8.30 for mayor, reeve, deputy-reeve and public utilities commission and from 8.30 to 9.30 for councillors and school trustees.

There are no contentious issues arising out of the year's municipal administration. The town is growing, taxes are going up but people expect them to and nobody is getting blamed for it, so the man on the street expects a quiet election.

Conciliation Bd. Recommends Wage Increase

LINDSAY (ENS)—Five members of the United Steel Workers Local 4927, Lindasy, met Thursday night to hear a conciliation board report on the talks conducted by the board with the management of the Dominion Brake Shoe plant here and union members of the local industry.

The three man board consisting of Prof. C. H. Curtis, Queen's University, Kingston, chairman, Miller Stewart of Sturgeon Point, a labor writer and the union nominee, and Stewart S. MacInnes a Welland lawyer acting for the company, made substantially the same findings on all but six of the points in dispute but disagreed on the major issue, wages.

Two of the members proposed an increase of some kind, the third the company member disagreed and presented a minority report arguing that no increase is justified.

Another meeting of the management and union committees without outside arbitrators, is scheduled for November 17 when a final effort to settle the points will be made. The union has now gone through all the legal procedure required of it by the Ontario Labor Relations Board.

ORGANIZED THIS YEAR

The union first organized the Brake Shoe plant in Lindsay early this year, shortly after the company had granted a ten cent increase to its workers. On April 30 the union was certified as bargaining agents for the Brake Shoe employees.

Bargaining proceeded regarding the contract, and agreement was reached on all but seven points, which were submitted to the board. They were, wages, hours of work, legal holidays, vacations, health plan, union security, and the miscellaneous items of grievance procedure, job posting and full bargaining rights, of the last three only the final item remained unsettled.

"Many of the facts upon which the patries rely are not in dispute," said the board report. "The wages paid by the company are the highest in Lindsay."

The five day, 45 hour week, the pay for six statutory holidays, the vacation plan allowing two weeks vacation after five years service and the employee benefits are at least as good as any in Lindsay. However in general, wage rates are higher in Peterborough, Oshawa, Whitby and Port Hope than those paid by the company. In particular, a firm competing in some lines with this company and operating in Peterborough, pays higher wages, (the latter is the Raybestos Company of Peterborough).

The company took the position, says the report, that facts pertaining to Lindsay itself are the relevant ones, and that they prove existing wage rates, hours, holidays and vacations and employee benefits to be fair and reasonable. "The company also alleges—without attempting to prove it—that it has numerous applicants for every job opening that occurs, which, it contends, shows that people recognize the fairess and reasonableness of working conditions.

RELEVANT DISTRICT

The union maintains the report stated that facts pertaining to wages and working conditions in Peterborough, Oshawa, Port Hope and Whitby and in the manufacturing industry at large are the relevant ones. It finds in these facts what it considers to be ample proof of its contention that the company's wages and conditions of employment are not fair and reasonable and will not be until they are brought in line with practices it sees established elsewhere.

The board found, in making its recommendations that the present hours of work, holidays, vacations, health plans, are adequate at least for the first year of the contract.

It also recommended that the voluntary revocable check-off offered by the union as the proper degree of union security and thinks that a "full collective bargaining" clause in the contract should not stand in the way of further agreement.

Chairman Curtis submitted a separate report on the wage question, he remarked that the company's wage rates are the highest in Lindsay but do not occupy the same "superior" position they formerly did. He also states that the rates paid by the competing Peterborough firm are among the lowest in the area, but are still several cents an hour higher than those paid by Brake Shoe.

The company, he concluded should look beyond Lindsay in making its comparisons, while the union should overlook the fact the company's wages are the highest in town. Neither party should not overlook the ten cent April increase.

Chairman Curtis recommended a "nominal increase of four and a half cents an hour". Miller Stewart, the union representative, concurred with his report, but asked for an additional four and a half cents an hour increase after six months of the contract year.

The separate report, disagreeing with those findings was submitted by the company appointee, Mr. MacInnes. After considering five factors, he said, including type of work and working conditions, area rates have record of increases cost of living and employee benefits apart from wages. He could not agree that a wage increase was warranted.

Stuck In Tar

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A man who was stuck to a patch of tar for several hours in near-freezing temperatures was reported in fair condition today. So tightly was 67-year-old Otis Hull held by the tar that it took two men to pull him loose. He was found in an abandoned quarry Thursday, hours after he apparently stumbled into it.

Atomic Secrecy Price Said Too High

CHICAGO (AP)—A newspaper editor called today for an easing of the tight secrecy surrounding atomic energy on the grounds that the price paid for such secrecy is "too, too high."

William P. Steven of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune said: "A full development of the peaceful uses of atomic power inevitably demands that the secrecy clauses in the present law be eliminated."

Steven is chairman of the freedom of information committee of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association, now in its annual meeting.

LIST OF "WRONGS"

Among the things "wrong" with atomic secrecy were these:

"Newspapers cannot inform the people.

"Public agencies and employees cannot be fairly judged.

"We cannot evaluate our defences. We cannot know whether we are doing all that must be done to be safe.

"We stultify proper interest in civilian defence.

"We put blockades in the way of building a free world army by banning the exchange of military atomic information.

"Peacetime development of atomic energy is hamstrung.

"We force nationalization of the most important power source in the history of man."

Uncover Assassination Plot Against Shah

TEHRAN (AP)—The military governor of Tehran announced today that three men have been arrested in connection with an alleged Communist plot to assassinate Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi of Iran.

The announcement was made by Gen. Farhad Dadasstan, head of the army administration in the city, who identified the accused trio as members of the outlawed Tudeh (Communist) party.

The military governor said the plot called for one man to hurl a hand grenade into the shah's box during an athletic festival scheduled Oct. 26 at Tehran. The conspiracy was discovered the day before, and the celebration was officially postponed "because of rain."

Open Cobourg School Named For Educator

COBOURG (ENS)—The new east end public school, which was built this year and put into use at the start of the fall term, will be officially opened on Monday evening. In honor of Charles Gummow, who retired some years ago after many years of service as principal of the public school, the new school will be known as the "Charles Gummow School." The name is a popular choice as Mr. Gummow was a noted educator and taught most of Cobourg's citizenry for many years back.

The guest speaker for the opening will be J. R. McCarthy, assistant superintendent of elementary education in the Ontario Department of Education.

Tenement Blaze Claim Five Lives

BOSTON (AP)—Five persons, including a two-week-old infant, perished in a fire that trapped them on the fourth floor of a tenement building in the heart of the Rorbury Negro district Thursday night.

At least three of the victims were members of one family—Mrs. Louise Shepard, 40; her son, and her two-week-old granddaughter. The others were Joanne Morris, 14, and a man whose identity was not immediately established.

Three other Shepard children were burned before fire-fighters rescued them.

Tape Recordings For Prisoners

PANMUNJOM (AP)—An Indian spokesman today said there is no objection "in principle" to American use of tape recordings, photographs or any other reasonable means of communication with the 22 Americans held in the pro-Communist north camp here.

"The Communists are already using public address loudspeakers to explain to their prisoners, so I see no reason why the United States could not use tape recordings if it chooses—the principle is the same," the spokesman said.

"However specific permission would probably have to be given by the neutral nations repatriation commission."

A number of tape-recorded messages to the prisoners have been made by relatives in the U. S. and forwarded to the United Nations command for possible use if and when the explanations start to these men.

Falls From Train

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — William Gentle, 43, a foundry worker, had his left leg amputated Thursday a short time after he fell from a freight train. Police said Gentle was taking a shortcut to his job and climbed onto the standing train, slipped and fell on the track. The train started to move and one wheel ran over his leg.

Seaway At Last

For thirty years this newspaper has written of the advantages and opportunities which a deepening and extension of the St. Lawrence system would offer as a seaway. Since the prospect has come close in the last three years, our views have been repeatedly stated. Now that the American President has signed the last executive order necessary and there is no longer any insuperable barrier to the project, we can only say with relief: Good; now let the work begin.

* * *

It is unnecessary to review here the long series of delays created by special American interests; the impatience in Canada where there has been decided approval for a score of years, even on the Atlantic seaboard (our parliamentary system is more cohesive and responsible than the American); the Canadian decision to build the seaway alone, with Canadian money, when it became apparent that the U.S. could not see the light for the shadow of dragons' teeth set up against the plan; the devious ways, finally, in which the necessary American concurrence was achieved; and the importance financially, economically and politically of the hydro power development which will be an essential part of the whole work.

* * *

To those of our readers who live on or near the Lake Ontario shore President Eisenhower's signing yesterday of the order designating New York State as the American power agency is especially important. The Ontario Hydro and New York State will jointly develop the hydro resources of the seaway near Prescott, and some of this power will undoubtedly be available to industry in the Peterborough-Cobourg area. But it is not the power directly which will be most valuable to our Lakeshore. The fact that the arrangement has now been made will allow the builders of the seaway for navigation to get on with the job. So the shipping of the world will pass by the ports of Cobourg and Port Hope and some of it may, in time, come there. Incidentally, the new power development should mean more equipment orders for Peterborough industry.

Rampant Virtue In Sudbury

A few days ago Canadian newspapers quoted Robert Pilot, president of the Royal Academy, as saying that Canadian painters needed to study figure-painting, particularly with nude models. It was plain why Mr. Pilot spoke so; Canadian painting, until recently, has leaned heavily upon landscape for its inspiration; but a good indigenous landscape school does not take in the whole of art, and if Canadian painters are to paint figures they must learn to draw from life—and life does not mean drawing suits of clothes with heads on them; the musculature, bone structure and colour of the human body must be studied by drawing and painting from nude models.

Mr. Pilot's advice was directed to artists, and not to people who fret about the morals of artists or to such subnormal members of the public as cannot look at a picture of a naked figure without committing indecent assault upon the next live creature that they see. But it was predictable that his comment would arouse some of Canada's amateur moralists, and sure enough the Sudbury Star has written thus:

> After looking at all the classic poses painted by the old masters, and noting that it dwells in the minds of some people that they would disguise pornography as art, it is probably just as well that Canadians are more interested in landscape artistry.
>
> Why "nude" models, in any event? What is the matter with painting human figures wearing clothes? Admittedly it takes more skill to paint clothes on the human figure, which is again proved by examination of the art of the old masters in which richly gowned human figures are the central point of attraction.
>
> What is a painted nude figure more than a line drawing filled in with color? Light and shade falling on a robe to change the color tones and the filmy lace that the observer can almost "feel" or expect to stir in the slightest breath of air is that art of an artist.
>
> The old masters did just about all that was necessary with nude art. Canadian artists are wise not to try and ape them or copy them.

Sudbury is a good-sized place, and we presume that there must be some artists in its population. We are interested to know that they confine themselves to painting the imitation hand-painted neckties, teagowns, costume jewellery and serge suits of the local ratepayers, and do not concern themselves with the human body which was, after all, created by God, and is a thing of timeless beauty. And we are interested in the heading the Star gives its comment: it is "Don't Need Nudes." If Sudburians are really as hopelessly bundled up as the Star suggests, we think that Dr. Kinsey ought to sew on some warm clothes, go north and make a study of them.

Why Cry When The Triumph Is So Great?

The Communist interviews at Panmunjom with North Korean prisoners of war who have refused to be repatriated have been going very badly for Communism and very well for the American-U.N. side. Very few of the prisoners want to go back to the Communist way of life in North Korea, almost all want to stay in the American way, and vigorously, tauntingly demonstrate it in front of the noses of the Communist interrogators.

It is a great victory for the West and a resounding defeat for the Reds; important psychologically because it undermines their propaganda. The significance goes far beyond the area of Panmunjom; in the villages of North Korea, in Red China and elsewhere where peasants have been converted by force or faith to Communism, the word will spread that their own kind have voluntarily chosen to side with the reviled capitalistic democracy of the West and to spurn the New Democracy which Communism offers. When so many hundreds desert to the American side and refuse to come back, whatever blandishments, even the bureaucrats of Communism must be shaken a little.

So great has the Western ideological triumph been that we are shocked by the noise in American papers over the handful of American prisoners of war who have refused to be repatriated and wish to stay with the Communist captors. Perhaps it is reasonable anguish, somewhat Christian. Was there not more concern for the one lost sheep than for the ninety and nine that were saved? The Americans have fretted more over the couple of dozen U.S. soldiers who did not want to come back than they have rejoiced over the thousands who did, and the thousands of Korean PoWs who have been won to the Western cause. And when one little man in U.S. khaki did change his Red-indoctrinated mind and plump to return to the U.S. side, he was hailed as a hero.

We find this mawkish, and at the same time disturbing. God sees the little sparrow fall, but the Americans are not gods; why should they worry so inordinately about the decline into Communist doctrine of a few soldiers? It is this which disturbs. Have the Americans so deified their system that Americanism is a religion and any defection from it apostasy, a heinous sin? A soldier raised in a shack in Virginia—a nonentity in the great machine of the U.S. and the U.S. army—is captured, treated importantly, falls an easy prey to the Red propaganda. Then he becomes important to the U.S. and it would seem, judging from reports and stories coming out of the American press, that the whole American ship of state quivers on the tip of his tongue, quavers before his decision.

What is the matter with the U.S. people that they are both evangelically certain in their national faith and flabbergasted into insecurity when there is one deviation from it? Perhaps it is time that they examined some of the tenets of their own self-indoctrination, and disciplined their emotions. The American side has had a wonderful, heartening affirmation at Panmunjom; why bleed because of one tiny and insignificant scratch? A sensible, stable people should not feel hurt or surprise because in 10 millions of them there are a few cracked eggs.

The Queen Returns To Canada

In three weeks the Queen will again set foot in Canada, which she visited for the first time two years ago as Princess Elizabeth. Her plane from England to Bermuda will stop down at Gander, Newfoundland, on the first lap of her long tour to Australia and New Zealand. With her is the Duke of Edinburgh, as before. It is well that no Canadian welcome, either formal or informal, will be given the royal couple on that day, November 24th. The stop on Canadian soil is only incidental to an arduous tour, and they should not have any receptions, large or small, added to the heavy schedule they are setting out to face.

The Duke of Edinburgh is hopping over to this country next year for a quick air trip to half a dozen points. This sort of royal visitation will, we hope, become common, instead of the heavy, exhausting tours of state of other years, when the royal progress, so very welcome, roused also a tinge of dismay in Canadian hearts because of the physical and psychical demands it made on the royal persons.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Harnessing The Wind

By SUSAN STRANGE

A NEW British attempt to harness the wind to provide cheap electric power is arousing the active interest of several foreign governments, including that of the United States.

Tests are now about to begin in a field near here on the first giant windmill of a revolutionary British design which makes use of recent technical advances in electrical and aeronautical engineering.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE NEW wind-driven generator, slender and silver, stands a hundred feet above the surrounding countryside and carries two giant blades like the blades of an aircraft propeller and with as wide a span as the wings of a Comet airliner.

The blades are hollow. As the wind turns them, centrifugal force throws air out of the vents at the end of each blade, thus creating a vacuum in a chamber at the top of the tower.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS VACUUM in turn sucks up a hurricane of air from vents lower down the tower. And it is this secondary hurricane, passing through an air turbine, that generates the power.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE ARE two great advantages in this over what the designers call the "orthodox" pattern of wind-generators developed in other countries. One is that the heavy generating equipment need not be located at the top of the tower, where its weight creates serious engineering problems, especially in a high wind. The other is that the generator does not have to deal with winds of varying velocity. Because the pitch of the hollow blades can be automatically adjusted by electronic instruments, so that they turn edge-on to a stiff wind or flat-on to a gentle breeze, the air sucked out of them, and therefore the force of the air sucked into the tower, can be kept more or less constant, given a wind of a certain minimum velocity.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE POTENTIALITIES of this experimental prototype, either for arctic areas such as Alaska, where very fierce and variable winds can be expected, or for desert areas where winds are also variable and where isolated communities cannot easily store wind-generated power, are tremendous. In both such areas, it has long been recognised that in the absence of easily accessible supplies of coal or oil, or of water for hydro-electric development, lack of power for new industries and for agriculture is one of the chief obstacles to economic development; and that wind-power, provided it could be economically utilized, would be the ideal solution.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR THIS reason the French authorities in Algeria, for example, are keeping a careful watch on forthcoming tests. If these are successful, the new British wind-generator would find a ready export market there and in other countries in Africa, the Far East and elsewhere, which now face similiar problems of economic development.

✧ ✧ ✧

OWING to the high cost of power from other sources in such countries it seems probable that generators based on this new design will find a readier market overseas than with the British Electricity Authority which originally commissioned the project.

✧ ✧ ✧

ALTHOUGH it is still hoped that wind-generated power may one day help to ease the pressure on Britain's over-strained output of coal, there are still considerable political and economic difficulties to be overcome. Although the wind-generators will need no labour and have no fuel costs, their capital cost is bound to be high until a large mass market can be built up on the basis of exports. And, as experience with the first site chosen by The British Electricity Authority has shown, there are political difficulties in putting up enough giant windmills to make any appreciable contribution to Britain's mounting demands for fuel and power.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE FIRST SITE was on the rugged and beautiful coast of Caernarvonshire in North Wales, where average wind velocities are high. But a local outcry against "invasion" by windmills led to a public inquiry, which, though it resulted in a victory for B.E.A., delayed the project and gave a hint of the sort of trouble that might be expected elsewhere on similiar prospective windmill sites. And even now, the Government has been unable to pluck up courage to permit B.E.A. to acquire the necessary land by compulsory purchase.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT MAY BE that eventually the economical exploitation of wind, allied with hydro electric and atomic development, will spell the end of an age in which mankind has raided the world's larder of coal and oil, to provide power for industry and fuel for heat and light. One day, it may be judged criminal to burn coal instead of using it as raw material for chemicals and their innumerable synthetic products. If so, the experiments being tried here, and others being made in America and in Europe, may go down with the invention of the wheel, the steam engine, Arkwright's spinning jenny and the heavier-than-air flying machine, as one of the turning points in history.

The Harmonious Cut-Throat

(Manchester Gardian.)

It is just a 100 years this month since details were given in the press of a "shaving machine," the invention of a North Shields joiner named William Johnson, who confidently predicted that it would soon put the barbers out of business.

In form it resembled a dentist's chair from the head of which sprouted an arrangement of small cylinders, each holding four razor blades set at an angle of 60 degrees with camel hair brushes between. Soap was fed through the cylinders, which, revolving rapidly, were supposed to lather and shave in one operation.

"The machine is put in motion," announced the inventor, "by the weight of the patient the seat gradually giving way beneath and sinking with him until he reaches the ground when the operation is completed."

To distract the "patient" (or perhaps to drown his cries) as he lay supine beneath the whirling knives, a musical box attached to and driven by the cylinders continued to play a "selection of airs" throughout the operation.

This mid-century essay in the macabre proved, not surrprisingly, a commercial failure.

An American Opinion: IF TAXES ARE EVER GOING TO BE REDUCED---

The Barber Who Put Hair On

(HAMILTON SPECTATOR)

AMONG the ordeals many small boys face is the regular visit to the barber. For some it is a simple matter, for others a ritual approached either with solemnity or trembling apprehension. It is difficult to explain the cause of this attitude, for the loss of a mop of hair is a relief, and most barbers, perhaps recalling their own early reluctance, have a firm but fatherly geniality.

We once heard of a barber who solved the problem so satisfactorily that his shop became the most popular place in a little country town. He equipped himself with a box of theatrical grease paint, sat his young client in the chair facing the mirror and then asked him what sort of beard he would like—goatee, Vandyke, imperial, or just plain bushy. A beard was promptly painted on and topped with a pair of "horn-rimmed spectacles." The young client then sat admiring his reflection in the mirror—and perhaps making faces at himself—while the hair cutting business proceeded smoothly and swiftly. At the end, the client could have the "beard" wiped off, or could wear it to show his mother.

Within a week, small boys all over town were suggesting that it was time they had their hair cut again. When permission was granted, they rushed off to the barber shop, bounded into the chair and ordered "mutton chop whiskers, a goatee, a handlebar moustache and a monocle," or some other disguise they had in mind. The barber had discovered that with children the best way to take hair off was to put it on.

A small child is too young to be affected by explanations: reasoning powers are only slowly struggling to birth. Many reluctances are born in the imagination which, like emotion, is unresponsive to reason. Many little fears fade with the familiarity that playfulness creates. The barber's success with the make-up box was either accidental or a brilliant stroke of salesmanship; it does not matter which. What does matter is the result, and in achieving that he proved himself a child psychologist, athough he probably did not know it and only realized that what had once been a nerve-racking ordeal for him and his customers had suddenly become a pleasant, profitable and comradely association.

Quoting The Bible

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

THE Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, laments that Britons no longer know the Bible as they knew it 100 years ago. Says the Archbishop:

"Now a quotation from the Bible would ring no bell in the minds of vast numbers of people. It would be received with the same frigidity as a Latin quotation received in the House of Commons."

Yet the Bible, as a book, remains by long odds the world's best seller, and there are more Bibles in circulation today than ever before in history. Could it be that the reason the Bible is not quoted today as much as in the past is because so many more people being familiar with it, its best passages are thought to be hackneyed? Or is it simply that politicians now are compelled to quote so much from the Bureau of Statistics or the Cost of Living Index, they haven't time to open the Bible?

It is a great pity, whatever the reason; seeing that the Bible, religion apart, is a treasury of more apt quotations for all human problems and circumstances and the character of personalities than all the classics put together. Consider, for example, Tim Healy bringing down the British House by applying in an impromptu speech to the pugnacious Joe Chamberlain the magnificent passage from Job:

"He swalloweth the ground with fierceness and rage. He saith among the trumpets, Ha, ha; and he smelleth the battle afar off, the thunder of the captains and the shoutings.'

Laurier was almost the last of our statesmen to draw heavily upon the Bible, and he did it with effectiveness and beauty. Mackenzie King preferred the Victorian poets, notably Browning. Meighen, our greatest debater, leaned to Burke, Macaulay and Shakespeare. Mr. St. Laurent, heavy with Blackstone, uses few literary allusions, though once, we remember, he quoted Rostand effectively. For the most part, though, our politicians now quote from little more than the latest departmental blue book.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And as Jesus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth. And his disciples asked him, saying, Master, who did sin, this man, or his parents, that he was born blind?

Jesus answered, Neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents: but that the works of God should be made manifest in him. I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work. As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world.

When he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and anointed the eyes of the blind man with the clay, and said unto him, Go, wash in the pool of Siloam (which is by interpretation, Sent.) He went his way therefore, and washed, and came seeing . . .

And it was the sabbath day when Jesus made the clay, and opened his eyes . . . Therefore said some of the Pharisees, This man is not of God, because he keepeth not the sabbath day. Others said, How can a man that is a sinner do such miracles? And there was a division among them. . . .

Then again called they the man that was blind, and said unto him, Give God the praise: we know that this man is a sinner . . . The man answered and said unto them, Why herein is a marvellous thing, that ye know not from whence he is, and yet he hath opened mine eyes. Now we know that God heareth not sinners; but if any man be a worshipper of God, and doeth his will, him he heareth. (John 9:1-7, 14, 16, 24, 30, 31.)

Letter To The Editor

FARMERS AND GAS TAX

SIR: Re your editorial of November 2, 1953 "License farm tractors." Definitely the law must be changed that justice may be meted out to tractor drivers. A drunk tractor driver on a road is a much out of place as a drunk car driver. But, Mr. Editor, you surely know you are not giving accurate facts when you go on to state—"and most farmers take their produce to market or mill by means of their tractors."

If you are trying to give out truthful reports of this district you might say "some." I suggest most farm tractors in the Peterborough area never go to market. How many farm tractors do you see at the market? Also the average farm tractor goes to the mill not more than twice per year because a lot of them never go to the mill.

Mr. Editor, you go on to state, "in addition to not having to pay a license for their tractors, farmers get rebates on the gas they use, even when using it in their tractors (and trucks and cars) in competition with licensed truckers paying full taxes."

You have been advised before, that no licensed vehicle can use gas "tax free." That no tractor may propel any farm equipment on the public road "gas tax free" even from one farm to another; that no tractor may do any road work on gas "tax free"; that anyone violating these regulations is liable to both a fine and imprisonment.

I am enclosing an application form for gas tax refund. You will see that farmers are no more exempt from gas tax on public roads than are editors.

Yours truly,
CLIFFORD JOHNSTON

(Ed. Note: In the enclosed form Mr. Johnston underlines the clauses he refers to, and the penalties' section: "Everyone who violates any of the provisions of this Act or the Regulations . . . shall be liable for a first offence to a penalty of not less than $25 and not exceeding $100, or to a term of imprisonment . . . and for a second or subsequent offence to a penalty of not less than $100 and not exceeding $500 or to a term of imprisonment . . . ")

Mr. Maugham's Elbow

(New York Herald Tribune)

It was high time that the importance of the elbow in literary achievement was receiving its due. Critics always talk about a writer's heart, or brain, or spleen; they practically never discuss his elbow, which lies at the root of the art. An orthopedic surgeon in London has now called attention to this neglected factor by advising Mr. W. Somerset Maugham, the famous novelist, to change his way of holding a pen and to adjust the angle at which he places his forearm upon the table, with the objective of curing a troublesome case of writer's cramp.

It might be said, of course, that any man who has written fourteen novels, seventeen plays, fourteen volumes of short stories, six of essays, four travel books and countless other odds and ends is entitled to a little stiffness in the fingers, if only from thumbing royalty checks. And yet it must come as a blow to Mr. Maugham to learn that he has been doing it all wrong these many years. What a writer needs mostly to assure success, evidently, is speed and a strong right arm—just like a baseball pitcher. Now that Mr. Maugham has learned his lesson, the world can probably look forward to even greater achievements from his freshly gripped pen. And elbow benders the world over can take new encouragement from this scientific proof of the importance of their favourite pastime.

Army Trains Specialists To Defuse Atom Bombs

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The military is training specialists for one of the most hazardous jobs in the whole dangerous profession of arms—defusing atomic bombs or shells which fail to explode.

Since the program started in 1949, about 2,150 commissioned and non-commissioned officers from the United States Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force have gone through the "special weapons disposal course" conducted by the navy at Indian Head, Md.

Authorities insisted that secrecy prevents any open discussion of the little-known school.

By defence department definition, "special weapons" are nuclear weapons—not including such other unconventional arms as germ-warfare equipment.

The primary purpose of the school is to prepare specialists for disposing of "dud" atomic explosives which might be dropped or fired by an enemy.

Should a dud show up in tests of American weapons, the Atomic Energy Commission would have its own staff to cope with it.

FAILURE TO FIRE

The AEC has never admitted to a case of an actual dud A-bomb. However, there is believed to have been at least one instance in a test where malfunction of electronic equipment in wiring of a remote control resulted in failure to fire. The job there presumably was one for an electrician, not a bomb-disposal squad.

Disengaging the trigger of an atomic bomb, particularly one of foreign design, could far more delicate and dangerous than even the uncertain business of disarming a standard high - explosive bomb. An atomic bomb really contains two trigger assemblies—one to bring together its "critical masses" of fissionable materials, the other to set them off. Even with both triggers removed, extreme care would be required to remove the individual masses without bringing them together accidentally and producing either an explosion or a fire.

Given $554 By Mistake Treats All His Friends

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Milton Minchin, 78, was given $554 by mistake at a bank and "I did what any good Irishman or Scotsman would do—I treated my friends."

Minchin, a veteran of two wars told Magistrate Donald B. Menzies he treated his friends to five bottles of whisky. When arrested Oct. 29, the day he received the money, he still had $511.

Evidence indicated Minchin was given a cheque by Mrs. May Shaw for repairing her sewing machine. Mrs. Shaw wrote the word six correctly but put down the numerals 600 with no decimal point. The bank teller failed to notice the mistake.

Minchin was convicted of theft and given a six months' suspended sentence.

Dispute Grows Over Federal College Grants

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT

MONTREAL (CP)—Controversy in Quebec over federal aid to institutions of higher learning has been pointed up in hearings of the Quebec royal commission on constitutional problems.

So far, the dividing line has been language.

Two English - speaking groups stressed the national character of education while two French-speaking institutions said no "interference" of federal authorities, direct or indirect, should be allowed.

Centre of the controversy is an act of Parliament authorizing grants to institutions of higher learning to be distributed on the basis of student population.

The Quebec government, sole provincial government without a taxation agreement with Ottawa, blocked off the grants to Quebec institutions after allowing their acceptance last year.

CHIEF SAFEGUARD

French-speaking groups heard so far claim constitutional guarantees regarding education are the chief safeguard of French and Catholic education in Quebec.

McGill University and the Federation of English-speaking Catholic Teachers of Montreal regard the problem in a different light.

McGill argued through its principal, Dr. Cyril James, that universities are doing work of national scope and that the federal government has every right to make grants in this field.

English-speaking Catholic teachers, citing salary scales lower than those paid Protestant teachers, suggested teachers' salaries should come out of federal income-tax revenues.

Their argument was that standards of education in English-speaking Catholic schools would gradually fall as experienced teachers left for more remunerative professions.

Millbrook Sets Nomination Date

MILLBROOK (ENS)—At the November meeting of Millbrook village council, December 11 was set as the date for nominations for the offices of reeve, councillors, school trustees, and public utilities commission. The election date will be one week after that.

A motion to give consent to the Durham and high school board to engage architects to draw up plans for a new high school at Port Hope and an addition to the high school in Bowmanville carried. Cavan township had already given their consent for the hiring of architects at the October meeting. It was necessary to obtain the consent of all municipalities in the high school area before the work could be begun.

Permission was granted to the Millbrook branch 402 of the Canadian Legion to hold their annual poppy day, November 7.

The clerk reported the assessment roll received from the assessor, W. L. Elson on October 8th, completed as follows: lands $45,848; buildings, $222,165; businesses, $25,144. Total $293,144. No appeals in complaints had been received with the specified time, so the above assessment on which taxes will be levied for the year 1954 was received and confirmed. The village population was stated to be 746.

A letter was read from the office of the Ontario fire marshal giving the latest information on the A-bomb as a fire agent and suggesting methods for control. It stated that in case of A-bomb attack all important metropolitan centres would be target areas. Included in these would be Detroit, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Toronto since the last-mentioned was the eighth largest city on the continent.

Accounts totalling $672.69 were ordered paid.

Wool was shorn from 895,700 sheep in Canada in 1953, an increase of eight per cent over 1952.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

Pete Centrum, Pete Centrum.

That's a different start, in fact it's a classical beginning for once in a sports column.

Our lettered sportsmen have quite probably by now taken the English translation. But for those, like ourselves, who have let our college or high school Latin slip, Pete Centrum translated is "Hit the Centre."

As this month has a mixture of football and hockey, these words could apply to either. But they actually belong to one particular sport and that's archery.

Along with boxing, wrestling and some track events, archery is possibly one of the world's oldest sports, dating back to the days of early man. Besides securing their daily food with bow and arrow, they quite likely attempted feats to demonstrate their skill.

Our Peterborough archers, members of the Peterborough Archery Club do not shoot for food, (No, Elmer, they do not play cowboys and Indians either,) but they're carrying on the skill of using a bow and arrow. To them belongs the motto, Pete Centrum.

Several years ago a few CGE workers became interested in archery. But this interest didn't last.

Then three years ago Maurice McCarthy, Walt Wood, Ev Davidson and Al Porter, along with others, again started the club. This time it was primarily a social affair, where archers could talk, eat and compete in their favorite past time.

Now the club has grown to a membership of 20, mostly married couples and a few single archers. Ev Davidson is president, Herb Pulfybank, vice-president; Norm Wood, secretary; and Mrs. Millie Hill, treasurer. The members sport forest green shirts with a neat, red, white and blue club crest on the sleeve.

At present club activities are confined to the YWCA gym every Wednesday night. There with their long bows and arrows, the men and women compete on the 25-yard range, shooting at targets, getting points for the bull and each circle.

To break the monotony the archers try a few novelty shots such as shooting at game targets. They use weasels, ducks and pheasants and sometimes draw a picture-target. They also shoot at a motor-clock which has balloons fluttering from it.

Their prize novelty shot is at a cardboard deer which is operated by pulleys. The archers, lined up at the end of the gym, shoot as may arrows as they can.

A teenager would say this sounds "chicken" but its far from that.

Anyone who has attempted to, draw back with a long bow realizes that one requires muscle to perform the feat. These archers may draw back and shoot a hundred times during an evening.

The archers in Peterborough use the six-foot bow, the men with a 35 to 40-pounder and the women with a 25 to 30-pounders. It took all this chubby writer's strength (and there is a lot to hold up the 235 pounds) to draw back on the men's bow.

An archer must be in as good condition as any swimmer or soccer player. He must build up his body muscles, not just his arms, shoulder and chest muscles. At the same time the archers also develop a technique just like any other sportsmen.

The club is becoming interested in more competition. The archers are looking forward to meeting with other clubs. To do this the Peterborough club is planning to become an affiliate of the Canadian archery association, therefore becoming eligible for the nationals which are similar to the rifle and pistol competitions.

So far the archers are strictly interested in only target-shooting. They are not hunters, at least not yet.

Norm and Walt Wood were going deer hunting with the long bows this year but the danger was considered too great. The archers must stalk a deer with an abundance of camouflage to get within shooting distance. A hunter, using a rifle, therefore, could easily make a mistake.

At present several archery associations are attempting to get an open season for archers. They could then hunt without the danger of being shot themselves.

You doubt that these archers could bring down a deer? Norm assures us that an arrow could kill. In fact a 25-pound bow can shoot an arrow through a deer at 25-30 yards, providing the arrow didn't hit a bone.

Even then most archery hunters resort to the heavier bows from 45 to 100 pounds. Only a few can draw the 100-pounders which can do considable damage.

Hunting is for the seasoned archer. The beginner should stick with targets and let his motto be Pete Centrum.

School Crown To Central Against P. Of W

Central captured the senior Public School Soccer League championship yesterday with a 1-0 victory over Prince of Wales "A" team at Morrow Park. It was an excellent playoff game with the score indicating how tight play was between these two good teams. It was a repeat championship for the uptown squad.

Play opened with Princes driving in, led by Jay, Shaw and Coombes, but they were repulsed by Mills, V. Armstrong and McInroy. T. Armstrong and Chufon Mac on wings swung play back, with Vilneff and Knox threatening, but Robinson in goal got good support from Connors and Finnie. With five minutes to go in the half, Sorrie picked up a pass from in close and banged at the goal. It was partly stopped but he rapped in the rebound for the only score.

WORKED HARD

Prince of Wales tried hard to equalize in the last half but Central had a little margin on play. Breakaways were frequent by Dunstan, Nurse and Marshall, but the long kicking and sure booting by Duncan and Harrington kept things under control. Aulbrook turned in a good chore at half for Central, as did McIntosh and Birkhof for Prince of Wales. In the last minutes of the half, Princes tried a forward power play with everyone up, but Gray in Central's goal made some neat saves and long boots down by Val Armstrong, Aulbrook and Harrington kept their rivals from getting in too close. Teams:

P of W "A"—Goal, R. Robinson; fullbacks, R. Connors, F. Finnie; halves, R. Marshall, H. McIntosh, B. Birkhof; forwards, K. Dunstan, F. Nurse, R. Jay, B. Shaw, C. Coombes; subs, P. Corp, W. Woodbeck, M. Cain, T. Davis, R. Johnson.

Central—Goal, L. Gray; fullbacks, B. Duncan, R. Harrington; halves, V. Armstrong, J. Mills, K. Aulbrook; forwards, Chufon Mac, J. Vilneff, C. Sorrie, R. Knox, T. Armstrong; subs, P. McInroy, G. Wilson, D. Mann, W. King.

Referees, H. Wilson and D. Watson.

Sacred Heart Takes Separate School Title

Sacred Heart won the Separate Schools League rugby championship for the fourth straight year by defeating St. Peter's 16-0 in the playoff. Jerry Crough recovered a fumble to run a long way for a major, Gerald DeNoble threw a touchdown pass to Anthony Longo, and DeNoble went over on an end run for a try, kicking the convert.

Quarterbacks Bob Delpellaro and Jim McCulloch called a sound game, while Alec Caravaggio and Ken Woods were strong on the line for the winners. Don Scott of SPS was hampered by bad snaps, fumbles and incomplete passes. The final loop standing:

Stirling Nips Marmora 6-5 In Close Battle

STIRLING (ENS)—The interschool rugby fans witnessed a close battle Wednesday afternoon when Stirling defeated Marmora in a thrilling game on the latter's home campus by a score of 6-5.

Stirling opened the scoring in the first quarter on a kick to the deadline for a single point. In the second quarter J. Haggerty recovered a fumble on Marmora's three yard line from where Hadley went over for a touchdown. The convert attempt was blocked and at half time Stirling led 6-0.

In the second half Marmora put on a drive and Walker scored a touchdown.

The convert try was blocked and the scoring was ended.

HUNTING ONTARIO TITLE — Tony Kotowski's Orfuns will be after their second successive ORFU intermediate "A" championship Saturday when they play Oakville Black Knights in the second game of the title series at Morrow Park. The Orfuns hold a 13-point lead but Kotowski (centre, top photo) has mapped out new plays which he shows to former PCVS quarterback Dave Langhorne, and star outside Don McGillis, who will return to action. The Orfuns have been helped largely this year by lawyer Don Bark (lower photo) who has been punting well besides playing stellar defensive football.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Imps Out To Take Game As It Comes

SARNIA (CP) — Hugh (Red) Douglas, coach of Sarnia Imperials, said Thursday that the Imps will "be out to take each game as it comes up and not worry ahead of time about ORFU honors."

Discussing Sarnia's chances this Saturday against Balmy Beach, Douglas said his boys were in good shape and had, "the fighting spirit that fashions victories."

The Imperial mentor thought that the three-way tie for top berth over the season, which necessitated the semi-final, home-and-home total points series was unfortunate. "If the fellows had just been on their toes on one or two occasions, it wouldn't have happened," he said.

Bert McCarrell Leads

Bert McCarrell had high three of 879 and top single of 327 this week in the men's City Bowling League. McGillis led teams with 3498 and Royal York's 1248 was top single. The 6-0 wins went to Parkhill, MacDonald, McGillis and Ferguson over Primeau, Stopawhile, Sunocos and Family Credit; the 4-0 victories were taken by Payne, Royal York, McBride & Anderson and by Monumental over McCormick, Novelty, Edward's and Golfers.

Good triples were: G. Walton 700, M. Akers 730, A. Griffin 714, L. Anthony 798, D. Crary 778, E. Downer 756, A. Mattucci 706, J. Barnes 755, F. Nolan 832 and J. Gaspan 732; neat singles included: F. Nolan 310, D. Crary 313, E. Downer 310 and B. Patten 309.

Stengel Can Stay Lifetime With Yanks

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—Casey Stengel apparently can keep on managing the champion New York Yankees as long as he wants the job.

Co-owner Del Webb said as much at a testimonial dinner given Casey Thursday night by his home-town Chamber of Commerce. Webb called Stengel "not only one of the grandest guys in baseball but the finest manager," and added "I hope Casey stays with our ball club as long as he wants to."

L. H. Bearne Elected Prexy Of The Lawn Bowling Club

L. H. Bearne was elected president of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club for the 1954 season at the meeting of the newly elected Board of Directors.

Mr. Bearne was vice-president last year.

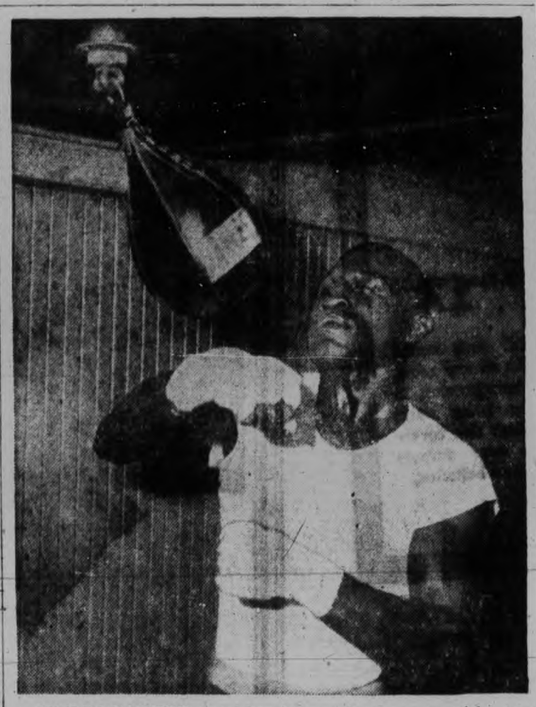
Mr. Bearne is well qualified for this office and well deserves the honor bestowed on him by his colleagues.



As soon as he joined the club a few years ago, he became very active and his long business experience with the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co., has in no small measure been of great aid to him as he discharged his duties as chairman of many committees.

He is well and favorably known and has made many friends since coming from the west. He is surrounded by a capable executive and there is no doubt but that the club will continue to flourish under his leadership.

Ray Lewis, as vice-president, is another one of the younger members and, he, like President Bearne has had long business experience. He has been chairman of different committees and has earned this promotion.

Secretary-treasurer, Fred H. Dearborn needs no introduction. He is one of the old school, and is a most faithful and valuable officer.

The new board intends to meet shortly and appoint the chairmen for different committees and to draw up a schedule of activities for next season.

JIMMY CARTER, world welterweight champion, punches the small bag at a recent drill in preparation for his 15-round title scrap with Armand Savoie, former Canadian lightweight and welterweight titleholder, at the Montreal Forum Wednesday night.

Beaches Sure They'll Win

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Chuck Klein of Toronto Balmy Beach is confident his team will eliminate Sarnia Imperials from the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union semi-final series this week-end.

"We'll beat them up in Sarnia Saturday and again back here on Sunday. . . if we continue to perform like we have all this week in practice," he said Thursday night.

"Kitchener is the team that will be the tough one to beat," he said. "The Dutchmen reacted the same way to the Sarnia reputation toward the end of the season and those guys just aren't playing the kind of ball that's got any right to beat either Kitchener or us."

The Beaches will be strengthened with the return of Nayland Moll to the backfield Moll said the torn calf muscle that put him out of action for the last three weeks gave him no trouble Thursday night.

Boyd To Be Alternate On Chicago Team

CHICAGO (CP)—Bob Boyd, former first baseman and outfielder for Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League will be used as an alternate on first base with Chicago White Sox next season.

Manager Paul Richards said Thursday Boyd and Conny Ryan will replace first baseman Ferris Fain, winner of the 1951 and 1952 American League batting titles, who moves to left field.

Canadian Team Second In Jumping Event

NEW YORK (CP) — The Canadian equestrian team finished second behind Britain in the international jumping event for the President of Mexico Trophy at the National Horse Show Thursday night.

It was the second time in the day's competition that the Canadians were in the runner-up position. In the afternoon the United States team just barely beat them out for first place.

At night Pat Smythe of Britain, the only woman to compete in the evening performance, rode two horses—Prince Hal and Tosca—twice around the difficult eight-jump course and scored a low of 15 faults to win the top honor.

Lt.-Col. Charles Baker of Toronto first appeared in the arena on Starclift and guided the grey gelding over every jump except the difficult double-bar sixth. That gave him four faults. However, on his second time around on Anchors Aweigh Baker had more trouble controlling the bay gelding. He knocked down the second, fifth and sixth jumps for 12 faults. In all he had 16 to give the Canadian team second place.

HORSE BALKED TWICE

W. R. Ballard of Toronto, the Canadian captain, knocked down the sixth and eighth jumps for eight faults on his initial ride on Reject. The second time, riding Skip Across, Ballard topped the bars on the second, fourth and seventh obstacles, and his horse refused both the second and eighth jumps. Ballard was charged with 21 jumping faults and 2¼ time faults for 23¼. His total for both rides was 31¼.

In the afternoon the Canadians missed first place by 1 4-5 seconds in the first of three contests for the low-score competition challenge trophy, won by the U.S.

Baker and Ballard had flawless rides and Shirley Thomas of Ottawa was charged with eight faults, equalling the U.S. team's score, but the American's faster time of 112 4-5 seconds decided the competition.

Pair Admit Giving Horses Injections

NEW YORK (AP) — A leading harness trainer-driver and his assistant admitted Thursday they had given hypodermic injections to three horses before races this summer but said they didn't know it was against the rules.

The trainer, Wayne (Curly) Smart, who was the sport's leading driver in 1952, and the assistant, Carl Larsen, both of Delaware, O., appeared before the New York state harness racing commission to answer charges of using the needle.

There was no verdict.

The pair had been suspended by the commission Sept. 29 following a similar action by the Michigan commission.

Harold Page On Top

Glen Baker's team had best pinnage with 3030. Austin's won 4-0 from A & P No. 2 and Neill's won 4-0 from Crowe's. The 3-1 wins went to Coffee Shop, Baker's and East City over A & P No. 1, Cal Nichols and Prudential.

Good singles included: Karl Dorrington 221, Glen Baker 215, Don Penrose 240, 228 and 236, Gord Lenard 201 and 246, Jack Martell 308, Bob Lagana 262, Frank Worsencroft 307 and 302, Bert Gordonier 265, Ron Brand 243, Bill Simms 204, Jack Gimblett 243.

Ranger Goalie Has Rough Time Bow To Habs 4-3

By ED SIMON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Like many a good man before him, Johnny Bower is learning that life in the New York nets is a goaltender's nightmare. The Rangers, on their good nights, can scare the daylights out of more powerful National Hockey League opponents. Fast-breaking opportunists, they like to strike for goals while the other team is still concentrating on an offensive of its own. When it works, it's wonderful strategy. But whether it works or not, it's hard on your goalkeeper.

When the Rangers dropped a 4-3 verdict to Montreal Canadiens Thursday night, it left Bower with 38 goals scored against him in 11 starts, the heaviest yield in the NHL. Yet he stopped 40 shots in Montreal while the Canadiens' Gerry McNeil kicked out only 19.

TIED SCORE

A couple of quick goals gave the Rangers a 3-1 lead at the end of the second period but the league leaders kept up their fire on the 29-year-old rookie from Prince Albert, Sask., until they overcame the margin.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard finally caromed the winning goal—No. 7 of the season—off Bower's chest after Ken Mosdell and Bernie Geoffrion had tied the score.

Geoffrion also scored the first Montreal goal in the opening period.

Hy Buller, Wally Hergesheimer and Max Bentley were the Ranger marksmen.

NINE GAMES

Eddie Sandford, top scorer of last year's Stanley Cup playoffs, found his shooting eye for the first time this season as he tallied twice for the winners after nine games without a goal. Real Chevrefils and Joe Klukay also counted for Boston while Jim Peters and Bill Gadsby accounted for the Chicago goals.

The victory moved the Bruins into a third-place tie with Toronto Maple Leafs, one point behind Detroit Red Wings and five back of the pace-setting Canadiens.

Boston's victory Thursday night cost them the services of Milt Schmidt, their veteran captain and spark-plug. The 35-year-old centre retired with a strained knee ligament in the first period.

Baseball Clamor Reaching Fever Pitch

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The rising clamor over a plan to bring major-league baseball to the United States West Coast—and which incidentally would take in two Canadian cities—has reached a fever pitch. Club owners are wondering just how they will approach the problem at the minor-league meeting at the end of the month and the major-league sessions in December.

Until International League president Frank Shaughnessy recently presented his plan for two 12-team leagues, the moguls were in a dither. They wanted to expand, but they didn't know just how to do it.

Shag's plan would take in at least a couple of West Coast cities. The first four finishers in each section would play off to meet in the world series.

INTEREST KEPT ALIVE

This, of course, is what most of the minors have been doing since 1932 when Shaughnessy introduced his "Shaughnessy playoffs." It kept interest alive even when one team ran away with the pennant, because in the playoffs any of the first four clubs could win.

"It would give the majors a sensible program for expansion," said Shaughnessy, "instead of the present uncertain, panicky grabbing of minor-league territory. At the same time it would stabilize the minor leagues."

When and if the leagues are expanded, four cities seem virtually certain of being included—Los Angeles, San Francisco, Montreal and Toronto.

Young Takes On Sammy Guliani

NEW YORK (AP)—Paddy Young beaten by Bobo Olson for the American middleweight boxing title in June, opens a new drive tonight against Sammy Giuliani of Stamford, Conn.

The 10-round bout will be broadcast and televised.

Giuliani, a 4-to-1 underdog, has a 29-8-1 record for 38 pro fights. The 21-year-old boxer has won four of five this year, losing only to Chuck Davey on a 10th-round technical knockout at Detroit in April.

Young, 25, fought once in 1952, a 10-round victory over Ernie Durando, and only twice this year. He whipped Durando in a 12-round elimination bout in March to earn the Olson scrap, then he lost to Olson on a unanimous decision.

Only 3 Horses Finish Following 6-Horse Mixup

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—For the first time in Yonkers Raceway's four-year history only three horses finished in an eight-entry field Thursday night as a result of a six-horse mixup.

The accident also involved four runaways, including one which jumped the rail and raced around the infield for several minutes until captured by track attendants. None of the horses or drivers was injured.

The race, the featured Cold Sprin Pace, was won by Merle Rose, followed by Bernard Hanover and Tyler Hanover. The latter was handled by Bill Haughton, who was thrown from the sulky in the mishap and quickly remounted. The winner clocked in 2:08.3, paid $19.

The accident occurred on the far turn the first time around when True Kitty, taking the lead with Bill Hudson, fell down, causing the others to pile up. The six-year-old mare turned around, dashed up the backstretch, and then leaped over the rail into the infield. The other four horses, which ran around the track without their drivers and did not finish, were Mighty Boy, White Mountain Boy, Casanova and Water McKlyo.

Since only three horses finished, fourth and fifth purse money was given to the victor, increasing his purse of $2,000 by $400 and $200.

Here And There In Sports

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

DOUBLE DUTY

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Around the office and team headquarters of Pittsburgh Hornets, they're calling D. D. Faunce "Double Duty Dave."

Before, during and after games, young Faunce can be found in the club offices or the press box, where the publicity men for American Hockey League teams usually operate.

Comes time for a practice session, Faunce climbs into pads and trundles out to one of the goals, target for any shot the Hornets can fire as they warm up for the next game.

Sports publicity usually entails nothing more vigorous than changing a typewriter ribbon or climbing up to the press box.

But Dave says he likes them both. A native of Westmont, Pa., Dave played football at Washington and Jefferson College.

He had never tried hockey until he took a publicity job at the Cambria County War Memorial Arena in Johnstown, home of Johnstown Jets of the International Hockey League.

There one day during a workout, coach Wally Kilrea asked the six-foot, 200-pound Faunce to stand in at the nets for a little while.

Dave did, enjoyed the bruising play and has been filling in ever since.

PEEWEE STILL A PLAYER

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Pee-Wee Reese has decided to eliminate himself from further consideration as the new manager of Brooklyn Dodgers.

Reese, captain of the National League baseball champions, told a reporter Thursday night he had never been offered the managership formally, but was merely "felt out" about it at a secret meeting with Buzzy Bavasi, vice-president of the Dodgers.

"I still think I can play a couple of more years," Reese said. "Maybe I have made a mistake—I will know that in a couple of years. I think I have done the right thing. Anyway, that's the way it is, and I'll never be sorry, no matter how things might turn out."

LEAHY BACK

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Head coach Frank Leahy returned to Notre Dame's football helm Thursday after an absence of 13 days because of illness. His stay on the field was limited to one hour by his doctor. Leahy said he was recovered from an acute attack of pancreatitis which caused his collapse at halftime of the Georgia Tech game Oct. 24.

ROLFE UNDECIDED

DETROIT (AP)—Red Rolfe, former Detroit Tiger manager and one time member of New York Yankees' murderers row, confirmed Thursday night that he had conferred with Toronto Maple Leaf management about the possibility of becoming manager there.

"But," he added, "I don't know if I'll return to baseball or not. I have not settled on what I shall do in the future and have no definite plans as of now."

The International League Maple Leafs fired Burleigh Grimes, their 1953 manager, two weeks ago.

MACON, Ga. (AP)—Danny Nardico, world's third-ranking light heavyweight, knocked out Jackie Bennett midway through the second round of their scheduled 10-rounder Thursday night.

Bennett, a New York light heavyweight, outweighed Nardico 188 pounds to 183.

Vessels To Be On Sidelines

EDMONTON (CP) — Halfback Billy Vessels, leading ground gainer in the Western Interprovincial Football Union this season, has to sit on the sidelines while his Edmonton Eskimo teammates battle Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the conference title.

"I'll be ready if we get to the Grey Cup and I think we will," said the galloping youngster from Oklahoma who injured a spinal muscle against Winnipeg in the final regular-schedule game.

The Grey Cup game for the Canadian title will be played in Toronto Nov. 28.

The 21-year-old back is attending Eskimos' practices this week. "I'm just watching the plays. I still have some pain when walking. I can't run yet."

He goes to hospital daily for heat treatments and his daily soakings in the club's whirlpool bath.

Copeland, Black Trophy Candidates

TORONTO (CP)—Defensive half Royal Copeland and guard Freddy Black have been chosen by Toronto Argonauts as Argo candidates for the Jeff Russel Memorial Trophy, coach Frank Clair announced Thursday night.

The trophy is for the player most valuable to his team in the Big Four as well as the most sportsmanlike.

Hush-Hush Practices, StrategySetKeynote

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Secret practices, skull sessions and hush-hush strategy conferences were the keynotes this week in Eastern and Western Canada football cities. Mingled with it all were the somewhat-veiled threats, in the east only, about possible employment of the split-T formation.

This is just another of those endless "crucial" week-ends in the frenzied autumn sport with playoff games in two leagues—the Western Conference and Ontario Rugby Football Union—and what the fans have come to know as "key" games in the Big Four and senior intercollegiate.

In the west, the split-T Edmonton Eskimos, with a 12-4 won-lost record over the regular season, get back into action Saturday night after a two-week layoff in the first game of the best-of-three WIFU final against Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Winnipeg reached the finals with a 60-23 triumph over Saskatchewan Roughriders in their home-and-home, total-point semi-finals.

Both clubs have been practising behind locked doors every night and a sell-out crowd at Edmonton's Clarke Stadium is expected.

SELL-OUT CROWD

In the east, another sell-out crowd is looked for at Ottawa Saturday when the Rough Riders meet Toronto Argonauts, defending Grey Cup champions who have only a mathematical chance of getting into the Big Four playoffs. A loss to Argonauts definitely would put them on the sidelines.

On Sunday, league-leading Hamilton Tiger-Cats meet the Alouettes at Montreal. Victory for Tiger-Cats would assure them of a Big Four playoff berth.

Sarnia Imperials and Toronto Balmy Beach meet in a home-and-home total-point WIFU semi-final series, with the first game at Sarnia Saturday and the second in Toronto Sunday. The winner of this series meets Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen for the right to travel west and meet the WIFU

LONGEST COVERED BRIDGE—This is the longest covered bridge in the world. The 1,282-foot span crosses the St. John river at Hartland, N.B., one of 10,000 bridges in the province, 300 of which are covered wooden structures. Five of Canada's provinces have covered wooden bridges still in use.—(CP Photo).

New Brunswick Keeps Wooden Bridges

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Steel and concrete haven't entirely replaced wood in bridge construction.

New Brunswick still builds one or two covered bridges a year, though it is the only province to do so.

Five of Canada's provinces have covered wooden bridges in use today but only in New Brunswick and Quebec are there lots of them. Each has more than 300.

In New Brunswick, lumber is plentiful for bridge-building though in some cases, for long bridges, British Columbia Douglas fir is imported.

LASTS MANY YEARS

An ordinary wooden bridge, without cover, lasts from 10 to 15 years, a covered bridge about 80. Both, of course, are much cheaper to build than a steel-and-concrete structure. The roof of the covered bridge protects the floor from the weather.

In winter, many farmers used to grouse about the bare floors but in some cases contracts were awarded annually for "snowing" the floor for sleighs.

The covered bridge across the St. John river at Hartland, N.B., is the longest in the world, nearly 1,300 feet. Its nearest rival is a 1,082-foot bridge in Norway. There is a 1,000-foot span at Cap Ch..., Que.

The Hartland bridge carries traffic on route 2, part of the trans-Canada highway, some 60 miles above Fredericton. The original bridge, built in 1897, had no roof but it was replaced in 1920 by the present covered span. It also has a separate covered footwalk, built in 1943.

However, Hartland residents have no sentiment for the longest covered bridge in the world. In a recent local improvement poll conducted by the Hartland Board of Trade, most residents asked that the bridge be removed as a traffic hazard and replaced by something more modern.

OLD QUEBEC BRIDGES

One of Quebec's oldest covered bridges, built in 1861 at Powerscourt over the Chateauguay river, is unique in that it has a curved roof. Another old Quebec bridge spans the Coulonge river at Fort Coulonge some 50 miles northwest of Ottawa. It was erected in 1885.

Only two covered bridges remain in Nova Scotia, though scores were in use a few decades ago. The two are the Upper Kennetcook in Hants county and the Weeks bridge crossing East River St. Mary's near Aspen in Guysboro county. The former was built in 1873; the latter is about 70 years old. The Horton bridge near Wolfville, built in 1878, is a combination of ancient and modern. A few years ago, the wooden beams supporting the floor were replaced by steel girders but the bridge is otherwise unchanged.

There is only one covered bridge left in Ontario. It crosses the Grand river at West Montrose in Woolwich township and was built in 1881 by John and Sam Bear.

There are no covered bridges in Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. There are none on highways in British Columbia, but there is a covered timber railway bridge over the Similkameen river near Ashnola on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

No More Trips For Prisoners

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—Two men from nearby Reserve Thursday were sentenced to a month in Cape Breton county jail, from which they were convicted Tuesday of being at large.

John MacKie, 34, and John Wilson, 28, also have to serve about half their one-year terms for earlier convictions under liquor control and excise acts.

Evidence indicated the two were given permission to leave the jail May 4, after MacKie told turnkey Thomas Wells that his mother was ill.

Wells testified he called a taxi for the prisoners and told them "not to be too long." He said he re-admitted the prisoners around 1:30 a.m. next day.

On another occasion, according to evidence, Wells, MacKie and another prisoner visited a "bootleg joint" at Reserve while on a hunting trip.

Provincial Jubilee

EDMONTON (CP) — Saskatchewan's golden jubilee observances in 1955 will include completion of a $500,000 museum of natural history at Regina, Dr. L. H. Thomas of Saskatoon told a meeting here. Saskatchewan will observe the jubilee in the week of July 20, in order not to interfere with harvesting, although Saskatchewan and Alberta became provinces Sept. 1, 1905.

Library Circulation Shows Increase

The monthly report of the Public Library shows an overall increase of circulation in the adult department and decrease in the junior departments, over 1952. The only decrease for the month of October in the adult department was in the south end branch which dropped 67 from October of last year. A substantial gain for both adult libraries is recorded for the year.

The children's department expect to make up the loss in circulation before December. The chief reason for the decrease is the unavoidable delay in commencing class room visits this year, due to several new arrangements.

Gets $50,000 But Will Keep Job On Crane

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Joseph Tomaskovich, 39-year-old Bethlehem Steel Co. crane operator who supports his wife and three children on $85 a week, says he has no intention of quitting his job just because he'll pick up around $50,000 in the next four years as a tax collector.

Tomaskovich, a wounded veteran of the Second World War, was elected Tuesday to one of the choicest political jobs in Pennsylvania. He lives in Franklin borough, a community of about 2,000, where the tax collector hasn't much work. Bethlehem just mails in a $400,000 tax cheque to him, and the collector deducts his 2½ per-cent commission. Other taxpayers pay about $100,000.

"I'm lucky to get this extra job. I have a lot of friends. With the help of God, in the next four years, maybe I can pay off the mortgage on our home and give my wife and kids a good many of the things we can't afford now," Tomaskovich said.

He won both the Democratic and Republican nominations for the post.

Hush-Hush Practices

titleholder in the Nov. 21 Grey Cup semi-final.

The intercollegiate union brings together Western Ontario Mustangs, defending champions, and University of Toronto Blues at Toronto and Queen's Golden Gaels at McMaster Marauders. The Mustangs, unbeaten to date, hold a two-point edge over the runner-up Blues.

UNEXPECTED FORCE

The split-T formation, made famous in Canada this year by Coach Darrell Royal of the Eskimos, struck with unexpected force in the east last Saturday when Rough Riders used it for 60 minutes to whip Argonauts 20-8 at Toronto. It was an innovation in the east and since then the split-T has been a topic of conversation in football circles.

Coach Clem Crowe of the Riders is cagey about whether he'll use the formation against Argonauts again this week-end. Coach Frank Clair of Argonauts, probably the most surprised person at Varsity Stadium last week when the Riders sprang it on him, has debated all week whether he should adopt it.

The split-T has hit the college ranks. Coach Johnny Metras of the Mustangs said his club would use it against the Blues, but it would be different than the Edmonton Eskimo-Ottawa Rough Rider version. "We have made a few changes in it but it is still the split-T," Metras said.

"The quarter runs along the line but seldom takes the option of cutting through himself. I don't want to take chances on losing him."

Soldiers Not Educated Against Reds

CHICAGO (AP)—An Associated Press photographer held prisoner for 33 months in North Korea said Thursday that the United States did nothing to educate its troops to withstand Communist mental or physical pressure.

Frank (Pappy) Noel, 48, who was captured early in the Korean war, said U.S. soldiers seized by the Reds during the first 18 months of fighting were "babes in the woods."

"They were not mentally equipped or fortified in any way on how to take care of themselves against this intense indoctrination that was poured on day after day and hour after hour," he added.

PROUD OF RECORD

For this reason, Noel said, he is "very proud" that only 22 American soldiers elected to stay with the Communists.

Noel and two other Associated Press staff men who spent years behind the Iron Curtain—William N. Oatis and Eddy Gilmore—related their experiences at the annual meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

Oatis, 39, who was released earlier this year after spending more than two years in prison in Czechoslovakia, said many persons in Prague "swore by" the Voice of America broadcasts. He said he thought these broadcasts were effective.

But he added that he had the impression more Czechs are sympathetic to the Communist regime than many people in the United States realize.

Gilmore, 43, chief of the AP bureau in Moscow for 11 years, said he believes Russia has 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 troops under arms, excluding police forces, but added that Americans tend to overestimate Soviet strength.

Gilmore, who was permitted to take his Russian-born wife and children from behind the Iron Curtain this year, said the Malenkov government is weak, but that the Russian leader is bluffing while playing for time to consolidate his position.

Say Inspections Improve Jails

TORONTO (CP)—Inspections by the legislature's reforms committee have caused many improvements in Ontario's jails, the committee agreed Thursday. It also said much more can be done.

Following a visit to the Ontario county jail at Whitby, the committee suggested a standard be set for provincial jails. The Whitby jail, it said, had become too antiquated.

Ontario House Leader Farquhar Oliver suggested the reform institutions department set a minimum standard and assess all county jails accordingly. If the jail did not measure up to the standard and the county did not take action to improve it, the provincial grant to the jail should be cut off, he said.

Improvements at various jails included an order sent out last week that all institutions have their fire-alarm system tied in with the local municipal system where possible.

Army Reduces GI's Sentence

BERLIN (AP) — The United States Army today reduced from 15 to three years a sentence imposed on a young American deserter.

Brig.-Gen. Charles F. Craig ordered the cut after personally reviewing the case of Pte. Robert Dorey, 20, who drew one of the stiffest sentences ever handed a U. S. deserter.

Dorey pleaded guilty at a court-martial to entering the Russian zone and on two occasions bringing Soviet secret police with him back to the West for espionage. Ten of the 15 years imposed on him were for alleged violation of the Smith Act which forbids "affiliation" with any group dedicated to the overthrow of the U. S. government.

In announcing the reduction in the sentence, Brig. Craig said:

"I have considered the age of the accused, approximately 19 years at the time he originally absented himself, the fact that he surrendered himself to military authorities at the conclusion of the unauthorized absence, and that he pleads guilty to all charges."

Plan Freer Flow Of Information

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today issued an order designed to give citizens a freer flow of information about the United States government without jeopardizing national security.

Effective Dec. 15, the order replaces a controversial measure which former president Truman put on the books Sept. 24, 1951.

Attorney-General Herbert Brownell denounced the Truman order as smacking of "dictatorship." He said that under the old order government officials could "cover up dereliction" of duty, and mistakes.

Truman, responding to similar criticism from editors when his order was issued, denied there was any cover-up involved. He said the measure would promote the flow of news and sought only to keep security secrets from potential enemies.

PRESS GAVE VIEWS

Brownell outlined the new Eisenhower order which includes suggestions made by news organizations.

In brief, the Eisenhower order:

1. Eliminates the "restricted" category for classifying government data as harmful to national security if made public—leaving only "top secret," "secret" and "confidential."

2. Sets up a system for receiving complaints, from newspaper men and others outside the government, and for checking up on the program.

3. Takes away document-classifying authority from 28 agencies, such as the American battle monuments commission and the veterans administration.

4. Gives classifying authority to the heads only, with no power to delegate it to someone else, of 17 agencies, like the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Tennessee Vally Authority.

5. Permits the heads of other agencies, such as the defence department, to name an employee as classifying officer.

6. Defines what information is to be classified, how it is to be transmitted and stored, marked and, when indicated, destroyed.

Plan Inquest

PALMERSTON (CP) — An inquest will be held to determine the identity of human bones found in the rubble of a two-storey brick house in Wallace township following a fire Wednesday. Police continued to sift the ashes of the burned-out home and found more bones and a gold watch and a few coins. They believe these belong to Samuel Gamble, 66, owner of the house.

Murder Trial

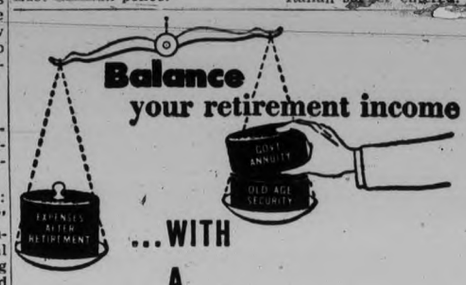
BERLIN (AP)—Soviet zone authorities said Thursday night that two Czechs who failed in a dramatic series of pistol battles to reach the West will be placed on trial as murderers of four policemen. The two were left behind by their three fellow Czechs who managed to get to West Berlin Sunday night. They reported five gun battles in which, they said, they killed eight East German police.

Send Bachelors To Trieste Area

TRIESTE (AP)—A United States army spokesman Thursday said bachelor officers are replacing married officers now stationed in the Allied one of Trieste.

Under orders apparently coming from Washington, the married officers are being replaced so they can rejoin their families who were moved out of Trieste in October.

Although the army did not say so, the decision could mean that American troops are going to stay much longer in the disputed zone than originally expected. Last Oct. 8 the U. S. and Britain announced jointly that occupying troops would be withdrawn "as soon as possible" and the zone turned over to Italian administration.



Yugoslavia's President Tito threatened to send his troops into the zone the moment the first Italian soldier entered.

Mrs. Lillie E. Lowes

The Rev. Dr. N. D. Patterson and the Rev. E. W. Rowland officiated Burial was in the Emily cemetery

Pallbearers were: Stanley Mahood, Vernon, Stanley, Keith and Gerald Lowes, and William Jones.

Alaska Oil Pipeline Project Will Aid B.C. Shipping Industry

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia industry, especially coastal shipping, is expected to have a large share in the construction of the $29,000,000 United States military pipeline in the far north.

The 615-mile line from Haines to Fairbanks, Alaska, will provide central Alaska's major supply for aviation gasoline and diesel fuels.

Nearly 300 miles of the line will be in B.C. and Yukon Territory, following closely the 157-mile Haines cut-off from Tidewater to the main Alaskan highway, built by U.S. engineers during the war and now maintained by Canada.

Thousands of tons of supplies for camps along the Canadian section of the pipeline will be shipped in from Vancouver.

Shipping companies now are preparing for the northern project.

Northland Navigation Co. Ltd., Straits Towing Ltd., and Frank Waterhouse Co., all of Vancouver, are expected to get contracts. All are veterans in northern transportation.

GIVEN JURISDICTION

British tenders have been received for the pipe to be laid in Canada. If the contract goes British, the pipe will be shipped to Vancouver from England and trans-shipped to Haines by barge and coastal vessel.

Marwell Construction Co. of Vancouver has a $12,000,000 share of the contract for pumping stations and terminal facilities.

Proposals have been made that Americans be given jurisdiction over the Haines cut-off, which now is closed during the winter. In return, Canada would be given access to the interior of Northern B.C. through the head of the Taku Inlet in the Alaska panhandle.

Under such a proposal, an all-Canadian road could be built from Tidewater into Atlin, B.C., opening a vast mineral country in the north. It would permit shipment of ore on an all-Canadian route without crossing U.S. territory.

Nine Pulp, Paper Unions Submit Final Offer

TORONTO (CP) — Nine unions representing 15,000 pulp and paper workers in Ontario Thursday submitted their "final offer" in the last phase of negotiations aimed at avoiding a strike.

Details of the new proposals by the American Federation of Labor unions were withheld until the reaction of the companies can be determined. They countered an earlier proposal by the employers which would have given workers an increase of three cents an hour.

The present basic rate is $1.41 an hour. The unions originally demanded a five-per-cent increase and other benefits.

OTHER DEMANDS

Other demands include a uniform welfare and insurance program in the 20 plants under contract and improvements in the sick-leave plan. It is believed some progress has been made in these demands.

Union officials say they are confident a settlement will be reached today on the basis of their new proposasl to the 11 companies taking part in the negotiations.

The outcome of the talks in Ontario is expected to set a pattern for the industry in Quebec and western Canada where disputes are also unsettled.

Strike Settled At Plant In Welland

WELLAND (CP)—A strike which broke out last Friday at the General Tire and Rubber Plant here was settled Thursday when officials of Local 455, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers (CIO-CCL) accepted company proposals for a new wage agreement.

Although a new contract has been pending for some time, the walkout of some 500 employees was brought about by company disciplinary notes sent to 18 women workers who attended a union meeting on company time. The union charged the women had been "discriminated" against.

FIVE CHARGED

Five workers at the plant were charged Thursday with causing a disturbance and doing wilful damage in connection with tomato throwing and window smashing incidents on the picket lines. All will appear in court here today.

Wiliam Punnett, international representative of the union, said the company has agreed that all 18 girls given a week off will be reinstated. Nine of them, he said, had been given notices which could be interpreted as final dismissal notices, but they would return to work Monday with the other workers.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ships arriving here included the first commercial vessel equipped with a new turbo-charge diesel engine, the 10,000-ton Danish freighter Songkla. Says Provinces Developed Bus Business

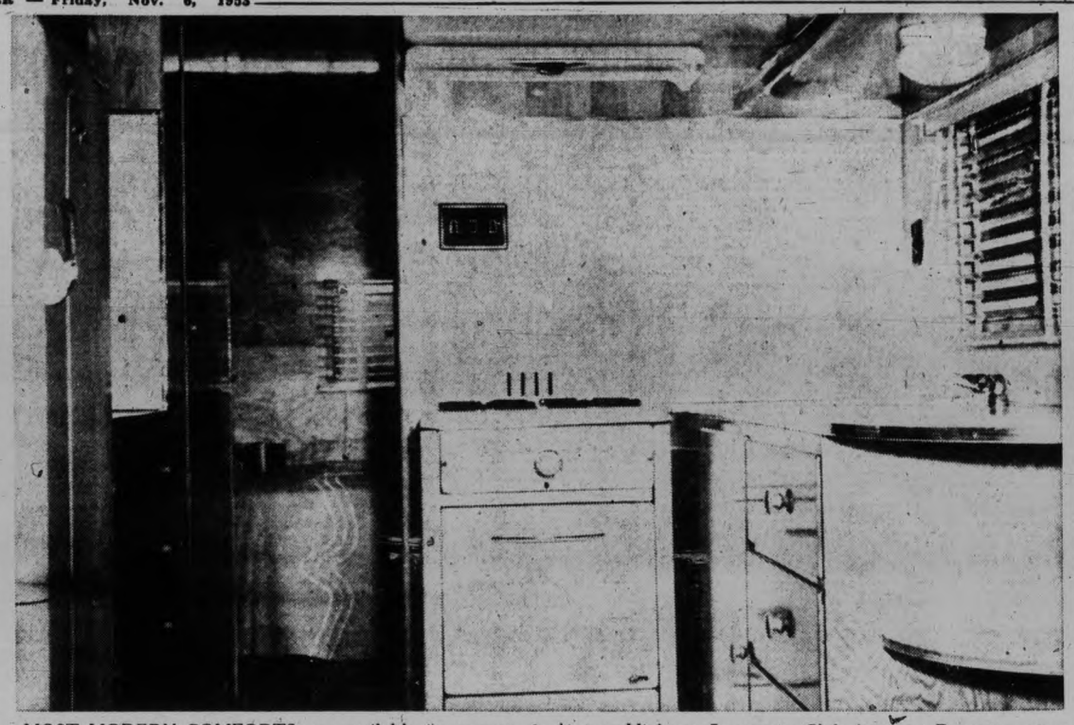
LONDON (CP)—Canada would have little bus business today if it had not been for provincial legislation and enterprise, it was contended before five law lords of the Privy Council.



Attorney-General Dana Porter of Ontario, arguing the province's appeal from a Supreme Court of Canada decision, said Thursday that the history of Canada's highways throughout showed complete provincial control in financing, building, maintaining and patrolling.

They had been laid out under provincial legislation which limited and determined rights of access.

"The legislation in this case, I would submit, is highway legislation," said Porter. "It is part of the whole policy of every modern state which has the problem of dealing with traffic on roads and finds it necessary to restrict the number of public buses operating."

TWO-WAY APPEAL

Porter spoke in the second day of a two-pronged appeal involving the principle of whether the federal government or the provinces control highway traffic crossing provincial or international borders. and Alberta, backed by other provinces, say the provinces have that control. A United States bus line and Canada's two main railways have entered a cross appeal, implying that such traffic is a federal matter. The federal government is intervening on their behalf.

MOST MODERN COMFORTS are available in present-day trailer homes. An example is the one above, which is built by the H. B. McGinness Co., soon to move into its new plant on Highway 7 opposite Club Aragon. Rangette, overhead cupboards, sink, refrigerator and storage space below the sink, can all be seen in this interior view. In the background is the bedroom.—(Photo by Lowes).

Trailer Homes Include All Necessities Of Modern Life

By EARL LOWES

Steady progress is being made in the erection of the new H. B. McGinness factory on Highway 7 opposite the Club Aragon. When the new plant is finished, probably in a month, the management and staff will be able to step up production and with increased production it will mean increased sales and a larger staff.

Already thousands of Canadians have solved their housing problems by buying trailers built by 41-year-old Harry McGinness and his staff. The firm is the largest manufacturer of trailer coaches in Canada.

McGinness trailers have the most modern styling and include practically everything needed in a modern home.

Ninety per ecnt of the firm's output of trailers are sold as permanent homes with the remaining 10 per cent being sold for pleasure travel. People buying trailers for permanent homes include families where the breadwinners are engaged in such occupations as construction, hydro and factory work. The Canadian government is also a large buyer of the trailers for the army, navy and air force. The United States government is another buyer.

ATTRACTIVE HOME

The family trailer can have fixtures, upholstering and venetian blinds all blending with the plywood interior to make an attractive home. There will be a spring-cushioned davenport bed in the living room to accommodate two sleepers.

A family can have a complete kitchen with a modern, easy-to-clean sink and work counter, an electric refrigerator, a four-burner propane gas cook stove and plenty of cupboard space. A built-in dinette makes the room most attractive and housekeeping chores are reduced to a minimum. Floors throughout are covered with inlaid linoleum.

A sliding door into a separate bedroom will assure home privacy. In the bedroom there is a built-in vanity dresser complete with drawer space, mirror and stool. There is a permanent bed with high-riser springs and inner-spring mattress. And there is a full-length wardrobe with ample storage space.

The trailer family can have a water heater; hot and cold running water, a flush toilet with bathtub and shower, which of course must be attached to water pipes where the trailer is settled. There can be bunk beds and other equipment.

NO MOVING COSTS

With a trailer, there are no hotel bills or restaurant costs. There are no moving costs because the family automobile will pull the trailer to any location desired.

When Harry McGinness started building trailers on a large scale five years ago he decided to build the best in trailer comfort. He believes he has done just that.

His trailer homes are made in models ranging in price from $1,700 to $6,600, the latter being a deluxe job that will accomodate six people.

OTHER TYPES

In addition to house trailers, the McGinness firm will build any type of trailer required. These include a travelling lunch bar complete with stools and restaurant equipment, a trailer equipped as an office or one to house salesman's products to be taken through the various sales territories. Other trailers are equipped with bunks for construction workers or other groups who move often to different locations. Box trailers and boat trailers are also made.

More than 500 commercial trailers have been made and sold from the Peterborough firm and the largest so far was a 34-foot long job weighing 7,200 pounds. Many sales have been to well-known Canadian manufacturing firms who have bought large trailers to carry their products through sales territories or to exhibition displays.

Harry McGinness gives credit to the success of his industry to the loyalty and co-operation of every one of his hard-working employees. Some have been with him since he started in business making milk wagon bodies more than 20 years ago.

Approximately 60 employees work at the McGinness firm on McDonnel street and they turn out approximately 600 trailers a year. The trailers move along from section to section in the factory and each job such as insulation, electric wiring and other work is done by workmen more concerned with turning out good work than with unecessary speed.

BANCROFT (ENS) — At an impressive service of witness at St. John's Anglican Church, the Rev. E. Owen Johnston was installed as incumbent of Bancroft and missioner of North Hastings by the Right Rev. Kenneth Evans, Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario.

More than 170 people, the largest congregation ever recorded at the church, attended the service. Among the large number of prominent churchmen in attendance was the Right Rev. Heber Wilkinson, Bishop of Amritsar, India.

The letter of institution was read by the Ven. J. B. Creegan, rector of Belleville, and archdeacon of Ontario, and the lesson by the Rev. A. S. McConnell rector of Trenton and rural Dean of Hastings. Master of ceremonies was the Rev. Douglas P. Burns, assistant to the dean of St. George's Cathedral Kingston.

The Rev. Walter Smith, missioner to the Tyendinaga Mohawk Indian Reserve, acted as chaplain to Bishop Wilkinson and the Rev. Tom Harries of the general board of religious education filled a similar office to Bishop Evans.

Other clergy present were: the Ven. N. R. Stout, rector of Gananoque and archdeacon of Frontenac, the Rev. F. O. Ware, archdeacon of Lennox and Addington and the Rev. Alan Secker, Stirling.

In the parish hall after the service, Bishop Wilkinson showed color pictures and told of his work among the natives of India. Refreshments were served by the women of the three churches of the Mission Field.

Bishop Wilkinson also addressed the High School Assembly impressing upon the students the importance of having a worthwhile goal of service in their life's work.

Canada's Bond Sales Reach $287,489,000

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canada Savings Bond drive continued to gain momentum, with total sales rising to $287,489,000 in the first two and a half weeks of the current campaign, the Bank of Canada reported Thursday.

Total sales have jumped by more than $130,000,000 from the similar 1952 period, with the number of buyers swelling to 697,327 from 505,739 last year.

Payroll savings sales in Ontario was $65,374,000.

Polio Cases Doubled In Last Year

OTTAWA (CP) — More than double the average number of poliomyelitis cases were reported in Canada in 1952: A total of 4,755 compared to the 1947-51 average of 2,291 cases.

The bureau of statistics reported today that the number of cases was below the normal in only three provinces last year: Nova Scotia with 57 against a five-year average of 71; Quebec with 125 against 144; and Ontario with 705 against 796.

Largest advance over the average occurred in Saskatchewan, where 1,205 cases were reported, almost 11 times the 1947-51 normal.

JAUNDICE ON INCREASE

Four times the expected number of infectious jaundice cases were reported last year, with 1,182; more than twice the usual number of cases of scarlet fever (19,010) and septic sore throat (1,971); almost double the normal number of dysentry cases (504) and influenza cases (8,002). Meningitis cases totalled 265 against a five-year normal of 193, mumps 38,439 against 32,252 and chickenpox 45,887 against 41,764.

On the other side of the scale, last year saw less than a quarter of the expected number of diptheria cases (190) and only half the usual number of undulent fever cases (121). Appreciable drops were noted for cases of tuberculosis (509) and venereal disease (18,178). Also below the normal number were measles (56,178), German measles (10,116) and whooping cough (8,520).

There were no cases of anthrax, botulism, cholera, glanders, leprosy, plague, psittacosis, rabies, rocky mountain spotted fever, typhus fever, smallpox, yellow fever reported in Canada last year.

Narrow Margin

WINNIPEG (CP)—Daniel Juba won by 312 to 311 over Mayor Stan Bowers in the Brooklands village municipal election. One of the votes for the winner was cast by his brother Stephen Juba, who had won a seat in the provincial legislature last June.

UNION JACK—Mrs. Alma K. Schneider, director of the Denver mint, and Guard Capt. Jack Carlson display a home-made Union Jack that flew over the mint for nine minutes before it was detected by a guard. Mrs. Schneider also holds a lock the practical joker used to secure the British flag in place atop of the pole, and a note pinned to it reading: "Just charge it—Winnie."

Labor Reserves Said Sufficient

OTTAWA (CP)—The sixth meeting of the national advisory council on manpower was told Thursday Canada's manpower reserves are adequate to meet the needs of the defence program, of resources development projects and expanding civilian production.

The assurance of sufficient labor reserves was contained in a report made to the council by the economics and research branch of the labor department. The report said there has been "no drain" since the outbreak of the war in Korea June 25, 1950, "on the various manpower reserves which might be utilized in case of a serious emergency."

Labor Minister Gregg said progress has been made in "thwarting" some of the manpower problems which the council faced after the outbreak of the Korean war.

However, he said there still are a number of "serious manpower questions for the council to consider." He said these include the farm labor supply, seasonal unemployment, the training of skilled workers for industry, rehabilitation of disabled workers and the employment of older workers.

Russia Agrees To Join UN Labor Organization

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio announced Thursday that Russia has agreed to join the International Labor Organization of the United Nations with announced intentions of changing its structure. Russia also made some reservations about adhering to the ILO rules.

The radio broadcast a dispatch from Bern saying the Soviet delegation to Switzerland had notified the director-general of ILO of its intention to join.

Russia has long stood aloof from the labor body and has been critical of its actions.

Record Entry At Livestock Show

WALKERTON (CP) — The commercial livestock show and sale held in conjunction with the Walkerton Christmas Fair Thursday attracted a record entry in both the open class and 4-H calf club showings.

The offering of beef and lamb was 75 per cent above that of the last three years. The 170 prize beef after culling the herd of 183, averaged 22.41 cents a pound. Sold were 106 of the 4-H calf clubs and 64 from the open classes.

Entries were from 29 calf clubs in Bruce, Grey, Huron, Wellington, Elgin and Dufferin counties. Both the grand champion and reserve were club calves and both herefords.

GRAND CHAMPION

The grand champion shown by Murray Alexander of Pinkerton, a member of the Tiverton 4-H club, sold at 40 cents a pound, netting $396. The reserve grand champion was shown by James Lyons of the Lucknow 4-H club. It sold at 33 cents a pound netting $287.76.

The Grey - Bruce - Huron angus special, for the champion and reserve aberdeen angus in the 4-H club classes over 950 and under 925 pounds was won by Andrew Weber of Mildmay.

Champion lamb and reserve was won by Emke Bros. of Elmwood. The champion sold for 50 cents a pound, while the reserve sold for 35 cents a pound.

Lakefield PS Pays $150 For Using Arena

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Lakefield public school board will pay $150 for the use of the arena for skating for pupils for this winter, it was decided at this week's meeting. The Rev. W. B. Walker was chairman in the absence of Dr. R. H. Campbell.

Principal E. G. Sloan addressed the board stating the need for music of some kind for the junior rooms and also reported on the supply teachers for the month of October. The board will purchase a record player for the school. Accounts totalling $1,564.66 were authorized for payment.

DISCUSS BUS SERVICE

At the December meeting of the Peterborough Trades and Labor Council (TLC) there will be representatives from the bus drivers' union. They will discuss traffic problems in the city from the bus drivers' point of view, and they will also discuss service to the public.

CONTRACTORS' SHACKS

Preliminary activity is showing on the property of Simpsons-Sears, Lansdowne St., as Carroll Contracting Co. of Toronto, set up their temporary accommodation incidental to carrying on the job of laying the foundation for the Peterborough unit of the new Canadian chain of stores.

WINDOWS SHIPPED

The memorial windows, to be erected in memory of the late Martin B. Chenhall in St. Paul's Presbyterian church by the choir, have been shipped on board the SS Assyria. They are expected to arrive in a few days. The Celtic Studios in Swansea, Wales, made the windows which will be unveiled on Sunday, Nov. 15 at the morning service.

NO MAGISTRATE'S COURT

Not because of a lack of lawbreaking but as a result of family and juvenile court, the deer-hunting season and a few adjournments, no magistrate's court cases were heard today. Court on Friday is generally light anyway because family and juvenile hearings are also scheduled.

SUITCASES NOT FOUND

Hoping to find suitcases which contained jewellery stolen in Monday's $40,000 theft, police searching the Cavan Station area were disappointed Thursday. A trunk which had contained part of the valuables was found empty Wednesday. Four members of the department's detective staff are working on the theft.

PROGRESS REPORTED

Although no arrests have been made in connection with two house breakins earlier this week, police working on the matter have reported progress. The same man or group of men are suspected to have engineered breakins into both homes, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Rae McWilliams, Chemong Rd., and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Norman, Hillcrest St.

Sucker Bet

Two downtown men bit on a sucker bet that has been circulating widely in other centres. A friend offered them five-to-one odds that the Grey Cup game would be played between Montreal and Edmonton. Each took $2 worth of the bet, and paid off when the friend pointed out that the game would be played in Toronto, which, of course, is between Edmonton and Montreal.

Tax Collections Improve, Couper Reports

In spite of the fact that city taxes have been climbing steadily—and sometimes spectacularly—in recent years, the proportion of the total collected has also continued to rise.

While taxes jumped from $2,712,954.77 in 1952 to $2,814,389.43 this year, the amount collected by the end of October was $2,632,092.75, compared with $2,494,767.22 during the same period last year, or from 91.95 per cent to 93.52 per cent.

The figures were made available today by A. S. Couper, city treasurer and tax collector, who expressed keen satisfaction with the increasing promptness of local property owners in meeting their financial obligations to the city.

NEAR $3 MILLION

Mr. Couper pointed out to the Examiner that the total figures on his roll have climbed from a mere $747,703.73 in 1941 to their present summit of close to $3 millions, almost four times as much.

Although comparative figures for the January-October period were not available, a glance at the auditor's report shows that in 1941 only 93.56 per cent of the taxes were paid during the whole year. The percentage figures grew to a record peak of 97.64 in 1946, dropping a fraction of a point each subsequent year until 1952 when they began to curve upwards once again.

With collections improving once again, there is the hope at city hall that they can once again come to within a couple of percentage points of 100 per cent, to permit a truer reflection of the city's economic health, with only a marginal portion of defaulters.

GETS CORONATION MEDAL

Another Peterborough resident who has received the Queen's Coronation Medal is District Inspector J. A. Stringer of the provincial police. No other member of the OPP has received one in district 8.

Bacon, Egg Prices Hit Skids

Consumer Can Save 50 Cents On Purchase Today

The consumer can make himself some money in the meat shops this weekend, according to prices quoted here and there in the trade.

Bacon and eggs, for instance: bacon down 20 cents to 79 cents a pound in the last 10 days to two weeks, if not less than that; and eggs—Grade A large—that used to be 85 cents, now 55 cents a dozen.

So, on that popular combination, the advantage to the consumer is 20 cents on the bacon and 30 cents on the eggs. That's 50 cents, just for one pound and one dozen. Double the order and you're making one dollar and with twice as much food to go around the family.

SEASONAL

Packers say the price drop is a seasonal one given extra impetus by a loss of much of the U.S. market, where there is also a large seasonal surplus. The price to consumers still lags behind the wholesale price.

Beef cuts are down 14 to 15 cents a pound—some of the shops said 10 cents to 15 cents. That comprises T-bone, porterhouse, rounds and so on.

You get all kinds of stories and prices when you mention hamburger. The cut-up that used to cost 55 cents to 60 cents it down to 30 cents and 35 cents a pound.

But, an independent said: "I don't know how anybody could sell hamburger at 25 cents when I have to pay 30 cents a pound for it."

LONG DROP

The drop in steak prices extends over the last two or three months, but bacon and eggs have been comparatively recent.

The market columns of the newspapers have been telling the story of a drop in hog prices recently, and consumers might have expected that it would be two or three weeks before they would be cut in on that.

At one of the Charlotte St. stores, the information passed out was: bacon down 20 cents . . . from 89 cents to 69 cents.

The average family might be able to collect an extra dozen of eggs and pound of bacon on the saving in price of the family order tomorrow. That could be for free; plain as the nose on your face, but there is not likely to be any pushing and crowding queue at the meat counters.

Actually food for nothing, looking at it that way, considering the price differential and what it will permit the average family to add to their meat and eggs order for the weekend.

HOUSEHOLDERS ARE HAPPIER this weekend in the savings they are able to make in buying of beef, pork and egg products. Eggs displayed by Joyce Trotter have dropped 29 cents in Grade A and 32 cents in Grade A medium classes. Beef represented by steaks held by George Sullivan has dropped 10 cents a pound in some stores. Others are lower still.

Larger Car Bowled Over By Small Auto

When two vehicles, a small English car and a normal size Canadian car, met at the intersection of O'Connel Rd. and St. Catharines St. at noon today, one of them rolled over at the impact.

Surprisingly enough however, it was the little car that bunted over the big one. Drivers were Rev. Gordon Monk, 24, of 524 Hamilton St., and Bruce Waddell, 29, of 648 Gillespie.

Waddell's 1953 model vehicle, with only 2,200 miles on it, sustained damage of $600 while the smaller Monk vehicle lost its grille and hood for an estimated $300 damage.

Waddell was driving west on O'Connell and Monk, north on St. Catharines when they collided at the intersection. There are no signs marking the corner.

HIT TRAIN

In an accident on Townsend St. Thursday night, a car driven by David Crowder, 19, of 99 Aylmer St., crashed into the side of a CNR locomotive, sustaining damage estimated at $600. The yard engine was on the level crossing at the time of the accident.

Another intersection crash at the corner of Charlotte St. and Monaghan Rd. Thursday resulted in damage of $450 to cars driven by Mrs. Myra Adams, 56, of 482 Cambridge St., and Robert Coke, 24, of 20 Noel St., Toronto.

Mrs. Adams was northbound on Monaghan Rd. and Coke, eastbound on Charlotte St. when the accident occurred.

Committee To Beautify River, Creek Through City

Holding out to Peterborough the possibility of doing for the Otonabee river, Jackson Park creek and other natural vantage points what Stratford has done for its little river, and what Windsor is setting out to do for its waterfront, a citizens' committee was formed Thursday evening to consider ways, means and objectives. The committee is an outcome of study and work which the Civic Study Group has done during the last six months and of a meeting organized by Mrs. John Nornabell of the Study Group to provide the committee to promote the long-term project.

The following have been named to the committee: A. L. Malby, Charles Kingan, R. R. Faryon, T. J. Allen, H. B. McGinness, Mrs. John Nornabell, Mrs. Charles Huffman, Mrs. Charles Ray, Donald Emery, James Fraser, Arthur Smoke, H. M. Yudin, Robert Knox, Edward Riley, Mayor Hugh Waddell, Alderman A. B. Burrows, parks committee chairman, and Armour Butcher, parks superintendent; the last three ex officio. Most of these were present at the meeting to accept office in person.

NONE BETTER

Mrs. T. J. Carley presided and Mrs. Nornabell gave a short account of the background of the endeavour. She said she had lived in six Ontario cities and "none has to offer what we have." The occasion to press for reclamation and improvement was "well timed." Much of the material, utilitarian needs of the city has been faced; now the time was ripe for a cultural and aesthetic emphasis.

Mrs. Nornabell cited the opportunity other cities were taking: Halifax: to clean up its unwashed port face and give attention to its historical sites; Elora on the Grand River; Rochester, which has a multi-million dollar plan to improve its parks and waterfront, Detroit, with a similar grandiose plan.

Windsor has already initiated a large project to reclaim its sordid, down-at-the-heel, railway-blotched waterfront; to make of it a park to give off-street parking, to build there a civic auditorium and centennial gardens. The railway company has promised its full co-operation in removing tracks, sheds and the like to other areas.

STRATFORD EXAMPLE

Mrs. Nornabell especially mentioned the example of Stratford, which through the vision of a couple of citizens and the co-operation of the borough, had remarkably revived, reclaimed and improved on the natural beauties, the stream and the parks during the last 47 years. "If Stratford with literally nothing to start with could achieve so much, what could Peterborough have?" Stratford's present population is now only 18,000, and it is not a very rich community. Its natural advantages of beauty are nothing as compared with those of Peterborough. Mrs. Nornabell reminded the audience that most of the reformation was accomplished with private money, donations and the enterprise of men of vision.

The spoliations of Peterborough's natural beauties and good waters by industry, railways, other commerce and indifferent citizens has deprived the city of the endowments of its natural heritage. The implication is that what Stratford has done, Peterborough can do better because it has better natural advantages and more people able to support a plan of reclamation. Stratford has now 1,300 acres of parks and playgrounds in a continuous cycle on the border of the river.

SUPPORT OFFERED

F. R. Pammett spoke for the Peterborough Nature Club, assuring its active support for the project. W. Ross Thompson offered the "co-operation and assistance" of the Peterborough Real Estate Board. Dr. J. P. Wells Medical Officer of Health, spoke for mutual endeavour, mentioned the problem of pollution, and the desire of his department to secure improvement, if at all possible, without compulsion.

POLLUTED LAKE, CREEK

Dr. Wells said that there were many instances of unnecessary and entirely illegal pollution both of Little lake and of the Jackson Park creek. He said that there were hundreds of outlets into the creek between Hunter Street and he lake, in some disuse, some in polluting use, and all illegal. It would be "much too optimistic" to expect the pollution to be voided by 1954 so that Little Lake could be used for swimming, but he hoped that by 1955 the condition would be sufficiently improved.

James McGrath of the Trent Valley Canal office spoke unofficially of federal finance aid which had been given to other places, and also of the algae pollution in the Kawarthas, and other sources of pollution of Little Lake. Before a proper job of reclamation could be done, such pollution would have to be ended, he said.

Alderman A. B. Burrows said that the Parks Committee was actively interested in the project and complimented the study group on their initiative and the formation of the committee to go into the whole matter.

The new committee will be convened before the end of the year at the call of Mrs. Nornabell, named its temporary chairman for that purpose.

Recover Oshawa Loot

COBOURG (ENS)—Stolen the night before from a cleaner's in Oshawa, a typewriter, an adding machine and a large quantity of clothing left in for cleaning were recovered at Cobourg Thursday night by Constables E. Butler and L. Huskilson. A local man, whose name police did not reveal, reported to them he had bought a typewriter, adding machine and a coat from an unknown man for $35. When the stuff was delivered to him included was a car full of assorted clothing. He then reported it to police.

House Flag Flies At Door Of Trust Company

There's a new flag flying in Peterborough today.

It's the house flag of the Victoria and Grey Trust Company. It consists of a gold replica of the company's monogram on a blue field and, with the red ensign, will flank the main entrance to the company's premises at George and Brock Streets.

Although the idea of flying a house flag is a novel one in Peterborough, it has long been the custom among financial and commercial institutions in the United Kingdom. It was there that T. E. McKay, manager of the company's Peterborough branch, first became aware of the practice.

Visiting Edinburgh as a member of the Canadian Army during the Second World War, Mr. McKay noticed the house flag flying from the Bank of Scotland. He recalled the incident at a directors' meeting and suggested that his own company adopt a flag.

He was authorized to design one and try it out at his own branch. If the idea meets with public approval, the practice will be adopted at the company's other offices in Lindsay, Owen Sound, Belleville and Cannington.

CUSTOM RARE

Although the custom is rare in Canada, the Hudson's Bay Company also flies a house flag, a carryover from the days of the Merchant Adventurers, one of the first corporate commercial enterprises to receive a royal charter from Queen Elizabeth I.

Flags have for centuries been identified with military organizations and undoubtedly their use by the businessmen of 16th-century Tudor England was copied from the practice of the noble families whose power and glory had been crushed at Bosworth Field by Elizabeth's grandfather, Henry VII. During the preceding Wars of the Roses, the family crests of the nobility had been carried in front of the feudal levies, emblazoned on their flags.

With feudalism vanquished, commerce flourished and with it the institutions of industry and trade, whose flags symbolized a new era of peace and prosperity.

Thus, the house flag has become a traditional symbol of the modern community's commercial life.

NEW MOON TONIGHT

The November moon will appear this evening as a slender crescent. There is just one more left in the 1953 calendar, a moon of December, a month from today.

Thirteen-Year-Old Runs Away From Home Says He Will Be Gone For 10 Months

A 13-year-old Otonabee Township boy told a school chum on Thursday morning that he was going away from home for 10 months. He headed across a field, instead of going to school, and he hasn't been heard from since.

The boy is Wilbert Dew, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dew, RR 11, Peterborough.

No explanation has been advanced as to why Wilbert decided to run away from home. However, those who know him say that he is unusually stubborn once he makes up his mind to do a thing.

He was walking to Coldsprings Public School at 8.40 a.m. Thursday when he confided in his chum, Larry Paquette, that he was going to run away for 10 months. Then he took off across a field.

Wilbert is described as weighing 100 pounds; he is four-foot, six inches tall, and has reddish brown hair, a fair complexion and brown eyes. He is of medium build, and when last seen was wearing long grey pants, a blue shirt and a brown windbreaker.

He was also carrying his lunch when he disappeared.

Careless Deer Hunters Set 65 Bush Fires In Tweed, Lindsay Areas

Patrol 19 of 43 in North Part of County As Situation Forces Province To Re-Open Closed Forest Fire Season

Careless hunters in Lindsay and Tweed district hunting areas had set 65 fires, 43 of these in the north end of Peterborough county, by press time today. Nineteen of them are being patrolled at the present time in Peterborough district and 17 around Tweed. The situation is so alarming that department heads at Queen's Park have issued a directive to re-open the closed fire season—which officially ended Oct. 31—from today, Nov. 6 until Nov. 30 inclusive. If this preventive measure does nothing to curb the hunters' fires further restrictions will be imposed.

The immediate district's largest fire, to the east of Kosh Lake, burned over 100 acres. Seventy-five acres were burned over in Darling township in the Tweed area.

HAZARD HIGH

Since there has been no snow, and relatively little rain over the two fire districts, bush is dry and the fire hazard high for this time of year.

Hunters can normally count on at least a slight dusting of snow to curb fires they may start on their watches.

Fires are not restricted to organized fire areas controlled by the Department of Lands and Forests. They have broken out wherever hunters have been. On the Marmora-Belmont boundary, a fire burned through 110 acres of second growth timber in Marmora township.

NO WATER HANDY

Firefighters under the direction of Marmora's Reeve Irvin McCoy have brought the fire under control. They have been using only shovels, since no water is handy. This fire is located about halfway between Cordova Mines and the north shore of Crowe Lake.

Nearest resident of the district is Thomas Quinlan, who lives south of the fire with his daughter. It is believed his home is in no danger.

Two other fires are burning near the Belmont-Methuen boundary, one south and one west of Oak Lake in rough, broken country. The extent of these fires is not immediately known.

Grant Dafoe, clerk of Belmont-Methuen townships, said that the fire hazard is greatest he has ever seen it in November.

LATE DELPHINIUMS

Harry Gabbutt picked second crop delphiniums several days ago. Their first blooming was around the end of June. The stalks were cut back later and the second growth flowered into the first week of November. George Downer has left of his garden only a few 'mums within the shelter of his house. The others were stricken this week.

Omemee Boy Gets Life-Saving Award For Deed

OMEMEE (ENS)—Gary Whitney Thursday night received a Royal Canadian Humane Association award for a rescue he performed in July, 1951.

The incident occurred when a group of youngsters were swimming in Pigeon river just north of the bridge on Highway 7. Lorraine Flanagan, a small girl and non-swimmer, had been standing on the log which bounded the safety zone when she lost her balance, slipped and fell into the river.

She floundered helplessly in the deep water and finally disappeared. Her companions didn't notice her plight, but two men watching from the bridge shouted the alarm.

Gary dived near the spot where the girl had gone down and found her near the bottom of the river. None of the children were able to apply artificial respiration, but the girl recovered without it.

WAS TRAINED

Gary said at Thursday night's presentation that he knew nothing of artificial respiration at the time, "but I do now." He had, however, been instructed in life-saving by Mrs. Pansy Forbes of Peterborough, who had conducted a class in the village.

T. H. H. McQuade of Omemee, who felt the deed should have recognition, interested himself by securing the necessary documents and affidavits.

The last similar awards in the village were made about 17 years ago to two young people, Charles Brooks, and Dorothy Sherin. They saved another pair of youngsters from drowning one winter when the ice gave way beneath them.

In the interval, similar deeds have been neglected and no awards secured, but Mr. McQuade felt such should not be the case this time.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Vast Accumulation of Grain In The West Affecting Farmers In The East . . . Holstein Breeders Plan Trip to Royal Winter Fair . . . Springville Forum Carries On In Pre-Testing . . . Forums Report On First Broadcast . . .

Retail prices of farm products can hardly be blamed for economic news this week that the cost-of-living index advanced in September from 116.2 to 116.7.

True, that is only a fractional difference, but it is an increase, contrasting with the decline of some farm product prices during the last three months. Sharpest effect of that advantage to the consumer has been noted in the last few weeks, but it has been rather an acceleration of a trend that has been causing farmers deepening concern.

Retail prices of beef and eggs, food staples, show substantial decreases. In Ottawa where the cost of living index is graphed, sirloin steaks were down this week 20 cents a pound from the price of two months ago.

Cost of hamburg steak has been just about cut in half. Egg prices have slumped to about the same extent.

It may be repeated, that the incidence of this reverse to the producer was not in full effect during September, but the trend was moving.

On the other hand the consumer price index has climbed one-half a point in the September record.

Surely farmers are entitled to exclude their products from the causes of that c.o.l. increase, and to suggest that other factors of cost to the consumer should be disclosed against the common opinion that too readily frowned on the farmer and his products.

The more recent decline in the price of beef is ascribed in Ottawa "to large supplies of western beef appearing on the market."

Here is a pertinent paragraph from the Calgary Herald of four days ago:

"Southern Alberta farmers, wheat poor and in need of ready cash, are converting their livestock into folding money, and are doing it the easy way."

Some 5,000 head were recently marketed in two days. They were sold at auction, and half an hour after the animals passed out of the ring, the owners had their cheques in their pockets. Selling continued on other days.

"Because of the tightening of money generally as a result of small grain payments to date, more farmers than ever are selling their livestock on the market. Prices have been holding up pretty well despite the heavy run."

So, it is of interest to farmers here to observe that the three years of booming grain crops are reacting against them. Beef cattle from the west, sold for ready cash; and the possibility of western farmers going into hogs again on a big scale as a means of getting rid of some of their ebarrassing surplus of grain.

The Pre-Testing Group

"Partners All" is the title of the Forum broadcast Monday, November 9. It will discuss the partnership of the rural husband and wife, with emphasis on the wife's place in that basic institution, the farm home.

Springville Forum is dutifully proceeding with their pre-testing service. Twenty - two members were present last Monday night for the subject "Citizens of Tomorrow." It will be broadcast on December 7. Special consideration was given to the 4-H Clubs for farm boys and girls. The name has been adopted from similar youth organizations throughout the United States, but the purpose and record of accomplishmens are the same in both counties.

Springville group heartily commended this program of the extension of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. They have seen its results in boys and girls who have graduated from the 4-H Club to the Junior Farmers and finally into Adult organizations. Some of them were mentioned, particularly in the service they have been giving to farm interests and affairs such as Vivian S. Milburn of Smith, secretary of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture; Ken Fallis of Cavan, with the weeds and seeds branch of the Ontario Department.

In that company, too, is John Edmison of Smith, for his activity as a Peterborough 4-H Club leader. He was present at the meeting with Mrs. Edmison.

One of the questions arising in the discussion was whether a man who had done a good job as a farmer had fulfilled his opportunities, if he had not associated himself in the affairs of his community. Springville group took a negative view of that limited accomplishment, and agreed that every farmer should consider it an obligation to assume an active part in the life and concerns of his neighbors, in his township and county affairs, including political, social and church matters.

"Ton Of Gold" Cow

The Jersey cow, Roslyn Maybelle, owned by Bamforth and Kelly, has qualified for a "ton of gold" certificate and also for her 4,000 lbs. fat award. She is a daughter of Sybil Noble Knight. For her ton-of-gold she produced 2,063 lbs. fat in 1461 days. To qualify for this award, a cow must produce 2,000 lbs. of butter fat in four consecutive years.

Roslyn Maybelle has produced during her lifetime 88,315 lbs. milk and 4,320 lbs. of fat, entitling her to a 4,000 lbs. certificate.

53 Cattle Go West

For the third successive year, a shipment of high class Ontario dairy cattle has been made to breeders in Saskatchewan, 53 head, largely Holsteins, comprising this year's shipment. The selection was made by Erle Roger representative of the Dairy Department, Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture.

Some of the more prominent animals include a son of Elmcroft Sceptre out of the Very Good daughter of Montvic Lochinvar 3rd from Elmcroft Farm, Oshawa. A son of Q.T.P. Sovereign Dandy, outstanding show bull in the herd of Earl Hooper, St. Marys. This bull is out of a dam who is making a record of about 19,000 lbs. The Reserve Junior Champion bull at the Elgin County Black and White day purchased from Butler and Bodkin, St. Thomas, with a re-record on his seven nearest dams of 709 lbs. fat from 16,932 lbs milk. From the Robert Packham herd, a bull out of a Sonniwilk Sovereign Souvenir daughter sired by Pabst Roburke Lad, one of the bulls in the Oxford Artificial Breeding Unit. The grandson of Montvic Rag Apple Soverign and Montvic Rag Apple Achilles from T. R. Dent and Son, Woodstock, with an average of his seven nearest dams of 885 lbs. fat from 20,664 lbs. milk; and a son of Seiling Sovereign out of one of the high record cows in the herd of G. R. Row, Curries.

Can Help Ag. Rep.

Farm Forums can help the agricultural representatives by providing opportunity of meeting more people in groups than by individual calls. That comment is from the summary of the Westwood meeting Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Graham. William Mood was discussion leader.

The members suggested that "farms which have experimental areas under the supervision of the Agricultural Representative should have signs at the gate so that people will be more generally attracted and visit them. And then, if interested, they could discuss the scheme with the Agricultural Representative."

Westwood said "he is needed most to initiate new schemes both at the individual and organizational levels."

Secretary Mrs. Graham also mentioned that some members were meeting Ken Best, assistant agricultural representative, for the first time through the means of the Forum, "and were eager to discuss with him" matters that were practical, contour plowing, Graham plows, etc., but were not associated directly with the Forum subject.

Holsteins Average $242

The Holstein herd of A. T. Sirett, Cobourg, was dispersed Oct. 27 at the Arena, Grafton, Ontario, bringing a total of $13,080 for 54 head, or a general average of $242.

Top price of $500 was paid by Les Peres du St. Esprit, Limbour, Que., for Joan McKinley Rocket Tone, a bred heifer. She is a daughter of the four times All-Canadian and recent grand champion at the Chicago International Show, Rockwood Rocket Tone, owned by the Quinte District Cattle Breeding Association at Belleville.

W. F. Fenwick, at Brampton, paid $435 for a bred heifer, and also bought a seven-year-old cow at $300. Another bred heifer went to Fred H. Hubbs, Bloomfield, at $375.

Mrs. A. Meagher, Oakville, bought several head, including a bred heifer at $330, while Stanley T. Reeds, Reaboro, paid $325 for a milking female, and H. J. McFarland, Picton, paid $325 for a bred heifer. Bruce A. Eagleson, Cobourg, bought a bred heifer at $40, and Yungblut Bros., Fonthill, a bred heifer at $300.

Eleven milking females averaged $245, 20 bred heifers $294, 18 open heifers $185, and five heifer calves $215.

Discuss Ag. Rep. Service

"We feel that our Agricultural Representatives are doing a good job for the farmers, but probably we are not making as much use of their knowledge as we should."

That comment is quoted from the report of the Stewart Hall Forum this week. Their meeting was held at the home of Reeve R. R. and Mrs. Stewart, with Frank Savigny leader, and 22 members present. Three discussion groups were formed.

Subject of the first broadcast of the new season related to the work of the agricultural representatives in the extension program of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Understanding was expressed of the general work of the agricultural representatives in such affairs as field days, promotion of 4-H Clubs, farm planning, soil improvement, livestock sales, and the personal enquiries for advice on a wide variety of questions and problems.

Stewart Hall group suggested that more assistance should be given to the less experienced and inefficient farmers, and also advice to the younger people. The Forum indicated their interest in the department's program for the youth of the farms "so as to develop future farm leaders and good citizens."

18 AT COLDSPRINGS

Attendance was 18 at Coldsprings Forum, meeting at the home of Mrs. Jean Tully who acted as leader. As to what more might be done in the extension service, they considered that effort might be directed to those who are indifferent about it, and who do not try to take advantage of it. As the active, promotive farmers themselves know, this is a problem of the agricultural representative, and there is a broad belief that the Forums are a helpful agency to that end.

RESEARCH INFORMATION

An opinion recorded at Maple Row Forum, eight attending at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Armstrong, was: "The kind of help that is needed most in our community from the agricultural representative is something to enlighten the farmers in the results of research and experimental work." They also said that farmers and Forums could give more co-operation in attending meetings arranged by the agricultural representative.

AT CENTRAL SMITH

Central Smith Forum reported 16 at their opening meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Scott. One of their proposals was to the effect that problems brought up at Forum meetings could be sent to the agricultural representative for help, and also that there should be recommendation from the Forums of projects in which local farmers are interested. They also said that for the extension of personal contacs more visits to individual farmers were required.

Secretary Ferd Rowland included this in the Forum report: "Our Forum requests our government member to protest the idea of licensing farm tractors, and we would like to see our local paper censured for suggesting that farmers make a practice of using gas in cars tax free."

The Forum members came in Hallowe'en costume, and a short skit was put on after the meeting by Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Reynolds and Mrs. Roland Scott.

ENDORSE JUNIOR WORK

Lily Lake Forum had eleven members meeting at the home of Mrs. H. Darling. Mrs. William Steinkraus was discussion leader.

As with other groups, scope of the extension service was recognized, and special mention was made of the value of agricultural representative support of Junior Farmers and 4-H Clubs. They suggested that there was a special need of giving assistance to new farmers, and that the agricultural representative could be of exceptional help there. "Farm groups and Forums should encourage more publicity in the daily paper as to the agricultural representative's responsibility to help needy farmers." They also mentioned the "need of information in conservation methods, weed control, pests control, and control of flies in barn premises."

Peterborough Holstein Breeders decided Thursday night to arrange for a bus trip to the Royal Winter Fair, Tuesday, Nov. 17. Definite information will be available over the weekend. The bus will likely leave at 7 a.m., and it may be from the Exhibition Grounds, rather than from the bus terimnal.

Date of the club's annual meeting was set for Saturday, Dec. 12, beginning in the morning.

Silo Near Barn Saves Trips, Waste Effort

Daily removal of silage requires frequent trips between silo and barn and much time can be wasted. The greatest saving can be made if the silo is located close to the barn.

When removing silage by hand, or by tractor fork, the silo is opend at one end and dug out in a vertical section two to three feet wide. The top cover and any spoiled or frozen material is first forked off over this section. By cutting layers to a depth of 6 to 8 inches the silage can more readily be removed. This is especially so for uncut or long cut material. A good type of cutter is an oval shaped blade made from a plow coulter welded to a ¾-inch pipe with a foot rest and handle. This foot-operated cutter has been found to be easier to use than the axe type chopper, says D. J. Cooper, agricultural engineer, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

For removing larger quantities of silage, a tractor fork can used to good advantage, carrying individual loads to the barn or loading material on to a wagon. Another means of removing silage to the barn is by means of a litter carrier and truck. This does away with the use of horses or a tractor and does not require a road to be kept open in the winter.

Where a loose housing system is being used a self-feeder at the silo may prove efficient. A movable self-feeder rack, with a horizontal framework and vertical boards spaced 12 to 16 inches apart and hung by chains from a 4-inch pipe or wooden pole. This feeder is moved ahead as the cattle eat into the silage and saves much hard labour.

How Farm Income Declined In 1952

Table 2—Presents the variation in labor income among seven types of farming, as tabulated from the information supplied by co-operating farmers for the Farm Accounting and Management Project, Department of Agricultural Economics, OAC, 1945-52.

(Labor income is a measure of the returns received by the operator after all farm expenses including interest on capital and depreciation have been deducted. It corresponds to the cash wages of a married man who receives in addition to his cash wages, use of house and farm products).

The types of farms are: dairy general, cash crop specialty, dairy specialty, cash crop general, poultry, hog, beef.

NUMBER OF FARMS AND LABOR INCOME

Farm Type	1949	1951	1952	1953
Dairy General	(28) $1276	(26) $2948	(29) $3302	(28) $1605
Cash Crop Specialty	no records	no records	(13) $2001	(18) $1283
Dairy Specialty	(24) $1841	(21) $2774	(19) $3661	(21) $1189
Cash Crop General	(5) $1685	(14) $3326	(27) $3252	(49) $1150
Poultry	(6) $1911	(5) $ 966	(11) $2649	(8) $ 673
Hog	(14) $1349	(29) $2333	(18) $3696	(13) $ 134
Beef	(10) $ 752	(17) $2857	(27) $4570	(19) −905

"On the average labor incomes on all seven types of farms were much lower in 1952 than they were in 1951. The smallest decline was in the income of the cash crop specialty farms. The largest occurred in the beef general group which put the beef in the low place for 1952. This is a remarkable change since the beef farms had the highest average labor incomes in 1951 had the second highest average labor incomes in 1952."

Another comment was that when cattle prices declined, the farmer with the largest herd of beef cattle was the hardest hit.

(The basis for classifying farms according to type was the same as has been used in this study for the last seven years, namely the main source of cash receipts. For example, a farm on which cash crops were the main source of cash receipts was classed as a cash crop farm. If crop sales accounted for over 70 per cent of cash receipts then such a farm would belong to the cash specialty group.)

(Livestock and poultry sales were set back most, showing a decline of 85 million dollars from 1951. This decline affected not only the beef and poultry farmers but also the dairymen. In 1951 the latter group had been able to supplement their sales of dairy products by selling some of their excess livestock at more favorable prices).

Grain Surplus Casts Shadow On Pig Raising

"Although pork prices are now at or near an all time high in Canada, the annual swine sale at the Ottawa Winter Fair (Oct. 26-31) fizzled out with a dejected sputter Friday (30th)" is a quotation from the report of that phase of the Fair by the Ottawa Journal.

"Farmers just weren't interested in going back into hogs after the major market break of last year. At that time only the quick intervention of the government averted a catastrophe in the industry.

"Adding to the farmers' reluctance to buy brood sows is the belief that western farmers will go into hogs in a big way with their huge grain surplus and small prospects for markets outside of what they can feed at home."

This reference to the sale at the Fair is taken from the news columns. It continues with emphasis "on a different story in the Eastern Ontario sheep sale. The high was $87 for an Oxford ram consigned by D. M. Stewart, Stittsville, and sold to Kenneth Richardson, Stittsville. High ewe consigned by W. J. Jeddy, Osgoode. Of Suffolk breeding, this ewe brought $74 from Cecil Acres of Osgoode.

"The Canadian Department of Agriculture was a large buyer of rams, taking five to distribute around the province to improve the quality of grade flocks.

The 62 animals offered brought $3,000 (about $50 apiece); 41 rams sold for $2,255, and 21 ewes for $759."

BIG FEED SUPPLY

The suggested factor of western farmers converting some of their grain surplus into hogs is discussed at least as a possiblity in an article entitled "Feed Enough an to Spare," in the Oct. letter on Canadian Livestock Products issued from the Industrial and Development Council of Canadian Meat Packers.

This article adds up the grain surpluses, estimated and otherwise, and makes this observation: "A preliminary calculation for 1953-54 subject to revision when the final 1953 crop estimates are in, indicates that never before have feed grain reserves been so ample in relation to the livestock population."

"The $64 question which most livestock producers would like to see answered is: To what extent will present heavy stocks of grain be converted into meat and other livestock products; and if this occurs, to what extent and how soon might future markets for these products be affected?"

Another paragraph from the same article: "Total stocks of five major Canadian grains, wheat, oats, barley, rye and flaxseed at July 31, 1953, amounted to 625 million bushels. This was exceeded only once before, in 1943, and was 82% greater than the average of the past ten years."

"On the basis of the official September 1st crop estimate, supplies of feed grains in the 1953-4 crop year will again reach near-record proportions. In fact, when related to June 1st livestock numbers, present feed reserves look like the largest ever."

WHEN CASH NEEDED

This article from the meat industry's monthly pamphlet does not essay an answer to the "$64 question." What appears to be the only assertion in that direction is this paragraph: "In the past, swings in and out of hogs and other types of livestock production have been closely associated with (1) the available feed supply and (2) the price of grain relative to livestock.

But, when grain marketing channels are heavily congested, as they are now, necessitating delivery quota, a further element is injected into the situation. Livestock production to farmers needing cash to finance current farm operations and living expenses, takes on added importance as a grain marketing expedient.

Those are several facts and opinions from different sources, but there is no ready answer for farm producers who are concerned about the trend of markets and business.

Ontario Farm Accounts Show For 1952 Declines In Farm Income

Estimated receipts from the sale of all products of Ontario farms in 1952 fell by more than 76 million dollars below the total of 1951.

That statement is quoted from a summary of four booklets recently issued by the Ontario Agricultural College.

"For Canada as a whole there was a decline in the index of farm prices of agricultural products of 30 points from 1951 to 1952, and a rise in the index of prices of products used by farmers of 11.1 points.

"The smallest decline in income for seven main types of farms occurred with the "cash crop specialty" farms (farms on which crop sales accounted for over 70% of cash receipts)."

BEEF INCOME

"The largest decline was in the "beef generel" group. In 1951, the beef farms had the highest average labor incomes, and the cash crop specialty farms, which had the lowest average labor incomes in 1951, had the second highest average labor incomes in 1952.

"In the fall issue of their publication, "Ontario Farm Business," the Department of Agricultural Economics, O.A.C., points out that the year 1952 emphasized the importance of price relationships to the farmer, and that efficiency in operation and management minimizes the effect of price decline.

This latest issue is printed in four divisions — cash crop specialty, beef general, cash crop general, and dairy specialty—and each division deals with factors which may suggest ways in which farmers may increase the profits on their farms.

SEVENTH YFAR'S REPORT

The foreword of each class of agriculture under survey says: "This report covers the seventh complete year of a farm accounting and management project which was started by the agricultural economics department of O. A.C. in 1946."

"The purpose of this project is to encourage Ontario Farmers to keep accurate accounts which they can use in the analysis of the farm business, and thus increase its financial success. This phase of farm operations is becoming increasingly important as farm costs rise and the prices of agricultural products fall."

In that first year there were 46 co-operating farmers in four counties. In 1952 the number of co-operators was 156 located in 29 counties. The co-operators are only those farmers who turned in complete and usable records.

MEANING OF INCOME

The phrase "labor income" is a measure of the returns received by the operator after all farm expenses including interest on capital, and depreciation have been deducted. It corresponds to the cash wages, the use of house and farm products. The income of the operator of a typical family farm is influenced to a very large degree by the extent to which he is able to get high production at low cost per unit."

BEEF FARMS' REPORT

There were 19 beef producing co-operators in 1952. One of the tables in the booklet shows the variation in labor income among those beef general farms last year. It is quoted as follows:

Farm No.	Lab Inc.	Farm No.	Lab Inc.
1	$1216	10	$ −267

THE WAR MEMOIRS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

PRE... ...NS FOR A NEW BIG 3 CONFERENCE—THE TRIP TO YALTA

On the eve of the impending Triple Conference the political situation, at any rate in Eastern Europe, was by no means satisfactory. A precarious tranquility had indeed been achieved in Greece, and it seemed that a free democratic Government, founded on universal suffrage and secret ballot, might be established there within a reasonable time. But Roumania and Bulgaria had passed into the grip of Soviet military occupation, Hungary and Yugoslavia lay in the shadow of the battlefield, and Poland, though liberated from the Germans, had merely exchanged one conqueror for another. The informal and temporary arrangement which I had made with Stalin during my October visit to Moscow could not, and as far as I was concerned was never intended to, govern or affect the future of these wide regions once Germany was defeated.

The whole shape and structure of post-war Europe called for review. When the Nazis were beaten how was Germany to be treated? What aid could we expect from the Soviet Union in the final overthrow of Japan? And once these military aims were achieved what measures and what organisation could the three great Allies provide for the future peace and good government of the world? The discussions at Dumbarton Oaks had ended in disagreement. So, in a smaller but no less vital sphere, had the negotiations between the Soviet-sponsored "Lublin Poles" and their compatriots from London which Mr. Eden and I had with much difficulty promoted during our visit to the Kremlin in October 1944. An arid correspondence between the President and Stalin, of which Mr. Roosevelt had kept me informed, had accompanied the secession of M. Mikolajczyk from his colleagues in London, while on January 5, contrary to the wishes of both the United States and Great Britain, the Soviets had recognized the Lublin Committee as the Provisional Government of Poland.

✦ ✦ ✦

The President had already told me about his exchanges with Stalin. They were as follows:

MARSHAL STALIN TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

27 Dec. 44

 A number of facts which took place during the time after the last visit of Midolajczyk to Moscow, and in particular the radio communications with Mikolajczyk's Government intercepted by us from terrorists arrested in Poland—underground agents of the Polish emigre Government—with all palpability prove that the negotiation of M. Mikolajczyk with the Polish National Committee served as a screen for those elements who conducted from behind Mikolajczyk's back criminal terrorist work against Soviet officers and soldiers on the territory of Poland. We cannot reconcile with such a situation when terrorists instigated by Polish emigrants kill in Poland soldiers and officers of the Red Army, lead a criminal fight against Soviet troops who are liberating Poland, and directly aid our enemies, whose allies they in fact are. The substitution of Mikolajczyk by Arzyshevsky, and in general transposition of Ministers in the Polish emigre Government, have made the situation even worse and have created a precipice between Poland and the emigre Government. Meanwhile the Polish National Committee has made serious achievements in the strengthening of the Polish State and the apparatus of Governmental power on the territory of Poland, in the expansion and strengthening of the Polish Army, in carrying into practice a number of important Governmental measures, and, in the first place, the agrarian reform in favour of the peasants of Poland and to powerful strengthening of authority of the National Committee among wide masses in Poland and among wide social Polish circles abroad.

For the Soviet Union, which is bearing the whole burden for the liberation of Poland from German occupationists, the question of relations with Poland under present conditons is the task of daily close and friendly relations with a Power which has been established by the Polish people on its own soil and which has already grown strong and has its own army, which, together with the Red Army, is fighting against the Germans.

I have to say frankly that if the Polish Committee of National Liberation will transform itself into a Provisional Polish Government, then, in view of the above-said, the Soviet Government will not have any serious ground for postponement of the question of its recognition.

On the other hand, under the conditions which exist in Poland at the present time there are no reasons for the continuation of the policy of support of the emigre Government, which has lost all confidence of the Polish population in the country, and besides creates a threat of civil war in the rear of the Red Army, violating thus our common interests of a successful fight against the Germans. * * *

Mr. Roosevelt's reply was reported in a message to myself.

President Roosevelt to Prime Minister
30 Dec., '44.

I have today sent the following to Stalin. You will see that we are in step.

"I am disturbed and deeply disappointed over your message of December 27 in regard to Poland, in which you tell me that you cannot see your way clear to hold in abeyance the question of recognizing the Lublin Committee as the Provisional Government of Poland until we have had an opportunity to discuss the whole question thoroughly. I would have thought no serious inconvenience would have been caused your Government or your armies if you coul dhave delayed the purely juridical act of recognition for the short period of a month remaining before we meet.

"There was no suggestion in my request that you curtail your practical relations with the Lublin Committee, nor any thought that you should deal with, or accept the London Government in its present composition. I had urged this delay upon you because I felt you would realize how extremely unfortunate and even serious it would be at this period in the war in its effect on world opinion and enemy morale if your Government should formally recognize one Government of Poland while the majority of the other United Nations, including the United States and Great Britain, continue to recognize and to maintain diplomatic relations with the Polish Government in London.

"I must tell you with a frankness equal to your own that I see no prospect of this Government's following suit and transferring its recognition from the Government in London to the Lublin Committee in its present form. This is in no sense due to any special ties or feelings for the London (Polish) Government. The fact is that neither the Government nor the people of the United States have as yet seen any evidence either arising from the manner of its creation or from subsequent developments to justify the conclusion that the Lublin Committee as at present constituted represents the people of Poland. I cannot ignore the fact that up to the present only a small fraction of Poland proper west of the Curzon Line has been liberated from German tyranny; and it is therefore an unquestioned truth that the people of Poland have had no opportunity to express themselves in regard to the Lublin Committee.* * *

"I fully share your view that the departure of M. Mikolajczyk from the Government in London has worsened the situation. I have always felt that M. Mikolajczyk, who, I am convinced, is sincerely desirous of settling all points at issue between the Soviet Union and Poland, is the only Polish leader in sight who seems to offer the possibility of a genuine solution of the difficult and dangerous Polish question."

* * *

Stalin had answered:

Marshal Stalin to President Roosevelt

1 Jan., '45.

I have received your message of December 30. * * *

I naturally fully comprehend your suggestion that the Soviet Government's recognition of the Provisional Government of Poland should be postponed for a month. There is however a circumstance here which makes it impossible for me to fulfil your wish. The position is that as early as December 27 the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. informed the Poles in reply to an inquiry on the subject that it proposed to recognize the Provincial Government of Poland as soon as the latter was formed.* * *

✦ ✦ ✦

The President was fully convinced of the need for another meeting of "The Three," for which arrangements had been discussed for some time. The usual debate about meeting-places had followed. "If Stalin cannot manage to meet us in the Mediterranean," the President said, "I am prepared to come to the Crimea and have the meeting at Yalta, which appears to be the best place available in the Black Sea, having the best accommodations ashore and the most promising flying conditions. My party will equal that of Teheran — about thirty-five. I still hope the military /situation will permit Marshal Stalin to meet us half way."

On the 30th Mr. Roosevelt cabled that he would leave the United States as soon as possible after his Presidential inauguration, and would travel by warship to the Mediterranean, and from there by air to Yalta. I agreed at once to this, and promised to send a passenger ship to Sebastopol to supplement our quarters on shore. I myself proposed to fly direct via Caserta. On December 31, I cabled: "Have you a name for this operation? If not I suggest 'Argonaut,' which has a local but not deducible association." (Editor's Note: In Greek mythology the Argonauts were a band of heroes who set out with Jason in quest of the Golden Fleece and journeyed to Colchis on the Black Sea.)

The President's circle however produced an alternative to flying from Caserta. His advisers, medical and otherwise, considered it inadvisable for him to fly at high altitudes over the mountains between Italy and Yalta. Admiral Hewitt recommended going by sea to Malta and flying on thence. I liked this.

PRIME MINISTER TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

1 Jan. 45

We shall be delighted if you will come to Malta. I shall be waiting on the quay. You will also see the inscription of your noble message to Malta of a year ago. Everything can be arranged to your convenience. No more let us falter! From Malta to Yalta! Let nobody alter! I elaborated this for private use:

No more let us alter or falter or palter.
From Malta to Yalta, and Yalta to Malta.

Perhaps it was as well I did not cable it.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO PRIME MINISTER

2 Jan. 45

We plan to arrive by ship at Malta early forenoon February 2, and hope to proceed at once by plane without faltering. It will be grand to meet your on the quay.

Your suggestion of "Argonaut" is welcomed. You and I are direct descendants.

Lord Halifax reported from Washington that he had seen the President on the day before and did not think he "looked too good." Mr. Roosevelt however told him he was very well and much looking forward to our meeting.

The President did not at first think it possible for us to have a preliminary conference at Malta. He said that with favourable weather at sea he could arrive there by February 2, and would have to go on by air the same day in order to keep our date with Stalin. "I regret," he cabled, "that in view of the time available to me for this journey it will not be possible for us to meet your suggestion and have a British-American Staff meeting at Malta before proceeding to 'Argonaut.' I do not think that by not having a meeting at Malta any time will be lost at Yalta. I am envious of your visits to the great battle-front which are denied to me by distance." Nevertheless I pressed my proposal.

It seemed consonant with this idea of a preliminary military conference that there should be a similar meeting of Foreign Secretaries. I do not know whether the President would bring Stettinius, recently appointed, with him, nor whether Molotov would come, but I should have liked a conference between Eden, Stettinius, and Molotov at Alexandria or the Pyramids about a week before the President and I reached Yalta.

I therefore telegraphed again on January 8, and, after setting forth this proposal, continued:

I am still thinking it of high importance that our military men should get together for a few days before we arrive at Yalta.

What are your ideas of the length of our stay at Yalta? This may well be a fateful Conference, coming at a moment when the Great Allies are so divided and the shadow of the war lengthens out before us. At the present time I think the end of this war may well prove to be more disappointing than was the last.

The President replied that he had directed Marshall, King, and Arnold, wth their assistants, to arrive in Malta in time for a conference with the British Staffs in the forenoon of January 30, but explained that he could not spare Mr. Stettinius for a preliminary meeting of Foreign Secretaries. He himself would be at sea, and his Secretary of State ought not to be out of the country so long at the same time. He would join us instead at Malta and accompany our party to the Triple Conference.

"My idea," he concluded, "of the length of stay at Yalta is that it should not be more than five or six days. I am very desirous of keeping our date with Uncle Joe if it can possibly be done."

This was better than nothing, but it seemed to be that we might run very short of time, and I therefore persisted.

PRIME MINISTER TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

10 Jan. 45

 Eden has particularly asked me to suggest that Stettinius might come on forty-eight hours earlier to Malta with the United States Chiefs of Staff, so that he (Eden) can run over the agenda with him beforehand. Even though Molotov were not invited. I am sure this would be found very useful. I do not see any other way of realising our hops about World Organisation in five or six days. Even the Almighty took seven. Pray forgive my pertinacity.

But the President replied that there was too much business in Washington for Mr. Stettinius to reach Malta before January 31. He promised however to send Harry Hopkins to England to talk things over with Eden and myself. On January 21 Hopkins flew to London in the Sacred Cow to discuss some of the topics which would confront us at the triple meeting, and the differences which had arisen between us in the previous month over Greece, Poland, and Italy.

✦ ✦ ✦

On January 21 I left Northolt in the Skymaster given to me by General Arnold. My daughter Sarah and the official party, together with Mr. Martin and Mr. Rowan, my private secretares, and Commander Thompson, travelled with me. The rest of my personal staff and some departmental officials travelled in two other planes. We arrived at Malta just before dawn on January 30, and there I learnt that one of these two aircraft had crashed near Pantelleria. Only three of the crew and two passengers survived. Such are the strange ways of fate.

During the journey I developed a high temperature, and under Lord Moran's orders I stayed in bed on the plane until noon. I then took up my quarters in HMS Orion, where I rested all day. In the evening I felt better, and both the Governor of Malta and Mr. Harriman dined with me.

On the morning of February 2 the Presidential party, on board the USS Quincy, steamed into Valletta harbour. It was a warm day, and under a cloudless sky I watched the scene from the deck of the Orion. As the American cruiser steamed slowly past us towards her berth alongside the quay wall I could see the figure of the President seated on the bridge, and we waved to each other. With the escort of Spitfires overhead, the salutes, and the bands of the ships' companies in the harbour playing "The Star-spangled Banner" it was a splendid scene. I thought I was well enough to lunch on board, and at six o'clock that evening we had our first formal meeting in the President's cabin. Here we reviewed the report of the Combined Chiefs of Staff and the military discussions which had been taking place in Malta during the previous three days.

I told the President that we ought to occupy as much of Austria as possible, as it was "undesirable that more of Western Europe than necessary should be occupied by the Russians."

That evening we all dined together on the Quincy, to talk over informally the conversations which had taken place on the previous days between Mr. Eden and Mr. Stettinius on the political issues which should be raised at Yalta. That night the exodus began. Transport planes took off at ten-minute intervals to carry some seven hundred persons, forming the British and American delegations, over fourteen hundred miles to the airfield of Saki, in the Crimea. A Royal Air Force contingent had been stationed there for two months beforehand to deal with the technical preparations. I boarded my plane after dinner, and went to bed. After a long and cold flight we landed on the airfield, which was under deep snow. My plane was ahead of the President's, and we stood for a while awaiting him. When he was carried down the lift from the Sacred Cow he looked frail and ill. Together we inspected the guards of honour, the President sitting in an open car, while I walked beside him. Our party then went into a large marquee for refreshment, with Molotov and the Russian delegation, which had come to meet us.

Presently we set off on a long drive from Saki to Yalta. Lord Moran and Mr. Martin came with me in my car. We had taken the precaution of bringing sandwiches with us, but after we had duly eaten them we came to a house where we were told Molotov awaited us, and we were invited to take places at a magnificent luncheon for about ten people. The President's party had apparently slipped past unawares and Molotov was alone with two of his officials. He was in the best of humours, and offered us all the delicacies of the Russian table. We did our best to conceal the fact that we had already blunted our appetites.

The journey took us nearly eight hours, and the road was often lined with Russian soldiers, some of them women, standing shoulder to shoulder in the village streets and on the main bridges and mountain passes, and at other points in separate detachments. As we crossed the mountains and descended towards the Black Sea we suddenly passed into warm and brilliant sunshine and a most genial climate.

Bethany Women Plan Turkey Dinner

BETHANY (ENS)—There were 21 members present at the November meeting of the Women's Association of the United Church held at the home of Mrs. William Cavano, Mrs. Mansell Finney presided for the devotional and business period. Minutes and correspondence which included letters of thanks from Mrs. Clifford Grant and Mr. George Neals were read by secretary Mrs. W. Rowland. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Wellington Fallis and the scripture lesson read by Mrs. George Waddell.

It was decided to hold a turkey dinner on November 27 (this had been scheduled for October, and postponed because of a case of polio in the district). A committee comprised of Mrs. W. Rowland, Miss L. Thompson and Mrs. G. Mulligan were appointed to nominate a slate of officers for 1954, same to be presented at the December meeting.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Frank Bigelow, leader of Group Four. The topic being "Fellowship," Mrs. Bigelow explained the scripture lesson read earlier. "The can be no real life apart from Christ and His teachings. It is the personal responsibility of each believer to have a deep concern for the needs of others." Mrs. Jakeman gave a reading and Mrs. R. Carr read a poem by Ella Wheeler Wilcox. Mrs. Lawrence Norman, wife of the new minister was introduced and welcomed by the members.

Lunch was served by the hostess and members of group four, with Mrs. G. Waddell expressing the thanks of the ladies to Mrs. Cavano for the use of her home and to all those who had assisted at the meeting.

Chisholm Going To Island To Sort Out His Thinking

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. G. Brock Chisholm, in the past an outspoken critic of morals, laws and Santa Claus, plans to retire to a small house on Vancouver island to "sort out his thinking."

The eminent Canadian psychiatrist who recently resigned as director-general of the United Nations World Health Organization said he doesn't like what has been happening to himself.

Dr. Chistholm, 47, whose views over the years have raised storms of protest, also doesn't like Hollywood's gangster movies, the press that plays up international discords and "sacred cows."

The dissatisfaction with himself, he explained in an interview Thursday, arises from the fact that he has "become a compromiser." He said he is seeking "a sport of re-orientation" by taking to the woods and physical activity.

AFFECTS THINKING

"I've never compromised with essential principles, but I found the only way I could get things done in an international field like W. H. O. was by compromise—and it does affect one's thinking," he said.

"If one goes on too long, one becomes negative. I found myself taking too long a point of view."

Dr. Chisholm said the world press is doing a "great disservice" by emphasizing international discords and clashes on the false assumption that readers don't want to read about harmony and agreement.

He said the Communist regimes in the satellite countries are probably not so anti-religious or anti-Catholic as they are anti-Vatican —"trying to get out of political control of the Vatican, exactly as Henry VIII did in England."

SEES DANGER

He said "the absolute security of the civil service is in danger of becoming a similar menace if its members are to have tenure for life with little regard for ability."

Dr. Chisholm said the United States' gangster movies are doing the West a great deal of harm.

"It's simply impossible to explain they don't represent Western democracy," he said. People in Eastern Europe could not accept that such things would be allowed out of the country if they were not authentic and government-approved.

It was his remarks in 1945 on Santa Claus that drew critical fire from all sides. Then Canada's deputy minister of health, he said children should be told the literal truth about everything and should be taught Santa Claus is not real.

Montana Flood

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower Thursday made available an additional $70,000 for relief in flooded areas of Montana. These areas were declared a major disaster area eligible for federal relief last June 6. The new allotment makes the total for Montana $320,000.

Confounds Experts

DENVER (AP)—A Denver widow Thursday paid off a $90,000 mortgage on her home at a cost of $9.46. Her Husband, George Smart, 31, last week bought an insurance policy which would pay off the mortgage in the event of his death. He died the day after he paid the first premium. Actuarial experts estimated the odds against such a circumstance at more than 1,000,000 to one.

Find Girl 13 Wrecking Happy Homes

KITCHENER (CP)—Police said Thursday they had found a 13-year-old girl who nearly turned marital bliss into marital strife in many local homes by talking on the telephone.

They said the girl picked names at random from the telephone directory, selecting only those listing the full first name of the man.

She would phone and ask for the man. If the wife replied the man wasn't there, the girl would relate a story of romance with the husband saying she hadn't known he was married.

Police said they believe some calls never came to their attention and that several wives may be giving their husbands an unwarranted cold eye.

They said the girl also posed as a dentist's assistant to call women and confirm dental appointments supposedly made by the husbands.

Efforts will be made to put the girl on a more normal course of behavior, police said.

Want To See More Research

OTTAWA (CP) — The Progressive Conservative party will ask the government at the coming session of Parliament to set up a parliamentary committee to study methods to improve research in industry.

The official opposition will argue that better research will help increase Canada's export trade by producing new products for world markets and by lowering production costs on goods now being shipped abroad.

A resolution asking for establishment of the committee will be placed on the Commons order paper by J. W. Murphy, Progressive Conservative member for Lambton West. It will call for a special committee "representative of all parties for the purpose of examining and reporting on the advisability of providing inducements to promote and accelerate activities in the field of research."

$100,000 Grant For Tornado Relief

TORONTO (CP)—James S. Duncan, Ontario director of the Canadian Disaster Relief Fund, announced Thursday the fund has approved a $100,000 grant to aid in rehabilitation of the western Ontario areas which suffered tornado damage last May.

The amount will be given to local tornado fund committees after taking into consideration the funds which have been raised through public subscription and special grants from municipalities and the province of Ontario.

Lakefield WA Bazaar Slated For December

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Arrangements were made for the annual Christmas bazaar and afternoon tea when the Women's Association of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church met for the November meeting.

The president, Mrs. Ernest Turk presided and the scripture lesson was read by Mrs. William Stabler.

It was decided to hold the event on Nov. 20 in the church basement and the following conveners were appointed: apron booth, Mrs. Stabler and Mrs. Bruce Preston; home baking table, Mrs. John Crowe and Mrs. John Blakely; afternoon tea tables, Mrs. A. H. Clark; replenishing plates and making tea, Mrs. William Blewett and Mrs. C. Graham. Other conveners will be decided at a later date.

During the evening the presentation of a Bible was made to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Northey, nee Ethel Millar. The address was read by Mrs. Clark and the presentation made by Mrs. Blewett.

The association will donate money to be used to purchase two seats for the new Presbyterian church at Lusanna, Alberta, of which the Rev. Robert Burton, a former minister at St. Andrew's, is minister.

Following the serving of refreshments the remainder of the evening was spent in quilting.

Give Judgment November 16 On New Dessert

OSHAWA (CP)—Magistrate F.E. Ebbs will give judgment Monday, Nov. 16, in the case of George Schilling, accused of selling an edible oils product manufactured in such a way that it "is an imitation of or resembles . . . ice cream." The product, a frozen dessert, is not described by the manufacturer as ice cream.

The charge is laid under Ontario law, passed in 1952 and amended in 1953, which bans sale of edible oils products, except oleomargarine, manufactured so as to resemble dairy products.

The Canadian Press, in an Oshawa story Thursday, erroneously referred to Mr. Schilling's frozen dessert as "imitation ice cream." Whether the dessert is an imitation of ice cream is a point to be settled in the magistrate's Nov. 16 judgment.

TIME ON HIS HANDS, as well as a presentation clock from fellow employees is the happy situation for retired mail carrier Arthur Moscrop, 51 Sophia St. He has been employed by the Peterborough Post Office as carrier for 35 years and nine months. "Thought I would retire before cold weather sets in," said Mr. Moscrop today.

Postman Arthur Moscrop Retires After 35 Years

Arthur Moscrop retired from the city postal delivery this week after 35 years of duty. "I decided to give it up before the winter weather sets in. Walking over that bridge (Hunter St. bridge) at 5:30 a.m. with the cold winds blowing is something I don't look forward to any more."

But Mr. Moscrop has done that very thing six days a week for the past 35 years. His home is at 51 Sophia St., wheer he is now taking life easy, using up excess energy in his garden.

"No, I have no idea how far I've walked during my life as a postman," was his reply to that question. "And I don't think any of us do, although some seem to have it figured down into times around the world. You do too much running in and out to even make an estimate."

DAYLIGHT TROUBLE

The most important thing to a postman's contentment is a good pair of boots and heavy woollen socks, and the thing that gripes them most, in his opinion, is daylight saving time. The reason for the gripe is that the trains operate on standard time, and although the morning route can be finished early, the afternoon delivery just has to wait until the trains are in.

Perhaps Mr. Moscrop is slightly prejudiced in this matter, because, he states, it whittles down the time to change from uniform into garden clothes. "By the time you're ready for the garden, it's time to go back to work again."

The incident which he remembers clearly about his 25-year service in the northwestern district of the city, concerns a giant police dog, named Prince. The dog belonged to Reuben Wilson, and used to wait for Mr. Moscrop every morning at the garage on the corner of McDonnel and Reid Sts., and then make the rounds with him.

"The dog was said to be a bit on the mean side, although I never found him that way. One day he was locked in the garage and when I passed along the route and he couldn't follow, he really became furious. Even the police were called in that day to try and quiet him down, but to no avail. I think he broke every window in the shed where he was kept."

Arthur Moscrop is a native of Manchester, England, and came to this country at the age of 14, to take up farming in the Millbrook area.

JOINED ARMY

In 1914, he moved to Peterborough, and when the war broke out, joined the 39th Battalion. In 1917 he was transferred to the 5th Battalion and shortly afterwards, he received a bullet in the right arm which permanently disabled it. On his return from France, the arm was fused at the elbow.

The arm has never interfered with ihs job, however, and he has developed a shoulder movement which completely disguises the impediment. "I can tell when it's going to rain 48 hours ahead of time though," he declares.

His brother, who came to Canada shortly after him, was killed at Vimy Ridge in 1917.

On his last day of work fellow postmen gave Arthur a party and presented him with a handsome mantel clock with chime included. A scroll on the clock reads: "To Arthur Moscrop, in service from 1918-53, from his fellow-postmen."

If he were young he wouldn't mind living his life over again, but now he has plenty of time to putter around in the garden he thinks so much of.

Played In Summer Theatre Joan Blackman Keeps Trying For Big Acting Break

By JOHN PATERSON

TORONTO (CP)—Director Sylvia Narizzano hunched intently forward in the big television control room, his eyes on the three tiny screens before him. Each was picking up what one of the three cameras in studio "A" was picturing.

An assistant at his right murmured "168 is next."

The young director said, "ta-a-a-ke two," and a mobile camera crept forward for a closeup of a young, darkly attractive girl, her face twisted with emotion. She was holding a telephone in her hand as she tearfully told the Hollywood producer at the other end that she couldn't take the part.

ONE OF MANY

The camera swung away and, her 30-second part finished, Joan Blackman of Montreal went to the dressing room to remove her pancake makeup. She is one of an estimated 2,000 actors who have congregated in this city, attracted by a boom in Canadian theatre.

Joan at 20 is a veteran of three years in her chosen career, the professional theatre. Before coming to Toronto last March she had done considerable radio and some stage work in Montreal. She spent several summers at Brae Manor, Que., in a stock company and played at Peterborough Summer Theatre in the season's final play, "The Moon Is Blue".

Now there's a big flow of actors in Toronto, including many from England and Europe.

Besides the half-dozen live television shows and about 25 radio network shows each week, using actors, there are two professional stage companies, Jupiter Theatre and the New Play Society, producing regular shows. About 25 film companies make shorts of one kind or another, mostly industrial, commercial and TV advertising.

The actors can pick up some extra money modelling for newspaper or magazine ads.

Joan is one of the 500 who holds a card in the Association of Canadian Radio and Television Artists (AFL). Another 1,500 are hanging around the edges, doing bit parts and working as sales clerks or truck drivers until they can get established. To hold an active card it is necessary to do six shows a year.

Miss Blackman lives in a large midtown business girls' club. She figures she can live on $25 a week. Until she gets regular work her parents are helping finance her career.

Such newcomers have several examples of success to encourage them. One is Lorne Greene, former CBC announcer who later established his own courses for acting and announcing. Greene landed parts in New York TV which led to a part in a forthcoming Broadway play in a leading role opposite Katherine Cornell.

Don Harron is another. He worked in Canada, went to England where he landed a number of good parts and toured the United States in a Christopher Fry play. He is back in London.

Meanwhile, Joan makes the rounds and with the busy season coming on should do well this winter.

TV ACTRESS—Joan Blackman of Montreal at 20 is a veteran of three years in Canadian stage, radio and television and with a brief performance in the movies to her credit. Bearing a striking resemblance to Hollywood's Audrey Hepburn, Miss Blackman is one of an estimated 2,000 actors now in Toronto from all parts of Canada and with a number from Europe.—(CP Photo).

South Korea Planning Court Martial 60

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—The South Korean government may court-martial 60 soldiers freed in the prisoner-of-war exchange as "victims of Communist brain-washing," a reliable source said Thursday.

All Republic of Korea prisoners returned by the Reds have undergone "intensive screening" on isolated Yongcho island, the RoK army source said, and only 60 of 7,848 failed to pass.

He said the 60 face charges of being "subversive" and their cases will be studied by a court-martial board which will decide whether to try them.

Most of the others are visiting their homes on a three-week leave.

One-Quarter Rural Schools Badly Need Replacement

LONDON (CP)—More than one-quarter of Ontario's 4,400 one-room rural schools are in need of "immediate replacement," a department of education official told a conference of western Ontario school inspectors Thursday.

Speaking of trends toward "centralization" of rural school sections, C. B. Routley, assistant superintendent of elementary education, said about 3,000 of these "worn out" one-room schools could be replaced by central schools.

Speaking of emergency program for training teachers, Mr. Routley referred to criticism levelled at the department last week by John T. Stubbs, of Sault Ste. Marie, past president of Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation Mr. Stubbs told a meeting in London the department was allowing what he termed "professional baby sitters" into elementary school classrooms.

"I always recoil from the word 'baby sitter' ", said Mr. Routley. "I think we have to do something about this situation (but) there should be ways and means of bringing it to the attention of the department without blaring it across the front pages of the newspapers."

Cancer Kills Many Children 1-14 Years

TORONTO (CP) — Cancer kills more children between the ages of one and 14 than any other disease, Dr. W. L. Donohue, director of pathology at the Hospital for Sick Children, said Thursday.

Cancer is surpassed only by accidents as a cause of children's deaths, Dr. Donohue told a Trend Workshop Conference of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Leukemia, cancer of the white cells of the blood, is the most common type in children and a permanent cure of leukemia has never been reported, he said.

Good food tastes better with AYLMER CATSUP

. . . says Mr. Sunshine the Aylmer hired man.

"Sit a man down before scrambled eggs, steak, chops or cold meat," says Mr. Sunshine, "and pass him Aylmer Catsup. He'll enjoy his good food a lot more, because that richer Aylmer flavor is Born of Sunshine. And children eat without coaxing when Aylmer Catsup adds new zest to the same old foods."

Stalin Agreed To Veto Ruling

NEW YORK (CP)—Sir Winston Churchill says Premier Stalin agreed at Yalta to President Roosevelt's suggestion that the Big Four nations have the power of veto in the United Nations Security Council.

Stalin was reluctant, at first, Sir Winston relates, saying "He feared that though the three great powers were allies today and would none of them commit any act of aggression, in 10 years or less the three leaders would disappear and a new generation would come into power which had not experienced the war and would forget what we had gone through."

Sir Winston then quotes Stalin as saying:

"All of us want to secure peace for at least 50 years. Therefore we must now think how to secure our unity in the future, and how to guarantee that the three great powers (and possibly China and France) will maintain a united front. Some systems must be elaborated to prevent conflict between the main great powers."

Britain's wartime and present prime minister tells of the Yalta conference in early 1945 in the third instalment, published in Life magazine of "Triumph and Tragedy," the last volume of his Nobel prize winning memoirs. In Canada, publication rights are held by Weekend Picture Magazine and its associated newspapers.

Money Sure Way To Greek Romance

ATHENS (AP)—She tried passionate advances, she tried poetic love letters. They all failed.

So 44-year-old spinster Catherine Tsakaracos—helped by four cousins—kidnapped handsome, 24-year-old shepherd Athanassios Kapsalas from Castania village, central Greece, and took him to the hills.

Still she failed to win his love.

Then a distant relative died in the United States and left her $3,000.

Now Catherine is Mrs. Kapsalas.

Cemetery Legislation May Appear Hard

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario cemetery authorities were warned Thursday that legislation on the establishment and operation of cemeteries may appear hard when it is made known.

The statement was made by James N. Allan, chairman of the legislature's select committee on cemeteries which will soon report to the legislature on where and by what means the dead should be buried.

Errol T. Baycroft, spokesman for the Ontario Funeral Service Association which represents 320 funeral directors, said his organization felt the establishment and operation of cemeteries for gain should be permitted in the province. The operators should be subject to the same taxation as any other commercial undertaking, he added.

Will Be Hanged For Slaying Small Child

NORTH BAY (CP) — Mervyn James Hutson was sentenced Thursday night to be hanged Feb. 9 for the sex-slaying of three-year old Susan Hutchins.

It was the second time the 29-year-old cook had been on trial for his life.

He was tried and acquitted in the hatchet-slaying of his mother, Mrs. Lucy Victoria Hutson at Timmins in May, 1948.

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer, in passing sentence after a 12-man jury deliberated three hours and 25 minutes, said to the panel: "If I may say without any disrespect to the jury, you have arrived at the only reasonable verdict."
